Good News.—No more Chills and Ague in this section. Our Druggists are selling an article called "AGUE CONQUEROR." It is about the only satisfactory preparation sold for the cure of Fever and Ague, Dumb Chills, Intermittent or Bilious Fevers. The Proprietor of the AGUE CONQUEROR has used but little energy to make this medicine known, and yet its sale is immense in Ague Districts. It purifies the blood, Liver, and other Secretory Organs so effectually that the Chills do not return even where perhaps they have had them for years. Entirely vegetable preparation. Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle. Two doses will stop the chill. 39-52ins

Is Just a Booming.

Such is the expression from all druggists and dealers everywhere who are selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. No 50c preparation ever made to have such an extensive and rapid sale. And why? Simply because of its truly wonderful merits. No Cough or Cold, no matter of how long standing or how stubborn, can resist its healing qualities. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Hay Fever, Pain in the side or chest and difficulty in breathing, or any lingering disease of the Throat and Lungs rapidly yield to its marvellous powers. It will positively cure and that when everything else has failed. Satisfy yourself as thousands have already done, by getting of your Druggist a trial bottle for ten cents, or a regular size bottle for $1. For sale by all Druggists. 43-13

Good Tweed Suits for boys can be bought at I. Robinson's for $3.60. 39-tf

"Tonbervy."—Emphatic testimony of its super excellence is try it. Delightfully refreshing. Everybody uses "Tonbervy." 39-52ins

Buy your boots and shoes where you have a large stock to select from. That advantage is to be had at the wholesale and retail establishment of R. Stenson & Son. 39-4ins

Correction.—In our report of the Otonabee show, on the first page, one or two errors appear. For second prize in stockings, read Miss Kate McIntyre, and for first prize for lamp mat, read Miss Maggie McFarlane.

Get Shod.—Those who desire to secure stylish, durable and substantial foot-wear can get the best and most fashionable goods at S. White's, George street, near Simcoe. Mr. s selling out a a handsome stock for what it will bring. 39-tf

Important Information.—W. J. Wallace Lakefield, is now showing a full stock of new goods suitable for Fall and Winter use, consisting of staple and fancy dry goods, ladies' mantles, ready-made clothing, hats, caps, boots, shoes, groceries, crockery and glassware, which will be sold at very close prices for cash. 41-3t

A Golden Opportunity should never be neglected—therefore those requiring cheap, comfortable and durable wear for their feet should not fail to examine Mr. W. J. Larmour's stock, previous to the closing of his great clearing sale of imported and ready-made work. Remember the stock is all new and this season's goods, and is being offered at prices much below the present ruling wholesale figures. 39-tf

—A very sad case of alleged infanticide was investigated before Coroner Kincaid, on Tuesday morning. It appears that the victim of the villainy of some person unknown, but whose identity, we have reason to believe, will be shortly made public, strangled the unfortunate offspring of shame and threw it into the river. The inquest went to show the above facts—Mary Fredenberg being the girl's name—and we suppress the main facts out of a proper regard for the sensibilities of our readers. The girl was committed for trial.

The Remenyi Concert.—Those who heard M. Remenyi in his unrivalled performance on he violin while here last, will need no recommendation from us to attend his reappearance here to-morrow evening. He will be accompanied by Mr. DeCelle, the well known Tenor, and Mr. Henry Beale, Pianiste. He has also with him Miss Clara D. Stagy, who ranks among the first Sopranos of the continent. Of his appearance in Toronto the Mail said :—"It is safe to say that during the past ten years no virtuoso has achieved so great and so unqualified a success." The Globe adds :—"It is avers of impertinence to attempt to criticise the playing of such a master of his instrument—of one who more than any other living violinist sways his audience at will." The New York Tribune says :—"The Hungarian violinist, Edouard Remenyi, who made his first appearance at Steinway Hall, is one of those phenomenal artists who can be measured by the standard of no other man. Comparison, in most cases, is but a pinch-beck criticism, and with such an exceptional and original performer as this, it is entirely useless." We hope to see him received by a house to-morrow night worthy of his talents, and creditable to the esthetic culture of the town.

INTERESTING TO FARMERS.

We have had furnished us a statement by Mr. Arch. Goodfellow of the results of the year's operations at his model farm, of only 44 acres, at Springville. The figures will be interesting as showing to those who are inclined to think that "farming doesn't pay," that good farming is perhaps the most certain investment of capital and money that can be resorted to. The following was the crop raised by Mr. Goodfellow, and the result of the marketing of the same :

	Bushels.	Sold at.	Total.
Fall Wheat	62	$1 15	$ 69 80
Spring Wheat	325 (45 lbs.)	1 05	374 00
Oats	300	25	75 00
Barley	516	61	314 15
Potatoes	120	30	45 00
Corn	10	60	7 20

Value of produce sold $970 95

This represents a return per acre from the 44 acres of $18.99, or in round numbers $20 per acre, and we fancy will rather open the eyes of some farmers who till much greater breadth of soil with greatly inferior results. Over a week ago Mr. Goodfellow brought us in a sample of several potatoes, which may be seen at this office, which had attained a growth the size of a large cow, which had been planted on the 10th July, being a second crop on the same ground. Can any one beat this?

Canada Life Insurance Company.

The last report of the Board of Directors of the Canada Life Insurance Company affords food for gratifying reflection to the many of our readers who have become interested in this sterling institution, not the least of whom recommendations to the public is that it is essentially Canadian, and that its revenues, profits and expenditures, are retained and circulated among the people with whom it transacts business, and not sent away to enrich foreign countries and reduce the safety of the ensured. The report indicates an increased and gratifying prosperity, the business transacted last year exceeding that of any former year. During the year ending April 30 the Company accepted risks to the extent of $3,986,932.00 under 2,197 policies, and declined 171 risks for $691,300. At the close of the year the Company had 12,295 policies upon 16,549 lives, the amount assured being $21,547,789.38 ; the revenue of the Company from these and other investments being $981,-668.39 ; the assets of the Company being then brought up to $4,297,881.65. The Company derives a revenue from interest alone of $263,397.60. The claims by deaths during the year on 89 lives under 101 policies amounted, with profits, to $182,502, the mortality estimated and provided for being $235,572. This shows the excellent class of risks accepted, and the exactness of the actuarial calculation upon which the Company's business is based. It must also be reassuring to policy-holders that the interest on the Company's investments alone is more than sufficient to meet the losses by ordinary mortality. The profits of the past five years to be divided among policy-holders is $291,485.39, in addition to $87,148.39, held as a special reserve. The stockholders receive a dividend of 15 per cent., still leaving at the credit of proprietors' account $16,826.68. These facts will be especially gratifying to the numerous holders of policies in Eastern Ontario, for which Mr. Geo. A. Cox is General Agent, showing that they not only have favorable rates, and liberal profits on their premiums, but the strongest possible security, from the stability of the Company, as shown by its financial statement. As a further assurance the affairs of the Company have been submitted to Mr. Sheppard Homans, the leading consulting actuarial authority in America, who expresses his strongest approval of its position and system of business.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY.

—The Golden Age will be raised this morning.

—Mr Wilson, of the Gazette, and Mr. Trayes, of the Times, called in on us on Monday.

—Last Thursday George Wheeler was fined $1 and $3.50 costs for assault upon Thos. Douglas. Douglas was immediately after fined $1 and $3 costs for assault on Wheeler. Both parties were then satisfied and the reserve $3.50 rather.

—We are pleased to see ex-Sheriff Hall, who has been laid up for some time from the effects of an accident, on the street on Thursday, looking remarkably well.

—The Newcastle and Trent Division Medical Association met here last week, the following being present :—Dr. H. C. Burritt, President ; Dr. Halliday, Grafton, Secretary ; Drs. Ball, Boucher and Fife, of this town ; Drs. McCrea, Dunn and Miller, of Keene ; Dr. McCrea, Warkworth ; Dr. Riddel, Baltimore ; Dr. Day, Trenton ; Dr. Clarke, Napanee, and Dr. Brunton, Bethany. After the usual discussion, the Association adjourned to meet at Grafton in February next.

—Mr. T. Fitzgerald said the cheese shown with which he took first prize at the Central Exhibition to Mr. Ambrose, the brewer, for $200.

—At last those abominable stone crossings are being removed by the corporation officials.

—Tracklaying on the Grand Junction has been completed as far as Downer's crossing.

—Mr. R. B. Mowat, lately of this town, and Mr. W. B. Chamberlain, have received the prizes of the London Art Union for the current year, awarded to them. Only three of them came to Canada, the third going to New Brunswick.

—The base tower has been completed and takes off the contractor's hands. It presents a very handsome and substantial appearance, and is creditable both to Mr. Roberts, the contractor, and Mr. Belcher, the architect.

—Last Thursday William Walsh was brought before Mr. Jas. Stratton, J.P., at Ashburnham, on a charge of the larceny of a cent from a son of Constable Craig of that town. After hearing the evidence the Magistrate committed him for trial, and on Monday Walsh appeared before the County Judge's Criminal Court, pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to one month at hard labor in the common gaol.

—Work has been begun on a new engine house at the Midland station ground here. Mr. D. Carlyle has the contract for the brickwork.

Midland R. R. traffic receipts for week ending Oct. 7th, 1880, were:—Passengers and mails, $6,-873.15 ; freight, $8,615.89 ; total for week, $14,141.-04. For corresponding week in 1879,—Passengers and mails, $3,893.20 ; freight, $7,358.17 ; total for week, $10,251.37 ; increase, $3889.67. Aggregate from 1st of January, 1880, $264,915.63. Increase over 1879, $71,807.14.

—The Bowmanville Statesman "blows" considerably over a set of harness, which, it says, took first prize at the Central Exhibition over competitors from Lindsay, Peterborough, Port Hope and Cobourg. The fact that Peterborough saddlers did not show at all at the Central probably accounts for Bowmanville having taken the first prize.

—Mr. Birdsall's appointment as Lieutenant of the Norwood Company of the Rangers, noticed a few weeks ago, was gazetted on Saturday.

—The railway velocipede has made its appearance. Mr. Aaron Cox made the distance between here and Millbrook on one of these propellers last Saturday in a little over an hour and a quarter.

—The Lindsay Post in referring to the Central Fair, says :—"Notwithstanding that the officers of the Society, from Col. Williams, M.P., as President, to Mr. Dickson, the Secretary, have labored hard to make the show a success they have not received that liberal support from the people of the town which is always necessary to success. A lack of interest is noticeable on all sides, and although the attendance has been large it has not been thoroughly representative of the counties forming the division. It has been principally local. The local committee are to some extent to blame for this, as by the unwise course pursued in awarding the printing they lost the support of two leading local papers and also the free advertising of the Lindsay and Peterborough newspapers, who depended mainly upon the Port Hope press for information of the progress of the arrangements for the show."

—Mr. Allan McGill, wife, father, mother, and family, all of the Township of Belmont, left on Wednesday for Manitoba. They take with them eight cows, four horses, and farming implements. We understand there is quite a little settlement there from Belmont.

Goods for Fall and Winter.

We alluded last week to the efforts of some of our millinery establishments in the way of fall openings. To the good housewife, who understands how to economize by the needle or sewing-machine, it is of the greatest consequence to know where to buy the material which she must make up at the greatest advantage. If any such were to apply to us for a direct, we should recommend them across the road from the EXAMINER Office, to the store of W. W. Johnston & Co. This firm, though not one of those which are in the habit of chronicling themselves on public observation, never-the-less keep up a full stock of goods which they bought in town, and at the very lowest possible prices. The economy with which the business of this firm are only to be seen to be admired, and only admired to be bought. The stock of fabrics, trimmings, &c., comprises not only the new goods, which, as we have said, are worthy of purchase, but many of the goods which were in last year, either as regards style or material are still worth W. W. Johnston & Co.'s attention, and as they are cheap, and we are sure that their customers will be properly appreciated amongst our readers.

WEST RIDING EXHIBITION.

The Annual Meeting—What was there and the prizes taken.

The West Riding Exhibition opened on Tuesday, when the displays of fruits and flowers, roots and vegetables, and what was placed by the jury of artists under the head of "fine arts," came under purview of the annual reporter. The first thing that struck attention was the fact that as much good room should be wanted, for there was certainly plenty of accommodation for three times the amount of the goods put on display. However what was on exhibition made up in quality what it lacked in quantity. Entering the hall one is irresistibly compelled to notice the art gallery found on the east side of the centre piece of the building. Mr. Lizzie's collection of photographs would do honor to any studio in Canada, while his specimens of enlarged pictures, coloured cabinets etc., at once challenge the admiration of the passer. Passing down we come to another artistic display, that of Mr. Esterbrook, who though not a long time amongst us has established an enviable reputation. We do not find here all the portraits which awarded Mr. Esterbrook the first prize at the Central Exhibition, but there are others equally meritorious. Mr. Edg. Hartley's exhibition of panneau ship causes the passer to pause, while a little lower down is a most admirable sepia drawing by Rev. V. Clementi, whose lights and shades have evidently been handled by an artist. The water colours are not in any measure startling except from a certain degree of originality, which is not art. The crayon drawings on exhibition were very creditable, those shown by Mr. B. Hudson being exceptionally meritorious. In the hall was observable a phaeton of exquisite make and finish, and also a cutter which one naturally surmises took the first prize. In ladies' work the display was, as may be said, more to be admired by its excellence than by the quantity exhibited. The goods were elegant but the display was so meagre that one's admiration was lost just at its most ecstatic period. Whether it be that the people are losing the interest they once had in their county exhibitions, or for what reason, it is quite certain that the West Riding Exhibition was not as successful as it should have been and as it might have been, under the proper auspices. We give the prize list below :

Beginning at Jerusalem.

Written for the Examiner.

"First gave themselves to the Lord."—PAUL.
"Let your light so shine."—OUR SAVIOUR.

When our Risen Lord to His followers gave
His last command, He said to them,
"Go into all nations and preach the Word,
Beginning at Jerusalem."
Commit home to our hearts with searching power,
These words, "have we truly received
The truths that we fain to others would tell;
In the Saviour have we believed?"

Have our hearts been renew'd? and has the Truth
Enter'd our soul, to govern us
That it forms a part of our being, and Tinges the chosen's life's out-flow?
Has ev'ry soul that would bide the light
Of God's own glory, as seen
In the face of Christ, been taken away,
So that our souls transform'd hath been.

For souls that are lit with the Light of Life
Will shine, as all round may see,
And the glowing warmth feel, while more and more
Shall its beauty reflected be.
As higher and higher the sun doth rise,
So warmer the light that's given;
Thus more purest the holiness of those Who nearer uprise to Heaven.

As those who have gaz'd on some snow-capt mount
Tell of the dazzling splendor bright
That illumines them through the rays that stream
From Orient's rosy-tinted light;
Thus, bathing their souls in Heavenly beams
Shall believers with lustre shine,
In the heavenly tone of a holy life,
Show the pow'r of the Light Divine.

When we've felt the worth of a Saviour's love,
Ah, then we may make it known,
And with rapture tell of the blessedness
And sweet peace as our very own.
When the Great Apostle Himself to God
Was reconcil'd, His heart o'erflow'd
For those who His kinsmen were, that on them
Like-saving grace might be bestow'd.

As our Master said to the grateful one
Desiring much with Him to be,
"Go home to thy friends—tell them what great things
Have been done by the Lord to thee."
So timely, these words when our souls are stirr'd
By pressing cries that come from far,
Lest zeal one-sided should close our hearts
To wails of those who nearer are.

We heave a sigh, and we give of our means
To the perishing far away,
But oh, what of our loving sympathy
To sisters who every day
Our pity crave? Have we tried to cheer
And comfort the suff'ring one
Who far from fair pines, while the weary days
Painfully into months have run?

Are we like our Savior, who publicly
Mingl'd with all, nor diff'rence show'd?
Who in thoroughfare, as in lowly cot,
Gently tokens of love bestow'd?
See those Heralds of Peace, who seek the lost
In distant lands, to tell to them
Salvation's joyful news; lo, these are they
Who preach'd first at Jerusalem. —E. B.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 14, 1880

DISTRICT NEWS.

Hastings.

PROPERTY PURCHASED.—Mr. Renwick has purchased the "Donnelly property"—not the Donnelly or Biddulph notoriety, but T. Donnelly, late of Peterborough, who owned the brick store and dwelling on Front street, in this village.—Star.

Campbellford.

ELOPEMENT.—The social wave has been ruffled during the week by a little circumstance of the above description; but it is not of an extraordinary nature, only a troublesome failing common to many of the gentler sex. For several days last week, a member of the "cheap jewelry" squad made this his abiding place, and disposed of a quantity of his thrash. During his rounds from house to house, he visited the house of a married woman, whose husband finds business elsewhere most of his time, and in a little while a base affection sprang up between the two. We can only imagine that proposals were made for a clandestine escape, which was hastily agreed upon. During the night the couple took their departure and have since eluded the vigilance of those sent in pursuit of them. Messengers were sent to Brighton to secure the clothes which she had taken with her, but without success. Where the fugitive couple are it is not known, but it may be predicted that the foolish woman will show herself again, prodigal-like, and minus the love and companionship of her partner.—Herald.

Norwood.

BURGLARY.—Either on Saturday night or Sunday morning the cellar of Mr. W. H. Stephenson's house was entered by a burglar, who stole a number of jars of preserves.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Wm. E. Roxburgh left on Monday for Port Hope, where he had been appointed to take charge of the ladies' department of the Central Exhibition held in that town.

OBITUARY.—It is with sincere regret we announce the death of Mary Louisa Howson, youngest daughter of Thos. Howson, Esq., of Asphodel, at the early age of sixteen years and three months. The deceased was taken ill with consumption during the early part of the summer, and for the past three months was confined to her bed.

OUR ATHLETS ABROAD.—We are pleased that Sergt. Brennan, of No. 5 Company, Norwood, well known here as an athlete of considerable standing, has succeeded in winning for himself laurels abroad. At the annual games of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa, (where Mr. Brennan is now attending the Normal School) he beat all competitors in the 100 yards dash, and also came out ahead in the walking match.—Register.

Bobcaygeon.

NEW STEAMER.—Capt. Bottum is preparing to build a new steamer. It will be ready for the spring.

BAD ROADS.—The wet weather has broken up all the roads. There will be no more good roads until the frost hardens them.

BROKEN LEG.—A young man named John Batson, who was working in Mr. Sadler's shanty, was brought to the village on Saturday last, with one of his legs broken. He was skidding logs, when one of them rolled down, catching his leg and breaking it. He went on to Lindsay to his home.

CATTLE.—During the week a drove of calves and young stock passed through here on their way to Mr. Elliot's farm, in North Harvey. Also a drove of fine fat cattle passed through coming from the same gentleman's farm on their way to butchers in Peterborough, Montreal and England. That is the sort of trade this section of country is fitted for, and it pays like anything.

ACCIDENT.—On Monday last a young lad named Thomas Fortune, who was in the employ of Mr. Chapman, who runs the lath mill at Little Bob, met with an accident of a very serious character. He put in a piece of board to the saw, which stuck, and in trying to force it through it caught the top of the saw and was projected outwards with the velocity of a cannon ball. The board struck Fortune in the stomach. At first it was feared that he was killed, but he rallied and was carried to the boarding house. Medical attendance was summoned, and it was found that he was injured internally. He was removed to the residence of Mr. Wm. Ritchie, where every care was taken of the poor little fellow, but his condition is most precarious.—Independent.

Lindsay.

AMERICAN MISSIONS.—The Rev. Dr. Smithett leaves home on Monday to attend as a special deputation the missionary meetings in all the churches throughout Northumberland County and East Peterborough.

HORSE KILLED.—Last Saturday evening about 7.30 o'clock, Mr. James Geoghegy, of Emily, was driving up Kent street, and when opposite the Ontario Bank his team was run into by the team of Mr. T. H. Fee, of Emily, who was driving at a furious rate. The tongue of Fee's buggy struck one of Geoghegy's mares in the breast and caused a depth of nearly eighteen inches, completely severing the windpipe. The poor animal suffered intense agony for a time. She was assisted to the yard of the Jewell-House, where she died in a few minutes. The mare was worth $100. Fee was promptly arrested for furious driving, but was bailed by Mr. W. L. Russell. He was fined $5 and costs by the Police Magistrate on Tuesday.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—For the past five months Mr. Andrew Bowey, an old resident of Lindsay, had been working at his trade of blacksmithing with Mr. Somerhall, carriage-maker, at St. George, a little village about eleven miles from Paris. In the loft over the blacksmith shop was stored a large quantity of bolts and spokes, supposed to weigh about seven thousand pounds. About half-past two on Thursday afternoon of last week, whilst Mr. Bowey and another workman, Mr Brownley, were working at their forges, the floor of the loft gave way, and the stock of bolts and spokes came down upon them, completely covering up both. When the debris was removed it was found that Mr. Bowey had an arm and a leg broken, his skull fractured and his head fearfully cut and bruised. He lived twenty minutes after the accident, but never recovered consciousness. The other man's injuries were serious, but it is expected that he will recover. The body of Mr. Bowie was brought to Lindsay in charge of Mr. Hawkins, of London, a relative, and on Sunday it was followed in the Little Britain cemetery. The deceased was forty-five years of age, and was a quiet and inoffensive man, and highly esteemed by many of our citizens. He leaves a wife, but no family.—Post.

Colborne.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Just as we go to press news comes to us of a very sad serious accident that occurred in Castleton on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. H. P. Gould, merchant, and Clerk of Cramahe township, was engaged in blasting a large stone on his place. He struck a match to fire the fuse, when a piece of burning sulphur from the match flew into some powder, which exploded in his face and destroyed his sight. We understand that the doctor says he can never see again.—Express.

Redmond was working at the emery wheel in Evans' foundry on Monday, a splinter of iron lodged on the pupil of his eye, causing him great inconvenience and pain till it was removed by the doctor.—Herald.

The Game Laws.

The following is taken from the Statutes of Ontario, 1880, as published by the authority of the Legislature, and it may be relied upon as correct. It will be found particularly interesting at the present time:—

PEITTT'S EYE-SALVE.
An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optive nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also, for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have been long threatened with a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe and effectual remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, avoiding the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of caustic minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. IT IS USED SUCCESSFULLY FOR PILES. Its soothing effect is immediate, and a permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. P. Pitt's American Eye-Salve" while making new and improved machinery for making a neat perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Not the slightist Affinity exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, is like itself and nothing else, it embodies the best results of advanced pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis, and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against the dreaded scurge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing, emollient action of the cod liver oil on the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of the elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

Joy Among the Children.

CORLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 500 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administrating nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having the pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copeland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and which equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water;" another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place or all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a simple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "CORLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL," is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The manufacturers, Messrs. Corland Messrs. T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. BOSWORTH & LYMAN, Toronto.

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 21, 1880.

THE MAYORALTY.

As will be seen by a card in another column, His Worship Mayor Lundy definitely announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election in January next. In common with us, most of our citizens will regret this decision on the part of Mr. Lundy, who has filled the chair during the past two years in such a manner that he will make it a difficult task for his successor, to give equal satisfaction to all classes of our citizens. During his incumbency of the office, he has ungrudgingly devoted his time and ability to the service of the corporation, and whether in the Chair, in Committee, or in the exercise of his Magisterial duties, has been equally assiduous, even to the neglect of his personal interests. His uniform courtesy will be remembered with pleasure by all who have had official intercourse with him, and in his capacity as "Charity Committee," the poor will have reason to be grateful if they find his successor equally accessible and sympathetic.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITIONS

There is a growing feeling throughout the country that the Provincial Exhibition has out-lived it usefulness. d that the whole subject, of both the system of holding agricultural exhibitions generally, and the method of aiding the work of promoting interest in the science of agriculture by Government grant, requires remodelling. The expenditures attaching to the maintenance of a staff of officers in connection with the Provincial Exhibitions, and the holding of the same, are ridiculously out of proportion to the results. Formerly these were representative expositions of the agricultural progress of the Province; now they have dwindled down, except when held in Toronto or Hamilton, to local fairs conducted on a large measure at the expense of nine-tenths of the Province, which take no interest whatever in them, at the expense of the other tenth. Exhibitors from the Ottawa district will not go to London, nor those from any distance west of Belleville to those at Kingston or Ottawa. Even taken at their best advantage, at Toronto and Hamilton, the Provincial Exhibitions are sometimes overshadowed in importance by the independent Central Fairs and Industrial shows at Toronto, Hamilton, Guelph and London, all being held in the same year, generally within the same month. The question is raised, would it not be better and wiser to abolish the Provincial Exhibition altogether? The experience of the cities and towns we have mentioned indicates that if it paid them to have their industrial fairs, &c., without Government aid, why not withhold such aid entirely, and apply the money so saved to some purpose of utility? We are not, however, prepared to go so far as to say that the Provincial Exhibitions might not serve a useful purpose, under certain conditions; but by the present rotary system we have no hesitation in saying that the money expended is in a large measure thrown away. If we are to have the system continued, it must be held permanently at the most central, accessible, convenient and advantageous place—the seat of local Government at Toronto. Again, referring to our local Exhibitions, each county has its half dozen to two dozen shows, each receiving a share of the Government aid, which is thus fretted away in competitions so limited as to be of trifling consequence. It is the fable of the bundle of sticks; and what we could suggest is that union is strength, in this as in other matters. If, instead of holding exhibitions for each riding, and exhibitions as well in the various townships, we were contented to have one County Exhibition held at the County Town, two or three days in each year, would it not be more profitable and advantageous? If all the Government grants now coming to the county of Peterborough were centered in a grand County Exhibition, with liberal grants from the town and county, we should be able to offer for competition, and for the encouragement of emulation among our agriculturists, prizes worthy of effort on their part, while at the same time the increased prestige and importance given to the exhibition would so greatly enhance the honorary value of an award, as to make it still more an object for a farmer to achieve the highest excellence in any branch to which he chose to devote special attention, or in all. We make these suggestions, not only as a matter of our own opinion, but on the strength of the knowledge that they are shared by the leading agriculturists in various parts of the country. We observe from contemporaries throughout the country, moreover, that the same idea has followed experience everywhere. Would it not be desirable that the Legislature should give this matter some attention, and take steps to confine the Government grant to one exhibition in each county, and to give a liberal grant to each according to results of the previous year? If any saving of money should be effected in this way, or if it were decided to abolish the, at present, useless Provincial Fairs, let that be devoted to special prizes to be awarded for the encouragement, in the counties, of improvement in stock and horses, and to importation of seed grains for county distribution, whereby we would have constantly going on a system of practical experiment, whose results would always place within the reach of the farmer the most profitable kinds and grains, as the different classes in use "run out," as is periodically the case. By some such means as these the large amount of money now devoted to a most worthy object, but being frittered away or wasted, would be rendered of direct practical advantage to the great agricultural interests of this province. We trust the country press throughout the province will take the matter up, and give it the benefit of discussion and an interchange of opinion. We would also invite correspondence on the subject from any of our readers who may feel interested in the matter.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

BROME ELECTION.

The election in Brome has resulted in the return, as was anticipated, of Mr. D. A Manson, the Conservative candidate, by a majority of 127.

THE EXODUS.

The Cornwall Freeholder says:—"Westward ho! Another "batch" of Glengarry boys left this week for the Western States. To the West! to the West! seems to be the motto of every Glengarrian who can raise the pick or use the pen." Thus it humpoth.

PACIFIC RAILWAY COMMISSION.

The Mail intimates that when the Pacific Railway Commission resumes its sittings next week Mr. John Haggart, M. P., Mr. Mackintosh, Mr. Chapleau, Mr. Peter McLaren, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie, Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. James Goodwin and several others will be called on to give evidence. We hope this may prove true, and when the examinations take place, it is to be hoped Judge Clarke will ask Mr. Mackintosh concerning his dealings with Charlton, his negotiations with Whitehead, his subsequent midnight visit to Prescott, the bargain with Senator Macdonald, Charlton's method of betraying his partner, how much he got of the "loot," etc, in connection with Section B. contract.

THE HUM AT OTTAWA.

Last week the Review attempted to prove that in spite of all that had been said by "the slanderers," the decrease of population at the capital has been trifling, and that prosperity had set in there as well as at the brick factory. The fact is that the exodus from Ottawa has reached something like 6,000. But in order to give convincing proof to the Review that it is wrong, and that we are right, in alluding to the condition of affairs at the capital, we quote the following from a speech a few days ago of Mr. Mayor Mackintosh of that place—the same contract-breaking, contractor-defrauding Conservative, whom the Review professes to defend. That distinguished authority said: "The city was not in a position to "incur any further liabilities. THE "VALUE OF PROPERTY WAS DE- "CREASING AT THE RATE OF A "MILLION AND A HALF A YEAR, "and until matters improved he would "not favor placing any further burdens "on the ratepayers."

"JUSTIFIABLE PRIDE."

Sir John Macdonald having stated that the principal obstacle he met in England was Mr. Blake's Pacific Railway speech, which was thrust under his right honorable nose "everywhere he went," the Review explains:

"It is of course a subject of interest how this wide circulation was brought about. We learn from Mr. R. J. Belford, agent in Canada for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway of Kansas, that by the instructions of his chief, Col. A. S. Johnston, he printed in part many thousands of copies of Mr. Blake's speech in Parliament and circulated them in Canada and Europe, a lot of them being sent to their Manchester agent. These they were distributed gratuitously and in large numbers."

The Review goes on to enquire: "Is "it quite satisfactory to reflect that we "might have a prime minister of Canada, "one of whose brightest triumphs con- "sists in his successful advocacy of a "foreign country for settlement in pre- "ference to his own?" By judicious expurgation the Review might make the Commandment read: "Thou shalt * bear false witness against thy neighbor," and indeed we fear that it too often reads that injunction in this way. That a garbled extract from Mr. Blake's speech as circulated by a Canadian (brother of the late editor of the Mail and a conscientious Tory) who is not above making a business of inducing Canadians to go to Kansas, should be called and treated as "a copy of Mr. Blake's speech," is most too ridiculous for anybody but the obtuse individual who gives the explanation quoted above—which, by the way, appeared in the EXAMINER a couple of months ago. Mr. Blake's speech on the Pacific Railway question, in which he attempted to induce Parliament to forego the mad expenditure of $10,000,000 in the Rocky Mountains, is, like its distinguished author, regarded with justifiable pride by every true, thoughtful bred Canadian.

Miner Matters.

The Review must have either got a new hand at the bellows, or else there has been a change in the moon. The ruffianly article in last week's issue, in which it attempts to hide its confusion at being squarely caught in one of its disreputable, Peckmiffian tricks, was not surely penned by the Truly Good: and we are certain was not written by the Wicked Partners, for the latter are believed to be gentlemen. Tae inference is that in the absence of "the editors," some unnotified interloper has found his way to the sanctum of our contemporary and smuggled into the paper the trash referred to, under the mistaken idea that intelligent people will accept abuse for argument, even in the columns of the Review. The jaw-bone of such an animal might have been useful in days of old, when Sampson slew a thousand Philistines with a similar weapon; but in these days of modern improvement, advancement, and education, it is of very small account.

No truth is clearer than the Scriptural declaration:—"The blood is the life. * * * and the leaves shall be for the healing of the nations." BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS is purely vegetable, and makes pure blood, renovates, invigorates and restores the system when impoverished by disease. One bottle at the nominal cost of one dollar, will convince the most suspicious of the truth of these assertions. 42-3ins

CURRENT TOPICS.

A NEW REGULATION limits the period of the tenure of office of the District Staff of Militia to five years.

LAST SATURDAY'S Gazette transfers Lt.-Col. Von Straubenzie, Deputy Adjutant General of this District, to St. John, N. B., and promotes Brigade Major Villiers to the position thus vacated.

WE HAVE RECEIVED a copy of Rowell's new Newspaper Directory, and can bear testimony to the thoroughness and accuracy of its compilation. It is decidedly the best of that excellent series of publications.

THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT have appointed a new batch of Queen's Counsel, among whom we notice the names of W. H. Scott and Jas. F. Dennistoun, of Peterborough, and T. M. Benson of Port Hope. The new appointments, with a single exception, have been confined to the friends of the present Government.

WE ARE GLAD to observe that Mr. Sandford A. Fleming, C. E., late Chief Engineer of the C. P. R. R., and formerly of this town, has been elected Chancellor of Queen's College, Kingston. Mr. Fleming's inaugural address is a masterly composition, embodying deep and earnest thought, and high aspirations on behalf of University training and its results, couched in language of classical elegance.

The Toronto Telegram, writing of the difficulty many suitors experience in getting their money out of the hands of their lawyers, says: Money which may come into the hands of a lawyer for a client, is a sacred trust, and should be handed over with as little delay as possible. But there is a disposition, probably accounted for by the hard times, among some members of the profession to hold on to every dollar they get, and it is like drawing teeth for a client to get it from them.

IT IS A NOTEWORTHY fact that the most warmly and demonstratively received of the notables at the inaugural ceremonies at Queen's College, Kingston, were Hon. Edward Blake, and Hon. H. J. Joly. Concerning the latter, the Kingston News (Tory) says:

"The applause which greeted the Hon. Mr. Joly, on being introduced by the Principal, was loud and prolonged, and it was some seconds before the enthusiasm which his presence excited subsided. Mr. Joly must feel flattered at the reception he was tendered, being an indication of the esteem in which he was held in Ontario."

THE Journal of Commerce advises all municipalities, which are in a position to do so, to consolidate their debts and seek authority at the approaching session of the Local Legislature for a re-issue of debentures to take up those now running. Money is easy, and first-class securities find ready sale. The suggestion might well be taken advantage of by the town and county of Peterborough, and if the proper steps were taken, we have no doubt that all the debenture debts of the town and county could easily be consolidated in new debentures, with interest at 3½ to 4 per cent.

A LONDON DESPATCH says:—"It is here rumoured that if the Marquis of Lorne remains another term in Canada as Governor-General, the Duke of Argyll will pay a visit to the Dominion not of pleasure merely. The Duke intends to investigate and report upon the accuracy or inaccuracy of reports afloat as to the desire on the part of the Canadians for annexation to the United States." We can hardly accept this statement as the truth, especially as we find it in the Toronto Mail's pro-Yankee telegrams, received through the New York Herald office. If, however, it should be the case that the noble Duke should enter upon so silly a mission, we would be compelled to believe that the estimable young gentleman who is heir to his title has been remiss in his duty, in not informing his father of the state of public feeling in Canada, and of the futility of taking up a mission to investigate a myth.

The Fall Assizes.

The Court of Assize opened on Monday at the Court House here, before his Lordship, Justice Patterson; Mr. C. A. Weller, Crown Attorney.

The following Grand Jury was sworn in:—Francis Birdsall, Foreman, Isaac Armstrong, Jas. Blackwell, Benj. Cardwell, Thomas Cahill, J. W. Fife, S. G. Griffin, W. H. Hall, Wm. Kent, Arnold Soanes, John Moloney, Henry Moore, Peter McGregor, W. J. McKibbon, Jas. Petrie, Samuel Price, John Shea, George Stewart, W. O. Taylor, Wm. J. Wallace.

His Lordship briefly addressed the Grand Jury, congratulating them on the lightness of the criminal calender and explaining their duties. He also referred to the Andrew Mercer Reformatory, for the women, and the Industrial School for girls, now ready for occupation, which performs the same functions for female criminals, as the Central Prison, and the Penetanguishene Reformatory does for males.

The Grand Jury retired and brought in a true bill for murder against Mary Fredenburg.

FAIR V THE FAIR MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—This case was an interpleader case from the counties of Northumberland and Durham, the Sheriff having seized upon crops of Mrs. Fair, the plaintiff under an execution against her husband. It was proved that the farm was bought with money of plaintiff received from the estate of her brother, and that she worked the farm herself, hiring and paying men etc., the husband, as the lady testified, "doing nothing but getting drunk all the time, if you call that working on the farm." Verdict for plaintiff. E. B. Edwards for plaintiff; W. Mulock, of Toronto, and J. A. Kirchoffer, for defendant.

QUEEN V FREDENBURG.—The girl Fredburg was brought into Court and charged with the wilful murder of her child on the 16th inst. In answer to Mr. Leonard the Clerk, on putting the usual question, "guilty or not guilty?" she said: "No sir, my baby was dead, it never cried." In answer to the question if she was ready for trial, she replied in the affirmative. The Crown Counsel, Mr. Waller, stated that he was not prepared to go on with the trial, on account of the absence of an important witness, and it was accordingly put over to the next assize, the prisoner being remanded back to goal.

FORSYTH V GIBBS.—This case was called on Tuesday morning, and was an action for ejectment. Verdict for plaintiff, by consent. C. A. Waller for plaintiff; D. W. Dumble for defendant.

The only other case, a seduction case from Millbrook, having been settled out of Court, the petit jury was discharged.

The Grand Jury appeared, and through their foreman, Mr. F. Birdsall, made their presentment, congratulating His Lordship in the lightness of the calender, approving the condition of the goal, and referring to the number of the inmates, and the contentment of the prisoners. Besides thanking the Crown Attorney for his attention and assistance, the presentment contained the following recommendation:—

"We think that it would be desirable if some employment for prisoners convicted for short terms with hard labor in the County goal, could be found, as, they with nothing to do and plenty to eat, have easier times than many who have to contribute to their support, and would beg to suggest to the County Council that a quantity of stones be supplied, so that the time of the prisoners could be occupied in breaking them, as ample room could be found for them if broken, on the roads of the Town and County."

His Lordship replied appropriately, taking occasion to compliment the County on the admirable Court Room they had provided, and the Court adjourned sine die.

THE TOWN COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening, present His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors Cahill, Taylor, Smith, McNaughton, Paterson, Dunford, Douglas, Yelland, Dance, Robertson and Menzies.

Communications were received from Hatton, Hatton & Bush, on behalf of property owners, pointing out that the Midland R. R. Company were tearing up the sidewalk on Bethune street, from Charlotte to Simcoe street, and putting down a railway track; also from Geo. A. Cox, stating that he had purchased properties from the parties who had made complaint against the extension of the yard room at the station, and asking the Council to defer dealing with the matter for a few days.

Mr. Doherty, Market Clerk, enclosed an account of $6.25 for building a sheep rack for the market scales, which was ordered to be paid.

Three petitions for sidewalks were referred to the Street and Bridge Committee to report.

The following accounts were received and referred to the Finance Committee and Clerk: Geo. Stethem, $9.72; Peterborough Gas Company, 17.90; Toker & Co, $36.87; J. R. Stratton, $93.60.

Mr. Smith presented a report of the Finance Committee, which was received and adopted, recommending payment of accounts of Jas Stevenson, coal, $18.34; Robert Laing, $4.75; Gas Company, fixtures, $9.13; that the stone purchased and broken during the present season be not used this year, and that the Street and Bridge Committee be credited with the amount paid for stone.

Mr. Smith submitted the correspondence in re Toronto & Ottawa Railway.

Mr. Smith said Mr. Waller, had been kept busy with railway matters, but hoped to have an opinion to submit to the Council on the matter referred to him next week.

Mr. A. P. Poussette addressed the Council in reference to lamps on Park street. A petition had been sent in some time ago, but no action had been taken on it. He thought that the time of year was approaching when that part of the town ought to be afforded some light at least. There were twenty families on Gilmour street, and families all along Park street, who had no light whatever. This was the more needed as the sidewalks were not in the best of repair. The walk on Simcoe street as it approached Park street was in an absolutely dangerous condition. The properties in this neighborhood were more or less valuable and were assessed pretty high, and he hoped the Council would see their way to have a lamp or two placed there.

The Mayor said the result of the former application had been a resolution not to put up any more lamps this year, but the whole matter of lighting the streets had been referred to the Fire Committee for report.

Mr. Poussette suggested that they might put the lamps up, and not fight them till after the 1st of January.

Mr. McNaughton did not believe in making fish of one and flesh of another. there were other localities that wanted lamps.

Mr. Menzies said the best way would be to change round the lamps—some localities had more lamps than they actually required. He was willing to spare the one at his place.

On motion Mr. E. C. Hill was heard and said if there were any more lamps to be put up he wanted one in his back yard.

The Mayor stated that Mr. Cummings the Collector had filed his bonds for the present year, the sureties being Thos. Bradburn in $4,000, and Edmund Chamberlain in $4,000, himself being bound in $2,000.

Chief Johnston was on motion granted two weeks leave of absence, to commence on return of P. C. McGhee.

On enquiry by Mr. Dunsford why the repairs ordered by the Market Committee had not been made, Mr. Johnson said he had been too busy with street work, but it would be attended to at once.

Mr. Denne stated that the Midland Railway had blocked the east end of the Smith street bridge by building a track across the approach to it.

It was explained that Mr. Cox had promised to put all the crossings in proper shape at the earliest possible moment.

The Mayor stated that he was about leaving for Ireland to be absent some weeks and it would be advisable to appoint a permanent Chairman.

On motion, Mr. Dunsford was appointed acting Mayor during the absence of His Worship.

After a desultory discussion in reference to the Midland siding on Bethune street, during which Mr. Rowe was heard and complained strongly of an alleged injustice, the Council adjourned till Monday evening next.

THE COLD SNAP.

The unusually cold weather of the past few days and the appearance of the first snow on Monday, gives the strongest possible kind of a hint to those who have not already done so, to prepare for the winter. To all such we commend an inspection of the extensive stock on view at W. Fairweather & Co's store, corner George and Hunter streets. Mr. Fairweather has just returned from Montreal where he has purchased one of the largest and most varied stocks ever brought into Peterborough, at 22½ per cent below wholesale rates, and he is prepared to offer bargains for the fall and winter trade, to his customers and the public generally, such as is not often placed within their reach. The stock comprises a large consignment of mantles, of the latest styles and of every range of value, mantle cloths etc. Special bargains are offered in rich mink furs. He offers a heavy stock of ready made clothing which he is confident, both for value and cheapness, cannot be competed with in the province. He has also a fresh importation of millinery goods, of latest and most fashionable styles, of every variety, and all the latest novelties in feathers, flowers and trimmings. A glance at the elegant display of these goods and at the hats, etc., on view in the window, affords but a limited idea of what may be seen by stepping inside and going up to the millinery department. The variety is so great that the most fastidious cannot fail to suit her particular taste, or to find the article most suited and becoming. In these times it is well to remember that "money saved is money gained," and that Fairweather and Co's goods are positively the cheapest, of the same quality and value, in the lines mentioned, to be had in town. 44-11n

A Peterboro' Celebrity Abroad.

Newbold - Howard - Proctor again—He Elopes with the Gaoler's wife at Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 16.—A painful sensation has been created here by a statement published in an evening paper that Mrs. Meyers, wife of the gaoler, has eloped with George Newbold, alias Harry Howard, alias Proctor, a notorious bigamist and confidence man, who was at the spring assizes convicted of obtaining goods under false pretences and sent to goal for six months. It is stated that Mrs. Meyers, a good-looking lady of forty, who was matron of the goal, became infatuated with the prisoner, who is a fine looking fellow, daring his imprisonment, and on his term expiring she deserted her husband and family, making pretence of a visit to friends in the United States. She returned to Brockville and wrote her daughters who on joining her there at her request, found her living with Newbold, and returned home despite her entreaties that they should join her. The parties are well connected, consequently the sensation created by the affair is all the greater. Previous to this unfortunate occurrence the conduct of Mrs. Meyers had been above reproach.

The Markets.

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 21.

The Market on yesterday was the largest in many months held in Peterborough for nearly a year. The exceptionally high price of butter, which in many instances reached 25cts per pound within the past week, had the effect of drawing in butter from every quarter of the district, some of it coming from the vicinity of Port Hope and Lindsay. The Market Clerk was kept busy as a bee weighing, the work taxing his utmost exertions. Some exceptionally choice lots sold at 23 cents per lb., the average price for fair to good being 20cts per pound, poorer qualities brought 17 and 20 cents. The quantity weighed by Mr. Doherty during the day was 350 tubs, or about 35,000 lbs., besides the ordinary sales at stores and in small quantities. Eggs sold readily at 13 to 15 cents. Some very fine winter apples of superior quality brought $1.75 to $2.00 per bushel. There was a large quantity of beef on the market, which sold at $4.75 to $5.00 per cwt. Chickens brought 30 to 35 cents per pair, and geese, 40 to 45 cents each, some very fine geese being sold at the latter rate. Potatoes were sold at 40 to 50 cents per bag, and a load of mangold wurtzels sold at 10c. per bushel.

The grain market was fairly active, with barley steady at 50 cts to 65 cts per bushel, the latter being paid to a few lots of bright barley, the average being from 55 to 60cts for good grain. Wheat was offered in small quantities with a rising tendency in prices, $1.09 to $1.11 being paid. The supply of peas was light, with prices steady at 65 to 70 cents. Rye higher, and in demand at 75 to 78cts. per bushel. Oats a light supply, but sufficient for the demand at 27 to 28 cents per bushel.

Peterborough Curling Club.

This club held its annual meeting at the Huffman House on Thursday evening of last week, the Vice-President in the Chair. Mr. McNeil, Secretary-Treasurer, read the annual report which showed the club to be in a favorable position financially, a considerable balance remaining in the Treasurer's hands after satisfying all claims. A communication was received from the Ontario branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club, asking the Club to consider the advisability of separating from the Royal Caledonian. After discussion, on motion of Rev. V. Clementi, seconded by Hon R. Hamilton, the idea of separation was repudiated. After electing the following officers the meeting adjourned:

Mount Pleasant.

OPENING SERVICES—THE NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The new Canada Presbyterian Church in Mount Pleasant was opened on last Sabbath, the 10th inst. There were three services held during the day, the Rev. A. Bell, of Peterborough, preaching in the morning from the 74th Psalm, 22nd verse. He showed why the Psalmist could use the words of the text, because of his connexion with the Lord; bespoke of the boldness of Abraham pleading for Sodom, and Jacob wrestling with the angel; the discourse was very able and impressive. In the afternoon the Rev. T Cleworth, Methodist Minister of Cavanville, preached from Micah, 5th chapter and 4th verse; his discourse was practical and well suited for the occasion. In the evening the Rev. A. Bell, delivered a very able discourse, from Matthew 21. chap. 10th verse, at each service the new house was full to overflowing and every one seemed well pleased with the service of the day. On the Monday following tea was served in the Temperance Hall, from 3 to 6 p. m., a large number of persons sat down and partook of the splendid tea provided by the Methodists and Presbyterians of this vicinity, to aid in defraying the expenses of building the new church. After tea a public meeting was held in the church, the Rev. J. Irving in the chair. Addresses were delivered by the Rev's. Messrs Windsell, Tully, Cleworth, Cameron, and Bell. The choirs of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches enlivened the proceedings by the very appropriate pieces of music rendered on that occasion. At the conclusion, the Rev. chairman moved votes of thanks as follows, which were duly seconded and carried. 1st. a vote of thanks to the speakers. 2nd. to the Methodist friends for their kindness in helping with the tea. 3rd. to the Methodist choir for their kind services on tast occasion. The amount of collections taken up on Sabbath was about $50.00, the sum realized from the tea was about $80.00, the amount subscribed on the night of meeting was about $250.00. The church is very neat and of the latest style, except the seats and pulpit, both of which are very old fashioned, and the seats uncomfortable to sit in; the pulpit is of the box style. The spire is set on the roof of the building which makes it resemble a school house, otherwise the building is just what was wanted by the Presbyterians of that place. The total cost is said to be ($1,300) fifteen hundred dollars, all of which is provided for by subscriptions, collections, and the amount received at the tea meeting, excepting about $240 00, which yet remains unpaid, but which will soon be wiped off, as there are some connected with the church whose forefathers struggled hard to provide a place of worship for their children, who are now placed in a position to not only pay off the small balance, but could if necessary build a church for themselves—which proves the fact that he which giveth freely to the Lord, shall never suffer loss by giving. They still retain a spark of the Puritan fire, and I feel assured that no mortgage shall ever be recorded against this nice little church in Mount Pleasant.—COM.

NEW ZEALAND AS A FIELD FOR EMIGRATION.—Messrs. Grant and Foster, two of the deputations sent by Lincolnshire farmers to inspect and report on New Zealand, say:—"That a man with £1,000 to £2,000 capital, and with a knowledge of farming could acquire 300 to 600 acres of good land, and might reasonably expect to earn 20 per cent, for his capital. The climate is splendid, and the greater portion of the colonists are English. Shortly, in the opinion of the Lincolnshire delegates, the only thing an agriculturist from the old country in going out to New Zealand has to sacrifice is his social connections. For the first few years a man would have to rough it, and he would have to work. The great boast of New Zealand is, that it is a place where an Englishman may make an English home and possess everything he requires to make his life comfortable. Above all, New Zealand is a country of law and order, life and property are safe there, and, strange to say, even in the wanderings through it, we found scarcely a house, even in the loneliest spots, where the doors or windows are fastened at night. The people are our kindred. Local Governments hospitable and loyal, land good and prospects

Ten years ago all our fine manufactured tobacco came from the United States. But month after month and year after year the superior quality of the "Myrtle Navy" brand has been driving the American articles out of the Canadian market. The "Myrtle Navy" is now to be found in every village in the Dominion, and is as familiar to the smokers upon the Atlantic and Pacific coasts as to those of the city in which it is manufactured.

Aunt Callista's Hair; or, How to Catch a Husband.

It was Christmas eve, and the fire burned low in the grate. Around it were gathered Aunt Callista, Rosamond, her pet of seventeen summers, Fred, a college student, and Tom, a young man of twenty-three, fresh and fastidious.

Near the blue sea's golden strand, lived fair Flo and Edna Bryan.
And as the beams their beauty fann'd, they plaited with their Aunt Callista:
"Your lovely hair alone, dear Aunt, a fortune surely will ensure you.
If you this once our wishes grant, you'll ne'er forget it, we assure you."

"What! cut it off," Aunt Calla said, "and sell it, is that what you're after?"
"No, ma'am," Rosamond replied Ed; (then you could hear some gentle laughter)
"So shawl's a dumb, now let us trim and build it up and fix precisely.
And you will look so sweet and prim, you'll catch a husband quick and nicely."

Their gentle guile seemed, just ground, "I thought 'twas man that did the catching.
While Fly her arms around her clasped, and fondly said, a sweet kiss snatching.
"Oh my! one whispered in her ear, and still with lovingness caressed her.
"Why, Aunty Cal', the girls all here are dying to catch Lawyer Chester."

At length to their entreaties oft, their aunty Cal' consenting yielded,
And soon in graceful coils aloft the structure rose—a top knot sealed it;
Just then their prisoner Cal' escaped and in the mirror saw the wonder,
Oh, goodness! to see how she gasped, and "vow" to have that pile asunder.

Quick, to the recess laughingly flew the girls, and strongly both protested,
And begged she'd give the trial due, and let their handy work be tested;
They said "it quite renewed her youth, and that she soon would be contented,"—
Then launched her overshot.—in sooth they drove their canine half demented.

Right glad was she to steal away to where the brook in joy did wander,
To spend the evening of that day in rest and peace, and sweetly ponder.
Upon the riches bright and fair with which kind nature would inspire her.
Wondering the while how ever her hair could lead young Chester to admire her.

"Oh! here's a lovely spot," quoth she, "beneath this tall and spreading beech tree,
I'm sure that no one here will see, or no intruder here will reach me.
But, hark! what's that, which new I hear! A footstep falls just close behind me;
Oh, goodness! it is coming near—a man, oh dear, he may not find me."

But here he is, the dreadful brute he's come quite close, just right in view now;
Why! bless me, he is taking rest and fishing here—what shall I do now?"
And half she rises just to look, and fain would let the fish browse,
When, oh! the sharp and dreadful hook caught on that mystic bunch of hair.

And scream she did, for my! the tugging her head would never stand it longer,
She thought the roots went with the tugging, and that the fisher was the stronger.
But having felt such strong resistance, and saw what caused his line to linger,
He quickly proffer'd kind assistance, with pleas. deft and willing finger.

The following Christmas scene one heard, and 'twas Edna that addressed her,
"You now see aunt, when we conferred and trimmed your hair, you caught Tom Chester;
But Aunt Calista said with pride, "you know right well I had not sought him
That eve upon that dear brook side, 'twas he hooked me, not I that caught him."

Thomas' Eclectric Oil! Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common SORE THROAT. One bottle has cured BRONCHITIS. Fifty cents' worth has cured an OLD STANDING COUGH. One or two bottles cures bad cases of PILES or KIDNEY TROUBLES. Six to eight applications cure ANY CASE of EXCORIATED NIPPLES or INFLAMED BREAST. One bottle has cured LAME BACK of eight years standing. Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Tioga County, Pa., says: "I went thirty miles for a bottle of your OIL, which affected a WONDERFUL CURE OF A CROOKED LIMB, by six applications."—Another who had had ASTHMA for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could get no more."——Rufus Robinson, of Nunda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your ECLECTRIC OIL restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper in FIVE YEARS."——Rev. J. Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: Your ECLECTRIC OIL cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of SIX OF THE BEST OILS THAT ARE KNOWN. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasurably superior to anything ever made. Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised.

PEOPLE TORMENTED by the many disagreeable sensations produced by dyspepsia, or are they, nervous and weak, should use the standard tonic—Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. They will find it agreeable and beneficial. It enriches the blood by aiding digestion and assimilation; soothes and invigorates the NERVOUS SYSTEM, and imparts a healthful appetite. When used as a remedy for bilious and intermittent fever, it produces the happiest results, if taken between the attacks. Convalescence is hastened, and ultimately decay of the physique and constitution arrested by it. The spirituous constituent, sherry wine, is of the best quality, and the aromatics combined with it renders its flavor additionally pleasant. They who use it gain flesh as well as strength, and it exerts a cheering influence upon the mind. it promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile, sound repose and regularity in the action of the bowels. If judiciously used it may be taken without apprehension of any ill result by persons of the most delicate constitution. A fair trial is all that is needed to prove the genuineness of its claims to public confidence, and to the truth of the general verdict in its behalf. No article of its class commends itself so strongly to nervous invalids who require bofilding up—none is so well adapted to fortify the system against the dangers which threaten the debilitated. It should not be mistaken for a mere stimulant of appetite, which many so-called tonics simply are It so regulates the stomach that it is enabled to perform its various functions with regularity and vigor, and its action is not only thorough but prompt. Ask for the "Quinine Wine of Northrop and Lyman." Sold by all druggists.

Joy Among the Children.

COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults, Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having the pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water," another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitution (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of the article) by seeing that the name, "COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, is on both the wrapper and Shoulder label.

The sole Canadian Agency purchased Messrs. T. Copland's Stock interest in the above preparation, and now manufacturing it from the original Recipe. Grocers & Druggists. Toronto.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6 cts., or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 28, 1880.

LET US HAVE LIGHT.

As the time is approaching when the taxpayers of the town will be again called upon to choose delegates for the management of their civic affairs for another year, it is for them to consider whether they may deem advisable any change in the stereotyped current of municipal matters—whether there is any issue which it is prudent to raise between candidates for the Council beyond personal qualifications or recommendations—whether, if it be deemed a change is desirable in the interests of the ratepayers, they shall enforce it in the instructions given by them at the polls to the First Magistrate and the individual members of the Council of 1881. We do not know that there is any very serious indictment to be laid against the present Council for their administration of affairs during the year. They have exercised a fair degree of economy, and have as a rule exhibited a commendable disposition to promote the interests of the community. Still, though we do not expect any Council, any more than any individual, to be infallible, there are matters in regard to which the course of the Council is open to exception. The principal of these objections is the tendency which has been given scope to resort to legal advice, and at needless expense, where an appeal to common sense would have been both cheaper and preferable, and to rush into law-suits, with the uniform result of finding in the privilege of paying costs the only satisfaction. Without having any official Solicitor they have paid in lawyers' fees a great deal more money than would have given them the responsible services of a salaried solicitor, open always to consultation, when doubt was felt as to the course of the Council. Another matter in which a decided improvement could be effected is in the system of management of our streets and bridges—or rather we should say, the want of system. The plan found most satisfactory and effective in the experience of other towns and cities, is to make an appropriation at the beginning of the year, which shall not under any circumstances be exceeded. This sum is apportioned to the different wards according to circumstances—viz., the actual requirements of the streets as regards general public convenience, and the quota of the ward contributions to the civic treasury.—the appropriation in each ward being expended under the direction of the member of the Board of Works for such ward, who is in direct communication with and responsible to the residents of his ward, and conversant with its requirements. Such a system, we believe, would effect economy, give better satisfaction, and accomplish more beneficial results. There is one thing, however, which the ratepayers, in electing between the various candidates for the Mayoralty and the Council upon whom they shall bestow their votes, would do well to resolve upon, and that is, to cast no vote for any person for any office who will not pledge himself to use his influence to let in the light upon the dark places in connection, with our municipal affairs. It is in Committees of the Council that the business of the Council is practically done. It is there that the reasons for this course or that, and especially in the Finance Committee, are advanced, discussed, and acted upon, and it is there only that the information to which the people have an undoubted right is to be obtained. If in cities like Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, the journals are enabled to give reports of all committee meetings and discussions, why not here? The effect of enforcing this method of above-board proceedings in Toronto, was to expose and put an end to a systematic log-rolling and caballing in municipal matters; and we have no doubt the effect would be beneficial here. We do not say, nor believe, that the Committees "choose the darkness because their deeds are evil;" but we say "let us have light." Again, the business and management of the Town Trust is a sealed book to the ratepayers of the town whose interests are so vitally affected by their every action. It is virtually a close corporation. Beyond the annual report of the Auditors that it is "all right," the public know nothing, for nothing is allowed to transpire. They do not know when the Commissioners meet, what they do, nor anything whatever about their proceedings. It is only when a case like the $3,000 advance to the Toronto & Ottawa Railway Company comes up—where we find responsibility hid by the Trust as the Council, and by the Council on the Trust, and nobody actually responsible for the money which was taken out of the pockets of the ratepayers,—that they are brought under our notice. We demand that this close corporation shall cease—that the press and the public be notified of the meetings of the Trust, and put in a position to understand what they, as stewards of the corporation, are doing with the interests entrusted to them, how they do it, and the reasons which influence them. These are matters for the ratepayers to ponder over, and upon which they should shape their decision in regard to candidates who may come before them for election. Especially in regard to the Town Trust, the Mayor of next year, who in such matters represents the interests of the whole town, distinct from the Council, should be unmistakeably pledged to open the doors of the Town Trust Commissioners to the light of day.

POLITICAL NOTES.

"LOST HIS CONFIDENCE."

The Guelph Herald says Mackintosh, the contract-broker who fleeced innocent old Mr. Whitehead and picked the financial bones of the Government printers, "long ago lost the confidence of Sir John Macdonald." However that may be, he has evidently thrived well in the confidence of Sir Charles Tupper, and is not likely to lose the confidence of Mr. Pope till the latter's $14,000 lien on the Citizen is satisfied.

VICTIMS OF THE MONOPOLISTS.

The Mail in an editorial on the prospects of the Toronto poor for the winter, says: "The hardest part of poor people's lot lies here. Wood and coal are "exceptionally dear, and nothing but a "charitable effort to give them the means "of cooking their meals, making their "tea, and giving heat to their airy tene-"ments will suffice." By the patriotic and paternal policy of the Mail's model Government, the poor man's coal in Toronto is taxed exactly 12½ cents on every dollar's worth of fuel. A few coals from a poor man's scanty fire would make an appropriate incense to burn under Sir John Macdonald's right honorable nose, about Christmastide.

A BOOMERANG.

Under the head "the slanderers again," the Review quotes from a Halifax temperance organ as follows:—"We have received from Sir Leonard Tilley a thoroughly satisfactory letter, positively denying the statements made in the Halifax papers concerning his late visit to Dartmouth brewery. We also learn from the letter that no reporter was present during the conversation with the proprietor. Therefore, only a garbled report was received by him." The Review, no doubt, is aware that the report it attributes to the "slanderers," originated in the Halifax Herald, the organ of Dr. Tupper. But then, the Tories all seem to be down on Tupper just now.

CABINET CHANGES.

The rats are leaving the sinking ship! Hon. Mr. Masson, the most respectable member of the Cabinet, has left for Terrebonne, where he will undergo a process of fumigation from the disagreeable odors of the Cabinet. Hon. Messrs. J. H. Pope, J. C. Pope, John O'Connor, Tupper and Baby are reported about to leave. Even the Mail admits that "more than one change will take place" in and "more than one gentleman retire" from the Cabinet before Parliament meets. Of course none of these gentlemen will retire into good fat Government offices! That was such a mortal sin, as proclaimed by the Mail during Reform rule, that none of the virtuous patriots who now manipulate the Treasury would dream of such a thing!

TORY EXTRAVAGANCE.

The Review scribe coolly disposes of Sir Richard Cartwright's Goderich speech as follows:

The man who has the audacity as Sir Richard has, to stand on a public platform in Ontario and tell his audience that between 1868 and 1873 the debt of this country had "hundreds of millions" added to it, and the annual expenditure during the same period increased by "tens of millions" has audacity sufficient for anything, rendering his utterances unworthy of serious criticism.

Perhaps it is fortunate for Sir Richard that he has escaped criticism from the ponderous editorial intellect of the Review, as such criticism must inevitably have come down on him like a pile-driver, and metaphorically pulverised the audacious member for Centre Huron. However, if the considerate critic will look up the figures he will see that Sir Richard was right. The public debt has been increased from $98,000,000 in 1868 to now over $200,000,000, and the ordinary expenditure from $13,500,000 in 1868, to now over $25,000,000.

SHAKE THEM OFF.

Owing to the outcry created by his notorious failings, and something worse, Capt. Prince has been removed from the Wardenship of the Central Prison, and replaced by Mr. Massie, Registrar of Wellington. This is all very well: but when it comes to installing Capt. Prince into the place vacated by Mr. Massie it is by no means so well. If we mistake not, the late Deputy-Registrar of Wellington was dismissed on account of the very failing which Prince possesses in so eminent degree, and we cannot see the philosophy of the latter being given a superior place in the same office. Captain Prince merited dismissal, and ought to have been dismissed promptly. The Government do not gain strength by accepting the duty of providing for the Tite Barnacles whom they found attached to the Cabinet when they assumed office. This official, and others of the old Tory appointees we might mention, have brought more discredit on the Government than any act of their own. We say, shake them off.

CURRENT TOPICS.

THE OTTAWA Free Press publishes a complete list of vacant stores and dwellings, to the number of eight hundred and fifty. A charming record, truly.

THE BELLEVILLE Intelligencer, the most industrious of our "ham-hunting" exchanges, shows that according to the assessment of that city there has been a decrease in population of 505, and in the number of ratepayers of 140. The assessment, however, has been raised by $116,866. Thus under the N. P., even in municipal matters, fewer people in Belleville are paying more taxes this year than last.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD that the deficit at the Port Hope Central Exhibition is about $800. This is a strong argument in favor of the position of those who say that the Central arrangement must cease with this year, or be limited to Lindsay and Peterborough. It appears to us, however, that this failure is in a large measure attributable to the short-sightedness of the managers and officials, who went behind the old and widely circulated journals to give the printing to an advertiser, who was willing to take it at any price so long as he should get it from the established papers. The result was that instead of getting, as usual, free and generous advertising, circulated among general thousand families in the counties, they were limited to the patronage of a few friends.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.

RIPE FOR A REVOLUTION.

Vigorous Measures of the Gladstone Government.

The Land Leaguers to be brought to Dublin for Trial.

DUBLIN, Oct. 23.—Mr. Forster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, swore an information to-day charging a number of prominent members of the Land League with conspiracy, and an application for their arrest will be made to the courts early next week. The following are the gentlemen selected for prosecution:—Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell, M. P., Mr. Jos. Biggar, M. P., Mr. Arthur O'Connor, M. P., Mr. J. J. O'Kelly M. P., Mr. O' Sullivan, M. P., Mr. J. D. Sullivan, M. P. Mr. Egan, Treasurer of the Land League, Mr. Brennan, its Secretary, Mr. James Redpath, Mr. Ketter, Mr. Boyton, Mr. Sheridan, Mr. Daly, a journalist, Mr. Harrington, a journalist, and Mr. Tull, a journalist. Large reinforcements of troops are being hurried into Ireland. They are sent to occupy commanding positions in Connaught and Munster. It is feared grave troubles may arise on the arrest of the Irish leaders. The British press is unanimous in supporting the measures by which the Government propose to check the agitation. Even the journals which have hitherto deprecated any extraordinary proceedings now admit that some action is absolutely necessary.

GALWAY, Oct. 24.—A great Land League meeting was held here to-day, when 40,000 people were present. Mr. Parnell addressed the meeting. He condemned the despatch of reinforcements, troops, and police, to Galway; denounced Mr. Forster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, as a hypocrite; declared the Government solely responsible for the assassinations, and maintained that the only remedy was the autonomy of Ireland. He appealed to the people to be resolute and put an end to English misrule. O'Connor Power asserted that the tenants were suffering more than the slaves of South Carolina had. Other meetings were held in various parts of the country. No disorder reported.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A Dublin despatch says: The tenants of King Harman, ex-member of Parliament for county Sligo, and of other landlords have received notices not to pay full rents under penalty of being shot.

A soldier was arrested last night in Mayo while drilling peasantry in the military exercises imposed on fresh recruits for the British army.

A telegram from Plymouth states that the 25th regiment has been suddenly ordered to embark for Ireland at the earliest date.

Mr. Herbert Gladstone, son of the Prime Minister, in a speech at Leeds indicated that if the indictment against Irish Land Leaguers by the Government should fail of its intended effect the Government will adopt strong measures of coersion, and resort to extremities which it is now doing its best to avoid. Mr. Gladstone is supposed to have spoken authoritatively. The speech has caused a great deal of excitement in Ireland.

QUEENSTOWN, Oct. 25.—Parnell at a banquet at Galway to-day said:—I feel convinced that if ever you call on your countrymen in America for help, and show them that there is a fair chance for success, you will have their trained, organised assistance for breaking the British yoke.

J. B. Killen, speaking at a banquet in Galway on Sunday, declared that every letter that came across the Atlantic, brought Ireland more closely to America. They were in fact no longer Ireland, but one of the States of the United States.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Matthew Harris, one of the speakers at the land meeting in Galway yesterday, asked whether it were better that one bad man be shot or that a hundred families be driven from Ireland, and said that after witnessing the eviction of farmers he resolved that if the farmers shot the landlords like partridges he would never say a word against it. His speech was received with cheers.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Monday evening Acting-Mayor Dunsford in the Chair.

Present — Councillors Cahill, Smith, McNaughton, Paterson, Yelland, Douglas, Menzies, Dunne and Robertson.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A communication protesting against the extension of the Midland sidings on Bethune street, was read, signed by Messrs. Robt Lundy, Robt Rowe, J. J. Hall, W. Kingan and others.

A letter from Rev. J. W. R. Beck, was read certifying that the children of Jno Drake, who died last winter, were without any means of support and that the mother had been dead over a year. Referred to the Charity Committee, with power to act.

Accounts of J. R. Stratton, $93.50; Times Printing Company, $18.00; and Toker & Co., were referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

A communication was received from Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President of the Midland Railway, stating that the Treasurer had been instructed to pay over to the town the amount due on account of properties sequestrated, and also stating that the crossings on water street would be repaired at once.

Mr. Smith moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton,—That the Clerk be instructed to take the necessary steps to compel the Grand Junction Railway to relay the sidewalks on George and Water streets, and to put the crossings in proper condition.—Carried.

The Acting-Mayor read a communication from Mr. Chas. A. Weller to the following effect:

PETERBOROUGH, Oct. 25th, 1880.

George Dunsford, Esq., Acting Mayor:

DEAR SIR,—I am advised by my agents that Mr. Justice Galt has given judgement in favour of the defendant upon his exception to the plaintiff's right to recover, but it would seem that the Judge, assuming that the case, by reason of its importance, would be taken to the full Court, has not considered the question really raised, but has given his view in relation to a breach of the law as between master and servant. The duty, a breach of which is complained of in this case, is one not arising out of any relationship existing between the parties as master and servant, but it is a duty imperatively imposed upon the defendant by statute. At any rate this is my view, and is the ground for the opinion I entertain as to Mr. Edwards' liability. It may be that he will be held not liable, but that must now be determined by the full Court. Ishall see that the matter is brought before them during the ensuing term which commences on the third Monday in November.

As to the question between the Council and the Midland Railway, which has been submitted to me, I do not yet feel thoroughly prepared to give my views, and must ask you for a little further consideration. In such an important matter a few days delay will not be of much consequence to any one.

I will show you my agent's letter of advice if you will call at my office.

Yours truly,
C. A. WELLER.

He said this matter had only been decided by one judge and Mr. Weller was no doubt anxious to have it argued before the full court. It was for the Council to say whether they would carry it any further.

Mr. Patterson thought they should drop it. There had been costs enough already.

Mr. Smith said there would be no costs attaching to the argument before the full Bench.

The Acting-Mayor said there had been no costs adjudged as yet to either party. Each party would have to pay their own costs.

By request of Mr. Smith, the Clerk read the judgement of Judge Galt to the Council, to the great apparent edification of the members.

Moved by Mr. Dunne, seconded by Mr. Menzies, that the judgment be referred to the Finance Committee with instructions to consult with Mr. Weller as to the further course of proceedings, to report to the Council.—Carried.

A petition by Dr. Kinastle and others on behalf of Mrs. Fody, was referred to the Charity Committee.

After some discussion as to the necessary repairs to the Fire Hall, during which Mr. Stevenson by request attested the necessity for a new roof and other improvements, and expressed the opinion that the Trust Commissioners would pay half the expenses, it was Moved by Mr. Robertson, seconded by Mr. Dunne, that the whole matter of repairs to the Fire Hall be referred to the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, to act in conjunction with the Chairman of the Town Trust.

Mr. Patterson read the following report of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee:

The Fire, Water and Gas Committee beg to report that having considered the question of more street lamps, find that our appropriation for this year is exhausted, and there being a motion on the minutes that there shall be no more lamps put up this year, Your committee recommend that all the lamps asked for be put up as soon next spring as possible, and if put up this fall not to be lighted or paid for this year, and any lamps to be put up to be located by the Fire, Water and Gas Committee. Your Committee would further recommend that the lamp on the north-west corner of George and Hunter streets be removed to the north-east corner, to light the letter boxes in the Post-Office.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox was then requested to give explanations regarding the sidings on Bethune street, regarding which a by-law was proposed. He thanked the Council for the opportunity of addressing them, and read the by-law which had been prepared, explaining the same by the plans which were submitted to the Council. He said that as at present situated the Company had not sufficient room to do the business which had to be accommodated, and the result was vexatious delays to the business men and to the company, and an injury to the business of the town. The store-houses were rendered practically useless, and business hampered. The Company had purchased 2½ lots south of the station and 2 lots east of the station; they wished to construct freight sidings so as not to use the street for shunting, and for the convenient loading and proper handling of cars. The sidings were proposed to run on to the main line some distance south of Hunter street. He believed they had bought out all the properties interested south of Hunter street. He had not known until this evening that there was an impression that they were going north of Hunter street; this was a mistake. They had no desire and no intention of going beyond Hunter street. These sidings would be a convenience to the business of the town, and a refusal would be an injury to a great many property holders, to the railway and the town. They were all interested in drawing trade to the town, and the present want of accommodation was a serious inconvenience to farmers, and would tend to drive them to other markets. The company were doing their utmost to accommodate trade and keep it here. They were building a brick engine house on their property at the station, and intended also building an elevator with a capacity of 75,000 bushels. He believed the granting of the permission sought in the By-law would be a great convenience and benefit to the town.

Mr. Smith asked how far south of Hunter street the sidings would begin.

Mr. Cox would judge by the plans about 75 or 100 feet.

Mr. McNaughton asked if it was intended to put an additional siding at Mr. Hamilton's place.

Mr. Cox said there was a siding there now, and it was not proposed to put any additional.

Mr. Paterson, said it appeared that the siding on Bethune street would break up the sidewalk.

Mr. Cox said the Company had the right to cross a street. They intended planking it all over so it would be equivalent to a side walk. The company had paid $5,000 for the property, $2,000 more than it was worth.

Messrs. Kingan and Rowe were heard. The former said he complained of the encroachments of the railway. They had no power to protect themselves as individuals and they looked to their representatives in the Council to guard their interests.

Mr. McNaughton asked what harm the sidings would do Mr. Kingan's property.

Mr. Kingan said the Company were encroaching.

Mr. Cox explained that when additional siding was secured there would not be nearly so much occupation of the street as at present. As it was now some days they had as much as 40 miles of shunting to do on the one track. There would be no cars allowed to stand in front of Mr. Kingan's or Mr. Rowe's property, and no sidings above Hunter street. He was satisfied when these gentlemen knew how much less shunting there would be on the street when the sidings were built than now they would be perfectly satisfied.

Mr. Paterson asked if they had power to pass this by-law.

The acting-Mayor said it would take a better lawyer than he to decide.

Mr. Cox said there was no doubt whatever about their having the power. That had been decided at Toronto.

Mr. Rowe said d people passing Hunter street had often to go round a distance on account of the cars. It was a nuisance and he objected to the encroachments.

Mr. Cox wanted to ride rough-shod over the ratepayers.

Mr. Cox said the railway paid for the use of all the property up to Smith street. When these sidings were built there would not be nearly so much shunting on the main line as now. The Company were willing to take all the property up to Brock street. They would take Mr. Rowe's property at the assessed valuation.

Mr. Rowe—I don't want to sell my property at the assessed valuation.

Mr. Cox reminded them that the railway company were large property owners and large taxpayers, and were entitled to some consideration. They could not expect to keep all the streets for private residences. There must be business done or there would be no progress.

Mr. Paterson submitted a motion to read the by-law a first time and submit the same to the Finance Committee for legal advice, to report to the Council on Thursday evening.

Mr. Smith said while he would not sanction anything likely to be an injury to any property holder, he thought this matter might be amicably arranged. The railway, under Mr. Cox's management, had done a great deal for the town, and they were now preparing to build an elevator and effect other conveniences, and it appeared that when these sidings are built there would be even less shunting on the street than now. He could see no objection to the by-law if a clause were inserted that the company should keep the streets clear and not block up the crossings and would plank over the street where the sidings ran. The sidings would considerably facilitate the moving of freight and be a convenience to trade.

Mr. Cox said the company was quite willing to put in any provision that would be satisfactory to the Council.

Mr. Patterson said this matter had been up before, and the Council had resolved to give the necessary permission if the Company would settle with the property holders. They had bought the property, and he did not see how the Council could go back on their former resolution, but he would like to get legal advice.

Mr. Cox said the company was inclined to do this thing to the satisfaction of all parties, but they had bought the property and did not propose being beat out of it.

Mr. Rowe complained that they were raising the street.

Mr. Cahill did not not thing the raising of the street was any harm. It was rather a benefit than otherwise. He thought no harm would be done by waiting a few days.

Mr. Stevenson was heard and strongly expressed the opinion that the arrangement proposed by the railway would not do any harm but a great deal of good. He advised certain people to look at their neighbors' interests as well as their own.

Mr. Cox said he felt strongly that only the property-holders south of Hunter street, whose interests were affected, had anything to say about the matter, and the company had bought out those parties.

The motion of Mr. Paterson was carried.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Dunne, that the Treasurer and acting-Mayor be and are hereby authorized to make a note to the bank for the sum of $280 (being the amount paid for stones) the proceeds of said note to be placed to the credit of the Sinker and Bridge account, and to be repaid any time when funds are on hand.—Carried.

Acting-Mayor Dunsford drew the attention of the Council to a matter which he thought it would be well for them to consider. As they were aware the town was in debt to the Municipal loan fund debentures, but there would be from the money coming in from the railway, sufficient to pay off that in 1886 and to leave a surplus of some $15,000 on their hands. In view of this it was worth while to consider whether they might not anticipate that surplus by borrowing it in advance, for the purpose of constructing water works.

On motion the Council adjourned till Thursday evening.

ZOPESS.—We have secured the agency for this new compound for Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles. It comes to us under a most favourable auspices being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acid and carrying off impurities of the stomach, regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle which sells at 10 cents; or large eight ounce bottle, 75 cents. The Markets.

PETERBOROUGH, Oct. 28.

There has been little change to note in the state of the markets since last report. There was hardly any business done on Saturday owing to the violent storm, and the receipts of grain have been light owing to the rainy weather, and as a consequence prices have remained firm. Wheat sells at $1.10 to $1.11 per bushel. Barley 50c to 63c per bushel according to grade; No. 1 in good demand but scarce. Peas are firm at from 56c to 62c per bushel. Rye firm at 78c to 80c. Oats a shade lower, selling at 37c a bushel. The butter market shows no change. Large quantities continued to come in on Monday and Tuesday, and yesterday, market day, some 18,000 pounds were sold at from 18c to 22c a pound, according to quality. Hay has risen in prices, $10 a ton being paid for good quality yesterday; $9 is the average rate paid. In other supplies there is no change to note.

Given Up by the Doctors.

Where doctors have failed to cure, and given their up to die, Electric Bitters have often been used, and a cure effected, greatly to the astonishment of all. Diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs are positively cured by Electric Bitters. They invariably cure Constipation, Headache and all Billious Attacks. Try them and be convinced that they are the best medicine ever used. Sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a bottle.

SMOKE GOLD FLAKE CUT PLUG.

GOLD FLAKE

Our Cut Plug Smoking Tobacco is now put up in neat packages, and is made from the same choice leaf as our well known Gold Flake. (The very best Virginia leaf). It is packed in tins, and every tin contains a number of coupons, which entitle the purchaser to a handsome present (a list of which is in every package).

It is made from pure Virginia leaf only, neatly packed in handy packages, and is sold by all respectable dealers in all parts of the Dominion.

To the Printed Matter.

Fall comes, and you are turning the leaves,
And sighing as you gather under the eaves:
In the cold and dark
Where the spiders work,
From sunlight and from sky;
Dead as a door-nail! good-by! good-by!

You loved me, and you never asked how or why
Good-by, sweetheart! good-by! good-by!

Here we shall stay, away you will roam,
But through you come souls back to your home.
Last spring-time is o'er,
And comes never more;
In vain well entwrought. Is it worth a sigh?
Good-by, swallows! good-by! good-by!

Though the rose be gone, and our joy was vain,
In violet-time you will come again,
And the rose will bloom
From the last year's tomb;
And yet, and yet, I say, with a sob,
Good-by, sweetheart! good-by! good-by!

AGRICULTURAL.

Useful Hints to Farmers.

RAGS.—Never throw away rags because they are dirty, nor keep them in that state. Have them well washed. Clean rags are always useful in a family.

OATS AND WHEAT.—The sowing of a bushel of oats per acre, with the winter wheat, says the American Agriculturist has often proved of material benefit to the wheat crop. The oats grow more vigorously than the wheat and aid in catching and holding the snow. The oats act as a mulch or protection to the wheat. The little food the young oat plants draw from the soil is returned during the spring when, being killed by the winter, they rapidly decay.

HOW TO MANAGE HORSES.—If horses paw in the stable take a light chain and fasten it above the knee. Let it hang loose, just so it will not touch the floor. If horses kick in the stable fasten the chain on the hind leg the same way. They will keep quiet while the chain is on, and there is no danger of hurting them. To cure a halter-breaker, take a half-inch rope a little over twice the length of the horse, make a loop in the middle of the rope (so it cannot slip), pass the ends of the rope through the ring of the halter, and hitch the ends. When he tries to pull, the rope will slip through the rings and all the strain comes on his tail. I have seen several horses broken in this way.

DOES FARMING PAY?—This question continues to receive attention, but there can be little doubt that farming pays well if properly carried on. A practical demonstration is furnished by the Oshawa Vindicator. It says that twenty years ago a farmer and his wife settled on a farm in the vicinity of Oshawa and went to work. Circumstances led him to take stock a little while ago and he found that they were thirty-two thousand dollars better than when they started out in life twenty years before. They had worked hard, attended strictly to business, were economical and did not speculate. Still he had found time to take an active part in politics, and held office for some years in township and county councils.

DISEASES IN LIVE STOCK.—Dr. Wilson, veterinary surgeon, has sent the following replies to questions addressed to him by the Agricultural Commission:—"The diseases most prevalent are, in horses, those of the digestive and respiratory organs; in cattle, diseases of the digestive and respiratory organs and foot diseases. Sheep and swine are generally healthy. These diseases have been frequent, but when professionally treated have generally terminated favourably. I attribute their occurrence to changes of food, sudden changes of atmosphere, over-exertion, etc. I notice a tendency to the following diseases among thoroughbreds:—Heavy draught horses are subject to swelling of the limbs, grease heels, mallanders, and sallanders. Shorthorns are more liable to tuberculosis than other breeds of cattle. I believe the shorthorns to be more liable to tuberculosis, and the females of that breed to puerperal fever and apoplexy, than other breeds. As to the merits of Ontario as a stock raising country compared with other countries, I believe it can compete fairly with any other country within the scope of my knowledge. In warmer climates stock can be raised more cheaply, but they are more liable to diseases of a contagious nature."

CONTROLLING THE SEX OF FOWLS.—Both English and American poultry fanciers have experimented considerably for the purpose of establishing some method by which to control the sex of their pets. A late writer sums up the results of the experience of British breeders as follows:—1. A cockerel mated with not more than three adult hens will give, almost always, a larger number of male than female chicks—especially will this be the case with the earlier broods. Later broods will be more uncertain. 2. Mating an adult cock with not more than three pullets will be uncertain in its results, one sex is as likely as the other to predominate. 3. Mating an adult cock with five or more pullets will give an excess of pullets, but, as in the first instance, there will be most male birds from the earlier eggs. 4. Young birds, or adult birds mated together, will give uncertain results, but the fewer the hens and the more vigorous the cock, the greater will be the proportion of males, and they will be the most numerous from the early eggs. From what we learn from our own breeders, we think their general experience accords pretty closely with the above.

IMPROVED FARMING WANTED.—Russia is furnishing an instance of the effect on wheat production of bad farming, ending in soil exhaustion. Ten years ago that Empire considered itself the granary of Europe, and that it had control of the European markets. At that time its farseeing men had urged upon its peasants to change their mode of agriculture, professing what might come, but no heed was paid to them. A succession of failures of the harvest has since been witnessed and its export trade has been lessening for these ten years, and now even the peasantry have been startled by the news that Americas grain has been brought into the empire for its consumption, several cargoes having recently been landed in Revel. This had been partially brought about by a sort of Russian corner in grain, but as more is to follow, although the corner is broken, it is evident that the northern portion of Russia has not grown grain enough for its own consumption. Necessity must compel the adoption of scientific agriculture in that country, or it will be utterly ruined, for its chief dependence has been on its wheat crop.

THE LAW REGARDING MORTAGES.—An exchange directs attention to the fact that an Act passed at the last session of the Dominion Parliament, entitled: "an Act relating to interest on moneys secured by a mortgage on real estate," is now in full force and effect, and it behooves those interested to look into the provisions of the law and fully understand the important changes it authorizes. Some of the provisions are very important. By this Act, it is provided that mortgages payable by instalments must contain a statement showing the rate of interest chargeable under the contract, calculated yearly, not in advance. Fines on account of any delinquency in payment or principal or interest are forbidden, but compound interest at the rate stipulated for the simple interest may be recovered. These provisions are generally sound, and not calculated to interfere with the freedom of all parties to make their own bargains in the way best suited to their own needs, but intended only to prevent the unwary and ignorant from being imposed upon by the skilful. The fifth clause is a very important one. It provides that no matter how long a mortgage has been granted, it may be redeemed at the option of the borrower with no option to the lender. There is a clause which upon any construction is offset, and makes the Act only apply to transactions since the 1st July last.

HOW DOES WATER ENTER A TILE DRAIN.—It is generally supposed that the pores in drain tiles admit the water, but they do not; if they did they would as ordinary tubes transmit it very slowly. The end of the tiles are not perfectly smooth, and when they are placed in the close contact as possible, do not give a water-tight joint. Let us suppose the condition to be reversed, and we undertake to convey water to a distance in a pipe made of tiles laid as closely together as possible. Any one at all familiar with such matters will at once say that the water will leak out of the joints in passing through such a pipe but for a short distance. The manner in which the water in such a case would go out, allows us readily to understand how it really goes in—it passes through the joints, and will enter as readily as it will pass out. Water always enter tile or other drain from the bottom. The motion of the water as it stands in the soil is called the "water-table." When during rain water falls upon the surface, it at once soaks into the soil, passing by gravitation directly downwards, until it reaches the standing water representing the water-table. The water in the soil then rises until the water-table cuts the line of the tile, leaking in at the joints, when it begins to run off through the drain. If the water-table rises until it reaches the top of the tile, the drain will then run full, and the water will continue to run off by the drain until the water-table falls again to its bottom.

Useful Recipes.

FLANNEL CAKES.—Make sponge over night of a quart of good milk, two tablespoonfuls of good yeast, a little salt and flour for rather a thick batter. In the morning and a tablespoonful of melted butter and two thoroughly-beaten eggs. Bake on a griddle.

SMOKY WALLS.—Brush thoroughly with a broom; wash with strong pearlash water, rinsing at once with clean water. When this becomes thoroughly dry, give a thin coat of whitewash, having a liberal quantity of alum dissolved in it. When dry finish with whiting and good size.

POACHED EGGS WITH CREAM.—Add a tablespoonful of vinegar and a little salt to a frying-pan of hot water. Break the eggs carefully into this. Cook much or little as best liked, skim out carefully and place on buttered toast. Have a cup of milk heating in a sauce pan, thicken with a teaspoonful only of corn starch, add a large spoonful of butter, season with salt and pour over the eggs. This is a very nice tea-dish.

BRAWN.—Select a pig's head weighing six pounds. Wash and clean thoroughly (a good way is to soak in brine for 12 hours); stew with a pound of lean beef until the bones will slip out easily. Take from the liquor—there should be but little—remove with bones, chop the meat finely while hot; season with two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful of black pepper, a dash of cayenne, half a teaspoonful of mace and a teaspoonful of ground cloves. Mix thoroughly and press into bowls.

LEMON PIE.—The juice and grated rind of a large lemon, a cup of white sugar, two eggs, a teaspoonful of butter, a tablespoonful of corn starch, and a cup of boiling water. Beat well the yolks of the eggs, add the corn starch and mix smooth. Stir this into the boiling water; add the sugar, juice, rind and butter. Let the mixture thicken; then pour into a pie-dish lined with rich paste. Beat the whites (I almost always add an extra white) to a stiff froth; stir in two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, and spread over the top. Return to the oven till a pale brown.

Tea Table Recreation.

Whatever joys of life there are,
No matter if we have them all,
One well cooked meal is better far
Than seven motions on the wall.

Five dishes are enough, if made
With skilful and artistic care,
Eh, garcon, celery, cold roast beef,
Oh, shove your satin bill-of-fare.

Punch gives the following as an example of self-sacrifice: Boy (to lady visitor)—"Teacher, there is a gal over there a-winkin' at me!" Teacher—"Well, then, don't look at her." Boy—"But if I don't look at her, she'll wink at somebody else!"

When a politician announces that he will discuss the question of the hour, somehow or other all the "boys," whoever they are, expect him to begin with, "What will you take?" as the one great question that unifies parties and obliterates sectional lines.

Irascible and indignant father to flippant son—"You young scoundrel, how dare you speak to me like that? If I had said such a thing to my father he would have kicked me out of the house." Son—"Well, you must have had a pretty sort of a father." Old gent (in towering rage)—"He was a cursed sight better father than you've got!"

"Write carefully," says De Quincey, "You can never tell how much good your work may accomplish." No truer words were ever spoken. A man brought around a perfectly lovely poem about the sun-kissed leaves of September yesterday just as the office boy had built a fire in the grate and was looking for something to light it with.

"William, do you know why you are like a donkey?" "Like a donkey!" echoed William, opening his eyes wide. "No, I don't." "Do you give it up?" "I do." "Because your better half is stubbornness itself!" "That's not bad. Ha! ha! I'll give that to my wife when I get home." "My dear," he asked, as he sat down to supper, "do you know why I am like a donkey?" He waited a moment, expecting his wife to give it up. She looked at him somewhat commiseratingly as she answered, "I suppose because you were born so."

Joy Among the Children.

CORLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, is equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having the pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and which equals milk and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water." another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight;" you another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place or all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL," is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. HOOPER & LYMAN, Toronto.

PEITTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Piles, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

The american Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optics nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also, for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have been long threatened with a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe and effectual remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, avoiding the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of caustic minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. IT IS USED SUCCESSFULLY FOR PILES. Its soothing effect is immediate, and a permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. P. Pettit's American Eye-Salve" while making new and improved machinery for making one perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Out on the Wrapper, Circulars, advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Not the slightest Affinity exists between the nonsensical cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, is like itself and nothing else. It embodies the best results of advanced pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis, and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against the dreaded scurge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing, emollient action of the cod liver oil on the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of the elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 11, 1880.

THE "REVIEW" ON PROTECTION AND ITS RESULTS.

The readers of the Review must certainly peruse its columns of late with amusement if not with amazement. With growing audacity, that organ becomes more and more reckless in its attempts to uphold the tariff robbery, and to force down the throats of its readers, in the face of facts and common sense and their individual personal experience, that "Protection" is a blessing, and that they are in the full enjoyment of its beneficent results. Recently, however, it has been somewhat chary of boasting what "Protection" has done or is doing for the town; its industry, its mechanics, or its laborers, but has launched all its energy into the task of endeavoring to convince the farmers that the present price of wheat is the direct result of the tariff. The Huron Expositor caught our contemporary on the hip a few days ago by pointing out that wheat was higher in 1877 than now, though there was no duty; but our contemporary, with refreshing coolness, scorns the argument, and with powerful sarcasm asks "why not go back to the Russian tax?" The fact is, as any sensible man knows, that it is quite as reasonable to claim that the absence of duty regulated the price of wheat in 1877, as that a high-pressure tariff fixes the price in 1880. Next fall, if the speculations for wheat should unfortunately be lower than now, we should find our pliant contemporary contending with equal earnestness that the tariff had nothing to do with it. Taking its own argument, however, if the tariff affects the price of wheat, it must equally affect the price of barley. But barley is cheaper now than when before the tariff was put in operation, and therefore, according to Review logic, (which, as its readers know, is not of the soundest kind), the tariff robs the farmer on his barley of what it benefits him on his wheat. But we do not propose to enter upon a discussion of a question which there is not an intelligent farmer in Peterborough who does not thoroughly comprehend, nor is it necessary to engage in controversy with the, Review on the matter, because we know that it is not sincere in a word which it utters on this subject. It is simply playing a disreputable and hypocritical game to bamboozle the farmers, and distract their attention from the real evils they are suffering under the tariff robbery, by its foolish and ridiculous contention as to the price of wheat. And to convict the hypocrite, lest we be as usual accused of "falsehood," which in the inevitable howl of the Review when its ear is nailed to the pillory of exposure, we shall not offer any argument of our own, but will proceed to convict it out of its own mouth. In April 1870, the Review discussed the question of Protection vs Free Trade, on its merits, in a very able and impartial manner. At that time that question had not assumed a political aspect, the "N. P." fraud was still a political expedient not even yet in embryo, and its utterances are therefore to be taken as honest, candid, sincere and independent. Will our contemporary do us the favor to read the following from its own editorial columns, and then name upon it:

"PROTECTION AND FREE TRADE."

"AS A WHOLE WE BELIEVE THE PRESENT CANADIAN TARIFF (15 per cent.) DOES AFFORD INCIDENTALLY ALL THE PROTECTION WORTH ANY CLASS OF MANUFACTURES HAS OBTAINED IN THE COUNTRY IN ITS ANY REASONABLE SUSTED RESPONSE FOR THEIR DEVELOPMENT.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 11, 1880.

CABINET CHANGES.

Some eight months ago it was understood that the Minister of Militia had resolved to shake off the associations of a Cabinet whose personnel and policy were distasteful to a man of honor, and some time since it was announced that his resignation had been accepted. Last week we announced the elevation of Hon. Mr. Baby, Minister of Inland Revenue, from the Cabinet to a Judgeship. As now "reconstructed" Mr. Mousseau, the burly member for Beget, enters the Cabinet as President of the Privy Council, a post which as it carries neither influence nor patronage, we venture to say will not long content him. Mr. Caron, a young exquisite whose only claim to promotion is that he has squandered his patrimony in corrupting his constituency, enters the charmed circle as Minister of Militia, Sir Alexander Campbell basking out of that Department, and ousting poor John O'Connor from the office of Postmaster-General, and elbowing him into the somewhat bare post of Secretary of State, while Hon. Mr. Aikins, the renegade Reformer, gets the prize of the Ministry of Inland Revenue. That Sir John has had no little difficulty in satisfying his greedy followers, is evident from the fact that only a few days ago the Mail announced authoritively, that it was "understood that the places of the two gentlemen mentioned (Baby and Masson) will be filled by M.M. Chapleau and Caron." Mr. Langevin, however, would not consent to play second fiddle to Mr. Chapleau, and the latter refused to serve except as leader of his province, and it is believed made the retention of his contract-broking brother a condition of his entrance to the Cabinet, while the Montreal section of the Tory party were indignant at the attempt to deprive them of a representative in the Government, so that the plans had to be changed to Mr. Caron's profit and Mr. Mousseau's satisfaction. The latter is a man of force and ability, as was shown by his persistence in forcing Sir John to swallow the Letellier pill; but his advancement gives the Quebec prominence in the Cabinet a still more dangerous aspect, since Mr. Mousseau is an extreme Ultramontane, and is pledged, with Mr. Langevin, to reconstruct the Supreme Court, so that Clerical intimidation may be dealt with in election cases as a legitimate means of coercing electors to become the recording machines of the hierarchy. It must be gratifying to the Governor-General to have presiding at his Cabinet a man whose principal claim, as advanced by the Mail, is that he "took a leading part in the Letellier matter." It is a fact worthy of note that since the secession of the present Government they have abolished one Cabinet office and created three, and that of the fifteen members of the Cabinet only five retain the portfolios upon which they originally entered; and that while heretofore the Montreal District has had two members of the Cabinet holding the influential portfolios of Militia and Inland Revenue, the Quebec district has now been given those of Militia and Public Works, Montreal having only the empty honor of the Presidency of the Council. We may confidently predict that such a state of affairs will not last long without a serious commotion in the Tory camp.

FRENCH CANADIAN DOMINATION.

The Mail offers to treat lightly our pointing out the danger which is looming up, in the consolidation of the French Canadian vote in Quebec, with the prospect of Conservative rule continued with minorities from the other provinces, after the next elections. The Mail knows well that this Province has had its experience of the reckless financial policy of the present Ministry, and that the farmers of Ontario have awakened from the delusion that the buncted schemes of "protection" was to place them on the high road to wealth and prosperity. Nothing can be more certain than that a general election in this Province to-morrow, next year, or in 1883, will restore the ascendancy of Liberal principles, and a sound British economic policy, in Ontario representation. Those who are familiar with Sir John Macdonald's tactics can read plainly the shaping of political events. He has sufficient British Columbia power at the disposal, to dip generally provincial patronage, of can at once dissolve the Dominion Parliament, and by the same means himself secure a majority of Quebec members, of the type of Messrs. Whiting and Ryan, who will vote at Ottawa for any Conservative policy, with his "solid Quebec" Tory majority behind.

EDITORIAL JOTTINGS.

PARLIAMENT HAS BEEN summoned to meet for the despatch of business on the 9th of December next.

WRITS FOR ELECTIONS, in Bagot and Quebec counties, necessitated by the acceptance of office of Messrs. Caron and Mousseau, have been issued, and nominations will take place on the 20th inst.

WHEN SIR SAMUEL TILLEY visited the Stratford industries the other day, he took the cars to Messrs. Thompson & Williams' establishment. Here the Finance Minister found a sign of the "ham" in the shape of a Sheriff's officer in charge, and beat a hasty retreat.

WE REGRET TO HAVE to announce the death which took place at Woodstock on Tuesday, suddenly of heart disease, of Mr. Thomas Oliver M. P. for North Oxford. Mr. Oliver was a staunch Liberal and one of the ablest of the western members. He was elected for the Ontario Assembly in 1867, and for the House of Commons in 1872, 1874 and 1878.

AT THE Baptist Union in Toronto it was freely mentioned by a number of ministers, that, since the cost of living had gone up under the National Policy, they found it a harder task to raise money for foreign missions and other church objects, than during the severest period of commercial depression. Bringing the subject home pointedly and practically, one prominent minister stated that in his own household he found that the National Policy had cost him an extra $200 a year.

SIR SAMUEL TILLEY is visiting Port Hope and Millbrook to-day. Will not Mr. Hilliard ask him up to Peterborough? We will undertake to drop politics in connection with the visit, and give him a cordial welcome if he will give us in return some definite promise on behalf of the Government in favor of the Trent Valley Canal. As the "cold water" man of the Ministry it is most fitting that he should deal with this question, though we shouldn't by any means like to see him throw cold water on it.

MR. RICHES, Q. C., of Montreal, is one of the leading Conservatives of that city, but being a relative of Mr. Fisher, the Liberal candidate in Brome, he voted and supported him, whereupon Mr. White of the Montreal Gazette, charged him with being a traitor, and having used bribery and corruption in that election. Mr. Richie promptly offered to give $100 for each case of bribery that could be proved in Mr. Fisher's behalf, on which the Gazette shuts up like an oyster. "Birds in their little nests agree," etc.

THE TORONTO World very pertinently sums up Sir Samuel Tilley's wanderings to and fro, and up and down the Dominion, as follows: "Having planted himself in the vacant seat of Finance Minister after the National Policy battle had been fought and won, he has enjoyed the fruits of other men's labors; and now he is taking the best course to identify himself in the minds of the people with the great distinctive feature of the Conservative policy, though he had as little to do with the conception of that policy as Sir Richard Cartwright himself."

ALAS POOR TUPPER! This is the unkindest cut of all. The Peterborough Review has been forced to this conclusion, editorially announced:—"We are disposed to rejoice at the prospect of its transference to the hands of a private company from those of the Government. "Whatever may be the result of the investigation now going on before Judge "Clarke and his colleagues, IT IS EVIDENT "THAT THE SOONER ITS CONSTRUCTION IS "SO TRANSFERRED THE BETTER FOR "THE MORALITY AS WELL AS THE "FINANCES OF THE COUNTRY." Under the new arrangements there are no more contracts to be advertised, and this is the reward, the Minister of Railways receives for past favors. "How sharper than a serpents tooth," etc.

THE EVIDENCE of Col. Smith before the P. R. Commission proved that Andrews, Jones & Co. did not take the contract for the portion of the railway they completed for, because, though they had $160,000 up to carrying, Sir Charles Tupper would not affirm" them were then three days to put up the balance. The contract then fell into the hands of Tupper's friends, Fraser, Gault & Fleteher, and the world will pass the country the price of $300,000 that Smith would have, had the Minister given Andrews, Jones & Co. a reasonable chance of completing their contract. Such a quarter of a million is trifling to the "great stretcher," as Tupper, as it comes out of the pockets of the people, and lines the wallets of his friends.

Trelle, Ireland, Nov. 5.—One hundred men, properly armed, marching in military order, traversed an estate last night, forcing the tenants to swear not to pay above a certain amount of rent.

London, November 5.—Yesterday an armed party attacked the dwelling of Mr. Lon at Coshen, County Clare, and, having made Mr. Long a prisoner, took him into his farmyard and proceeded to lecture him. Among other indignities inflicted they cut off his ears, and then left him, more dead than alive, to find his way into his house and send for assistance. It is believed that the outrage was committed in revenge for Long's act in bidding for and occupying a farm from which the former tenant had been evicted.

The enemy advanced in great numbers, compelling the Colonel to retreat in an orderly manner and relinquish his position. The Tembus are now in open rebellion. Reinforcements are being sent to all important points.

TURKEY.

London, Nov. 5.—A Constantinople despatch announces that Riahn Pasha has telegraphed to the Porte that a conflict with the Albanians may be expected.

A Cettinje despatch says the Turks and Albanians have drawn an almost impenetrable cordon around their territory, and rendered it most difficult for information to be conveyed from Scutari.

The attempt made by the Porte to bolster up its credit by getting British official sanction to a new Ottoman loan has failed. So anxious was the Turkish Government to obtain this that a special envoy was sent here from Constantinople.

The returns from all the States indicate less popular vote for Fraudeau this year than the largest ever cast, probably between eight and nine millions. Eliminating the majorities given in the various states, and allowing for the per centage in the increase in votes since 1876 that most of these reports, Hancock would have about 4,200,000 votes and Garfield 4,350,000.

The Times estimates that the House will be composed of 163 Republicans, 134 Democrats, and 4 Greenbackers, with three seats in doubt. The republicans will have in the next Senate thirty-seven members and the Democrats the same number, not counting Davis, or Illinois, and Mahone, of Virginia. The Republican conceden the Republican a probable majority of from 7 to 11 in the House, with Mahone holding the balance of power in the Senate. The Tribune claims a Republican majority of 11 in the House and allows the Democrats 3 majority in the Senate.

The Biddulph Prisoners.

A Trial by Special Commissioner—No Change of Venue.

It has been ascertained that the Attorney General has communicated with the judges in regard to the special commission to try the Biddulph prisoners, but as yet no answer has been given. There being no prospect of the prisoners being liberated on bail at present, the Attorney General has decided to have them tried by a special commission, and the preliminary steps towards carrying this out are now taken. There will be no change of venue. The judges will not demand it in the face of the decision already given. Should the crown counsel demand a change the matter would have to be argued over again. The Attorney-general has no desire to keep the prisoners in goal until next spring, hence some movement in the matter may be looked for before many days.

Walter Scott, who lived near Fraserville, was found dead on Friday morning, under the Port Hope viaduct. Deceased was at Cobourg on Thursday, with his brother, Mr. Adam Scott, of Millbrook, and returned to Port Hope in the evening. By some it is supposed the deceased got off the express while she was stopping on the bridge previous to her entry to the station. As, however, it seems not at all certain that the train stopped on the bridge, possibly the conjecture of others that he mistook the G. T. track for the Midland in coming down town in the darkness of the night, and that seeing a train stopped on one side and fell over, may be more correct. His body was taken in charge by his friends who were sent for.

THE ST. LOUIS Courier-Democrat, referring to the recent marriage of the aged Czar to his mistress, says:—"When we strip royalty of its trappings, of its tinsel crown and its pinchbeck, we see too often only what the Czar has shown us in his recent marriage—a weak and embecile old age crowning with derision and disgrace the remnant of a wasted and profligate life." Few Courts of the present century have preserved the same degree of freedom from licentiousness which has characterized the reign of Queen Victoria, and it is very questionable if in this progressive age the traditional English respect for the First Estate would long endure a return to the immoralities of the time of George IV. or Charles II.

THE ELECTIONS IN THE United States have resulted in the election to the Presidency of Gen. Garfield, and to the vice-Presidency of Mr. Arthur, the Republican candidates, by a large majority of the votes of the electoral college, though in the popular vote Gen. Hancock polled a considerable majority. The result is due to the weakness of the Democratic managers in yielding to the disreputable Tammany element. The ascendancy given to the influence of John Kelly drove back to their own ranks, honest Republicans who were prepared to support Gen. Hancock at the outset of the campaign, and so disgusted the better class of the Democratic party proper, that their stronghold, New York, with its thirty-five votes in the electoral College, went for the Republican nominee. One result of the elections is to teach the Grant enthusiasts that the Republican party can live without him, and that their chances of success are proportionately greater, as the influence of Grantism becomes of less consequence as a political factor.

"Yours truly,
"GEO. A. COX, President."

The election of officers took place with the following result:—President, C. A. Weller; Vice-do., A. P. Ferguson; Secretary, R. B. Edwards; Trustees, Geo. Edmison and W. H. Moore. Heather, Chaplain; R. Hamilton Secretary; Miss Alma Lamarsh, Financial Secretary; D. Pentland, Treasurer; W. H. White, Marshall; Miss Jane Baller, Inside Guard; Miss Linda Fanning and S. G. Owens, Supporters; Miss Linda Heather, Organist. The Financial Committee appointed at a previous meeting reported that if all the members would pay up their dues there would be sufficient funds to free the Lodge from debt.

A very enjoyable entertainment was given at Friendship Temple on Tuesday evening last, consisting of readings and music, and more substantial attractions in the shape of an oyster supper and prize drawing. Though the weather was unfavorable there was a good attendance. Mr. W. G. Kelsey filled the chair with his accustomed geniality, Miss Cobb presiding at the organ. The programme consisted of music by the Lodge choir, readings by Messrs J. R. Cobb and Wm. Strain, and songs by John Callaghan and D. Donaghue, and Miss Mayhew. The prize drawing was won by a little boy named James King, who secured a handsome bronzed vase of flowers, valued at $15. After a pleasant evening the meeting was closed in the usual manner.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Institute held on Thursday evening last, Rev. Mr. Clement, Vice-President, in the chair, the Chairman stated the object of the meeting, to appoint a successor as President to the late George E. Shaw.; He spoke highly of the favorable services rendered to the Institute by the late President, and stated that he would not act upon the provision of the By-Laws, which made the First Vice-President ipso facto President for the balance of the term.

On motion of Mr. F. J. Lewis, seconded by Mr. W. English, a resolution embodying the appreciation of the Institute of the services of the late President, their sense of the loss sustained by his removal, and of condolence with the family of deceased in their affliction, was carried, and the Secretary instructed to forward a copy of the same to Mrs. Shaw.

Mr. F. J. Lewis was unanimously elected President, and Mr. J. Jardine Director in the place of Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Clement read a letter from the Minister of Education, with whom he had had some correspondence on the subject, stating that he was maturing a scheme for the management of Mechanics' Institutes, embodying the organization of Schools of Art and Design.

It was resolved that works of reference in the library required for consultation in the library must be conveyed in charge of the custodian, and that any non-member should be charged $1 for search of such works.

The subject of instituting a museum was discussed in an informal way, and at the suggestion of Mr. Jeffers a room was granted for instruction in drill and gymnastics, to be lighted and heated at the expense of the instructor, when the Board adjourned.

Trent Navigation Improvements.

The improvements which have been in progress during the summer, under direction of the Engineer in charge of the Trent Works, have been completed in a very thorough and satisfactory manner. The boulders in the channel of the Otonabee at the Yankee Bonnet, and a couple of miles below at Bangerfield, have been removed, making the channel free from obstructions, with the same draught of water as the lower sills of the locks. At the Hastings dam more extensive works were necessary. It appears that when the dam was first constructed the bats of the rafters were not firmly set to the rock, leaving 6 leakages under the dam, which by the action of the water was constantly increased, until it seriously affected the regulation and supply of water. In order to get at the work to make the necessary repairs it was necessary to the chet of the water entirely. To accomplish this, besides that of adopting the slow and expensive method of coffer-damming, Mr. Belcher went two miles up the river from Hastings to where the water upon the flat rock across the river was comparatively shallow, and built an ordinary lumberman's dam, which completely shut off the supply of water and gave access to the work. The only position would be that speedy accumulation of the waters from the Otonabee would soon burst this barrier, but when the vast area of surface from the head of Rice Lake to Hastings is taken into account, it is seen that considerable time must elapse to fill up that area to the height of even two or three inches, and in this time the work was prosecuted. The bed rock was levelled, the planking brought down tightly to the rock, the joint was carefully puddled, on which was placed a formation of concrete, and that again covered with gravel, making the dam perfectly water-tight for a half century to come. While this work was being performed the Superintendent took advantage of the occasion to deepen the channel for half a mile above the locks to a uniform depth of 5 feet, a work which will materially improve the navigation, and save much time trouble and expense in subsequent improvements, when the Trent Valley navigation system is adopted by Sir Charles Tupper. We believe it is the intention of the Superintendent in his report to the Department of Ottawa, to recommend the permanent improvement of a river dredge for these waters, and it is to be hoped the suggestion will be acted upon. It could be constantly used profitably in removing boulders, improving the channel, and would be a great advantage in taking away the accumulations of sawdust which are rotting the river. Indeed it seems a thing of the kind to be done soon, it will shortly become impossible for a steamboat to land freight or passengers at Peterborough.

IN MEMORIAM.

Written for the Examiner.

On the night of the 25th of August, at the residence of her son-in-law, G. Morrison, Peterborough, after a long illness borne with sweet resignation, the beloved wife of John W. Fife, Asphodel, fell peacefully asleep and awoke in the purpotted mansions of Christ's presence. In accordance with her written the V Chapter II Cor., and XLI. PARALEMEIAN were read and sung at the funeral service, conducted by her esteemed pastor, Rev. T. F. Fotheringham, in the Presbyterian Church, Norwood.

When the Christian's will and his Father's Harmonize perfectly in one,
Then is the heart bathed in light
God's promises, His will is done.
So sometimes, when dark clouds of sorrow
Overshadow us in our bitter bereavement
While Resentment over the loss
Of her that all others loved dearer, "
"Yes, our Father, Thy will be done.—
'It is well' with us who are stricken
'It is well' with the one who is gone.

You miss her, but think of the glory
In exchange for what she has won;
Look upward to where she is resting
In arms of the Everlasting Son.
Think of the rapturous reunion
That shall exist with the Savior above;
Or, joy in reunion in regions
Of perfect love;
The power of redemption love;
Oh, let it be the theme of your thinking
With thanks who acknowledge sing,
As they sing on the crystalline beauty
Of the City of the King.

No faltering hope, but assurance
Most joyous was here—she said,
"On Him has my trust been reposed,
I know" she replied, when we whispered
"If He will will never forget."
My soul to His blest presence taken
Shall be with Him in eternal rest."
Then she fell asleep, the unconscious
Of the pain that preceded death's dawn,
He drew us with love by bestowing
Upon us the crown of His Crown.

Though lasting sorrow fills our heart to overflow,
Yet we know that God's will is best,
And we will not murmur or complain
But bow submissive at His feet,
Saying, Father, Thy will be done.
Though we miss her from our home,

FAREWELL DINNER.

On Tuesday evening last, Mr. James Wright, who is removing to Campbellford, was entertained at an impromptu spread by a number of his friends, at Mr. Chatterbox's restaurant, where an excellent table and menu of the most luxurious of Strychnos had been prepared for the occasion by Mr. Morgan, who acts as major domo in absence of Mr. Chamberlain. The chair was occupied by Dr. Kincaid, with the guest of the evening on his right, Mr. George Edmison occupying the vice-chair. Among those present were Messrs. Alex. Beagle, James Stevens, D. Galletly, W. Cummings, A. Mercer, J. Thompson, Mr. Stewart, and others.

The usual loyal and patriotic toasts were given by the Chairman, with appropriate extraordinary remarks, and acknowledged in the customary enthusiastic manner.

On proposing the toast of the evening, the Chairman said he had not been aware that he was to occupy that position, but what he had to say he could say from his heart. He had known Mr. Wright as a citizen of Peterborough for over sixteen years, and thought he could safely say that in leaving the town now, he did not leave a single enemy behind. During them years he (Mr. Wright) had had business of our most industrious citizens. He had gladdened others, lighting the hardest of life through commercial ups and downs, and he was glad to say he was now coming to the front as one of our leading manufacturers. Without reference to their political creeds, the health of the toast was a wide field in Canada, for none of Mr. Wright's ability and experience, and he was glad that with that knowledge and ability he was able to take the tide at its flow, and hoped he would go on and prosper until he became one of the wealthiest and most influential of our commissioners. There there assembled, and hear deeds of others would unite in wishing him God speed in his new home. They desired to show him, before he left, that they honored and esteemed him as a good citizen and a warm-hearted friend, and he was sure whenever he showed his face in Peterborough again, we should all be glad to welcome him back, and to invite him to a place at our firesides. He paid a warm tribute to Mrs. Wright for her womanly and Christian virtues, and would only say that while Peterborough lost two worthy citizens by their departure, the place they were going to would gain two citizens they might be proud of. The toast was enthusiastically honored and was briefly responded to by Mr. Wright, who thanked them warmly for their good wishes, and said he could not find words to express his appreciation of such a substantial token of regard as had been conveyed to him through the Chairman. Though going to another town he did not intend to leave Peterborough permanently. He hoped to be able to pay them a visit occasionally. If he was leaving this town for good he could assure them it would be with a sore heart. He thanked them again for their generous wishes and expressions.

After a song by Mr. Stewart,

"Our Agricultural and Manufacturing Interests" were toasted and responded to by Messrs. Baptie and Whyte.

Mr. Galletly gave a song, when the "Learned Professions" were honored, and answered for by Dr. Kincaid and Mr. Edmison, the latter of whom paid a high tribute to the system of education which prevailed to this country, and to which was due whatever of professional distinction had been attained.

"The Mayor and Corporation," was responded to by Mr. Cummings, ex-Councillor Baptie and Dr. Kincaid.

"The Press" found a representative in Mr. Brock, of the EXAMINER.

"The Ladies" were heartily answered for by Mr. James Thompson.

Mr. Brock proposed the health of the Chairman, who responded in an eloquent manner, and in turn proposed the health of the Vice-Chairman, which was acknowledged by Mr. Edmison in an appropriate and interesting speech.

The health of the host was responded to by Mr. Martin, whose speech however was not half as good as his oysters, and the company separated at 12 o'clock, after singing "Auld Lang Syne," in approved orthodox manner.

SPORTING NOTES.

THE TURF.

At a meeting of the Newcastle Driving Club, Oct. 25th, 1880, it was resolved:—"That it would be in the interest of Windsor Agriculturists and horse owners to call a meeting of representatives of Clubs from Toronto to Belleville, to form a Central Circuit, and, if possible, to prevent clashing, such as we have had before." A meeting for the above purpose will be held at the St. Lawrence Hall, Port Hope, on Dec. 1st, 1880, at 11 a.m. Dr. Conor wishes to be notified by Nov. 25th of the clubs willing to take part in it, and the names of the delegates. Are there no "fixers" in Peterborough? The formation of a Turf Club at Peterborough, and the establishment of regular meets would be attended with advantage to the town.

AQUATICS.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—In the race between Laycock, the Australian sculler, and Riley, of Saratoga, for two hundred pounds a side over the Thames championship course, Laycock defeated Riley by several lengths. Riley backed himself freely yesterday against Laycock, accepting two to one on the sculling match between them, rowed to-day on the championship course. Trickett laid Riley $40 to $20 on the result.

The Sporting Times says Laycock stands in the same relation to Trickett as Hanlan to Riley. If so, the outlook is bad for our boy. A weak will tell.

The Toronto Mail's correspondent telegraphs on the 6th:—"It was fully anticipated that to-day's race would make the Antipodean the favorite for the championship contest, but the public apparently decline to believe that either Hosmer's form or Riley's is any criterion for the Canadian's. My opinion now is that neither effort of a complete break-down in his training next week will displace Hanlan from the position he holds in the betting, and that, after all even two to one may again be laid on him before the start. At present your representative is in splendid health and glorious spirits."

THE RIFLE.

Capt. Edwards' Company, No. 1 Peterborough Rangers, not being satisfied that the result of the annual match held last month, at which Keene Company carried off Colonel Rogers' cup, for best score in company match, was a fair criterion of the relative merits of the two companies, sent a friendly challenge to fire a match on Thanksgiving Day, each company at its own headquarters. Capt. Dunn accepted Capt. Edwards' challenge, and the match came off with the following result:—

NO. 4 COMPANY, KEENE.

	200 yds.	400 yds.	600 yds.	Total.
Capt. Dunn	8	12	11	31
Lt. Crandell	6	12	6	24
Pt. Metcalf	6	15	10	31
Pt. McNeil	6	12	4	22
Pt. Landreville	10	13	2	24
Total each range	36	74	33	133

NO. 1 COMPANY, PETERBOROUGH.

	200 yds.	400 yds.	600 yds.	Total.
Capt. Edwards	11	11	9	31
Col.-Sgt. Cooke	10	14	9	33
Sergt. Hilson	12	9	8	29
Pte. Bennett	12	10	11	33
Pte. Spratt	10	10	5	25
Total each range	60	70	33	151

On the same day a competition took place in in the same firing among members of No. 1 Company, for prizes raised by themselves, the following being the winners:—Pte. Bennett, 44 points, $5.00; Col.-Sergt. Cooke, 35 points, $3.00; Capt. Edwards, 33 points, $2.00.

FOOTBALL.

On Thanksgiving Day a game of football, Association rules, took place between the Peterborough and Port Hope Clubs, the following being the representative 20s of rival parties:—Port Hope—Messrs. Hutson, Lewis, Dayton, Hoig, Beaty, Bradley, Carvell, McNeely, Nicholls, Marshall, Cummings and Armstrong. Peterborough.—Messrs. R. B. Rogers, G. C. Rogers, W. H. Beddis, J. Snyder, W. J. Talbot, S. M. Orr, Mac. Hamilton, A. B. Rogers, E. A. Peck, W. A. Stratton, G. F. Stacey and E. Carnegie. The game was pretty evenly contested, till by an unfortunate accident, Mr. R. B. Rogers, Peterborough's "stopper," received a kick on the leg which unfortunately broke one of the small bones, and considered him to quit the field. Mr. J. G. Macdonald, of the Review, who was acting as Umpire, was induced to take his place, and made a very good substitute. Port Hope scored one goal, and the second game was unfinished when time was called. In the afternoon at 3.30, Master Walter Rogers having taken the place of the disabled kicker, the Peterborough team played a game, Rugby Rules, with a team from Trinity College, Peterborough did well, but the constant practice of the College made itself apparent, the latter winning four straight games. Mr. J. C. Logan, referee. Peterborough brought home its wounded and crippled by the evening train.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVE 11, 1880.

The Agricultural Shows Question.

We select the following extracts from contemporaries from a host of similar expressions in nearly every County in the Province, as fairly indicating the drift of public opinion in regard to the subject of reorganizing our system of public encouragement to agricultural fairs. The suggestion of the Prescott Telegraph, that the Agricultural Commission should report upon this subject, is a good one, and we trust the Commission will act upon it:

The St. Thomas Times joins the economy crusade and says the payment of $10,000 a year to the provincial exhibition must cease. The local shows do just as good work without any provincial assistance.

The Almonte Gazette says:—"The Dundas Banner is about right when it says there are too many fall shows, and that such a large number are not profitable. A large majority of the county shows were absolute failures, and the large ones were not much better."

The Hastings Star says:—"We are glad to find that the feeling is rapidly growing that this show business is altogether overdone, and that their number could be curtailed with very great advantage. The only people who really benefit by their multiplying are the hotel keepers of the several villages in which they are held."

The Sentinel-Star says:—"If the views of the Peterboro Review, and the Lindsay Warder, are those of the members of the Agricultural Societies of the counties of Victoria and Peterboro', the days of the Central are deemed giving a more urgent reason why the front counties should unite under some scheme." We apprehend our Cobourg contemporary refers to the EXAMINER, instead of the Review, as the proprietor of the latter has too good a thing in connection with the Central to want to extinguish it.

The Liscard Banner is of the opinion that a union of several townships, irrespective of county limits, offers the best solution to the question under consideration, and thinks that if the Government grant was withheld till a society came up to a certain standard "the struggle for existence" would soon decide what localities possessed sufficient vital energy to maintain a useful organization, and the question for choosing a place for holding the Exhibition would be decided by the force of circumstances.

The Lindsay Warder quotes from the EXAMINER, and adds:—"We trust that our agricultural friends will keep the subject alive and give it that consideration it deserves, so that at the annual meeting of the various societies some determined action may be taken. Petty local jealousies ought not to weigh, although we are afraid they somewhat will, in a matter of this kind. The advisability of abolishing township shows being already conceded, it does not seem to us a difficult matter to unite on some broad scheme that would eventually redound to the incalculable benefit to the agricultural community at "large."

The Prescott Telegraph says:—Our contemporary, the Peterborough EXAMINER has an able article in its last issue advocating ideas much the same as those set forth in the last issue of the Telegraph, namely the abolition of all township fairs, to be replaced by one fair for each county. There is no denying the fact that the majority of township shows have outlived their usefulness, and if the money now expended in grants to these institutions were united in one grant to aid a county show, the result would be that prizes so large could be offered that it would encourage a competition among agriculturists that can never be attained under the present system. This subject is one which the Ontario Agricultural Commission should examine into and report upon.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"It seems that the Provincial Fair having almost outlived its usefulness, might with propriety abolished, and the greater part of the money so saved applied towards aiding Central Fairs in the various districts of the provinces. We would also suggest the abolition of the districts as now constituted and of their annual Fairs and of the township fairs as well, except in the case of townships so remote from the county town as to render it impossible for articles to be conveniently transported thither for exhibition. The money now granted to the exhibitions so legislated out of existence to be, with that saved by the abolition of the Provincial, applied to the Central or District Fairs as above indicated."

The Colborne Express says:—The Peterborough EXAMINER advocates the abolition of the Provincial Fairs and also of the Township and Riding Fairs, and the concentration of all the energy, labor, and money thus saved upon County Exhibitions. * * * What we need is prizes of sufficient value, pecuniary and honorary, to arouse genuine, whole-souled, enthusiastic competition, and how can this be secured without shutting off all the little by-streams of energy, effort and expense, and uniting them in a broader and stronger current? A County Fair, held centrally, would draw together everything worth showing, and the money now annually spent in the various Township Shows, would, if combined, make the County Exhibitition a grand success."

Alexander The Great wept because there were no more worlds to conquer, but the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines who have found it necessary to establish a branch of the World's Dispensary at London, England, in order to supply from that great commercial emporium these remedial blessings to foreign countries, where they are largely in demand, do not share the great conqueror's sentiments, as their conquests are of disease and have made happy not only the conquerer but the people who employ them. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all blood and skin diseases, scrofulous affections, swellings and internal soreness. Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the little giant cathartic; Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart-Weed, the great remedy for colds and all bowel affections as diarrhœa, dysentery and flux. Wellington Young, who has already served terms in the Central Prison and Kingston Penitentiary, and who was arrested recently for stealing a horse and other goods, was last week committed for trial at Napanee.

John Frost, jr., of Port Hope, left home suddenly about three weeks ago. From Montreal he sent for money to come home with, and subsequently sent word that he was leaving for England. On Monday his parents received word that the dead body of their boy was at Quebec.

At Omemee on Oct. 26rd, John Read was fined and bound over to keep the peace for beating his wife. The parties occupy a good position in society, Read having formerly been a leading merchant. He failed, and resorted to dissipation, when his wife left him. He induced her to live with him again with the above result.

About four weeks ago Jas. Shannon, an old resident of Cobourg, went to Port Hope and took passage in a schooner for Oswego. No news being heard from him his son William went to Oswego, led by a description of a man found drowned there. It proved to be his father, and the remains were brought home to Cobourg for burial.

Nearly all diseases have their origin in impure blood and improper action of the liver. Cleanse the blood, regulate the bowels, and keep the glandular system in healthy action by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, and sickness will be a stranger in your household. Burdock Blood Bitters is sold by all dealers at one dollar per bottle. 44-52ins.

A WORLD OF GOOD.—One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other Bitters as it is not a whiskey drink. It is more like the old fashioned teas set too that has done a world of good. If you don't just feel right try Hop Bitters.—Pacific Hom. 44-52ins

HUMBUGGED AGAIN.—I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and never well, tempted me so earnestly to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months use of the Bitters my wife was cured and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T., St. Paul.—Pioneer Press. 44-52ins.

Joy Among the Children.

CLEGLAND'S SYRUP CASTOR OIL, equally palatable for children and adults. Prepared by comp. Cleland, Druggist, Peterborough, Ont. Sold by country dealers in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having the pleasant taste more, induced T. Cleland to manufacture Syrup of Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medicinal qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water;" another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your Syrup Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought forward imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against subjections (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "CLELAND'S SYRUP CASTOR OIL, is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Cleland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto.

NO RISK.

Thompson's Eclectric Oil! Worth Ten Times Its Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common SORE THROAT. One bottle has cured BRONCHITIS. Fifty cents' worth has cured an OLD STANDING COUGH. One or two bottles cures bad cases of PILES or KIDNEY TROUBLE. Six to eight applications cure ANY CASE of ENDURATED NIPPLES or INFLAMED BREAST. One bottle has cured LAME BACK of eight years standing. Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Yorge County, Pa., says: "I was thirty miles for a bottle at your Oil, which affected a speedy cure on a Chronic LAME, by six applications."—Another who had had ASTHMA for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get more."——Rufus Robinson, of Nunda, N.Y., writes: "One small bottle of your ECLECTRIC OIL restored the voice wh re the person had not spoken above a whe per in FIVE YEARS."——Rev. J. Mallory, of Ieyoming, N. Y., writes: Your ECLECTRIC OIL cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of SIX OF THE BEST OILS THAT ARE KNOWN. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasurably superior to anything ever made. Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrical.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, as like itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of advanced pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis, and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of these elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 18, 1880.

EQUALISING SHERIFFS' FEES.

It seems not unlikely that the subject of equalising the emoluments of sheriffs in the Province, will come up for legislation at the approaching session of the Ontario Legislature, and it is certain that it is high time that the question were dealt with. As it was formerly with the office of Registrar, many of these officials are in receipt of princely incomes, ranging from $10,000 to $15,000 a year, while others do not reach four figures. Mr. Sheriff McKellar, of Wentworth, has been during the past three years devoting close attention to this subject, and has embodied the results of his investigations in a pamphlet that presents some very strong arguments, which will, no doubt, be duly considered in dealing with this question. Mr. McKellar claims, and proves his position very fairly, that his object is not to increase the profits of shrievalties, but to equalise the salaries of the sheriffs, and at the same time effect a saving to the public, the only parties who will be prejudicially affected by the carrying out of his proposition being lawyers and Division Court bailiffs, who are now improperly performing the functions of sheriffs' officers. Lawyers are legally empowered to issue all papers in Superior and County Courts, and entitled to receive a legal tariff of fees therefor; sheriffs are compelled by law to serve all papers in those courts which require personal service, and it is contended that unless the sheriff has failed to do his duty, no other person has the right to perform the service. Mr. McKellar claims that, under the present practice, lawyers serve about one half of the papers issued out of the Superior and County Courts, depriving the sheriffs of fees to the amount of upwards of $20,000 a year, and he maintains that the lawyers charge litigants for these services more than twice as much as sheriffs' fees would cost them. It is proposed to reserve exclusively, or in all but exceptional cases, to the sheriff the right to serve these processes, to reduce the rates of the tariff of charges now current, and to transfer the fees now obtained by lawyers and Division Court bailiffs, to the poorer sheriffs. He proposes that sheriffs in receipt of over $3,500 a year shall pay to the Government a graduated per centage, increasing as the emoluments are more excessive, from which fund the salaries of sheriffs in receipt of less than $3,000 a year shall be supplemented. As the lawyers would be to some extent affected by the carrying out of this proposition, no doubt their side of the question will be heard from; but as the legal fraternity number seventeen members in the Assembly, and as the privileges of their class will receive the support of ten M. D.'s, their interests will not be likely to suffer. That there is an injustice to be remedied is evident from the vast disparity between the salaries of various sheriffs, and whether Mr. McKellar's plan be adopted in whole or in part, it is to be hoped the Government will apply themselves to an equitable solution of the present anomalous system of remunerating these officials.

THE FREE MARKET QUESTION.

The following is the form of petition adopted by the Stanford Farmers' Association for presentation at the next session of the Ontario Legislature:—

"That the power now possessed by cities, towns and villages to levy a tax upon farm products imported for sale within their limits is contrary to the free interchange of commodities which should exist between town and country, and that the continuance of such power is injurious to the interests of the farming community.

"That it is not proper to levy a municipal tax upon the produce of that land. A farmer's income is not taxed by his own municipality, and ought not to be taxed by any outside municipality.

"That weighing or measuring at a market should only be compulsory when so required by one of the contracting parties.

"That the interests of both the producer and the consumer will be best served by allowing farmers to sell meat or any other produce in their own premises if they so desire.

"That your petitioners humbly pray that your honorable House will be pleased to pass such legislation as may be necessary to carry out the objects of this petition, and your petitioners will ever pray."

The above sets forth fairly the position of the farmers in respect to market regulations, and it is worthy of serious attention. There can be no denial that the case is a strong one, and that in many of the communities this fair and equitable system for weighing, measuring and measurement shall be paid by farmers, is a most unjustifiable assessment. It looks as though the Government was not in the interests of the farmers who pay all their taxes

Except in respect of weighing and measuring, the suggestions meet with our entire approval; in regard to these points, however, we believe compulsory weighing and measuring both advisable and necessary, both for the satisfaction of the vendor, the protection of the buyer, and as a safeguard of honest and upright transactions between man and man. No honest farmer ought to object to due provision for these objects, nor to pay a reasonable fee for the same. We take the question up without regard to any contemplated action by the legislature, as a local concern [which circumstances are forcing upon us for consideration. "Shall Peterborough have a free market?" is a question which ought to engage the serious attention of our people, more especially in view of the competition opened up by the Grand Junction Railway, which has already diverted a large part of the grain trade from the town. Farmers have a constitutional antipathy to toll-gates and market-fees, and will endure almost any inconvenience to be rid of them. The amounts may not be large, but the imposition is irritating and vexatious. There is no doubt whatever that Peterborough is the best farmers market between Toronto and Montreal. The enterprise of our local millers and grain-buyers, always keeps the prices in the closest proximity to the advances of the Liverpool market, and the enterprise of our merchants makes it by all odds the most favorable market to buy in. But we have to contend with the free markets being opened up to the east of us, and with a free market at Lindsay to the west of us, which undoubtedly attracts much trade that would prefer Peterborough, if the same inducements were offered here. As things now are, our market fees are leased for $1,100 a year, which is all the profit the town derives. Would it not be a wise policy to abolish the fee system altogether, making the market free to all who chose to bring their produce here to sell? A small salary would secure the services of a caretaker and weigh-master, and a very small fee indeed for weighing and measurement, would pay the salary and meet all expenses of repairs, etc. It must be borne in mind that every farmer who comes to our market to sell, becomes a customer of our merchants, and benefits the town by contributing to its business a large portion of the money into which he converts his produce. By enlarging the business of the market, the town would reap ten fold the amount of loss of revenue now derived from the sale of fees—a revenue which more than destroys itself in the injury it does to trade by preventing farmers from a distance, and particularly those who have choice of other markets, from doing their business in Peterborough. This subject is one which should receive attention at the hands of the guardians of the civic interests.

THE CANADA PACIFIC.

The Toronto Evening Telegram makes the following statement, apparently on authority:—"Although the agreement between the Government and the Railway Syndicate for the construction of the Canada Pacific Railway may not be laid before the people in consequence of the technical difficulty arising from the defect in Mr. Greenfell's power of attorney from Morton, Rose & Co., and although some details yet remain to be settled, there is not much doubt as to the main basis of the agreement. The Government gives $25,000,000 in cash and 25,000,000 acres of land, finishes the portions of the road at present being constructed, and hands them over with the portions already constructed to the Company. When the whole line is finished the value of the portions of the line constructed, and handed over by the Government, is roughly estimated at thirty million dollars. The Company gives security, if we are rightly informed, to the amount of one million, together with a certain portion of the land as security for the working of the line; when the line shall have been worked for a period deemed sufficient to ensure its continuance, the security, both in the shape of land and money, will, we presume, be handed back by the Government to the Company, doubtless with interest. The composition of the Syndicate is as follows:

The Canadian Division—Mr. George Stephen, Mr. Angus, Hon. Jas. Cockburn, Mr. McIntyre, of Montreal; and Mr. Donald A. Smith.

The English Division—Morton, Rose & Co.

The American Division—Morton, Bliss & Co.

The French Division—Reinbach & Co. and the Societe Generale.

The paid up capital being $60,000,000. Estimating the land at $3 per acre, the gross subsidy with the completed sections represents the sum of $105,000,000 that the Government pays the Syndicate for constructing the road."

Some one contributes the following to the Mail:—The well-known trapper and guide, Henry Merrien, of Harwood, Rice Lake, was cast two or three weeks ago in the woods, some sixty miles back of Peterboro', with an English gentleman and lady. When returning to his camp he reached a navvy known as the Shanty Lake Portage, six miles from his destination. He had a very heavy canoe, and while carrying it over the portage, a paddle which he was using as an aid in getting it along broke, and he fell with the canoe. His right leg was broken in the fall a little above the ankle. With a plucky and hardiness proverbial in backwoodsmen, he completed the portage, carried on his own, and, moreover, accomplished two others between where he was and his camp. There the Englishman and his lady assisted him to set the broken bone without fruitful effect, as doctor being available. At length after a day or two ago, the lonely navvy got on foot to camp, hopeful of getting some help before dreaded fever overmastered by the wilderness.

A Week or Ceylon.—One of the most popular sovereigns ever before the Londoners was Queen Victoria. Her sons are to marry, and her daughters are to marry, and her subjects are to rejoice. Let us see to it that we have a pleasant week. Let us be as loyal as we can, and as happy as we can, and as good as we can. Let us have a week of Victoria, and not a week of Ceylon.

FROM THE ANTIPODES.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

LAUPAHOEHOE, HAWAII, }
HAWAIIAN ISLANDS. }

By pressing my letter with these words of smooth appearance and more barbarous sound—in the pronounciation of which the most thoroughly initiated native requires to stop twice for breath—I am quite aware that I will frighten even that small section of your readers whom the length and solidity of the columns does not turn away. To the brave-hearted, however, who do me the favor of understanding the perusal of my letters I will promise a minimum of barbarous names, and as much of novelty as may be fairly expected in such an age of travel and literature.

As crossing the continent is no longer an arduous and perilous undertaking, and as books descriptive of the cities, scenery, resources and manners of the country along the route lie on every library shelf or drawing room centre-table, I will not narrate each day's journeying in wearying detail.

THE TRIP ACROSS THE CONTINENT,

though long and continuous—six and a half days of almost steady riding—is not to my mind as tiresome as one would expect. The scenery for the greater part of the way, though monotonous enough in itself, is still novel, and on that account becomes, if not positively interesting, at least less wearisome.

The level stretch of the prairie with the endless corn fields or the dead waste of the Sage Plains are new to the average traveller, and accordingly he tires of them a little less rapidly perhaps than if they had been the familiar landscape from early youth.

The changes are not frequent, so that one settles down, gets his little comforts around him, gets acquainted with the one and the people, and just makes up his mind for a week of it, which he finds does not pass so unpleasantly after all. I must say, however, and saying it disclaim and deny every charge of disloyalty, that as far as regards the civility and gentlemanliness of the officials, the comfort and convenience of the road, as well as the rate of speed, there is a very sudden and marked improvement on entering American territory.

The time to cross the continent in the spring; at any other time of the year it is apt to be too hot, too cold, or too dusty. Crossing as I did in July I found it, by some rare good fortune, not unbearably warm, but extremely dusty, so that it was absolutely impossible to keep even passably clean for half an hour at a time. The combined cinder and sage plain dust filtered in through every crevice and covered everything with its gritty coating. The famous fine scenery of the Nevada Mountains is passed—by a recent change in the running time—in the night, so that one misses it entirely unless one makes the special effort of staying over 12 hours at the Eastern base of the mountains. Having seen it all once I did not make this special effort.

SAN FRANCISCO

in the middle of summer is cold, raw and windy. The wind blows in off the North Pacific through the Golden Gate, and whistles along the streets, wreathing and whirling the dusty chilly fog and gritty dust into one's face at every street corner, and sending a cold chill through every nerve. The ladies wear seal-skin jackets and caps in July and August, and many of the gentlemen are clad in heavy overcoats. The weather, however, seems at no time of the year to reach a much colder temperature. It rarely snows or freezes, and then they are of a most ephemeral character. Semi-tropical trees grow in the open air the year round and attain the size and luxuriance of perfection, often under the most discouraging circumstances. The Oleander is a profuse flowering tree; the Fuchsia, laden with drooping flowers completely covers the shabby cottage of the Irish day laborer on dusty back streets; the Honeysuckle climbs along the fences, throwing out into the street its delicious odour and sprays of creamy tinted flowers, while the ordinary Geranium straggles almost wild in its glory.

Having caught a very severe cold during my short stay I was not at all sorry when we steamed and saw the blue expanse of the Pacific open out before us.

After several patched up lines, consisting mainly of worthless tubs, unfit to weather a trip across the Atlantic, there is at length a very good line between Australia and San Francisco, operated by the Pacific Mail Steamship Co., and consisting of four large iron steamers, two Philadelphia and two Clyde built. Being new boats they are furnished with every modern improvement; are commodious, comfortable, scrupulously clean and of very fair rate of speed, while the table appointments are capital in every respect.

The Pacific is still as true to its name as when Balboa first saw the placid, gleaming stretch of its sun-lit waters from the summit of the Nicaragua Mountains. The miniature swells rose and fell with a lazy lassitude that shone whitened their crests with foam and failed to disturb the staunch steadiness of our steamer. The days, clear and tranquil from the start, grew milder, clearer and more halcyon as we steamed southward. The sky grew more azure, the clouds more downy, the sunlight more golden, and the ocean more placid and glassy. The nights increased in brilliance and balm as the Pole Star slowly sank in the North and the over our bow, while under it, all night long, gleamed the pale phosphorescent pelt-ype in the snowy foam, like flashing diamonds set in beds of creamy pearl.

A goodly company of us, including many of my own friends from the Islands, we passed the time between meals in chatting, reading, and various entertainments of a more native nature, one very much in favor with several of the gentlemen being a kind of curling, with round wooden blocks instead of stones, and the smooth steady deck instead of ice. So pleasantly did the time slide by that I surmise it was with some regret that one afternoon that peculiar cloud-like appearance was seen which turns out to the land. Its identity immediately came up for discussion and was variously decided at different times and by different parties to be four distinct islands, while some were so blind to public excitement as to declare it no land at all. It did prove, however, to be veritable land, and that for two tiresome and stern looking to be the work of many days or days. By midnight we were off the harbor, which, being guarded by numerous [illegible] and [illegible] of strategic value, which are not shown [illegible] charts, which are not [illegible] light was before us [illegible] and we [illegible] at anchor [illegible] to the real [illegible].

PETERBOROUGH. NOV. 18, 1880.

NOMINATIONS in the County of Quebec will take place on Saturday, when Hon. Mr. Cauon will probably be elected without opposition.

HON. MR. MOUSSEAU will be opposed in Bagot by Mr. Fontaine, of St. Hyacinth. The election will take place on Saturday the 27th inst.

THE COUNCIL is about to lose the services of two of its most experienced members, Mr. Smith retiring from No. 2 Ward, and Mr. Toole from No. 3. The names of A. P. Fousette for No. 2, and Dr. Geo. Burnham, jr., for No. 3, have been prominently suggested as successors to Messrs. Toole and Smith. Should they be induced to run, they would be a decided acquisition to the new Council.

MESSRS. GRAGE, IRWIN, WRAY and Deneon, of the Lindsay School Board, have brought actions for libel, claiming $5,000 each, against the publisher of the Lindsay Post. Brother BARE does not bulldoze worth a cent. He rises to remark that "the action is no doubt a little game of bluff designed to shut off criticism of the family compact and 'incobriety' section of the board. In this they are very much mistaken. They cannot secure immunity from criticism by tactics of this character. If it is true that they have entered into an alliance with the ninety per cent. gentry it will be most discreditable to them. The Post will continue to criticise the one and expose the other as long as there is occasion in the public interest."

IN ANOTHER column will be found a requisition largely and influentially signed, requesting Mr. H. H. Smith to allow himself to be put in nomination for the Mayoralty, and Mr. Smith's' reply thereto, in which he consents to stand. Mr. Smith has had considerable experience in municipal matters, and has filled the post of Chairman of the Finance Committee, which is next in importance to the Mayor's chair, with ability and judgment. We have no doubt that if elected Chief Magistrate, he will fairly carry out his pledge to do his best to promote the general interests of the town. We believe a requisition is also in circulation asking Mr. Henry Deane to enter the contest for the Mayoralty, and we are authorized to say that he will be a candidate; in fact, his friends are actively canvassing on his behalf. Mr. Deane has made a good councillor, is a man of undoubted integrity, and if elected would no doubt fully justify the expectations of his supporters. These are the only candidates so far before the electors, though it is not impossible that events may take another turn, as there is a long time between now and nomination day. The electors have ample time to deliberate, and can make up their minds according to their personal preference and experience. If no worse citizens than the two gentlemen now before them offer, they may rely upon being faithfully and efficiently served in the Mayor's office next year, in any event.

District News.

Four hundred and eighty-three thousand two hundred and sixty-five bushels of grain, an increase of 17,480 bushels over last year, has been shipped from Belleville to date.

Two lunatics are confined in Lindsay gaol, a man and a woman. One is Michael McCabe, from Ops, who is in on remand. He does not appear to be in a very dangerous condition. The other is Mrs. Dorothy Powers, from Fenelon Falls, aged 57 years, who is awaiting removal to the asylum.

It is now pretty well understood to be a dangerous practice to attempt off worthless imitations of the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco for the genuine article. In former years that practice was the cause of much annoyance, and Messrs. Tackett & Billings were compelled to resort to the law courts to put a stop to it. Though they have not met with any cases of the kind lately, it is always a safe precaution for the purchaser to see that the trade mark T. & B. in bronze letters is stamped upon each plug, no plug ever leaves the factory without it, and appropriated the trade mark is a punishable offence.

A MAN who gave his name at Lindsay gaol as George Carrie, laborer, of Markham, was arraigned before his honor Judge Dean last week on a charge of shooting at a painter employed on the grain storehouse at Woodville Junction on Thursday last. It seems that the prisoner was drunk and while at Edwards' hotel somebody offended him and in coming along the platform he met the painter, who said something to him. Carrie then drew a revolver and fired, the shots at the painter but did not succeed in hitting him. He then took the railway track, brandishing the revolver in the presence of numerous persons, and walked northwards. He was overtaken by Constable Merchant after an exciting chase and was committed to gaol for trial.—Post.

CHAMPION OF THE WORLD.

HANLAN V. TRICKETT.

Culminating Victory of the Great Canadian Champion.

London, Nov. 15.—The great boat race for the championship of the world took place to-day, being witnessed by not less than 100,000 people. The interest in the race was most intense and the money that changed hands is computed in millions. The start took place at 12.16 p. m. the tide being nearly full, and the water check and smooth throughout. Hanlan had if anything the best of the start but the difference was inconsiderable. Hanlan striking 35 strokes to the minute and Trickett 31. Hanlan set the Australian a hard-looking pace, and the latter remained gamely on the Canadian which was passed in 22 minutes and 4 seconds. Here Trickett began to labour and took all—until up-the time the scap works were reached, the race was virtually over. Hanlan shot the Hammersmith bridge a length ahead of his opponent. Occasionally Hanlan stopped rowing until Trickett came up, when a few powerful strokes would send him ahead again. Between Hammersmith Bridge and Chiswick, Hanlan lay down to us, stopped entirely once, and again paddled along, first with one oar and then with the other. He leaned ed over to wash his face, and chatted with Elliott, who was rowing alongside. Finally he won by about three lengths, which he could have made half a mile if he had chosen. Trickett's form created great disappointment. He was much distressed at the finish, while Hanlan was perfectly fresh.

Hanlan's time 28 mins. 12 secs.

CAVE—THE RAINS—ACCIDENTS—TEA-FIGHT—BONESES—MATRIMONIAL, ETC.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Apsley has its cave.

On account of the recent fall of rain, the waters of Eel's creek, and the surrounding lakes in this neighborhood have attained an unusual height.

A man in the employ of Ullyott, Sadler & Co. met with a serious accident lately. While engaged at his work a falling tree struck him on the head, leaving him insensible for more than three hours, but he is now in a fair way of recovery, under the skilful treatment of Dr. Clegg.

The Presbyterian tea-meeting was fairly attended and the entertainment was good, those taking part doing remarkably well. The hall was comfortably filled.

Two men in the employ of Messrs. Strickland & Co., "both Frenchmen," met with a serious accident last week, the one breaking his arm, and the other while engaged in making a wedge, let his axe slip, severing three fingers from his right hand, and cutting the fourth badly.

There are a number of strangers staying at our hotels. They do not like to leave where they are so well treated, and so hospitably entertained.

Merchants are jovial over the amount of business they are doing, and the prospect of money being more plentiful this winter.

The adjourned J. P.'s court met on the 27th ult, to inquire into Inspector Drain's liquor case. After waiting over an hour, and no prosecutor appearing, the case was dismissed.

Any person desiring information in connection with any business for the next sitting of the court, in this place will find Mr. E. Lightbody, who now fills the office of Deputy-Clerk, a very attentive and accommodating young man in his official capacity.

From the fact that a handsome organ, and several loads of new furniture have arrived here lately, and that one or two new houses are in course of erection, we are led to suppose that Apsley is going to strike a few names from her present list of bachelors. We would recommend our issuer of marriage licenses to be prepared for emergencies.

BEAR HUNTING—RAVAGES BY DOGS—SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

Some very exciting bear hunts have taken place in this township lately, resulting, as is often the case, in brute foiling his pursuers, coming out first best, and seeking quieter pasture grounds, leaving his would-be capturers only to conjecture by his foot prints his line of retreat.

Our dogs here about occupy their spare time in worrying sheep. During the summer they destroyed between thirty and forty sheep and lambs, and about two weeks ago Wm. Crouch had three killed, Thos. Telford two killed and one badly injured; besides other persons also have suffered more or less.

The Municipal Council ought to pass stringent by-laws, and levy a tax on dogs where any person or persons keeps more than one, supplying a fund whereby sheep killed by dogs would be paid for.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Stockdale fell at her door, breaking three of her ribs besides otherwise injuring herself. A messenger was despatched for Dr. Kincaid, under whose treatment she is progressing as favorably as can be expected. We hope soon to see her around again.

DESTRUCTIVE STORM—DAMAGED BARLEY—DEATH FROM EXPOSURE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

FENELLA, Nov. 15.—A very destructive wind storm passed over here on Sunday morning, levelling fences and in a few cases unroofing houses.

The farmers north of Rice Lake and others are now getting the damaged barley into Cobourg harbor, which was purchased from them only a short time ago by Mr. McLeod. The price of the wet barley is 35 cents per bag.

One of Mr. James Curtis' sons, known in the village as Joe Curtis, aged 14, left his father's on Wednesday 10th about ten a. m., and was not found till Saturday about eleven a. m., when his body barefooted and otherwise almost stripped, was found dead in Mr. James Roberts' swamp. The boy has repeatedly shown signs of unsoundness of mind, and the family supposing he had gone to his uncle's made no search for him till Thursday, when it was proved that he had wandered on Wednesday in a very indirect course to Mr. R. Johnston's, near Harwood, about 6 p. m., a distance of about twelve miles, apparently now knowing what he was doing or where he was going to, and soaked with a pouring rain. Here he divested himself of all his clothes, tried to dry them, and refused to eat, to go to bed, or take dry clothes. Next day his route is apparently unknown, but in the evening he arrived at Mr. Earl's, the last place he was seen alive, where he received a lunch and started for the nearest swamp. He was found as above described in Mr. Roberts' swamp, having walked across a clearing about a mile from the swamp, where he was seen by Mr. Earl on Thursday evening. His death was considered by the whole community who were out in search, to be purely the result of exposure, which might have been otherwise had a good search been made on Thursday.

GREAT BRITAIN.

One of the directors of the City of Glasgow Bank, recently liberated from prison, has bought a fine estate on the banks of Lake Lomond with the remaining proceeds of his countrymen's credulity.

Government officials are now on a visit to Liverpool, Glasgow and Hull, inspecting ships, and making arrangements with the large ocean steamship companies providing for the transport of troops, at twenty-four hours' notice if necessary.

The Princess of Wales, it is reported, means to set the London fashions during the coming season, and the Duchess of Edinburgh and the Duchess of Connaught have agreed to obey her. For one thing the Jersey is to be abolished, and, for another, the Tam O' Shanter cap.

A rumor is afloat that the Queen, wishing to acknowledge the Prince's services on her account, has sent him a birthday present in the shape of a cheque for £10,000. Unhappily for Wales, whose debts incurred in doing the Queen's service amount to £46,000, the rumour is wholly unfounded. It is possible, however, that the Prince, with his £40,000 annuity, his annual revenue of £70,000 from the Duchy of Cornwall, and his wife's grant from Parliament of £10,000 a year, may be able to pull through.

A mutiny among the prisoners in gaol at Dartmoor, County Devon, on Friday, was suppressed after two convicts had been killed.

Matters behome worse in the sister island every day, no individual landlord being now exempt from the stern warfare declared on the whole landlord class by the Land League. Even Lord Kenmare, though a Roman Catholic resident landlord, and one of the few supporters in the House of Lords last session of the Coompensation for Disturbance bill, has recently received threatening letters.

He was struck in the mouth and three of his teeth from the upper and two from the lower jaw were knocked out. The victim groaned and fell, but afterwards attempted to rise. The assassin, who had followed him, then shot him again and fled. Mr. Moore informed the military at Oola barracks. The police soon arrived at the scene of the tragedy, where Wheeler's body was in a bloody pool and still warm. His hands were clutching the earth.

The Orangemen arrived at Boycott's farm without being molested. On their arrival Boycott was seen standing near his house with a rifle in his hands. Within two hours after their arrival a number of men commenced work on the farm. It is estimated a week or ten days will be required to do the work. A despatch from Ballinrobe says Boycott states that he must leave the country when the soldiery leave, as he has received threatening letters.

A fife and drum band in connection with the company has been organized. Capt. G. C. Rogers has had the armoury fitted up with special reference to the comfort and convenience of the men, and the Company expect to put in a good winter's work.

THE DAILY EVENING is complimented by the Millbrook Messenger, at the expense of the EXAMINER. Next! The Messenger has an old reputation of being the very worst effort of a newspaper in Canada. Hence the "fellow-feeling" makes it so "wondrous kind." There is a good opening in Millbrook for a live man with a small capital, who would give the people of that district a decent and respectable weekly. Messenger please copy.

A FINE ALARM was given on Monday morning at half-past ten o'clock, being occasioned by a dense voltage of smoke issuing from the yard in rear of Halpin's hotel, and filling the street, causing a portentous appearance. The Electrics were promptly on the ground, but their services were not required, the alarm having been occasioned by a bottle of boiling pitch taking fire, and communicating with an adjacent barrel of the same material, which was being used in roofing. The flames were extinguished without damage.

"LITTLE DROPS OF WATER, little grains of sand"—you know the rest, says an eastern exchange. The comment that each delinquent subscriber owes us is but a "little drop" to him, but a good many of them together make no inconsiderable sum, if we had them) the "mighty ocean"—so to—that is required to float a newspaper. Now in the time when the fountains of wealth are being broken up and copiously shovelled by the country, and we begin to feel that it is time for quite a pecuniary shower to fall into our empty rain barrel. Now is the time, if ever, that people can pay their little debts, and those who do not do so must be considered inexcusably negligent.

REV. V. CLEMENTI signs the following letter in last week's Dominion Churchman:

"SIR,—Permit me to say, in reply to G. M. Rubens's "Query," in your last issue that some Communicants were conferred that same Saturday, at his church, confirmed, immediately, by the Parochial Minister from whence He returned to settle. The Apostolic law.

"It is more reasonable to suppose, however, that the Bishop, being equally ready to confer with respect to the said Parochian, is the superior one, and the improvision that requires the person to question more readily understood, viz.: That it is the place of Imposition to which the Communicated made of the candidate was intended to be conveyed, and where the rite is performed, and where it was received. A joyful communion, the members of the Archangel's train not least and the Lamb's company of their dear Lord.

"It was to this place that Jesus Himself desired, the night of our need, and it was to this place that the soul of the penitent thief accompanied Him."

AN ATTEMPTED BURGLARY, or worse, took place on Saturday morning at an early hour at the residence of Mr. Menzies, teacher of French, who was absent from home at the time. About three or four o'clock on the morning, Mrs. Menzies was awakened by a noise at the back door, followed by heavy steps in the room adjoining her sleeping apartment, with a second set of same person trying the door. Mrs. M. sprang from her bed in a terrible fright and dashed through the window, taking a portion of the sash with her, injuring her hands, arms and hands by the glass, and made her way to a neighbor's, whence having procured assistance she returned to the scene of her distress. The burglar was gone, leaving no more but the evidence of his nefarious purpose in the breaking out of the outside door and overturning of an ottoman in search of booty of the property of the lodgers, in which search he had been disturbed by the noise, and fled. He had evidently gone the extent of his villainy, as nothing was missing, but they by had entered the house, and the outside door was found open. The police authorities are on the scent, and a pretty sharp look out is being kept for the scoundrel.

THE TOWN for entering suits down the Court of Revision, before the County Judge, entered yesterday. The number of appeals to be heard by the Judge is ten.

MESSRS. J. J. BELAS AND R. TAYLOR, furniture at Hall & Osborne's factory, having won a "pot" of money on the Hamlet-Trickett match, entertained their workmen and a number of friends to the system, on Monday night, at the Ontario House.

A YOUTH NAMED Silas Stevenson was committed to gaol for 20 days last week, in default of a fine of $5.50. Honest employment would be a more suitable plan to find her. Here is a case for some of the ladies' Christian societies.

A NEW GATE of attractive design and substantial proportions has lately been added to the establishment of Messrs. Munro & Alexander. The rods was manufactured expressly for the firm, and contains some new improvements not in general use. They is ever prove an fruitful in wealth, and respected as liberally to the mill, as the widow's cruise.

THE FIRST REGIMENT BAND, on Tuesday evening, repaired to the residence of Mr. H. C. Wood, on Aylmer street where he had arrived on his return from his wedding trip the previous evening, and serenaded the newly-married couple. Harry was equal to the occasion, and entertained his visitors beautifully, also giving the B. H. an interesting souvenir of the event.

AMONG THE VISITORS of the Shelburne N. S. coal mine disaster, reported last week, was Mr. David Menzies, a brother of Mr. Hamilton formerly a teacher in the school here, and brother-in-law of Mr. John Cameron. The full list of the killed published in yesterday's papers does not, however, give his name, and it is probable that he has escaped.

CHEAP PROPERTY.—We are requested to call the attention of parties wishing to purchase a cheap house and lot to the advertisement in another column. The property is situated on Townsend street, adjoining Mr. Hilliard's brick dwelling house and store, and formerly belonged to the late Robert Wilson. The house and lot will be sold cheap. For further particulars of which can be obtained from Mr. Thomas Cluff.

MR. W. J. LARMOUR received a very high compliment to the excellence and high reputation of the manufactures turned out from his extensive boot trade, in the shape of an order for two pairs of boots, from a former resident of Canada, now living in New York city. Considering the cost of expressage and duty, the gentleman referred to places Larmour's work a long way above American par in the boot and shoe line.

ON MONDAY EVENING last, Messrs. G. H. Johnston, L. Fisher and D. H. Moore, on behalf of the members of Peterborough Lodge of Odd Fellows, waited upon Mr. J. Rathgate, at the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. Geo. Tanner, previous to his departure for Virginia, and presented him with an elegant gold chain, and Mrs. Rathgate with a silver cake-basket, accompanied by an address expressive of their esteem, and many wishes for his future welfare. Mr. Rathgate responded in an appropriate and feeling manner.

THE REVIEW seems to have some grudge against the farmers. Judging from the extra efforts made in the columns of its town edition, to put consternation upon them. First we had an apocryphal yarn about a farmer who tried to cheat a "gunner" by putting "pea-straw" on the top of his bags of apples, and now we are told that the farmer who brings a load of straw to town gave to elaborate pains to cheat the buyer. Peterborough farmers must feel highly complimented at these hints, which are the sheer outcome of a silly endeavor to have something "smart" to say about the "gunners."

A FATAL ACCIDENT occurred on the Grand Junction near Hastings on Monday. Henry Newburn tried to get off the gravel train while in motion, as they neared the pit, by placing a hand each in the eaves of two cars, when he fell under the wheels, four cars and the engine passing over both legs. When he fell he was heard to exclaim, "Oh, what shall I do now?" When picked up, the unfortunate man gave signs of life, but expired a few minutes later. The remains were on Tuesday decently interred at Hastings, according to the rites of the Church of England, of which he was a member. The verdict of the coroner's jury was to the effect that the occurrence was purely accidental and that no blame can be attached either to the Company or to any of their servants.

AS LENT YEAR draws to a close, the ladies seem to be making the most of their opportunities. Cupid and Hymen have both been enlisted in the cause, and one by one our most prominent young men are falling easy victims to the combined attack. Our friend Lemay turned out three wedding cakes last week, and already two additional handsome structures, of elegant design and generous magnitude, groan his wicket down again. The rumours of the N. P. or "New Propose" party are destroying the ranks of bachelordom, and the surviving eligible young men who occupy the out of the maidens and the maidens, and chalice hands with 1881 in staple characters, will probably be some wall-eyed, pear-shaped, hawk-nosed, spicy-eyed, lumbar-jawed, salmon-haired, squinter wretch, suffered to live as a miserable and warning example to the next Leap Year crop of bachelors.

THE CONTRACTOR for the supply of lumber for use by the Street and Bridge Committee, Mr. McDonald, has been unable to carry out the contract for the balance of the year, having no more logs to cut. Mr. Johnston has made favorable arrangements with Mr. T. G. Hostin, the latter agreeing to furnish the lumber for the work for the year, which will not be a very large amount. The Council still retain a portion of the money due Mr. McDonald, and it is for them to consider whether the extra cost of lumber, outside of contract rates, will be deducted or not. It appears that Mr. McDonald has furnished a first-class article during the year, and would fill the contract completely if he had or could procure more logs. Lumber has risen since last year, and the rate paid made it a losing transaction for him from the start, so that the Council can afford to deal liberally in the matter.

RAILWAY NOTES.

—Mr. McKeough, an experienced man from the Grand Trunk, succeeds Mr. Brady as Conductor on the Madoc G. J. R. train.

—Mr. J. J. Ross, the popular Superintendent of the Whitby Railway, expresses his conviction that the proposed branches to Gravenhurst and Uxbridge will be built.

—The first mortgage bonds of the Midland Railway have risen, and stand now at the highest figure that has occurred for several years past, viz., 68 sterling.

—Mr. Jas. Holden, managing director of the Whitby railway, met a deputation from Uxbridge at Port Perry on Monday of last week, who are urging the construction of a branch of the railway from Port Perry to Uxbridge.

—The traffic receipts of the Whitby, Port Perry and Lindsay railway for the week ending Nov. 5th, 1880, were as follows:—Total traffic to date, 1880, $20,252.69; total for same period of 1879, $20,252.69; increase this year, $04,326.00.

—The new stations being erected on the Midland Road are about completed, and the timber and material for the Midland City elevator is on the ground. Next year the Midland will have every facility for an immense through grain forwarding trade, which will add hugely to its harvesting business.

Midland R. R. traffic receipts for week ending Nov. 7th, 1880, were:—Passengers and mails, $1,799.37; freight, $3,033.35; total for week, $4,832.72. For corresponding week in 1879.—Passengers and mails, $1,702.21; freight, $1,403.45; total for week, $3,105.66; increase, $727.06. Aggregate from 1st of January, 1880, $202,825.62. Increase over 1879, $72,022.47.

—The proposed branch of the Whitby railway to Uxbridge and extension from Manilla through Cannington to join the Midland towards Beaverton, and to branch of same Sunday to Gravenhurst and to again before the public in a county cabinet. A special session of the Ontario County Council to consider a bonus to the project is talked of, and is likely to take place. This would furnish a direct route to the Pacific Junction and the South, as well as an Ontario county railway.

—The Picton Times says:—"The Prince Edward Railway is doing a large and increasing business. Messrs. James R. McMillan and George W. McMillan have purchased Mr. Manning's interest in the road and have assumed control of it. The new proprietors propose, should sufficient aid be given, next season to extend the road to Long Point, by which means connection could be made across the lake to Cleveland with Conveyo, whereon a direct line of railway runs to New York. No change will be made in the management of the road, Mr. Haney remaining in his present position as General Manager, and the other officers and servants being kept on.

—We understand that at a recent joint board meeting of the Midland and Whitby & Lindsay railways the matter in the pooling arrangements between that company and the Midland, coming to an end of three years was struck out, and the arrangement made permanent for twenty years. The Whitby road under Mr. Holden's excellent management, is thriving like a green bay tree. As with Mr. Orr and the Midland, Mr. Holden took hold of the Whitby and when it had been purchased by the Midland, found the road in a business test and unsuited for through, by his judgment, economy and management, he has placed the road in first-class condition, and by his connections, increased the business. Mr. Holden made a flying excursion to the Coast on a convenience to the public. Mr. Holden's enemy does not pretend to be ambitious of being an eye-sore to the Midland's management, but who can say to the contrary, with a view to lay over seasons of business.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES.

THE BOWLING CLUB.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Bowling Club on Thursday evening last, Mr. P. D. Doran handed the score with the largest number of points yet reached in these weekly matches. The three highest stand as follows: P. D. Doran, 276; W. Hutchison, 262; W. Harvey, 259.

Peterborough Lodge No. 262 I. O. G. T., at a recent meeting elected the following members as officers for the ensuing quarter:—Geo. B. Sproule, Chief Templar; Miss John Mowry, Vice Templar; E. Hoskin, Past-Chief Templar; S. Sheridan, Chaplain; Miss Ida Mowry, Secretary; George Dawson, Assistant Secretary; John Mowry, Treasurer; John Weir, Financial Secretary; Miss Hutchinson and Miss Brock, Supporters; A. Russell, Marshall; Miss L. Minore, Deputy Marshall; Miss L. Hamilton, Inside Guard; Thos. Brown, Outside Guard.

CURLING AND SKATING CLUB.

Mr. J. D. Collins, secretary, gives notice that the annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Club will be held on Friday, 19th inst., at eight o'clock p.m., at the Hadleton House. The business to be discussed by the members will be to receive and consider the statement of the affairs of the Club, financial report, etc., and to elect a Board of Directors for the coming year. A full attendance is desired. 47-1c

PETERBOROUGH CLUB.

The Peterborough Club held its annual meeting on Tuesday evening last at the rooms of the Club, Post Office block, when the financial statement was read by the Treasurer, Mr. E. J. Tobey, showing the affairs of the Club to be in a satisfactory and flourishing condition. The election of officers was then proceeded with, with the following result:—

PRESIDENT—H. C. Rubens.
VICE PRESIDENT—Capt. V. Clements.
TREASURER—E. J. Tobey.
SECRETARY—R. J. Hall.

COMMITTEE—Hon. R. Hamilton, Messrs. G. A. Weller, C. H. Sheffield, J. H. Belcher, A. H. McDougall, and E. H. D. Hall.

THE FORESTERS.

The entertainment given by the Peterborough Court C. O. F., on Friday evening last, was very successful, both in point of numbers and in the excellence of the programme prepared and carried out for their entertainment. The chair was occupied by Mr. T. Rothery, who fulfilled the duties pertaining thereto in a creditable manner. Some excellent music was provided by the Charlotte Street Methodist Church Choir, under leadership of Mr. Bagsley. The programme was full and varied, and comprised songs by the Misses Stephens, and Messrs. Jno. Lasher and Wm. Hill, recitations by Miss Nellie Hamilton and Mr. Hinds, and readings by Messrs. W. Strain, A. Simmons, and J. Hinds. An instrumental duet, cornet and trombone, by Messrs. J. Fraser and E. McCabe, was a feature in the programme. Refreshments in the shape of coffee and sandwiches were provided and were eaten with a relish, and altogether a most enjoyable evening was spent.

ST. ANDREWS' SOCIETY.

At the annual meeting of the St. Andrews' Society, held on Wednesday of last week in the committee rooms of the Town Hall, there was a small attendance, the President in the chair.

Mr. Wm. Cummings, Treasurer, read the annual report, showing a balance of $139.25 to be carried forward to next year's operations. The statement was audited and found correct by Messrs. Stewart and Turner.

The following were elected office-bearers for the ensuing year:—President, John Carnegie; 1st Vice do, J. F. Deanistoun; 2nd Vice do, Thos. Telford; 3rd Vice do, Malcolm McIntyre; Treasurer, Wm. Cummings; Secretary, Wm. Menzies; Executive Committee, Messrs. Adam Turner, John Stewart, Andrew Howie, William Telford, and Henry Erwin.

It was concluded to have no formal celebration on St Andrew's Society this year, and a committee was appointed to arrange for a private social gathering on St. Andrew's night of each so chose to participate.

It was received to invite Rev. Mr. Stobo to preach the annual sermon and the meeting adjourned.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

The regular quarterly meeting of the members of the Mechanics' Institute took place on Monday evening, the President, Mr. F. J. Lewis, in the chair. Among those present were, the Vice-President, Rev. V. Clementi, and Messrs. J. Robinson, Edr. Pearce, E. Courtney, James English, S. English, J. C. Brown and others. The President explained that there was no special business to engage their attention, but as the rules required four general meetings to be held during the year, one of which fell on this night, he had thought advisable to call the meeting. The minutes of last meeting were read, and approved on motion of Mr. Clementi, seconded by Mr. Robinson. Rev. Mr. Clementi drew attention to the visit to Canada of the distinguished lecturer and war correspondent, Mr. Archibald Forbes, and suggested the advisability of communicating with Mr. Forbes to ascertain upon what terms he would visit Peterborough and give a lecture under the auspices of the Club. After some discussion, on motion of Mr. Courtney, seconded by Mr. Robinson, Rev. V. Clementi was requested to correspond with Mr. Forbes, to secure the desired information. The President drew attention to the desirability of increasing the membership, and to the small attendance of the Institute on Sunday afternoons. Ten new names were rumoured, and only one of them fell, that of bookkeeping, though only two pupils were required to form a class. After some discussion the Directors were requested to communicate with the publishers, in reference to having catalogues of the library for use of the members, and for circulation, printed.

Reid, Mr. Thomas Hughes and James Gordon Bennett. As the obviously fitting match, by which he sailed, was waiting outside the bar at New York on Sunday morning of last week to leave the pilot behind, she collided with the Dutch bark Agnes, carrying the latter in her bulk. She shortly parted. The captain and crew were taken off and the steamer proceeded on her voyage. It caused a great amount of excitement among the passengers on the steamer, but the case no worse for the collision.

The Philosophy of Wearing a Good Hat.

From Homer's time to Tennyson's
The Hat has been a theme
Of poets, sages satirists
But Homer did not dream—
How time with art and science
Could so persevere and find
For man such ease and comfort,
With true elegance combined.
The clumsy, hard, unhealthy thing
Our grand-sires used to wear,
Has given place to ease and grace
Allied with texture rare;
'Tis vain, however well we dress,
Or how the garments sit,
If in the commoner we mount
There's neither style nor fit.
A poet would not spoil his verse
By "halting line" which jars,
The painter does not o'er his work
A shadow throw which mars;
The sculptor does not seek his art
With aught that's out of place;
Then why should any Hatter dare
To spoil his patrons face!
And yet how often do we see —Outrageous taste displayed
When the selection's left to those
Who study not the trade.
Our reputation's known, 'tis true,
We've labored hard to gain it,
And our ambition's summit is,
To study and retain it.

AGRICULTURAL COLUMN.

Useful Hints to Farmers, Compiled from Standard Agricultural Papers.

Care of Hogs.

Any hog, and especially a sow in pig, should have, at least three times a week, a small quantity of charcoal. This helps to correct acidity of, and corrects fermentation in, the stomach, which is a cause of diarrhoea. A little sulphur is excellent and cost nothing with the embers are good. Pigs will pick out all the charred bits, and they act as correctives. All of the above are important if not necessary to keep a pig in a healthy condition. The [illegible] Southdown plan is to throw a handful of coal ashes and charcoal in our hogs' pen and let the pig help itself. The sulphur and ash may also be placed in another spot, and if they will not get wanted by mixing with the litter of the pen, several handfuls may be put in at a time, with no fear that any more will be eaten than is required. No harm will ever come on account of a bountiful supply of sulphur, salt, charcoal, or coal ashes.

How to Plow.

In his address on plowing, before the State Board of Agriculture of Connecticut, Prof. Stockbridge said: "There are two kinds of soil on every man's farm—the agricultural soil and the subsoil. The agricultural soil may be two inches deep or it may be nine, but it is not twenty feet. It is no deeper than the air can penetrate. If the agricultural soil is too shallow it may be gradually deepened by lifting an inch of the subsoil at each plowing, bringing it up to the air and enriching it with manure. Our agricultural society committees, by their premiums for smooth, shiny, flat furrows have done the community a great harm. Such as take the premiums are the very poorest kind of plowing. The soil is best plowed when it is most thoroughly crushed, twisted and broken with the soil well covered. On some kind of lands I would have furrows lapped an inch, as the Canadian farmers plow. Let the air and water have a chance to circulate underneath the surface. Light lands, however, should have a flat furrow if we wish to make such lands more complete."

How to Pack Apples.

A London paper says:—There are few greater treats in early spring than the magnificent apples imported from America, on the dessert tables in England, but many, however, arrive in bad condition, with more or less bruising and fermentation, to the injury of the name of American orchardists and shippers. The following mode of packing is therefore recommended: Wrap every specimen in three coats of soft tissue paper which has been soaked in a solution of salicylic acid and dried. The alcoholic solution of this acid is recommended, made with the strongest spirit, and then diluted with as much water as it will bear without precipitating the acid. The cost of this preparation, it is asserted, would be a mere trifle compared with the splendid condition of the fruit when entering the London market.

Recipe for Curing Meat.

As the season has arrived when curing meat is in order, we publish as of old, our famous recipe for curing beef, pork, mutton, hams, &c., as follows:—To one gallon of water take 1¼ lbs. of salt, ¼ lb. sugar, ¼ oz. saltpetre, ¼ oz. potash (omit the potash unless you can get the pure article; druggists usually keep it). In this ratio the pickle can be increased to any quantity desired. Let these be boiled together until all the dirt from the sugar rises to the top and is skimmed off. Then throw it into a tub to cool, and when cold pour it over your beef or pork. The meat must be well covered with pickle, and should not be put down for at least two days after killing, during which time it should should be slightly sprinkled with powdered saltpetre, which removes all the surface-blood, &c., leaving the meat fresh and clean. Some omit boiling the pickle, and find it to answer well, though the operation of boiling purifies the pickle by throwing off the dirt always to be found in salt and sugar. If this receipt is strictly followed, it will require only a single trial to prove its superiority over the common way, or most ways, of putting down meat, and will not soon be abandoned for any other. The meat is unsurpassed for sweetness, delicacy and freshness of color.—Germantown Telegraph.

Storing Potatoes for Winter.

If houses are used for storing potatoes, they should be such structures as would afford an atmosphere rather moist; the admission of drying winds through crevices is always injurious to potatoes, and where greenness in the tuber takes place either from exposure to light or from drying winds, they become entirely unfit for human—indeed, we may say, for all animal food. The practice, therefore, of exposing potatoes to the influence of light and air, for sale, as is done in large towns and cities, must be one highly prejudicial to public health; and that it is so has been long since proved by some eminent French doctors, who traced the existence of certain diseases in towns and cities, to the use of potatoes so exposed. Potatoes treated with such care as we have endeavored to describe will keep well, if required, until the end of July, and we believe that most persons will agree with us in thinking that a good old potato at that time is much better eating than any new ones then procurable.

Fall Cheese.

The quantity of fine fall-made cheese in this country is not large. If America is to keep up an increase in the quantity of cheese exported to Europe, the quality must be good. "Skims" will not fill the bill. If any temporary pecuniary advantage is gained by making skim-cheese it is more than balanced in the long run by subsequent losses. The explanation for the inferior quality of the fall-made cheese is easy. Capidity is at the bottom of it. As soon as the hot weather is over, many factories resort to skimming. A factory which has made a reputation for producing cheese of fine quality, spoils its reputation and ruins its prospects by skimming, and at the very time, too, when the best opportunity is presented to maintain and enhance it. It is well to remember that the late fall cheeses are those that are required to carry over for spring use. If these goods are "full cream" they are rich, solid and desirable. The factory producing them is more than likely to get an order from abroad the following season, but such will hardly be the case if skimming is resorted to.

Economy in Stock Raising.

A cow that will not respond to liberal feeding by an increase of milk is not worth feeding.

A butter-maker fails unless the cows are properly fed, therefore there must be the right sort of food.

The qualities of the Devon cattle may be referred to three points; their working, fattening and milking.

In the autumn there is no forage or food of any kind better for milch cows as a help for failing pasture, than pumpkins.

If a cow has kind treatment from the time she is a calf up to maturity she will hardly ever be induced to show any temper.

For keeping the stables where milch cows are sheltered and fed, clean and sweet, fine dry earth is superior to any thing else.

For cows, carpets are better than any other variety of roots, and if fed till grass comes again there need be no loss of quality in the butter.

One of the most prominent producers and shippers of milk for an Eastern market feeds his cows exclusively on corn meal and bran, in the proportion of equal parts by weight.

Warm quarters, as well as plenty of nutritious food must be provided for all stock. Warm stables are cold, outside. Cattle, therefore, will not thrive on warm stables, but they will do so on cold ones, if they are provided with warm coats. It is to supply the warm coats that cattle are fed. Fat is the warm coat of animals. It is to supply fat that cattle are fed. Fat is the warm coat of animals. It is to supply fat that cattle are fed. Fat is the warm coat of animals. It is to supply fat

It is stated that the reason for the prorogation of Parliament to February is that the Cabinet hopes by a short recess to get ready for the critical events expected shortly in Ireland. Earl Beaconsfield is stirring at last in politics. He is about to call a conference of Conservatives.

IRELAND.

The news from Ireland during the past week continues to be of the gloomiest kind. The operations of the Land League are spreading, and assassinations and outrages continue to be reported daily. A landlord in Galway County named Gairdner, was tarred and feathered by an armed mob. The Marquis of Sligo has removed all his valuables from West Port, and will reside in London until the agitation is ended. It is rumoured that a landlord owning an extensive estate in the County of Cork has been shot. A policeman has been shot and wounded at Westford, county Clare. The farmers have combined and will prevent hunting this season. Two brothers named Moore have been arrested charged with being concerned in the murder of Wheeler. Michael Moore, one of the brothers, accompanied Wheeler when he was killed. Intelligence has been received by the police of Bala district that during the past week a large quantity of revolvers have been consigned to merchants in that neighborhood. The caretaker shot at on Thursday night on a farm near Newpallas, was fired at from behind a grove while on his way to the farm. He is not dead but in a precarious condition. The nephew of the evicted tenant has been arrested, and identified by the caretaker as his assailant. Threatening letters are being sent to persons in Dublin county, and the Land League movement is spreading in the north of Ireland. A meeting of the tenant farmers of Monaghan county denounced the agitation. It is stated that the real object of Parnell's trip to Paris is to have an interview with prominent Fenian leaders. The proceedings of both Parnell and his allies will be closely watched by the French authorities. A despatch from Cranghwell states that a box containing six rifles, belonging to a merchant of Lough Rea, which arrived from Limerick, was robbed Tuesday night. According to a despatch from Tralee a party of men with blackened faces and long beards visited houses at Cardal, near Castle, Ireland, taking guns wherever they found them. It is now feared on all sides that here is only too much foundation for the reports that the peasantry throughout the country are arming, and are only waiting for a favorable opportunity to defy the Government. Alarming rumors are pouring in from all parts of the island. Combinations against the payment of rent extend into districts hitherto peaceable, and the terrorism which follows closely in the wake of the Land League is steadily breaking down the opposition of the law-abiding class. Tenants who do not pretend to be unable to pay their rents meet the landlords defiantly and refuse to pay more than Griffith's valuation, and in some cases decline to pay at all, or demand an arbitrary abatement.

The Government continue to hope that the lawlessness and violence in Ireland will abate, and that extreme coercive measures may be avoided. It is reported that differences in the Cabinet exist, Argyle and Hartington favoring the adoption of coercion, and Bright and Chamberlain insisting that a liberal land law must accompany action to repress the disorder. The dissensions of opinion are not, however, likely to produce a rupture. Mr. Forster, the Irish Secretary, went to Dublin on Saturday, and the decision of the Cabinet to be arrived at on Thursday (to-day) will be influenced by his reports. The Cabinet is now elaborating details of an Irish programme which will most probably include, besides an improvement of the system of land tenure, the purchase of certain lands and estates with Government assistance for the purpose of placing the scheme of a peasant proprietary on trial. It is believed that the Government's Irish Land Bill will enable the local courts to award compensation, even to tenants evicted for non-payment of rent, give the courts more power for interference in cases of excessive rent, improve the Bright clauses in the Land Act, and simplify the transfer of land.

Russia is full of conflicting rumours; that the whole truth has not yet been made public, and that the case is worse than has been given out. Many insist that the Government is in possession of information that the Czar has been killed outright, but this version is not received by cooler heads. It is agreed that an attempt was made at Livadia, whither he retired with his new wife. It is well known that he left St. Petersburg less on account of his health than to escape the dissension and unpleasantness which his marriage causes among the members of the Imperial family. The Czarevitch, who has been especially bitter and outspoken in his opposition to the Czar's new alliance, is declared to have given a quasi consent to the Nihilistic movement, to make matters so disagreeable as to drive the Czar to abdicate. It is said that many prominent members of the Russian nobility who regard the morganatic marriage as an outrage, are cognizant of such a movement.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 25, 1880.

The Trent Valley Project.

The approach of another session of Parliament brings this important scheme to the front again, at least with those who are more particularly interested in it, and it is to be hoped the advocates of the scheme will take proper steps to have the matter pressed upon the attention of the House and the Government, with a view of securing some decided and early action. Of course, the meeting of Parliament so early as the 9th December, is due to the urgent necessity of placing before the people's representatives the details of the scheme by which the Government have agreed to denude the country of 25,000,000 acres of the public domain, and to divest the treasury of $20,000,000, which Canada will have to borrow in the English money market before she can bestow it upon the Pacific Railway Company. This stupendous bargain is of so great importance that we may fairly expect to see it occupy the principal share of attention during the session; but as, in the shortest time, the matter could not be rushed through the House before the holidays, we presume the session will be extended so as to embrace the usual general business for which Parliament is annually summoned, and that there will be ample time to ventilate the merits of the Trent Valley project. The position of the enterprise is this: It has been reported upon by engineers and by Committees of Parliament as feasible, and as likely to be of incalculable advantage to the eastward movement of grain, competition for which is the object of our principal great public works. It has been demonstrated, even lately by an engineer of authority deputed to investigate the matter by the Government, that a canal, or rather an enlargement of existing navigation, can be made sufficient to forward 6,000,000 tons of grain per year, for the trifling cost of $3,000,000, or an addition to taxation of a trifle of $150,000 a year, supposing the Government to derive no revenue from the work. The necessity for its construction is shown by the fact that not taking into account the enormous out-put of cereals from the North-West which will begin next fall, the shippers of Chicago, the centre of all the great western export trade, are eager to secure the construction of this route to the sea-board, as preferable to all others, the Erie or the Welland. The reason of the interest shown by the Chicago people is manifest. The construction of this canal would place them three days nearer New York, than by the Buffalo route, and two days nearer New York, than by the Welland. It would save them, too, the detentions of the St. Clair Flats which now cost them $1,000,000 a year, and the risks and dangers of the lake navigation. It would place grain at Chicago, thirty-six hours nearer to tide-water at Montreal, than it is at present by the Welland, and would give absolute immunity from the disasters which are experienced every year, and with especially severity have been experienced this year, from the dangerous circumnavigation of Lakes Huron, St. Clair, Erie and Ontario. What proves beyond all cavil the genuine advantages of the route, is the offer, which will be read in another column, on behalf of the Chicago Board of Trade, to build the canal, without bonus or assistance of any kind. Of course the Dominion Government will not, and cannot, accept the offer to hand over all right, title and interest in the canal, even to secure its construction; but the offer shows in the strongest light that the construction of the canal is a safe financial investment, and will amply repay any outlay required to complete the work. Indeed, we have no doubt that the magnificent water privileges which would be opened up from one end of the line to the other—not only opened up, but placed in the most advantageous position as regard access to markets for manufactures,—would in themselves almost, if not wholly, suffice to build this canal, while a nominal tariff would, on the continuous traffic which would be assured, pay the interest on the money required to build the canal. The Government have in their possession ample information upon which to act. They have the report of former Commissions, the opinions of their engineers, the testimony of Montreal and Chicago in favour of the scheme, the petition of the whole district from Georgian Bay to the head of the St. Lawrence in its behalf, and the personal inspection of the Minister of Canals, to go upon. They are under promise, officially given by Mr. Tilley, the Finance Minister, to take this matter up as soon as the Pacific Railway question has been disposed of, and those to whom that promise was made look to its fulfilment. The people do not want the question burked by reference to a Committee, nor do they want a Commission to be issued to provide places for needy followers of the Government, without advancing the enterprise. They want the Government to grasp the enterprise boldly, and to set apart $3,000,000 next session, for the immediate prosecution of the work. It will be a simple matter to raise the additional amount when they go for a loan for the Pacific Railway bonus, and we venture to say the expenditure of $3,000,000 on the Trent Valley, will return a more immediate and a greater interest to the Government, than they will get for the $20,000,000 to be handed over to the curiously impecunious "millionaires from Great Britain, Germany, France, the United States and Canada." We don't want to offer a bribe to the Government; but if they like to take the selfish view of it, we can tell them that the people along the line of the proposed canal will consider their material interests before sentimental differences, and that the Government which undertakes the practical construction of the Trent Valley Canal will find little political opposition among those interested.

Our British Ambassador.

Sir Alex. Galt accompanied the Ministerial delegation to England, on their return to Canada from London, leaving the great interests entrusted to his care at the mercy of a reckless Military Attache. What he came for, seems to be, as Lord Dundreary says, "one of those things which no fellow can find out," though it is suspected in some quarters that the real business of Sir Alexander at present is to act in furtherance of the interests of those "capitalists" of the Pacific Railway, whose capital is to be supplied by the Canadian Government. However, he had no apparent public business here, and he could not have come to consult his Cabinet, as they had already spent three months with him in London; and he departed and made no sign. On his way through New York he had a talk with a member of the New York Herald staff, to whom he unbosomed himself as follows:—

"I think that existing relations between Canada and England are very satisfactory. In my present position it would not be judicious for me to go into the subject and I hardly have time to do so. The English merchants have become more accustomed to the tariff, and are not so sore on that point as they were at first. It was a necessary step. We had to protect our young and growing industries. This could only be done by some such such protective measure. Even now English goods find their way into our market. But we deal more with American markets. You see, in Canada manufactures are limited to a few lines of goods, and for some time we shall have to import articles which can be made at a reduced cost in other countries, such as cloths, fabrics of various kinds, machinery, and agricultural implements. The latter come mainly from the United States, as the American Implements are considered better than those of any other country."

In England, Sir John and Sir Alexander assure the British manufacturers that the tariff is specially framed to favour our Great Britain as against the United States. Hobnobbing with Brother Jonathan, our Resident Minister has quite a different story to tell. There he explains that some goods do "find their way into our markets" "EVEN NOW," "BUT WE DEAL MORE WITH THE AMERICAN MARKETS." Canada for the Canadians, with a vengeance! Then he goes on to say that our consumers are compelled "to import articles WHICH CAN BE MADE AT A REDUCED COST IN OTHER COUNTRIES." He forgot to add that the consumers are not allowed, however, to purchase at that "reduced cost," but are compelled by a capricious tariff to pay a high price, by the imposition of an excessive duty. But what did Sir Alexander mean by slandering "our young and growing industry," the manufacture of agriculture implements? Notwithstanding a tax in 1879 of $132,635 on iron and steel, and galvanized iron, &c., used as raw material in manufacture, and a tax during a portion of the year only of $109,405 on the coal used in the furnaces, the imports of agricultural implements, in the last fiscal year reported, only amounted to $40,646 for reapers, mowers and threshing machines, and $30,018 on all other agricultural manufactures, the whole not equalling a single season's output by one of the scores of manufactories of agricultural implements doing business in this Province. And yet Sir Alexander Galt tells our Uncle Samuel, and probably in his ignorance believes himself, that our agricultural implements come mainly from the United States! Sir Alexander evidently requires to devote a little attention to our Trade and Navigation Returns, before he presumes to advise the Imperial and Canadian Governments upon matters of international trade and commerce.

THE Casket says of Hon. Mr. Aikins, late Secretary of State:

"As Secretary of State he had the oversight of the Canada Temperance Act, so far as it is under the immediate charge of the Government. * * * Under his administration of the department there was no doubt but that justice and fairness might be expected by the friends of our work. The Hon. John O'Connor now takes the position of Secretary of State. We have no knowledge of his personal sympathies, but as temperance workers we very much regret the change."

The Hon. John is not a temperance man. On the contrary, if anything will ever drive him out of the Cabinet, where he clings with tenacity till suitably provided for, it will be to pass the Scott Act in Ottawa. He will then be ready to leave the capital forthwith.

CURRENT TOPICS.

The Toronto Telegram referring to the long vacant Collectorship in that city hopes it will fall to a commercial man. It points out very correctly that the great prizes of political life go to the lawyers, and deems it right that in such positions as are suitable for those who are not lawyers the lay element should be recognized.

A Centennial for Ontario has been suggested for 1884, to celebrate the centenary of its first settlement. As a matter of fact, settlement was begun by the U. E. loyalists in 1782-83, but a year or two would make little difference—those who celebrate the second centennial will be allowed to arrange a date for themselves. The idea is a good one, and we hope will be carried out.

The Toronto Mail urges the relegation of the regulation of liquor licenses to the municipalities, alleging that licenses are used by the Government in the interest of their party. Of course the Mail knows well enough how false the charge is. Nearly all the tavern-keepers in the Province are Tories. How many Reformers do we find in that category in Peterborough? The hotel-keepers are nearly all active Tory politicians here; and so they are throughout the province.

It seems not improbable that the march of progressive invention is about to overtake that bete-noir of our inland lakes and rivers, saw-dust. The Chicago Lumberman describes an invention for utilizing compressed saw-dust, for car-wheels, and we see by the Ottawa Free Press that a proposition is under consideration to start a paper mill at the capital, utilizing the saw dust for pulp. A great economy will be effected should means be devised for laying this disastrous refuse under tribute to our industrial forces.

The report of the Agricultural Commissioners refers to the subject of Agricultal Exhibitions and Shows, and grants thereto, admitting that there is a feeling in favor of alterations and modifications, but stating that no radical change should be made without ample enquiry and deliberate consideration. The report says:—"It can hardly be doubted but that an enlargement of the powers and functions of the Bureau of Agriculture would be very desirable, in order that a more active supervision should be exercised over the applications of the public money voted for the encouragement and advancement of agriculture, and that the Department of Agriculture should be more closely identified with the great agricultural interests of the Province than, with its present limited machinery, is possible."

The Irish Canadian says that the poverty of the position of the Irish Catholic representative in the Dominion Cabinet was so keenly felt that Sir John "found it necessary to appease the just indignation" of the Irish Catholics, by translating the Hon. John O'Connor from the empty honor of the Presidency of the Council to the more substantial position of Postmaster-General. But the Irish Canadian naively points out: "This was on the eve of an election in a constituency where the Catholic body held the balance of power; and now that the election is long past, and it is thought that the Hon. Mr. O'Connor has been long enough in the enjoyment of a first-class portfolio, Sir John brings to bear his blunderbuss and shoots our representative into the Cabinet dust-hole." It does not pretend to know whether Mr. O'Connor is pleased or otherwise at "playing second fiddle when he should be one of the leaders," but on behalf of the Irish Catholics avers that "the Catholic body will not take kindly to this latest juggle of Sir John Macdonald, by which they are as completely ignored in the distribution of the patronage of the Government, as if they were entirely unrepresented in the Cabinet."

Chats With Exchanges.

"If Liberalism is synonymous with progress and economy, and Toryism is synonymous with turpitude and extravagance, it is easy to understand why Quebec is the dullest, poorest and most unprogressive province in the whole Dominion. It may not be owing to the fact that Quebec is Tory and Ontario is Liberal that Quebec is bankrupt and spiritless, while Ontario is financially sound and full of commercial life and vigor; but to say the least the state of things furnishes an interesting coincidence."

So says the Toronto Telegram, and it may rest assured that the inference suggested by the "coincidence" is not misleading.

For the nine months ending 30th September, cotton and woollen manufactures were exported from England to the value of $200,320,000, and metals worth nearly $181,000,000; while for the whole of the twelve months ending December 1879, the shipments of cotton, woollen and metal manufactures from the United States to foreign countries did not exceed ten million dollars or less than ½ per cent. of the exports of the the same articles from the British Isles. What a wretched state of affairs would be experienced in England if she only manufactured for her local consumption.—Montreal Herald.

In Great Britain the general revival of trade is felt with its full force, and the people get the full benefit of it. Here, in Canada, we are crippled by a tariff which robs the people, fetters their industries, and limits their markets, and whatever returning prosperity we may feel is in spite of, and not due to, the N. P. extortion.

THE LONDON Advertiser draws attention to the following facts:—"In his place in the Commons Sir Chas. Tupper stated that the delay in the construction of a portion of the Pacific Railway was the fault of the contractor, the Government being perfectly free from blame. On oath before the Royal Commission the contractor stated that the sole cause of delay was that the Government had not located the line." Our contem. ought to know that anything the Great Stretcher may say in a political speech does not "count" in considering his reputation for veracity. Mr Tilley will never be weak-minded enough to let truth stand in the way of a well rounded period, nor hesitate a moment when falsehood is required to give point to an invective.

"There is great danger that the system of granting bonuses for the establishment of factories in our provincial towns may work injuriously. Towns just springing into existence fancy they will outstrip older places by bonusing some manufacturing establishment. If, however, a business pays, there will be found men of capital who will go into it for the purpose of making money, and it does not require the bonus proposed by municipalities to coax them into it. The utmost aid that should be given is a remission from taxation for two or three years. No manufacturing centre has been founded by granting bonuses; but has been built up by the enterprise of the people and the natural facilities possessed by it for manufacturing purposes."

So says the monopolists' organ, the Mail, and the admission covers the whole question of so-called "protection" to our industries, which is another name for enabling monopolies to force more money out of the pockets of the people than they could under a fair competition. Meanwhile, the people are paying the piper in the increased cost of everything they buy, without any corresponding increase in what they have to sell, or of the profits of industry.

NOTHING SHOWS to better advantage the correctness of the position of the Review upon the "absurdity" of placing a tax upon the coal of Nova Scotia and the grain of Ontario, than the following statement from the Halifax Recorder:—

Instead of 400,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal going to Ontario the first year of the N. P. about 2,000 went thither. As the coal owners probably cleared ten cents a ton upon this handsome shipment we can easily see that $200 is the credit side of the N. P.

The net result of the policy which the Review, before it backslided, characterized as "insane," in the first year of the N. P., is this: Nova Scotia gained $300 on its mining exports; Ontario paid $50,000 more for her coal on account of the tariff. What the duty on breadstuffs cost the unfortunate Blue-noses we have yet to learn. And yet the Review will swear a hole through a stone wall to prove that the N. P. is a blessing. Perhaps it is: but is mighty successfully disguised.

Apsley Social.

IN CONNECTION WITH THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

In Apsley lately I happened to be,
What night the Kirk-folks met to drink tea,
The object money, the preacher to give,
For preachers, like others, have got to live.
Tithe of our income they say is their due,
But those who set that number but few.
Those who to the backwoods repair,
Are really entitled to a good share;
If he do his duty, preach where he can,
The back woods preacher's not an idle man.
Proceeds of the meeting I cannot tell—
At the close the Chairman said they'd done well;
But as for the tea and the eatables there,
When the tables were clad they made people stare.
Recitations, songs, and music were such,
None thought that Apsley could produce as much;
Entertainment throughout seemed to please all,

Dr. Stewart of Belleville, the well known Oculist and Aurist, received a severe injury by a fall on Thursday last.

John Doxtader, of Belleville, mentioned last week as having his hand crushed in a corn husker, has died since from lock-jaw.

A cow of the Ogilvie estate, Campbellford, collided with a locomotive. It (the cow, not the locomotive,) will have to be shot.

Mr. Armstrong, of Fleetwood, intends to move to Muskoka this winter, where he proposes to make his home for the future.

John Welch's blacksmith shop, Minden, was burned on Wednesday of last week. Loss $250; insurance on building, $50.

The best newspaper in the Midland district is conceded to be the Peterborough EXAMINER. Note our new clothes this week.

Mrs. Clarke, of Whitby, has demanded $16 from the Town of Whitby for damages sustained by a fall through a defective sidewalk.

The Orillia Times records the death, at the age of 72 years, of Mrs. Morrison, who settled in that town in 1835, being one of the first pioneers.

A Midland train last Wednesday scooped the wheel off the buggy of Peter Hanlan, of Ops. Mr. Hanlan will cross the track the other end of the train.

The Bobcaygeon Independent records another triumph of the N. P. Mr. Jackson Reid has set up a sausage-stuffing machine in that classic village.

Andrew W. Snider, a native of Picton, but who kept a well known hotel in Belleville for the last twenty years, has "gone over to the great majority."

Hugh O'Mara, had his leg so badly injured on Thursday last while working in the Grand Junction yard at Belleville, that amputation was at first feared.

Mr. Loch and Mr. Wrighton, have been buying fur in Haliburton. Mink, 80c to $1.50. Rats, 8c to 10c. Beaver, $1.52 and up. Otter and Fisher, $8 and up.

Lindsay Orangemen, their wives and daughters, to the number of one hundred, celebrated the anniversary of the gunpowder plot by a supper at Bannan's hotel.

A fire inquest was held into the cause of the burning of Henry Ireton's barn, in Dunsford. The jury found a verdict of incendiary, but were unable to connect anybody with it.

Chas. Allen, and J. H. D. Munson, Cobourg, passed at the recent law examination at Toronto, the former as Attorney, 3rd in a class of 35; the latter intermediate, 3rd in a class of 25.

Mr. Miller, of Newcastle, frequently missing goods from his store, set a watch the other night. One young man escaped. The one in custody is the son of a wealthy and prominent citizen of that town.

Last week we gave particulars of a shooting case at Woodville Junction. The case came before Judge Dean last week, when Geo. Phillips, alias Geo. Currie, was sent to the Central Prison for three months.

James Woods, hailing from Lindsay, blew out the gas at the American hotel, Toronto, the other day. He awoke in time to call for help at 3 a. m., and had a narrow escape from death. It is not safe to blow out the gas.

A horse was found dead with a rope around his neck, tied to a tree, near Colborne, on the 8th inst. No one knows to whom he belonged, and the Express says "the affair seems mysterious." Clear case of suicide, friend Express.

The Lindsay Post says:—"Mr. James Hamilton has this season shipped ten cutters and sleighs to Bracebridge, and four to Midland city. The demand for rigs is so great that he is pushed to get the work finished as fast as it is sold."

Mr. Scott, of Dalewarn, was convicted of sending skimmed and watered milk to the cheese factory, and fined $5 and costs. The principal evidence was supplied by William Stevens, who stationed himself over night in Scott's barn loft and observed the process carried on.

Little Peter Taylor, last week, was fooling with a ship in Cobourg harbour. She lurched, and he went down between the vessel and the wharf. Then she righted. He was flattened out like a pancake. It was a close call, and when he gets well he will never go fooling round a schooner any more.

John McHugh, of Cresco, Iowa, formerly of Lindsay, writes to the Post:—"After an absence of four years, I hope to visit my Lindsay friends the coming spring, but if the exodus from there and vicinity continues in order to visit my friends, I will have to go west instead of east." See the hum!

George Hill, near Picton, is numbered among the many nephews of Uncle Samuel, who have gone away this fall to see that relative. He was'nt much loss though. He owed the Picton Times for two years subscription, and the editor balances accounts by giving him a "free certificate of character as a dead beat."

On Thursday of last week, as Luther Lothrop, a Grafton painter, was working on Edgar Waite's new house in Cramahe, the high wind blew the scaffold down, throwing him down twenty feet, one arm being driven together so that the bone of the upper part was thrust between the two bones of the forearm. By skilful treatment, amputation was avoided.

Grip continues to present its readers with cartoons and reading matter of an ever increasingly interesting character. Each issue seems to be an improvement on the previous one, if such a thing could be possible. It is now an eight page publication, brimful of wit, wisdom and originality. If you want a few hours of good fun every week, subscribe to Grip. The EXAMINER and Grip to January 1st, 1892, for $2.50.

Geo. W. Pringle, of Hamilton township, and John Smith, of that ilk, two brothers-in-law and in iniquity, appeared before Judge Boswell, at Cobourg, on Monday of last week, charged with breaking into the barn of Solomon Bray, of Hamilton, and stealing therefrom fifteen bushels of oats and peas. Smith pleaded guilty and was sent a year to the Central Prison. Pringle was acquitted.

The charges against Irwin, the Lindsay teacher accused of insobriety, were up before Mr. Knight, P. L. S. on the 13th inst, but no witnesses were forthcoming. The accused expressed his readiness to go on with the case. Subsequently Mr. Knight received a commission from the Minister of Education, and having thereby the power to compel the attendance of witnesses, and take evidence under oath, the case will now be thoroughly gone into.

Whitby Town Council has memorialized the Ontario Government to appoint Major Harper, Police Magistrate of that burgh. Major would make a good P. M., but we fancy the Ontario Government have some political friends who have a right to be considered. There is friend Higgins, of the Chronicle now; he is just as thorough a gentleman as Mr. Harper, a better scholar, and as good a judge of raspberry syrup as our friend Major. We shall be pleased to hear of his appointment.

Every dealer in medicine can supply you with Burdock Blood Bitters. Sample bottles 10 cents, regular size $1.00. 48-4ins

We read in the Norwood Register:—"Mr. H. Kelly, son of Mr. D. Kelly, left last week for Dakota, U. S., having bought considerable land there. He has taken with him ten horses, a quantity of farming implements, and other necessaries to carry on agricultural pursuits on a large scale. Mr. John McNaughton, of lot 6, 4th concession of Dummer, is also leaving for the domains of Uncle Sam. Having heard a good report from friends who have preceded him, he has determined to follow their example, and cast his lot among the Yankees." Thus the N. P. is doing its work of depopulating the country, and draining away its bone and sinew and wealth, to enrich the neighbouring States. And yet journals which pretend to common sense, in the light of these every-day experiences, thrust under their very noses, drivel and prate about the "benefits of the N. P."

Trent Valley Canal.

"To the Hon. the Commissioner of Public Works:

"SIR,—I have been commissioned by the Chicago Board of Trade to place myself in communication with you, and to request that you will submit to the Government at the earliest possible opportunity the proposal of the Board by which I am accredited to furnish the necessary capital to construct a ship canal from the Georgian Bay through the waters of the Trent Valley to an outlet at or near Trenton on Lake Ontario. The parties who are most intimately concerned in making this offer are Canadians of undoubted social position and wealth, and are prepared to make all reasonable deposits and give guarantees not only that the work would be commenced forthwith but that it would be prosecuted urgently to the desired end. As of course it is not intended to ask the Government in any way to aid the undertaking, the promoters look for their recompense to a charter being granted them, making over to them absolutely all the right, title and interest of the Dominion in the canal when completed. If the Government are prepared to entertain this proposal, it may not, perhaps, be out of place to remark that this great work would give employment to many hundreds of our unemployed at a time when, unfortunately, it is so much needed, without in any way drawing upon the Government for assistance. At this stage it is hardly necessary for me to do more than refer you for my credentials to Charles Cuthbertson, President of the Chicago Board of Trade, and for opinions as to my position and knowledge of this subject to the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs. Requesting that any communications may be addressed to me at Barrie.

"I have the honor to be, R. K.

"Orillia, Nov. 4, 1890."

As will be seen from the above letter sent to the Government the Chicago Board of Trade, offer to construct the Trent Valley Canal free of all cost to the Government, while they offer all reasonable guarantees for properly carrying out the proposal. The speedy construction of this Canal is a matter of the greatest importance to the people of the surrounding sections of this district and would greatly promote the settlement of the back townships. And not only would it vastly benefit the country along its route and the districts generally, but it would help to secure to Canadians a good deal of the carrying trade of the Western States, while it would give employment to a large number of people during its construction. But notwithstanding the benefits its construction would inevitably produce, the Government have given the proposal the cold shoulder; they are barely interested enough in a scheme which offers the northern part of this Province so many advantages, to acknowledge the receipt of the communication containing the proposal. The motive actuating the Government in treating the matter so coldly is best known to themselves, but whatever it is, it shows a remarkable want of interest in the section of country the construction of the Trent Valley Canal would open up. The Government have tried to make a great deal of capital for themselves regarding the construction of the Pacific Railway by the representation that by handing over the road to a syndicate they are securing foreign capital to be spent among the people of this country, and if the details of the bargain were anything like satisfactory the aim we would not condemn. And if the aim to secure foreign capital among our people is a leading object with the Government in dealing with the Pacific Railway, why not under reasonable conditions accept the offer of the Chicago Board of Trade, when they propose to do a work of great importance? Perhaps Sir John is so busily engaged in selling the lands of the North-west that he has no time to give to small matters which would benefit the people of a large section of this province. It is nevertheless a duty to urge the matter on the attention of the Government, and if terms reasonably favourable to the people and the country are proposed to have it understood why they are rejected.—Orillia Times.

HUMBUGGED AGAIN.—I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and never being well, my wife teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two month's use of the Hop Bitters my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T., St. Paul Pioneer Press. 46-3ins

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 25, 1880.

A Sign of the "Hum."

The EXAMINER appears this week in a new form and printed throughout with new body-type, headings, etc., and we trust its improved appearance will recommend it still further to the generous consideration of its numerous readers and patrons. The type upon which it is printed is from the celebrated foundry of Miller & Richard, Scotland, probably the finest in the world, and has been procured at a large outlay of cash, which has been enhanced by the duty placed upon the article by our paternal Government. By the substitution of brevier type for the bourgeois formerly in use, we are enabled to give our readers about one-fourth more reading matter than before, an advantage which they will appreciate. The old-fashioned blanket form having been found to be somewhat unwieldy for so large a sheet as the EXAMINER, (the largest in the County) it is now issued in an eight-page page shape. By this means we are enabled to effect a more systematic and convenient classification of the contents, and to more conveniently arrange the different departments. This will be an advantage to the reader, and will be materially so to the advertiser, as no matter on what page the advertisement is placed, it is in close proximity to live and interesting reading matter, and will be more readily brought under notice. As now arranged, the EXAMINER offers the greatest possible amount of news, local and general, up to the date of going to press, made up in a shape which will make it more convenient for the reader, and of greater benefit to the advertiser. Continued care and vigilance will be applied in the editorial and other departments, to preserve a healthy and vigorous tone, and to make the paper an impartial exponent and a reliable leader of public opinion, in every matter with which it is called upon to deal, and we trust that the continued effort at improvement, of which the EXAMINER this week is an evidence, will give a fresh impetus to the rapid augmentation of our subscription list which has heretofore been maintained. The cost of the new material, added to the establishment recently, for the newspaper alone, represents nearly of a year's subscriptions, and as it affords no substantial return by an increase of prices, either of advertising or subscription, we hope our readers will not require more than the hint that the payment of the current year's subscriptions, and arrearages where they are due, will be very acceptable between this time and the 1st of January next.

The Book and Job Printing establishment in connection with the EXAMINER Office has also received a new outfit, comprising all the latest and most modern styles in wood and metal types, borders, and general printer's material, with new machinery, which has been added at a large cost, and in spite of a heavy duty, and enables the proprietor to truthfully announce that he has as completely and thoroughly equipped a Printing House as is to be found in the Province, and has every facility for turning out work of every description, at the shortest notice, and in a style not to be excelled anywhere. Those desiring printing for the Christmas and New Year's holidays, Posters, Dodgers, Cards, Circulars, Pamphlets, Bill Heads, Memorandums, Envelopes, Notes, or anything in the line of printer's work, will find it to their advantage to order where they can be guaranteed first-class and stylish workmanship, at ordinary trade prices. Having purchased at a discount for cash a heavy stock of stationery, expressly for the above work, the proprietor has no hesitation in guaranteeing satisfaction both in respect of workmanship, quality and prices.

The proprietor of the EXAMINER takes this opportunity of thanking his subscribers and business patrons for the very liberal encouragement his efforts have been heretofore met with, in a constantly extending subscription list and generous business patronage in the advertising columns of the EXAMINER, which now offer by far the most profitable medium through which to reach the firesides of the people, both in town and throughout the county. That the EXAMINER is without dispute the most widely circulated journal in the county is generally conceded by all except, perhaps, our two down-town contemporaries, who are squabbling as to which of the two has the greater circulation, and it is therefore unnecessary for us to claim credit on that score; but we hope before long to be able to announce, without fear of contradiction, that our list has advanced to a number exceeding all the other publications in the county combined. If our list continues to increase as it has during the past three months, we anticipate being able to make that announcement before the 1st of May next.

The District.

Lake Scugog is frozen over, and the ice is seven inches thick.

The fishery inspector of the Belleville district says that 33 per cent of the nets of the fishermen in the district were destroyed by the recent gale.

Mr. S. D. Farley, license commissioner, Belleville, fell on a slippery sidewalk on Sunday, and knocked out four of his teeth, besides breaking his jaw.

Herman Patterson, a young man of 21, was killed at Folger's Camp, on the Mackinaw division of the Michigan Central, Wednesday morning by a tree falling on him. With his father he left his home at Napanee, Ont., for the lumber woods ten days ago.

A drunken fracas took place at the Queen's Hotel, Trenton, in which a young man named Hulsey received a blow that may terminate in his death. The blow was struck with a stick of cordwood by a man named John Edgar, and the skull of young Hulsey was fractured. Dr. Day expresses it as his opinion that Hulsey will not live. Edgar has been arrested.

A Cobourg telegram of the 21st says: "This evening the Rev. E. L. Koyl, aged 66, died of apoplexy while sitting at his seat at the Methodist church here. His wife discovered him breathing very hard, and Dr. Powell was called, but it was too late. Mr. Koyl was removed to the vestry, and shortly expired. The Rev. T. W. Jeffrey, the pastor of the church, read a few verses from Matthew and dismissed the congregation, after the choir had sung a suitable hymn."

IMPORTANT TO TEACHERS.

The intermediate now takes the place of the third-class certificate. A recent regulation makes an important amendment respecting extensions of the latter. Hitherto the regulations provided that a candidate, in order to enter for an extension of his third-class certificate by examination, could do so only by the permission of the Minister of Education on the recommendation of a county inspector; also, he might be required to attend a model school before the renewal would be granted. The Education Department has recently issued a regulation to the effect that in accordance with the spirit of this regulation County Boards of Examiners are now empowered to exempt candidates who pass the intermediate examination, but have already had experience in teaching, from attendance at a county model school, as a condition of their receiving a third-class certificate, in all cases where the boards consider the teaching equivalent to attendance for one term at a county model school. The Minister of Education states that an intermediate (not graded A or B does not qualify the holder, even after acquiring successful experience in teaching for one year, to enter the Normal School. Hence those having taught who have obtained only the intermediate grade, must study to obtain a higher grade, or apply to the county board for an extension of their third-class certificates.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. B. Pearce and N. B. Gould, of Norwood, have dissolved partnership.

H. Cameron and G. Morrison, of Omemee, have dissolved partnership.

Mr. Chas. Francis, of Trenton, is, we regret to learn, lying seriously ill at his home in that town.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams has gone to Toronto on business connected with the Crown Lands Department.

Mr. Fred. Winch returned on Friday last from New York, where he had shipped, and sold to advantage, a cargo of 500 lambs.

Mr. Hallett, of Ashburnham, was among the witnesses on hand in the case against Mr. Irwin, a Lindsay teacher, for insobriety.

Mr. Jos. Tully, of North Monaghan, who has been on a tour of inspection through Manitoba and the Western States, has returned home.

Dr. McGill, of Oshawa, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Jos. McClellan, of Frenchman's Bay, left last week for Virginia. Mrs. McClelland goes south for the benefit of her health.

THE GREATEST REMEDY KNOWN.—Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this wonderful Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lung yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggist and get a trial bottle for ten cents, which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar bottle will do. For sale by all druggists.

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

The receipts of grain for the past two or three weeks have been very light, and prices have advanced to nearly all kinds. More notably in this the case in barley and wheat. Barley has gone up beyond the expectation of any one in the trade. A few weeks ago it was said by some large dealers in Oswego that No. 1 Barley would decline to 75 cents per bushel. To-day it would bring $1.20 per bushel. The cause is said to be a discovery of a shortness in the crop elsewhere, together with the later fact that a half million bushels have been frozen up in the canals. This latter information has added fuel to the fire, and still it booms in this market. Barley has sold from 65c. to 70c. according to grade. Wheat shows also a marked advance, being now quoted at $1.10 to $1.17, our Chicago friends again endeavoring to make dear bread. In Canada wheat is a poor crop, and the supposition is that there will be no surplus over and above the wants of the country. Farmers do not appear anxious to sell, preferring to hold over for higher prices. Oats are advancing, and are quoted from 28c. to 30c. per bushel. Peas sell from 65c. to 66c. per bushel, and Rye at 56c. to 58c. per bushel, and not likely to be any higher. Butter maintains former quotations, 20c. to 22c. per lb. for prime. The sleighing has brought in plenty of wood, which is sold at $2.00 to $3.00 per cord. Pork is coming in in large quantities, and fetches $5.50 to $6.25. Beef is plentiful at from $3.50 to $4.25. Fowl, etc., at last quotations, with the market plentifully supplied. Apples sell at 50c. to $1.00 per bag. Hay, $9.50 to $10 per ton, with a slight upward tendency. Straw $3.00 per load.

Governor Jas. D. Williams, of Indiana, died on Saturday.

HOW TO GET RICH.—The great secret of obtaining riches, is first to practice economy, and as good old "Deacon Snyder" says, "It used to worry the life out of me to pay enormous doctor's bills, but now I have 'struck it rich.' Health and happiness reign supreme in our little household, and all simply because we use no other medicine but Electric Bitters, and only costs fifty cents a bottle." Sold by all druggists. 48-1in.

Homœopathic Physician, &c., and Medical Electrician.

OFFICE AND RESIDENCE:—With Walter Patterson, Esq., Hunter Street, Peterboro' Office Hours from 8 to 10, 12 to 2, and 6 to 8.

Homœopathic Physicians are the only ones who claim to be Scientific, skillful and Accurate Physicians; that is, who claim to understand the principle on which all diseases are to be cured; who claim to understand the curative action of all drugs or poisons, and who always give the proper curative medicine alone, without admixture. Ordinary Physicians do not claim to be more than what are called Empirics, that is Physicians whose treatment of disease is founded upon past experience, without their being able in the majority of cases to offer any explanation of their treatment. However, the best authors among them admit that their practice of medicine has abounded in false experience. That in the last 25 years, a great change has taken place, that nearly everything done then has been since found out to be wrong. It is also admitted that probably 25 years hence, just as great a change will have taken place. This shows that crude experimentation can never be the basis of a successful treatment of diseases. As regards the term Allopathy, it is simply a name given them by Homœopathic Physicians. One of their most distinguished authors admits this, and says the name should be refused, being he says "a term of unmerited reproach." Nevertheless the mass of them have ignorantly adopted it, not understanding this fact.

When Parliament meets the Government intends to introduce a coercion Act at the same time with the new land bill. The Act will provide for the immediate disarming of the people.

ST. ANDREWS' ANNIVERSARY.

SERMON BY REV. MR. STOBO.

Eloquent and Effective Discourse.

On Sunday evening last, the Baptist Church, Aylmer Street, was filled to repletion with a very large audience, which required both church and lecture room to accomodate them, to hear the annual sermon of the St. Andrews Society, by Rev. Mr. Stobo.

After an appropriate service of song and prayer, the Rev. gentleman in entering upon his sermon, said he felt it an honor to have been requested to discharge a duty which had, on many occasions, been performed by one who was formerly pastor of the church, and who had been prominent in all good works both in connection with the Society and the Church, and in the community at large. It was needless to mention names—old memories would rise up, with those before him who knew to whom he alluded.

Mr. Stobo took for his text the 15th verse of the 28th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, reading from the 11th verse, for the sake of connection:—

"And from thence, when the brethern heard of us they came to meet us as far as Appii Forum, and the Three Taverns; whom when Paul saw he thanked God and took courage."

The Apostle Paul, after a very tedious and adverse voyage, and a season of extraordinary hardships, patient endurance, and holy heroic daring, is now within an easy distance of the city of Rome, the then seat of the world's empire. He has set foot on a soil which kindled the hope that he would have his cause impartially and honorably judged, free from intrigue, bribe and intimidation. As he journeys towards Rome he is conscious of no wrong act, or lawlessness, no stand made by him as a public man antagonistic to the authority or power of the Cæsars.

Puteoli, or what is now known as Puzzuoli, is on a headland projecting into the sea, and distant from Rome one hundred miles, and seven miles west of the Bay of Naples, and at the time of which we read it was the chief port of Italy for ships from Egypt and the Levant. The Apostle Paul, by favor of the Centurion, is allowed to tarry here seven days, while he receives from countrymen and Christian Brethren, hospitality, tender words of sympathy and hearty expressions of good will. They made his heart glad, his mind was fortified, and his way was prepared for a frank and uncompromising defence of the Gospel.

I cannot help looking up to the Apostle with all the ardor of love's admiration when I think of his eventful life, the tremendous difficulties with which he had to grapple, the overwhelming trials he had to endure, and amid all, his grand success as a Christian worker. He arrives at this Port in Italy an ambassador in bonds, but the Gospel is not bound.

He is a frank witness to the truth that grace abounds "to the chief of sinners," and "that God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb." His seven days at Puteoli were no doubt balmy and precious for,

"How pleasing is the scene, how sweet,
When kindred souls in friendship join,
Whose cares and joys united meet,
In bonds of amity divine."

The author of the Acts says:—

"And so we went towards Rome, and from thence when the brethern heard of us they came to meet us as far as Appii Forum and the Tree Taverns, and whom, when Paul saw he thanked God and took courage."

"Appii Forum" was a town in the south-west of Italy, on the celebrated Appiian way, distant from Rome about fifty miles, while the "Three Taverns" was a small place or village and nearer Rome some twenty-seven miles, and was a resting place for travellers in their journeys to and from the great city. Some of the Brethren came as far as Appii Forum, others only as far as the Three Taverns, (not that such places then, had the charm they now have,) "whom when Paul saw he thanked God and took courage."

"As iron sharpeneth iron, so a man the countenance of his friend."

The Apostle had probably never seen any of these brethern before, but they were his kin, though he could not claim kith with them. To them as his countrymen his heart yearned and warmed, and he could not help being else than charmed by the music and pathos of his mother tongue, but, above all, he loved them for Jesus' sake. We cannot stand alone in life, brethern, We are bound together by a chain of unseen links, and we influence each other by the most trival events; between the inward and outward life there is an imperceptible reaction.

Material things affect both our intellectual and spiritual attainments. It is by our every day associations, our likes and our dislikes, our past memories and our present experience, that our sympathies, gratitude and courage either expand or contract, and so the web of character is woven. Just like the flowers we open to the light and sun-warmth and close up against the dark and the cold. God has constituted us social beings, and given us a sympathetic nature, and we must love.

Our text gives us three aspects of Christian character under circumstances of great trial.

SYMPATHY, GRATITUDE, AND HEROISM.

Let us consider,—I. This example of Christain sympathy. "When they heard of us," &c. Our humanity is not so much damaged by the fall as to destroy our sympathies, for in everyday life the striking fact stares us in the face that even those who have erred most, who have unreservedly pandered to evil, and who have sunk lowest in the scale of intellect and morals, even those poor creatures who excite either pity or contempt in the well to do and orderly, can sympathise with and be generous to the poor, the sick, the bereaved, the persecuted and oppressed. If the power of sympathy can live and operate in natures so corrupt and degraded, how much more so, in men born from above, If it can bud, bloom and fructify among thorns, briers and every foul weed inimical to growth, why should it languish, or be stunted in a soil where it has God begotten affinities.

"Whose hath this world's goods and seeth his brother in need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him."

Brother Scots, the St. Andrew's Society exists to extend sympathy to the stranger, the poor, and the unfortunate, and if I understand the design of the sermon it is to "kirn up" your sympathies for the honest poor who are of your "ain kin," as they come into the country.

In our text we have a striking instance of Christian sympathy. St. Paul was thrust along by the tide of fierce persecution. He had been arrested, condemned and bound; still there were faithful brethren found in a foreign country who had not lost faith in him, but gave him their sympathy, and who, to greet him and bid him God-speed, travelled long distances at much expense and at no little risk in identifying themselves with an unpopular cause.

This sympathy, my brethren, is worthy of our attention for several reasons. 1. It was a practical sympathy. It was not mere sentiment or whim, but sympathy, deep, strong and manly, for the man who was among them on the Christ's behalf, bound and in fetters. 2. It was an unselfish sympathy. They gave without hope of return. Paul was a poor prisoner; he had no favours to confer other than his prayers. Their coming to greet him could not be a matter of selfish policy; it must be love of country, and affection for a needy, suffering servant of Jesus Christ. 3. It was reasonable sympathy. They were countrymen and Christians, and they could not do else than sympathise. Mutual help is a divine necessity, and it is most natural that a man should cherish love of country. Sympathy, like the sun, awakens life-force in and gladdens the heart. Christ is the great Sympathiser. He stoops in tenderest love and gentleness to teach the ignorant, to heal the sick, to feed the hungry and to comfort and cheer the sad and sorrowful, and to encourage and strengthen man in the struggle to do right for its own sake. He, then, is our example in showing sympathy, not only to men of our own nation, but of all nations.

But, consider,—II. The example we have of gratitude. "He thanked God." Character without piety is like a tree without a pith. "He thanked God." This reams over from the heart of one who is going not as a conqueror to be crowned, but as a prisoner to confinement and death. When a man is prosperous and popular, joy and gratitude may come easy; but this man by virtue of his faith in Jesus Christ as a living personality and an almighty Saviour, is grateful in adversity and bonds. He thanks God because He is the disposer of all events. "The lot is cast into the bag, but the whole disposing thereof is of God." On what ground did the apostle thank God? He was grateful for the sympathy which the gospel had excited in the breast of his countrymen. He was grateful for the zeal which it had awakened. He was grateful for the triumph it had won. He was grateful for the consolations which it afforded him. No man's condition, brethren, is so dark and distressing as to exclude all cause for gratitude. And what cause have we to be grateful, seeing that we have home, friends, health, life, and the promise of Heaven! A thankless man, my countrymen, is the most contemptible creature in God's world. "Be ye thanful." Be ye thankful that ye were born and reared in a country that abounds in honest men and a sturdy piety, where the youth are trained to regard the gospel not merely as a religion of emotion, but as one of character founded on right principles, and that it is more blessed to give than to receive, and that God is ready to help them that help themselves. Cultivate in the land of your adoption the manly independence, the benevolence and the piety peculiar to your countrymen.

But, consider,—III. The heroism of the man. "He took courage." Courage is a sort of armour to the mind, an impulse that enables us to brave danger, endure hardships, and accomplish arduous achievements; and it is needed in a new country. Courage carries a man beyond the attainments of habit and selfish impulses. Courage has opportunities for development in every life sphere. Courage is not heightened, but is only more conspicuous in public scenes of life. True courage never seeks to report itself. The apostle was naturally a courageous man, but his abiding faith in Christ and love to Him made him more so. Let your faith in Christ give you courage. We may be called upon, my brethren, to evince our heroism. The country of our adoption is new; our nation is but young; of the web which is to be woven in on the loom, your qualities of mind and heart, your words and deeds will decide the pattern; for life is but the throw of the shuttle; be ye, therefore, men among men.

In a new country, remote from home and uninfluenced by the friends of our youth, an easy but dishonourable path may be opened. O, my soul, choose it not! Persecution for Christ's sake may be accompanied with loss. O, my soul, heed it not! Temptation, poverty, bereavement may enter my home. O, my soul, be of good courage. Wait on the Lord. He can sustain. The hope of the Gospel can cheer. Heaven is the better land. We are each toiling through Rome to Jerusalem, and need courage, counsel, and help. The Three Taverns was a place of rest, refreshment, and an hallowed spot to the Apostle; sympathy is an universal need; and what the Three Taverns was to the Apostle, the Lord's Day, the Scriptures, and the Church, may be to us in our pilgrimage to Heaven.

Brethren, do not stint your love to Jesus, the more you love Him the better will you love and serve your country. Do not hain your confidence in Him, but lippen a' to him. Do not let your piety be a draggle-tailed thing, but let it be manly and clean. Loo' Jesus weel, and speak weel of Jesus. And warstling up the hill o' life, "pit a stout heart tae a stye brae." The name of your Society, my countrymen, is that of a man who frankly preached Christ to his own brother Simon, gave up all for Christ, and at last for the gospel's sake endured crucifixion. Emulate then your patron in service and suffering. Scotchmen are said to be men of strong convictions and deliberate utterance. Speak well of Jesus and do well by Him. The object of your society is laudable and christian. It is to take the poor Scotch emigrant by the hand, and to make him feel that though in a foreign land he is among his ain people and tying up his life to a generous and social folk, who dont on kind memories and love and cling tenaciously to their "auld mither tongue." What is more Christian than to gie an honest man a lift in making his home in a new country? What is more Christian than to lift a man when he is doon, and to set him again on his feet? What is more Christian than to feed and clead the hungry weans, and to be brithers to the widow who wi' a sair heart and a begrutten, buries her heart with the dead, and feels that she is far frae her hame, and weary aften whiles.

You cannot help love of country, your kith and your kin, though some are disposed to blame you on that account. You cannot help pride of country, when you think of the large brain power and administrative ability of your people in

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 2, 1880.

Our Patent Tariff.

The St. John Telegraph, one of our best commercial papers, and a very fair, impartial and reliable journal in every respect, has made an interesting calculation of the operation of the 'sugar duties, by means of which the enormous Redpath monopoly has been built up, at the expense of every consumer in the land, under the false pretense of benefitting the revenue. It quotes official figures showing the importations of the various grades of sugars and the duties collected thereon under the revenue tariff, and under the taxation tariff, respectively, as follows:

SUGAR IMPORTS OF 1878.

Grade.	Quantities.	Duties.
No. 13 and above..	93,490,878 lbs.	$2,289,810
9 to 13	10,621,336 "	260,068
Below 9.....	1,108,085 "	16,719
Melado.....	16,894 "	173
Syrups, etc....	3,711,747 "	57,974
	106,931,930 lbs.	$2,567,802

SUGAR IMPORTS OF 1880.

Grade.	Quantities.	Duties.
No. 14 and upwards	17,636,237 lbs.	$433,503
9 to 14.....	56,281,036 "	974,790
Below 9.....	30,657,489 "	440,764
Melado.....	7,554,482 "	82,036
Syrups.....	2,167,673 "	46,811
Bntd. for B. C....	1,950,000 "	32,322
	117,246,917 lbs.	$2,010,251

It will be noted from the above figures that in the imports for the fiscal year ending on 30th June last, the imports have been principally in the poorer grades, the tariff almost excluding the better qualities of sugar. It will be seen, too, that there has been a falling off in the amount of duties collected of no less than $557,551, which has of necessity been paid upon other articles imported for consumption. But the actual loss to the revenue by the change in the tariff has been even greater, for by applying the tariff of the late Government to the importations of 1880, 117,246,917 lbs. of sugar, the receipts of the revenue would have been $2,764,500, so that the actual loss by the alteration of the tariff was $754,250, which had to be made up by the coal, coal oil, clothing and other robberies of the consumers. But, the idea suggests itself, if the revenue was $754,250 less than under the old tariff, the people must have got their sugar that much cheaper? Such, unfortunately, however, was not the case. So well "protected" was the Redpath monopoly, at the expense of the consumers, that not only was the revenue defrauded and the consumers taxed extra to make up for it, but the cost of their sugar was also increased, as will be shown by the following calculation, showing the prices at New York (per export) and Montreal, for granulated sugars:

	NEW YORK. Per 100 lbs.	MONTREAL. Per 100 lbs.
July.....	$5 40	$ 8 88
August.....	5 18	8 88
September.....	5 53	8 50
October.....	5 31	9 03
November.....	7 29	10 94
December.....	6 30	10 38
1880.
January.....	6 49	10 38
February.....	6 06	10 00
March.....	6 33	10 00
April.....	6 14	9 96
May.....	6 24	9 75
June.....	6 36	9 75
Average.....	$6 13	Average..$9 70

Adding to the average price per cwt. at New York, the specific duty of 1c. per lb., and the ad valorem duty of 25 per cent., which was the old tariff, we find the cost of sugar to the consumers in Canada, under that tariff, would have been an average of $8.66 per cwt., as against the average price under the N. P., $9.70 per cwt., by which it will be seen that consumers paid $1.04 per hundred pounds more for their sugar under the new tariff, than they would have had to pay under the old. The average imports of sugars of the Dominion, since 1874, have been 110,000,000 of pounds, or 1,100,000 cwt. per annum.

The increased cost, then, to the consumer under the beautiful N. P. arrangement, amounts to exactly $1,144,000. Add to this the loss to the revenue as compared with the old tariff, $754,250, and we see that it costs the people of Canada exactly $1,898,250 a year to maintain a couple of sugar refineries, that being the amount forced by the legal confiscation miscalled a National Policy, out of the earnings of the people. The figures here given are indisputable, and the lesson they teach is one of which the meanest comprehension can understand the significance. How long are the farmers, the artizans, the mechanics and laborers of this country, the people who create wealth by their industry and pay the taxes out of their hard earnings, to endure this systematic and unscrupulous robbery in the name of the law, for the benefit of a half-dozen plutocrats, whose millions are thus filched from the pockets of the people?

Biennial Sessions.

It is not a little amusing to note the eagerness with which two classes of journals rush to the support of the new-fangled notions, "biennial sessions," and reduction of the people's representation in the Legislature, and the childish manner in which they refer to the refusal of more sober and thoughtful, if not more honest, papers to take up with their new found friends. Some Reform journals, like the Port Hope Guide and others, seem to be led away by the sense of novelty attaching the position of being out of tune with the harmony of party, and are disposed to suffer in the estimation of the public for the doubtful honor of having their "independent" views quoted in the columns of Tory contemporaries. These vagaries are perfectly harmless in themselves, and are only to be regretted because they tend to lower the tone of some respectable newspapers, and make them the tools of dishonest and designing organs of the N.P. fraud, who are eagerly seeking for something to divert attention from the glaring exposures of the Pacific Railway Commission, and the galling commercial fetters under which the public are showing a strong disposition to chafe. These journals, accomplished hypocrites of the Mail and Review stamp, are engaged in the old trick of "drawing a red herring across the trail" of their party's mismanagement and misdeeds; but though they may delude simple folk in one or two instances into the belief that the safety of the whole constitutional fabric depends upon the reduction of the number of members of the Local Legislature by six, and the adoption of the biennial session system, they will find that the general public have a conviction which they cannot uproot—that there are some larger economies to be disposed of before the Province can afford to get excited over a few thousands of dollars a year expended in cost of legislation. The people want to deal with the millions before they turn their attention to the petty economies, and they will bend all their energies to be rid of the gigantic tariff robbery, and the appaling burden of debt being rolled up in the Pacific Railway expenditure, before they grow wild over a few thousands here or there in Provincial expenditure. Then they have to consider the advisability of saving a million a year by the abolition of the Militia Department, that machine for the cultivation of frauds and shams and useless expenses. They have also to effect the abolition of the Senate, and all its appanages, to save another quarter of a million of dollars a year. When this is done there are the expenses of Government House to be reduced, and the mock royalty at the Provincial establishments to be done away with, effecting a large saving. Then, when the superannuation fraud has been abolished, the public service weeded out, and the public business of the Dominion placed on a proper business footing, it will be time enough to "agitate" for reduction of expenditure in the Province. That will be done neither by biennial sessions, nor by reduction of the number of legislators. We have already pointed out the unwisdom and the danger of either of those courses, and none of the clamourers have ventured to discuss or or attempt to confute our arguments. Our system of management in Ontario is so far perfect, that any radical economy, beyond what now exists, is not possible. We can reduce the members' indemnity; we can limit expenses of Government House; we may decrease salaries, though we should question the prudence of such a course. But for a Liberal journal to grow frantic over these minor matters, and to play into the hands of the Tory organs, while there are questions of so much greater importance, vitally affecting the future of the country, calling for their undivided attention; while the country is crying out under a crushing burden of taxation; while dishonesty, fraud and reckless extravagance mark the management of our great public works—is a weak and fatuous policy, effecting no good, and helping the efforts of those who seek to divert public attention from these great evils. It is like a man whose house is on fire, discussing the advisability of repairing his chimney to make it less smoky.

Looking Back.

Unpalled by the example of Lot's wife, our truly good friend of the Review has been looking back at its old files, in order to prove itself a true prophet. It says that in 1874 it warned the Government of Mr. Mowat of the dangerous innovation of increasing the number of the people's representatives by six, and points to the melancholy consequences which have resulted from Mr. Mowat's blind refusal to be warned. The old files of the Review are an interesting study, and while our contemporary was looking back at them, we wonder if its attention was attracted by the following article which appeared in its editorial columns in 1870:

"PROTECTION AND FREE TRADE.

"AS A WHOLE WE BELIEVE THE PRESENT CANADIAN TARIFF (15 per cent.) DOES AFFORD INCIDENTALLY ALL THE PROTECTION WHICH ANY CLASS OF MANUFACTURES FOR WHICH THE COUNTRY IS IN ANY MEASURE SUITED REQUIRE FOR THEIR DEVELOPMENT.

"But to this tariff the manufacturers object, and FOR THE PURPOSE OF SECURING INCREASED ADVANTAGES TO THEMSELVES, they are forming associations, subscribing money, sending delegates to Ottawa, starting newspapers to advocate their views, to educate public opinion to that point which will sooner or later to COMPEL PARLIAMENT TO ACCEDE TO THEIR DEMANDS. OF COURSE; IN THE OUTSET, THEY ARE MODERATE IN THEIR DEMANDS; THEY NOW ONLY ASK AN INCREASE OF FIVE PER CENT. IN CERTAIN DUTIES; BUT THEN ALL HISTORY OF SIMILAR MOVEMENTS SHOWS THAT ONCE SUCH A CAREER IS ENTERED UPON, INCREASE UPON INCREASE FOLLOW EACH OTHER IN RAPID SUCCESSION. If this first increase of duty produces the desired effect, the result is that a certain amount of revenue is cut off, and to replace it other duties have to be imposed. When this is done THEN THE EXPENSES OF LIVING IS INCREASED, wages must be advanced, and then to place the manufacturer in the same position which he occupied before the last increase, a further increase must be made, AN INCREASE WHICH, WHILE IT ADDS NOT A DOLLAR TO THE REVENUE of the country ENHANCES THE COST OF THE ARTICLE TO THE CONSUMER. Taking the very first article named in the resolutions passed at the Toronto meeting of the manufacturers, namely, "cotton and woollen fabrics," we find that by the present tariff these articles are protected to the extent of 15 per cent., inasmuch as the importer of cotton and woollen fabrics has to pay that duty, while the manufacturer is allowed to import the material out of which they are made duty free.

"In order to exhibit the working of this let us suppose the case of two woollen mills, the one on the American side of the line, the other on our own—they both obtain their raw material on equal terms, or if there is any difference it is in favor of the Canadian, as he is at liberty to buy his material in the cheapest market in the world without let or hinderance, while his American neighbor must buy his wool from the American farmer or pay duty on it—then as to wages of operatives, whatever difference there is between the two must be in favor of the Canadian again, inasmuch as THE COMPARATIVE CHEAPNESS OF THE NECESSARIES OF LIFE on this side as compared with the other IS AN ADVANTAGE WHICH WORKING PEOPLE ARE NOT SLOW TO APPRECIATE. So that independent of the duties altogether the Canadian manufacturer is at least on an equal, if not on a superior footing, to that of his American competitor—when adding to this he has, so far as our own market is concerned, and it is not claimed that this question of tariff affects any but our own market, under the present tariff an advantage of fifteen per cent.,—WHERE IS THE SENSE IN THE CRY that the American manufacturer has the advantage of our own? or is it really true that the Yankee, notwithstanding the disadvantage of high taxation, a limited market from which to draw his material, increased wages, and a duty of 15 per cent., can undersell the Canadian, and wherefore the cause?

"And then, granting that such is the case, WHAT ARE THOSE WHO PAY THESE INCREASED DUTIES TO RECEIVE IN RETURN? Where is the quid pro quo? IT APPEARS TO US THAT IF ANY ONE HAS THE RIGHT TO COMPLAIN OF THE PRESENT TARIFF, IT IS THE CONSUMER—PARTICULARLY THE FARMER. Let a Canadian farmer take his wool to one of these two factories to sell, and what is the result? Why the Canuc's 20 cents per pound would just be as good as the Yankee's 24 cents. While in buying cloth the Canuc can with impunity demand a dollar and fifteen cents per yard for the cloth which the Yankee offers for a dollar, AND YET THE CANUC WANTS MORE PROTECTION! In the same way we might go through the whole list, even though it is rapidly increasing every day!

"BUT TO US, THE GREATEST ABSURDITY IN THE WHOLE SCHEME OF THE PROTECTIONISTS IS THAT OF THE PROPOSED PROTECTION OF THE FARMER AND THE COAL OF NOVA SCOTIA. We fancy a great many of those gentlemen "SEE THROUGH IT" QUITE WELL, BUT THEN TO CURRY OUT THEIR OWN GAME they must not only scratch each others backs, but THEY MUST TRY, OR MAKE THE FARMERS BELIEVE THEY ARE TRYING, WHICH AMOUNTS VERY OFTEN TO THE SAME THING, TO PROTECT HIM. DOES ANY SANE MAN BELIEVE THAT THE IMPOSITION OF 25 OR 50 CENTS DUTY PER BARREL ON FLOUR WILL PUT A SINGLE PENNY INTO ANY FARMER'S POCKET? IF SO WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW HOW IT IS TO BE BROUGHT ABOUT. WHAT IS TO BE DONE WITH THE SURPLUS GROWN EVERY YEAR IN THE DOMINION? IF THE PRICE OF WHEAT IS TO BE ADVANCED BY THE DUTY, WHO IS GOING TO BUY THE SURPLUS AT THIS ENHANCED PRICE, AND SEND IT OUT OF THE DOMINION AT A LOSS? BY THE IMPOSITION OF SUCH A DUTY MILLERS MAY MAKE SOMETHING, BUT THE FARMERS OF ONTARIO NOT A CENT, while the Blue-noses will have to pay that much more for their flour, the greatest part of which will go in paying freight, and then in order to make the increased price in the staff of life palatable in Nova Scotia, a duty is to be imposed on coal so that we may be compelled to buy their coal in return for their buying our bread, and just with about the same result—WE WILL HAVE TO PAY AN ADDITIONAL PRICE, THE DUTY, WHATEVER IT MAY BE."

On the 22nd March following, Sir John Macdonald's government having in the in the meantime imposed duties on flour, coal and grain, the Review entered its protest against the "absurd" and "insane" principle of Protection in the following language:

"DUTY COMPELS US TO PLACE ON RECORD OUR CONDEMNATION OF THE DUTIES ON COAL, FLOUR AND GRAIN, (with, the exception of Indian Corn) AND SALT."

The Review knows how well its course within the past two years tallies with the principles (!) it here so ably and so incontrovertibly lays down. It knows the hypocrisy and the dishonesty of its attitude then, or of its position now—nor do we think there will be any weeping of the angels at such a melancholy evidence of (apparently) appalling inconsistency. We say apparently, because as a matter of fact, though glaringly inconsistent in dealing with its alleged principles, it is perfectly consistent in its time-honored policy of time-serving support of whatever seems to pay best for the time being, and welcomes any mire through which the exigencies of a tortuous party policy may lead it. It has a way of its own in dealing with the crooked portraits which the mirror of its past career holds up to it for contemplation. Where duty is incompatible with its political necessities duty is ignored. Where its party leaders take t round a sharp corner like that of "protection and free trade," it blots out the past in virtue of an easy conscience. It regards such evidence of moral turpitude as is quoted above, which would bring a blush to the face of a brass door-knocker, if it had any sense of decency, with serene and placid indifference,—for has it not got its reward in its advertising columns, illustrated profusely with Her Majesty's coat of arms? So with the outrage that was sought to be perpetrated upon this Province in the attempt to set aside the award of the North-West Boundary Arbitration—"mum" was its motto, for it would rather any iniquity should be suffered by the Province, than it should raise its voice to find fault with its party master. So, too, with the squandering of $10,000,000 of the people's money in British Columbia—it could not approve, and it dare not condemn. And yet it has the hypocrisy to attempt to appear in the role of a stickler for public economies, and poses as the jealous guardian of popular interests, wildly solicitous lest the Province should be plunged into bankruptcy, because the people have been given six more representatives in the Legislature than they had previous to 1874, at the alarming cost of $4,000 or $5,000 a year. In this respect our contemporary swallows a whole procession of camels at the bid of Sir John, and strains in an agonizing manner at the gnat which Mr. Mowat throws in its way. However, the day of humbug is over, and the people, who have been taught to look into their pockets to see the practical effect of the policy which robs the many to enrich the few, will not be led away from the duty they have in contemplation at the next general elections, by the Pecksniffian policy of the local N. P. organ.

Mrs. Powers of Pension Falls, committed some time ago to Lindsay gaol as a lunatic, was removed to the Hamilton asylum.

Wednesday evening, Dr. John Beatty, druggist, an old resident of Newmarket, expired suddenly while sitting in his chair reading a newspaper.

A 2-year-old child of Mr. Peter Lusk, living near Tweed, in the neighborhood of Belleville, fell into a pail of hot water a few days ago. It died on Thursday from the effects of the scalding received.

On Thursday last while Alex. Robertson, contractor, was drinking in Belleville, his watch and chain were grabbed by a man named William Morgan. The latter was arrested and committed for trial.

The Hope Cheese factory has just closed a very successful season. There were about 72,000 pounds of cheese manufactured, for which was realised over eight thousand dollars.

But a small vote was polled on the by law granting a bonus to Messrs. Gault Bros'. cotton mills at Campbellford, the carrying of the by-law being conceded. Fifty-five for and seven against was the result of the poll last Thursday.

While John Copeland, a young farmer, was dissipating in Lindsay bars on Thursday evening, his team which had left him, started down the track, and was run over by the Toronto train. Both horses were instantly killed.

On Monday of last week, Robert Taylor and Lucas Weese, charged with assault and attempted robbery, were brought before Judge Lazier, at Belleville. Taylor was discharged and Weese was sentenced to one month in jail.

They had a warm time at the Voters' List Court for Scott Tp. There were 30 appeals from the Conservatives, and 35 from the Reformers. The result was that the names of seven Reformers were added and eight struck off, five Conservatives added and six struck off.

Mr. James Elliott formerly of Hope, but latterly of the Elliott settlement, North-West Territory, has returned here after an absence of nine months. Mr. Elliott is delighted with his new home on the prairies, the soil of which is wonderfully fertile.—News.

On Friday 26th, Matura Blakely was charged before Judge Boswell, at Cobourg, with deserting her child, by leaving it at the house of a man whom she declared was its father, in the Tp. of Cartwright, on the 3rd of November. After the hearing of evidence, judgment was reserved till Monday, when she was found guilty, and sent to gaol for two weeks.

Two young girls, named Holtorf and Seever, whose parents live in Lindsay, were on Friday last sleigh-riding down a hill that leads into the river. Their sleigh carried them out on the ice, which broke and let them in. The young girl named Seever was drowned; the other one was rescued. The body has not yet been recovered.

On Thursday evening of last week as a western bound freight train was leaving Colborne station one of the brakesmen fell off near the semiphore, and the cars passed over one of his feet, cutting it off. He crawled back to the station on his hands and knees, where he was taken care of until the following morning, when he was sent to the hospital at Toronto.

As Messrs. McCoy, Adams and Speers were driving in Norwood on Thursday last, on a lumber waggon, the box collapsed. One of the hind wheels passed over the head of Mr. McCoy, inflicting several painful wounds on his face and the back of his head. Mr. Speers was seriously hurt on one of his shoulders and about the body.

Miss Nellie Stewart and Miss Julia Porter on Wednesday of last week were before the Cobourg beak on charge of selling liquor without license. The "ladies" have a doubtful character. Porter pleaded guilty on three counts, was fined $60 and sent to gaol till payment. Stewart was convicted and remanded to gaol pending decision of the P. M. on a point raised by counsel.

The Norwood Register chronicles a serious threshing-mill accident which took place on Tuesday of last week at the farm of Mr. Thos. Howson of Asphodel. It seems that Allan Peters who was assisting in the threshing got his foot caught in the gearing and terribly injured before the machine could be brought to a standstill. Dr. Ford found it necessary to amputate three of the toes and a portion of the foot. The injured man is progressing favourably.

The "Hum" seemed to have struck a Port Hope industry on Friday. Messrs. Winslow & Ambrose on that day shipped thirty loads of ale to points north, and the occasion was embraced by the "boys" in the brewery to get up a little fun. Every conveyance that could be engaged in town was brought into service, the cavalcade being marshalled by Mr. Lawrenson. The rear was brought up by a banner, upon which was painted "The Hum," and also a caricature of the Finance Minister. As the procession moved through the streets, it gave rise to some amusement.—News.

On Saturday 20th, a curious case came before Magistrates Breakenridge and Drain. Thos. O'Shea and Jas. King. Trustees of S. S. No. 6. Asphodel brought an action against Messrs. Timothy Murphy and Denis Hurley, the latter Secty-Treas. of the Board for malicious trespass on the school and damage to amount of $5. The plaintiff testified that they heard there was to be a meeting in the school house on the 8th inst and put up a notice forbidding parties to come into the school house on that evening. Mr. O'Shea, on cross-examination, said he understood there was to be a meeting of ratepayers to consider the conduct of the trustees about hiring a teacher. Wm. Webster went to the meeting by invitation of Mr. Murphy; there were a majority of the ratepayers there and a petition was got up by the meeting asking the Inspector to call a meeting of the ratepayers and protesting against the course of the Trustees. Mary Foley the teacher testified that she had dismissed the school at 3:15 on that day by request of Mr. O'Shea, for a meeting. She had not refused to give up the key, and thought she had a right to keep the school open till 4 o'clock. The Magistrates dismissed the case, with costs, $7, on the complainants, who paid the same forthwith.

Joy Among the Children.

COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 200 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea or griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water," another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off," another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight," yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL," is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto.

NO RISK.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH THE TIME'S ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT, IT IS TIME YOU DID.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common Sore Throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old Standing Cough. One or two bottles cures bad cases of Piles or Kidney Troubles. Six to eight applications cure any case of Excoriated Nipples or Inflamed Breast. One bottle has cured Lame Back of eight years' standing. Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Tioga Co., Pa., says: "I went thirty miles for a bottle of our Oil, which affected a wonderful cure of a Crooked Limb, by six applications."—Another who had had Asthma for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get no more."—Rufus Robinson, of Nanda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper for five years."—Rev. J Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: "Your Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of six of the Best Oils that are known. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasureably superior to anything ever made Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of those elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 2, 1880.

Toronto and Ottawa Railway.

A motion was introduced in the Council, on Monday evening, asking Mr. Dennistoun to prepare a By-Law to repeal the By-Law granting aid to the Toronto & Ottawa scheme. We are at a loss to conceive the purpose of this. As admitted in their application to the town in June last, by the new T. & O. Company, the By-Law granting aid to the railway lapsed on the 1st of July. The Council refused to accede to the request to extend the time, by By-Law or otherwise, and on and after July 1st last, the By-Law was as dead as a door nail—as extinct as the dodo. If the By-Law has any existence at all, it can only be by the compliance with its conditions by the Railway, and in that case it could not be repealed by the Council; but it has no existence whatever, and is of no effect whatever. To talk of repealing the By-Law, is to admit, to some extent, that it is a claim upon the town, an admission which the Company would no doubt like to see, but which the town cannot afford. By refusing to take action last June, when requested to extend the time in order to keep the By-Law in force, the Council effectually dealt with the subject, and to go to needless law costs now getting up a new By-Law on the subject is a simple waste of money.

The Dominion Debt.

The statement is made that the Finance Minister will propose the funding of the Dominion Debt at 4 per cent. This would be a wise action, if it can be satisfactorily accomplished. Mr. Cartwright saw the advantage of this, and by prudent financial management, did so succeed in raising the credit of the country that he was enabled to reduce the debt bearing interest at 6 per cent., from 1873 to 1878, by $7,296,504, converting into 4 per cents. We question if the wild extravagance and gigantic speculations of his successor have improved the chances of further economy in this direction, but Sir Samuel Tilley will do well to follow in Mr. Cartwright's steps, and, if he can reduce the whole debt to a 4 per cent. basis, will do something to redeem the time and money belonging to the public which he has wasted this season playing "Oily Gammon" among the manufacturers.

The Trent Valley Scheme.

The commercial journals of Montreal seem at last to be awakening to the urgency of this question, and to realize its importance to the country, and to Montreal as a shipping port. The Montreal Star of Monday summarizes the facts given in last week's EXAMINER, and concludes an able article as follows:—

"These are astounding figures, but they are nevertheless true, and the whole carrying trade of the West would seem to be ours as soon as the Trent Valley Canal is built, and Montreal is made a free port. With such a prize in view every impediment standing in the way of its realization must be persistently attacked, and the citizens of Montreal expect to see their representatives do yeomanry work this session on behalf of their suffering maritime interests. The proprietors of the finest Montreal ocean steamship, down to the owners of the clumsiest old timber ship of the Maritime Provinces, or of the tiniest canal or lake boat in the West, are all deeply interested, and their interests are certainly worth careful attention. If the pledges of the Government in regard to our shipping and the opening up of the Trent Canal be redeemed, the East and West may be be expected to unite in rapid progress; but if the desired action is not taken every year must witness a depletion of our commerce."

all the walks of life in every land, even though some complain of Scotch ascendancy. You cannot help loving your own, and its the very nature of things that character should come to the front.

"Seest thou a man diligent in business; he shall stand before kings."

Shenstone says:—

"I fancy the proper means of increasing the love we bear for our native country is to reside some time in a foreign one."

Southey says:—

"Whatever strengthens our local attachments, is favorable to it in its individual and national character, our home our birthplace, our native land. Think for a while what the virtues are which arise out of the feelings connected with these words; if you have any intellectual eyes, you will then see the connection between topography and patriotism. Show me a man that cares no more for one place than another, and I will show you in that same man one who loves nothing but himself. Beware of those who are homeless by choice; you have no hold on a human being whose affections are without a taproot. The laws recognize this truth in the privileges they confer upon freeholders, and public opinion acknowledges it also in the confidence which it reposes upon those who have what is called a stake in the country. Vagabond and rogue are convertible terms, and with how much may any one understand who knows what are the habits of the wandering classes, such as gypsies, tinkers, and potters."

Scotchmen cannot do else than love their country, rugged and sterile—terribly grand.

"Land of brown heath and shaggy wood;
Land of the mountain and the flood."

We cannot forget its picturesque beauty and teeming fertility in moss, fern, wild flower, and bonny blooming heather. We cannot forget the happy days of our childhood, when we played among the laughing buttercups, and sat daffing with the wee modest crimson-tipp'd flower, the Gowan; and when we played on the sand o' the seashore, and looked for the Limpit, the Whelk, and the Cockle, and gathered the toothsome Dulce, or when we paddled i' the burn and tried to catch the bonny trout. We cannot forget the grand traditions and glorious history of our country—the chivalry, the piety, the intellect, the genius, the poetry, and the philosophy of our people. While memory holds its place we cannot forget our great ones, who live on the page of history as soldiers and patriots. Our Wallace and Bruce; our Sir John Moore and Ralph Abercrombie; our Sir Charles Napier and Colin Campbell. We cannot forget our great ones, who live on the page of history as religious reformers and theologians. Our John Knox, Wishart, Melville, Cameron, McMillan, the Erskines, and Chalmers, Guthrie, Candlish, Duff, and McLeod. In the field of romance and poetry we cannot forget our Sir Walter Scott, Burns, Tannehill, Campbell, Montgomery, Hogg, Smith, Ballantine and McDonald. In literature we cannot forget Hume, Smollet, Jaffray, McAuley, and Carlyle. In philosophy we canot forget Brown, Dougald Stuart, Reid, Hamilton, Calderwood, and Bain. In the mechanical arts and marine architecture, we cannot forget Watt, Bell, Napier, Todd, and Elder.

We are the sons of noble sires. Let us emulate their virtues and eschew their vices; and while we love and have a passion for the broad Doric, and admire the manly independence, the self-adaptation, the massive mind, the strong common sense, and the quaint dry humor of our people, let us not be less Canadian than Scotch; and let us graft on our young national life the virtues and not the vices of our people. Good Scotchmen are good; bad Scotchmen are bad. Let us not only be Scotchmen, but also lovers of Jesus. Let our life be a living trust in the Son of God. Love of country, faith in and admiration for a noble ancestry, will not save us. Singly and individually we must obey the Gospel call if we would receive the Gospel blessing, and have our fruit unto holiness and our life one of true benevolence. Brethren, our countrymen need more than bread and a welcome; they need Christ as they land upon our shores and seek to make the wilderness a fruitful field and to cause the desert to blossom as the rose. We must do as St. Andrew did. He brought his own brother Simon to Christ. Let us bring our countrymen.

Brother Scots, would that I could bring back to you to-night the holy, happy memories of your childhood. Oh, I would in all tenderness lead you back to the time you sat dandled on mothers' knee, and learned from her lips to lisp that name which is above every name, the name, Jesus. I would to-night have you kneel (with your sainted mother) by the little trundle-bed in that neat, cosy, Scotch kitchen, in that bit hoose wi' its "But and Ben," and there repeat after her the prayer of your childhood,—

"This night I lay me down to sleep:
I pray the Lord my soul to keep;
And if I die before I wake,
I pray the Lord my soul to take."

And then I would have you repeat after her the prayer,—"Our Father which art in Heaven; hallowed be Thy name; Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done, on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our debts, as we forgive them who are indebted to us; and lead us not into temptation, but, deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power, and the glory, now and for ever. Amen." I would also have you recall that grand old Psalm—the XXIII—as you were taught it from mothers' lips,—

"The Lord is my Shepherd, I'll not want;
He makes me down to lie,
In pastures green; He leadeth me
The quiet waters by." etc.

I would have you go with that sainted mother into the little bed-room, sae comfortable, sae cosy, and sae trig, where she put you abed, sang ye to sleep, and carefully happit ye' i' the blankets and left you wi' a mother's kiss tae God's care, Wha mak's bairns His choice. I would have you to be softened by the holy, happy memories of childhood's days, and while the heart is soft and tender, I would have it open to receive God's full, free love-gift, Christ. I would have you know that the Christ of whom you learned in your youth in your Scottish home, is the Christ who was with you on the broad sea and defended you against its dangers; the Christ who was with you in the wilderness amid all your toils, and who watched over your humble dwelling while the bear and the wolf prowled around. I would have you know that that Christ, sae lang forgotten and sae much slichted by you, is in this place wi' a' the love of a brither, and a' the power of a Saviour; His heart the same as of yore—ready to receive you. He shows you the print of the nails in His hands and in His feet, and the spear wounds in His side, as the wounds He suffered for you. He appeals to your affections and to your own sense of what is fair and just; He claims your love; He bargains for your service. Old and feeble though you be, my brother, and far as you may have wandered from God in youth or manhood, Christ is willing to save you now and for ever. Let Christ, then, has your hearts; mak' Him your choice! And, oh, you who know and love Jesus, "Return unto thine own and show what great thing God hath done unto thee." The woman of Samaria when she had found the Christ, "Went into the city and said unto the men: 'Come see a man that told me all things that ever I did. Is not this the Christ?'" Love of country led the Apostle Paul to say: "Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved," &c. He had sympathy for his countrymen. To illustrate sympathy permit me to relate an incident of interest. Not many years ago in the modern Athens, the city of Edinburgh, there was witnessed a very affecting scene. On the Mound, that great busy throughfare, there was a fine carriage drawn by a span of beautiful horses, which from some cause or other became wholly unmanageable in the hands of their driver. In handling the ribbons he was helpless, as they tore down hill at a mad break-neck pace. Teamsters drew aside, foot passengers ran for very life's sake, but right in the middle of the street, and all but under the uplifted hoofs of those raised animals, stood a little rosy, chubby, innocent, three-year-old boy, conscious of no danger. A plain woman on the sidewalk took in the whole situation at a glance, and in a moment, in obedience to the promptings of the maternal instinct, made one spring into the middle of the street, and gripping the child, dragged him from under the uplifted hoofs of the horses, and lifting him in her arms she hugged him to her bosom, and while the big tears filled the eye and trickled and ran down the cheek, she printed kisses on his sweet face and sobbed aloud: "Oh, my bairn, my bairn, my bonny bairn!" A crowd gathered round the woman, who had done so grand and daring a thing, and one more curious than the rest enquired of her, "ma' woman is that your bairn?" "No," said she, "He is no my bairn, but he is somebody's bairn." Oh, we meet wi' somebody's bairn everyday, and they need our sympathy and support. Let our sympathies be broad and deep. "Christ receiveth sinners," let our sympathies be as broad as His. "Christ died for sinners," let our life be self-forgetting and self-sacrificing like His. "Christ came to save sinners." Oh, be you the arms of His mercy extended to man fallen and lost. The "work of reconciliation to God," is our work, if we are reconciled! "Receive ye one to another as God for Christ's sake hath received you." Oh, be generous my countrymen. "Christ made himself of no reputation."

"We are not our own to live or die,
Snatching at pleasures as they fly;
We are not our own while a mighty crowd
Cries with a voice all deep and loud,
We perish! we perish! O give us bread;
Fill us and feed us, as you have been fed.
While the pale shrunk lip and the hollow eye
Bespeak them fainting and ready to die.
While the strong man groans in his bitterness
And the infant wails in its weak distress,
Oh, turn not away from the sigh and the moan,
Remember, O, man, thou art not thine own."

"For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, who though rich, for your sakes became poor that ye, through His poverty, might be rich." "Be strong and quit you like men."

A liberal collection was taken up at the close in aid of the funds of the Society.

Move in the Right Direction.

A very sensible movement was inaugurated at the meeting of the Council on Monday night, by a motion of Councillor Smith, looking to the procuring of a special act from the Ontario Legislature, to enable the town to consolidate the debenture debt and reduce the rate of interest payable thereon. The rates of interest paid at present on town debentures are six and seven per cent. At the present price of money, a first-class security, as the town of Peterborough debentures offer, can easily be placed on the market at par at four per cent., on being placed in a proper shape for disposal. At five per cent debentures should be placed without difficulty, and return their face value after paying all expenses. There was never a better time than the present for effecting such an economy. Money is plentiful, seeking investment at lower rates of interest than have been offered for many years, and now is the time to take advantage of it. It is estimated that the reduction of the rate of interest on the town debt to 5 per cent. would save an annual sum of $2,500,—a sum which capitalized represents $50,000, which could be available for prosecuting new enterprises, of which the town stands in need, without increasing the rate of taxation; or which might be applied to the reduction of the rates. This is the most sensible movement the Council has made this year, and we trust it will be followed up to a satisfactory conclusion.

KEENE NEWS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Rice Lake and the river in this vicinity is frozen several inches in depth. Several teams have passed up and down and several pedestrians have crossed.

Sleighing is unusually good in and around Keene.

Matrimony is creeping once more into this locality.

The Grand J. R. is now in full blast, the ballasting having been completed. The first train for passengers passed through here on Saturday last.

SELWYN NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Sickness has prevailed this season to an unusual extent with both man and beast. Most of the horses are afflicted with the epizootic, but as yet no deaths are reported.

Much threshing is now being done and the hum of the threshing machines are heard on all sides of us from morning till night.

The business in connection with the Selwyn cheese factory has been wound up for the season, and all interested parties appear to be highly pleased with the result of the season's work.

Many are now taking advantage of the good sleighing to get their produce to market.

Chemong Lake is frozen hard enough to carry teams.

Our oldest inhabitant is clearly at a loss to find a parallel for the weather we have been experiencing of late, and Vennor is at a discount of about 100 per cent.

Our new store keeper and post-master, John McKanty, is doing a thriving business.

No mosquitos have been seen here for the past week or so. Their decrease in number is our increase in comfort and good temper.

TRY IT AND BE CONVINCED!

CONSUMPTION

CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: 46 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, Sept. 2, 1876.
GENTS—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation, in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used my own family, and in my private practice very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent, as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M.D., Baltimore.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.
December 16th, 1878. Very truly, J. SIMONAUD, M.D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following results: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c., I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle, and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 29, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2nd, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

THE IRISH REVOLUTION.

The Rome Aurora, the organ of the Vatican, states that Archbishop McCabe came to Rome for no other purpose than to make his first visit as Archbishop of Dublin.

A Plymouth despatch says the ship Valorous starts for the south of Ireland on Monday with small arms, ammunition, buckshot, and steam pinnaces armed with seven-pounders for river defence.

The manifesto to the Orangemen of County Down endorsing the course recommended in the resolution of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland to organize counter-demonstrations on the same days and at the same places appointed for Land League meetings, received 10,000 signatures in two days.

A private in the 3rd Dragoons, stationed at Ballincolly, was shot and badly wounded on Thursday. Police Sergeant O'Connor was half murdered at Clarenmorris on the same day, being brutally beaten and kicked by the mob. Minor outrages are increasing throughout Ireland.

A despatch from Dublin says:—There are persons who are marked for the assassin's bullets, and are obliged to have their houses guarded by police. Several residents in the suburbs have received threatening letters, and the authorities have warned them not to venture out after nightfall. Among them are professional gentlemen who have acted in ejectment proceedings.

The Spectator asserts that the re-conquest of Ireland by a military force is the only and inevitable result of the present contest in the island. That all the disturbed districts in Ireland will shortly be occupied by the military is beyond a doubt, as in addition to the numerous bodies of troops already sent it is reported that another battalion of marines is en route for the scene of the agitation.

Parnell is reported as positively declaring that under no circumstances will Ireland ever accept coercion. Parnell's movements now give rise to much anxious speculation in Dublin and London. It is stated that in its Irish Land Bill the Government have determined to make a stand on two points: a wise abolition of very small tenures, and fixity of tenure all around.

The following is the resolution of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland, referring to the Down Anti-League:—

"The Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland heartily approve of the contemplated action of the loyalists of Down to counteract the working of the Land League, and earnestly recommends all true Orangemen to aid in the movement. Polling manifests to which are attached the names and addresses of upwards of ten thousand persons, representing all classes have been issued within two days to the loyal men of Down. We have up to the present watched with feelings of indignation the progress of the Land League, an organization led by enemies of the British constitution and aiming at the dismemberment of the empire. It damages every commercial interest, teaches the repudiation of contracts, blackens our country by those revolting outrages culminating in murder and crime which shocks the sense of justice and strikes at the fabric of our social system to its very foundation. In a legal and constitutional manner we recently assembled to call upon the Government to restore the supremacy of the law, but the League continues to scatter its decrees, and has now attempted to invade the Province of Ulster. The time has now arrived when it becomes our solemn duty to arouse ourselves in defence of human life, in maintenance of the constitution, and of civil and religious rights and liberties. You will be called upon, therefore, to assemble in your tens of thousands to repel the invasion of the apostles of anarchy, disloyalty and communism, and also to take steps for holding a loyal meeting wherever a disloyal one takes place. Respond then when the call is made upon you. Let your manhood assert itself. Down expects her loyal sons to do their duty, and let your watchword be 'fear God and honour the Queen.'"

An iron crane, covering a quarter of an acre, weighing two thousand tons, and able to lift four 100-tun guns, has been erected at Woolwich Arsenal. One man works it.

It is announced that Earl Dufferin will be transferred from St. Petersburg to Constantinople, and that Sir Edward Thornton, Minister at Washington, will be raised to the rank of ambassador and sent to St. Petersburg. Sir Edward will be succeeded by Francis Clare Ford, formerly Secretary to the Legation at Washington.

General Roberts testifies in the warmest terms to the blameless behaviour of all ranks of the military service throughout the Afghan campaign. Roberts speaks eloquently and pathetically of the hardships which the men endured and the important victories which they won, and says that while England is blessed with such brave defenders she need fear neither foreign nor domestic foes.

Lord Beaconsfield, through Lord Rowton, has manifested himself as highly displeased with the revolt of the Fourth Party against the leadership of Sir Stafford Northcote. Despite their position on that matter at Woodstock the Tory party is in a state of disruption. If the Lords should throw out the Irish Land Bill the Government would introduce a County Franchise Bill, and take the sense of the country on its policy. The tension between the Lower and Upper Houses is increasing daily, and a struggle is inevitable. Tory opposition to the Land Bill is to be universal, thorough and relentless.

FATAL CONFLAGRATION.

Toronto Firemen's Gallant Exploits.

About seven o'clock on Friday morning fire broke out in Crawford's tailor shop, Revere Block, King street west. When the firemen reached the scene the entire lower flogr was in flames. Shortly afterwards it became known that there were two men in the upper part of the building. In the rear of the building a man was afterwards seen at a window but a number of the neighbors secured a ladder and rescued the man in a state of stupefaction. He was a tailor, named Stewart, a native of Woodbridge. On King street, almost at the same time, one of the second-flat windows was thrown open, and a woman with a child in her arms appeared, calling frantically for aid. A ladder was procured but proved too short to reach the window, and after a number of desperate efforts to steady it on the shoulders of two of the firemen while another ascended it, the attempt had to be given up. For a moment it seemed as if the woman and her infant were doomed to perish, but the window being close to one in the next house, the window was thrown open and the mother and her child helped, at great risk, into a place of safety. They were Mrs. Crawford, wife of the proprietor of the place, and her baby. Mrs. Crawford was not much injured, but the child was badly burned about the head. Just after they had been saved, a man appeared at one of the windows in the top flat, and then fell back. A terrible shout was raised, and a moment later a long ladder was brought round from the rear by the firemen, and raised against the house. Wm. Forsyth, fireman, and Martin Kerr, the driver of the Bay St. real, rushed up the rungs in succession, and reached the window. Taking advantage of a momentary lull in the flames Kerr got inside, and just within the window got hold of the man and dragged him within reach of Forsyth. Together the two brave fellows succeeded in getting the helpless body out of the whirl of flame and down the ladder, the dense crowd in the street cheering hoarsely. It was Wm. Crawford the proprietor. He had been in the same room with Mrs. Crawford when the fire awoke them. Unable to make his way downstairs, he ran up to the upper flat, and was there overtaken by the smoke and flame. He is badly burned, with little hope of recovery. Meanwhile, in the rear of the burning house, several lives had been saved, one of them by an act of determined heroism on the part of fireman Doughty. After Stewart had been rescued, the firemen attempted an entrance by the back door, and before they could get in, people were seen at the windows above, crying for aid. A ladder was raised, and a woman was brought down by means of it from the lower flat. It was ascertained immediately after that a little boy was in the same room, and Doughty rushed up the ladder and jumped in, although it was full of heavy smoke. For a time in the darkness he could see nothing, and was almost suffocated, but hearing low moans he threw himself on the floor and persisted in his search. He found a boy lying by the side of the bed almost senseless, and succeeded in getting him to the window and down the ladder. It was Bertie Crawford, a son of the proprietor. The name of the girl rescued previously was Nellie Edwards, a servant.

The pluck and heroism of William Forsyth, Martin Kerr, and Doughty was superb, and cannot be too highly recommended. Certain it is that but for their courage at least two, and probably three, lives would have been lost.

The girl Nellie Edwards died late on Friday night. The others though fearfully burned are recovering. When Mr. and Mrs. Crawford went to bed on Thurs-day night the wife had a purse in her jacket containg over $150, and when they were frightened away by the flames they found this jacket, but the money was gone. Mr. Crawford, is firmly convinced that his premises were entered by a thief, who stole their money, perhaps some of the stock, and in order to procure a safe retreat by creating excitement and confusion, coolly and deliberately set fire to the building.

Monday's Telegram says on Saturday evening the remains of Nellie Edwards, one of the victims of the King-street fire, were conveyed to the Union station and were taken to the home of her parents in the country. On Sunday afternoon little Bertie Crawford, another victim, was buried at Mount Pleasant, Rev. Mr. Briggs officiating. Mr. William Crawford is in a slightly improved condition, but grave doubts are still entertained of his recovery.

The Ross-Trickett Race.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 4.—The single scull race between Ross and Trickett was rowed this afternoon over the Thames course, from Putney to Mortlake, and was won by Ross by seven lengths. Immediately after the start Ross spurted ahead and at Hammersmith bridge led his opponent by fully two lengths. This lead was maintained until Chiswick was reached, where Trickett, who was pulling well, lessened the distance by a length. From this point on Ross gained steadily and slowly, but surely, and pulled away from the Australian and won the race with apparent ease. Trickett after Barnes' Bridge had been passed was much exhausted, while Ross was going well within himself. Trickett, however, made a last game effort, but Ross also spurted, eventually winning easily. The race was most exciting. The start was even. The time of the race was 23 minutes 40 seconds.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 9, 1880.

Shall we have a Free Market?

The Stratford Beacon takes up the subject of market fees, quoting from the EXAMINER, and states that the amount realised from fees in that town this year will probably not exceed $1,500 or $1,600 (considerably more than the receipts in Peterborough), and proceeds to ask "whether it is worth while to maintain "what the farmers deem a vexatious exac- "tion, for the sake of money returns so "trifling?" Our contemporary further states that: "Of course it would be "useless to try to please the stingy farm- "er who would drive 30 or 40 miles to a "distant market for the sake of saving a "10c. fee. But there are numerous others "who live within easy distances of our "three principal county markets, to whom "the featherweight of a few cents of fees "would be sufficient to turn the scale. And "the loss is not confined to our produce "dealers. The general business of the "town suffers, for the farmer must needs "disburse a goodly portion of his receipts "among the merchants and tradesmen, and "he thus forms business relations often of "an enduring character." It agrees with the EXAMINER that it would be better for the towns to take the question up in their own interests, and concludes: "The "county council of Perth years ago abol- "ished tolls, the other towns of the county "abolished the market fees, and why not "Stratford? They are a source of irri- "tation to farmers and others bringing "produce, firewood, etc., into market, "and what do they receive in return? "Absolutely nothing but the bare privi- "lege of standing in the market place, "often in the mud and rain during sum- "mer and in the snow and cold during "winter. Were there some kind of pro- "tection for men and teams provided, "there might be some show of reason in "exacting a fee, but as it is, it seems little "less than extortion to tax farmers and "others bringing produce, etc., to mar- "ket. We are persuaded it would be in "the interest of the town to have the ob- "noxious tax swept away at the end of "the present year." These arguments offer food for reflection, which we would advise our present and prospective Councillors to give the subject. We have no hesitation in making the statement that the town would make money in many ways by sacrificing the trifling fee at present received from sale of market tolls. The farmers are willing to pay a reasonable fee for weighing accommodation, and and if such a fee were placed at a rate not more than sufficient to pay a market constable for attending to these duties, it would be exceedingly trifling indeed, and would be cheerfully borne. We must not forget that, besides competing with Port Hope and Lindsay for a large share of the trade of Monaghan, Cavan, Manvers and Emily, we have now the prospect, opened up by the Grand Junction Railway, of competing grain markets to the east of us, which will, if we are not prudent, attract away from us a large portion of the grain trade of that part of the county lying in that direction. Peterborough owes much to the energy, enterprise and liberality of its grain buyers. Men like Mr. Cluxton, who have made the reputation of our market as one of the best, if not the best, to sell in in Western Ontario, have done much to build up the business of the town and advance its prosperity. Their efforts should be seconded by a liberal policy on the part of the town in dealing with the market question, which should be of a character to attract and not to repel trade, and to afford every possible facility and inducement to bring the produce of the largest possible area of the surrounding country into our midst. This is a live question -a question of vital importance. We have no great manufactures here to depend upon. It is in every sense of the word an agricultural centre, and its future progress and prosperity depend upon maintaining its prestige and genuine advantages as a farmers' market. Farmers will buy where they sell. It is to our market that our merchants owe their trade both directly and indirectly. Every load of grain which changes hands on the market square contributes its quota of ready cash to the tills of our dry goods merchants, grocers, cheesemakers, clothiers, and all other dealers, and so goes into circulation in our midst, and benefits the whole community. Every additional farmer who can be drawn hither by the standard of prices paid, and by the abolition of existing restrictions—which are sufficient to deter many on the boundaries of our commercial jurisdiction, if we may use the word, who have a choice between our own and other markets—is a clear gain to the business of the town. That a free market would be popular among the farming community, would bring additional trade here which we do not now get, and enlarge the scope of business generally, no one who gives the subject a moment's intelligent reflection can deny. Our merchants are especially interested in this matter. They occupy necessarily the most expensive locations in the town, and have to pay the bulk of the taxes, while they receive perhaps the least benefit from the expenditure of the same. They have on their part done everything that can be done, in the way of enterprise, to promote business. The stores of George, Hunter and Simcoe streets will compare favorably with any in the Province. They have seconded the enterprise of our grain merchants and produce dealers, who have made Peterborough the best market to sell in, in the Midland district, by, in their turn, making it the best market to buy in. Their interests have a right to be considered, and beyond the strictest economy in municipal matters, how can they be better, or more effectually, or at a less cost, furthered than by making Peterborough a free market, and so expanding its operations, and attracting the farmers from a wider circle to buy and sell in our town? We hope to see some of our municipal aspirants develop sufficient intelligence, forethought and zeal in the interest of the town, to see this subject in its right light, and to have steps taken to the early attainment of so desirable an object.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

(To the Editor of the Canadian Post.)

SIR,—I enclose you the Montreal Star of the 29th Nov. with the request that you will insert the article "Our Shipping Interests."

The information given therein with reference to the action of the Chicago board of trade, I have not seen stated elsewhere in Canadian papers. It is of the utmost importance to Canada—to Canada at large—to the future of our country, that the question as to where the ever-growing trade between the two worlds should lay, be received with attention and in the proper spirit, and to this end I hope the matter may have the best attention of our people. The men of Peterborough who so earnestly urge the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, could not receive a more valuable commendation of their scheme. I will not do more than ask that the people of Lindsay will make themselves heard with no uncertain voice in this matter, that the "portage" which lies between the Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario shall be done away with, that the trade of two continents may pass through our midst. No such bright fortune has yet come to Lindsay. It is not like those promising but sadly disappointing aids to her growth and prosperity of which now she feels the costly experience; but this time it comes to her without money and without price, almost without her effort.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,
A CANADIAN

OUR SHIPPING INTERESTS.

[Montreal Star, Nov. 29th.]

The ensuing session of Parliament promises to be an eventful one in more respects than one. The Canada Pacific Railway in itself will be a fruitful topic of discussion, but there are other pressing questions in store in addition to this. Halifax asks to be made the winter port of the Dominion; Montreal demands the Government assumption of the Lake St. St. Peter ship canal debts, and Midland Canada wants a large appropriation for the immediate opening up of the Trent Valley navigation. The latter project has again risen into prominence by the offer of the Chicago Board of Trade to unite the inland waters between Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario into one grand waterway free of all cost to the government, provided a charter is granted to the promoters "making over to them absolutely all the right, title and interest of the Dominon in the canal when completed. To this proposal the government has not seen fit to return a satisfactory answer and the Midland people are indignant and are again making strong claims upon the ministry for recognition. They naturally argue that the action of the Chicago Board of Trade places the genuine advantages of the route beyond a doubt, if any such evidence is wanted after the favourable reports of Government committee, of skilled engineers and the testimony of Montreal and Chicago mercantile men who have been over the lakes and rivers forming the navigation in question. To enlighten our readers it is again necessary to give some idea of the advantages likely to result from this new Canadian waterway. In the first place it would greatly develop trade and settlement in the middle counties, a section extremely fertile, heavily timbered and widely interspersed with lakes and rivers, stretching back into the country hundreds of miles, and connected with the Trent Valley waters. By its construction Chicago grain or provision shippers would be placed three days nearer New York than by the Buffalo route and two days nearer than by the Welland. The detention of the St. Clair flats which now cost shippers $1,000,000 annually, would be avoided, as would also the dangers of lake navigation, and Montreal would be placed at least thirty-six hours nearer Chicago than at present by the Welland Canal. The saving in distance between Chicago and Montreal as compared between Chicago and New York by the present route would be 368 miles, making a route from from Chicago to Liverpool 601 miles shorter than the present Chicago and New York route. These are astounding figures; but they are nevertheless true, and the whole carrying trade of the West would seem to be ours as soon as the Trent Valley canal is built and Montreal is made a free port. With such a prize in view every impediment standing in the way of its realization must be persistently attacked, and the citizens of Montreal expect their representatives to do yeomanry work this session in behalf of their suffering marine interests. The proprietors of the finest Montreal ocean steamships, down to the owners of the dismantled old timber ship of the maritime provinces, or of the tidy coal or lake boat in the West, are all deeply interested, and their interests are certainly worth careful attention. If the pledges of the Government in regard to our shipping and the opening up of the Trent canal be redeemed, the East and West may be expected to unite in rapid progress; but if the desired action is not every year must witness a depletion of our commerce.

[NOTE.—The information referred to by "Canadian" in his letter to the Post, as to the offer on behalf of the Chicago Board of Trade, was brought under the notice of the Star by an article in the EXAMINER, from which also the facts given are condensed. We are pleased to have secured the co-operation of so able a paper, as the commercial metropolis, as the Star in promoting this great enterprise, and we hope to see it pursue the subject, as the more it investigates the merits of the scheme the more reason it will find to regard it as a necessity in the commercial interests not only of Montreal, but of the Dominion.—ED.]

(From our own Correspondent.)

The annual meeting of the South Monaghan and Cavan Bible Society will (D.V) be held this year in the Brick Methodist Church on Wednesday Dec. 15th inst. when the agent, the Rev. Mr. Jeffrey of Cobourg, will be present to give an address. He is well worth going to hear.

All the old Council will run again. Mr. Barnard, the Reeve, it is understood will be opposed by Mr. Wm. Rutherford. Messrs. McCallister, Lightfoot, Riddel, and Wood councilmen, are again candidates for the same position as last year. A number of new names are spoken of but nothing definite can be reported. Before long things will be definitely shaped. Some of the candidates will come to grief, the old council having the best of the chances.

ANNIVERSARY—ENTERTAINMENT—OBSTRACTIONISTS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The scholars of the Sabbath School intend holding their anniversary on Tuesday, the 16th, commencing at seven o'clock, P. M. when a good time is expected as there are large preparations in the shape of dialogues, music, recitations, &c.,

There will be an entertainment in Mr. Fife's school on Thursday the 23rd, in the evening. As usual there will be something good, as Mr. Fife is superintending the affair himself. Any person who wishes to have an intellectual feast free will be there no doubt.

Mr. W. Taylor now owns a colt which does not believe in beginnings. The other evening its driver hitched it to a cutter, which contained the school master, and another small boy, besides himself. It commenced to run very fast and to throw its heels rather carelessly over the heads of the riders, when two of them got out very suddenly for some reason and the driver, feeling lonesome, lay down in the snow. The colt went on in the same careless manner. It will cost about $2.75 to mend the cutter, $7.25 to fix the harness, and nearly $10 to get a new mould-board on the driver.

NO. 4 WARD.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—I see that not much stir is being made over municipal elections, and people are enquiring who are to be the candidates. I, in common with others, hope Mr. Menzies will consent to be re-elected, as his consistent watchfulness in the Council on the side of economy has afforded us satisfaction. I hope we may get another two Councillors, who will take the same stand with him.

Yours truly,
MECHANIC.

Peterborough, Dec. 3, 1880.

TOO MUCH LIGHT.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—I beg leave to claim a short space to present a little grievance. Every Sunday sees me in church, both morning and evening, as attentive to the minister and as quiet as a snake-charmer, but all the pathos and elegance of the sermon falls on barren ground, and its pointfulness is destroyed. The reason is simple and easily remedied. Affected with weak eyes, the dancing gas-flame becomes an eye-sore, and kindles irreverent feelings in an otherwise peaceful heart. Now, Mr. Editor, it is to be hoped that church officials, and others concerned, will take notice and forthwith procure "shades," so that the light, thus softened, may help to mellow and mollify the otherwise inflamed spirits of those who, although wishing to seek Light, at the very offset are dazzled and affected with an uncalled for and unsought visitation.

Yours, &c.,
LUX.

THE MARKET QUESTION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—I noticed in this week's Lindsay Post an article copied from the EXAMINER, advocating free markets in Peterborough. I hope your efforts will be successful. I for one, and I know that many of my neighbors agree with me, prefer Peterborough to Lindsay, both to buy and sell at, though we are nearer Lindsay than to you. A free market in Lindsay, however, turns the scale in their favor. You may think the charges for fees and weighing a trifle, but I can tell you that we who raise grain and produce to sell, know the labor which every bushel represents, and we count the cost. I think a farmer who drives his load ten or fifteen miles on a cold winter's morning, and stands half a day on a market square for the inspection of his goods by customers, does his share for the convenience of the townspeople, and ought not to be imposed on by vexatious charges. Anyway, you may make up your mind that when you make Peterborough market free, you will get the trade of this line of Emily, and not before.

Yours truly,
FARMER.

Emily, Dec. 4th, 1880.

LAKEFIELD REEVESHIP.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—As the time is drawing near when we shall be again called upon to exercise the municipal franchise, permit me through your columns to suggest that our respected townsman John Hall, Esq., be invited to accept the Reeveship. Last year he came within a vote of being elected, and with a little more effort would have been. Most people without prejudice, now, will agree that it was a mistake not to have elected him. Without in any way disparaging Mr. Strickland, who is a good citizen and in every way qualified to fill the office, it must be admitted that it would be to the advantage of the village to have Mr. Hall in that office, as Mr. Strickland's multifarious business engagements necessarily claim so large a share of his time and attention, that he is not able to devote that attention to municipal affairs which he no doubt would desire. Mr. Hall is differently situated; his presence can always be relied upon, and his earnest attention would be given in advancing the interests of the village. I would suggest that, as Mr. Strickland has filled the office this year, he should allow Mr. Hall to be returned without the trouble of a contest, for the ensuing term. By so doing the present Reeve would add to the esteem in which he is held, and the change would be mutually beneficial to him and to the village.

Yours very truly,
RATEPAYER.

Croup, that dire disease, has lost its terrors to those who keep Yellow Oil at hand. Yellow Oil also cures Sore Throat Quinsey, Congestion and Inflammation of the Lungs. Now is the reason to guard against sudden attacks of diseases. Ask your Druggist for Hagyard's Yellow Oil. 48-4ins

ZOPESA.—We have secured the agency for this new compound for Dyspepsia and Liver troubles. It comes to us under a most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acid, and carrying off impurities of the stomach, regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle which sells at 10 cents; or large eight ounce bottle, 75 cents. LOCAL NEWS RECORD.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.—A fine lot of Christmas Cards, the cheapest ever offered in Peterborough, at the 8 cent store, George street. 49-4t

BIRTHS, DEATHS AND MARRIAGES.—There were registered with the Town Clerk during the month of November, 15 births, 6 marriages and 7 deaths.

ROCK ISLAND hand-made boots—the best value in the Dominion—for sale only at the wholesale and retail boot and shoe store of R. Stenson & Son. 49-tf REVIVAL SERVICES.—A very successful revival meeting is being held in McKee's church, Smith, under the superintendence of Rev. Geo. Washington.

ROBINSON has still a few of those cheap boys' suits on hand, and has opened today a lot of men's, women's, boys and girls plush and fur caps. Call and see them. 44-tf

LOOK OUT FOR IT.—There will be an invisible eclipse of the moon Dec. 19; don't mind it. Look out for the partial eclipse of the sun about 3.30 on Dec. 31st, which will be visible.

ATTENTION OF LUMBERMEN and others is directed to the extensive stock of moccasins, shoe-packs and snow-shoes, at the boot and shoe establishment of R. Stenson & Son. 49-tf VENNOR AGAIN.—Mr. Vennor says that we are to have eleven feet of snow on the 22nd of December,—we believe, indeed, he makes it eleven and a half. Remember the date, and then get out your buggies and take off your sleighbells.

POSTAL REGULATIONS.—The Postmaster-General has issued a regulation prohibiting the circulation of ordinary business handbills and circulars through newspapers, unless such newspapers pay a postage at the rate of one cent every four ounces.

WHERE THE TUMBLE IS.—If a newspaper should contain all the things that all its readers want it to print, it would have to be bigger than a bedspread. If it would leave out all that each of its readers does not wish to read, it would be blank paper.

ST. LUKE'S PAROCHIAL ASSOCIATION.—The second entertainment in connection with the above Association will be given in the School Room, Ashburnham, on Thursday evening, December 16th, at 8 P. M. An instructive programme, comprising glees, readings, songs, duets, &c., will be presented.

PREPARE FOR THE WINTER.—"A cool head and warm feet," was Dr. Abernethey's prescription for perfect health. Anybody can keep the head cool; but you want to go to S. White, George street, to get substantial, well-made boots and shoes, which afford warmth and comfort, in conjunction with style and perfect fit. 28-tf

FINAL REVISION OF VOTERS' LISTS.—At the Co. Judge's Court of Revision on Thursday morning last some corrections of improperly designated ratepayers were made and the following new names added as Tenants: A. White, R. F. Tate, J. R. Stratton, E. A. Jones and Richard Coe. James McNamara, wasput on the Freeholder's list, and Geo. Read, Eli Feli, Geo. C. Rogers and J. Z. Roges changed from non-resident to resident roll.

AN IMPORTANT JUDGEMENT.—A case of considerable interest to the people of Peterborough as well as of other towns and cities has just been decided in Toronto. A Mrs. Robinson, residing in the township of York, sustained a severe accident last spring through a defective crossing, and brought suit for damages against the Township. The case was tried before the Queen's bench, in Toronto, which last week awarded her $1,000 damages, the Township to pay all costs.

HOW TO TEST EGGS.—Those who have not packed their eggs for winter, or who may have occasion to use these articles, may read the following:—Dissolve four ounces of common salt in a quart of pure water, and then immerse the egg. If it is only one day old it will descend to the bottom of the vessel, but if three days old it will float in the liquid. If more than five days old it will come to the surface, and project above it in proportion to the increased age.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.—"I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and I used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said "Hurrah for Hop Bittters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—The Mother.—Home Journal. 49-2ins.

THE MARKET FEE QUESTION.—The following quotation shows the position into which this question has drifted in the town of Goderich. Shall we be so short-sighted here?—"The market fee question is being discussed at every street corner. Business men are almost a unit in favor of the abolition of the obnoxious toll upon farm produce brought here for sale. Farmers are angered by the annoying market regulations and go elsewhere to do their trading. This is rough on merchants and other business men, who are accordingly in a "frame of mind." And still a small majority of the Town Council, with that pigheadiness so natural to ignorance and imbecility, refuse to yield. However, as January is marching on apace, it will not be long ere the reactionists will be obliged to rise and explain the true inwardness of their proceedings in aiding Clinton and other towns by driving trade from their own."

"THEY ALL DO IT."—Everybody uses "Tonberry," the new toilet gum, to beautify the Teeth and give fragrance to the Breath. Ask your druggist for sample package, 5 cents. 44-1y

LADIES DESIRING to secure a fashionable and durable article in the boot and shoe line should call at Larmour's, where there is the choicest, most complete and varied stock between Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Larmour is now so widely and favorably known in the boot and shoe line that to say that your boot comes from his establishment is equivalent to saying that it is a fashionably cut and perfect fitting article. 44-tf.

ABOUT ADVERTISING—There is, says the New York Shipping List, a class of business men, or rather men in business—for their is a distinction with a difference—who persistently refuse to advertise in any paper. When such people are approached for an advertisement, which may return its cost ten or one hundred fold, they have a stereotyped reply, "We never advertise; our business is large enough, and we don't care about extending it." And yet these same men, whenever their interests are threatened or attacked by any injurious legislation or practices in trade, are foremost in soliciting the aid of the press, and imploring its "influence" in defeating the obnoxious measures. It never possibly occurs to them that the influence which can avert or change legislation is not less powerful in directing the currents of trade to those houses most deserving of it by their enterprise, intelligence and liberality.

THE CARE OF DUMB ANIMALS.—This subject of late years has attracted the attention of Philanthropists, and every method to protect animals of all kinds from inhuman treatment has been taken. It is, however, only recently that scientists have considered the best modes of feeding horses and cattle, numerous experiments have been tried, and a variety of prominent agricultural chemists have submitted their ideas and samples of material to the Agricultural Colleges of London and Paris. The article, that appears to have received the unqualified endorsement of all these institutions, for economy and utility is known as The Manhattan Feed for Horses and Cattle. This Feed takes the place of grass feed, at the same time rendering the animals better able to perform their work than when fed on grass or hard feed. Another point claimed for it is that a varied diet is as necessary for the horse or any other animal as for man, and as this feed is an amalgamation of six or eight articles, the necessary variety is obtained, which, when fed on the Manhattan plan with other food, renders digestion perfect; consequently health is certain. We are inclined to believe in its efficacy from the testimony before us, from first class authorities, who have tested the feed since its introduction from Europe and we note with pleasure that a depot has been established in this town, Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald, our enterprising druggists, having taken the agency for counties of Peterboro & Victoria, thereby ensuring the successful introduction of these Feeds in this section, if any further stimulus than the intrinsic merits of the articles be needed.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

THE BYSTANDER.—This excellent monthly for December is to hand, and contains, as usual, able and original articles from Prof. Goldwin Smith's master hand. Every man of culture and independent thought ought to get the Bystander.

TRADE RELATIONS.—We have received, from our old friend Mr. W. J. Patterson, Secretary of the Dominion Board of Trade, a copy of his Trade Letter No. 4, on commercial relations between Brazil and Canada. We shall refer to it in a future issue.

LAYS AND LYRICS; by George Lancaster; Barnwell, Hull, Eng., Publisher. We have received this neatly bound volume from the author, Mr. George Lancaster, an old resident of Peterborough, having formerly taught school at Lakefield. The contents possess much originality and merit.

EDUCATIONAL MONTHLY.—This standard monthly for November has been received. It is full of matters of interest to teachers and others interested in the cause of education, and contains many useful hints of value to our educators. We commend it strongly to the teachers of the county, who can procure it through the EXAMINER at exceptionally low rates for the coming year.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1881.—In 1881 The Living Age enters upon its thirty-eighth year of continuous publication, and it steadily increases in value with its years. Its frequent issues and well-filled pages render it a satisfactorily fresh and complete compilation of an indispensable current literature—a literature which grows richer and more abundant every year in the work of the most eminent writers upon all topics of interest. In no other way can so much of the best of this literature be obtained so conveniently and cheaply as through the columns of this standard weekly magazine. It value to every American reader is therefore obvious. It supplies the place of many magazines, reviews and papers, and alone enables the reader, at a small expenditure of time and money, to keep well abreast with the best thought and literature of the day. The prospectus is worthy the attention of all who are selecting their periodicals for the new year. Reduced clubbing rates with other periodicals are given; and to new subscribers remitting now for the year 1881, the intervening numbers are sent gratis. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

ANDREWS' BAZAR FOR DECEMBER.—On many previous occasions we have spoken in terms of praise of this journal. The December number is truly a royal one. From the striking Christmas picture, "Santa Claus at Home," on the title-page, to the last page with its funny pictures and always sprightly "Turtle Tracks," it is good. The literary features, its stories, miscellany, etc., are of a sort peculiarly pleasing at holiday-time. In addition to its usual wealth of Fashion Intelligence all yearly subscribers receive with this number, a Grand Christmas Gift in the form of a Gigantic Supplement, the full size of the Bazar itself, filled with useful and beautiful designs that can be used as patterns in fashioning many articles suitable for Holiday Gifts; also designs for printing on china, silk and satin, for embroideries, etc. The proprietor states that these designs, if purchased of a dealer, would cost ten times the price of the Bazar, which statement will at once be confirmed by any one who may examine this beautiful supplement. The subscription price of Andrews' Bazar is $1 a year, and every subscriber is entitled to a valuable premium, and, if they begin with the December number, they will secure the Christmas supplement.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY.—The December number closes brilliantly the ninth volume of this appropriately named magazine, for its popularity is stupendous; and that it should be so is not surprising, in view of the great intrinsic merit of the publication. The present number contains a vast amount of admirable reading matter, entertaining and affording much information. "The Industrial Progress of the South," by J. B. Killebrew, is the opening article, profusely embellished, and among other highly meritorious contributions are "Anse Boleyn," by A. H. Guernsey; "At a Norwegian Wedding," by David Ker; "A Short Trip Around the World," by Thos. W. Knox; "Studying the Weather," by J. Munro, C.E., and which are all finely illustrated. There are interesting short stories by Margaret Blount, Lillie D. Blake, Helen W. Pierson, Georgie A. Davis, etc., etc.; several sketches and adventures by popular writers, poems of more than ordinary merit, and an abundant miscellany. As the next number commences a new volume, now is the time to subscribe, and a most acceptable holiday-gift will be a year's subscription to this delightful periodical. Each number contains 128 quarto pages, and over 100 illustrations, with a handsome colored frontispiece. Annual subscription, $3; single copy, 25 cents; sent postpaid. Address, Frank Leslie's Publishing House 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

Joy Among the Children.

COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 200 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to manufacture mammalines which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea or griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water;" another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off," another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight." yes, another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "COPLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL," is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto.

NO RISK.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT, WHY DO YOU THINK YOU DID.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common Sore Throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old Standing Cough. One or two bottles cures bad cases of Piles or Kidney Troubles. Six to eight applications cure any case of Excoriated Nipples or Inflamed Breast. One bottle has cured Lame Back of eight years' standing. Daniel Plank, of Breakfield, Tioga Co., Pa., says: "I want thirty miles for a bottle of our Oil, which affected a wonderful cure of a Crooked Limb, by six applications."—Another who had had Asthma for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get no more."——Rufus Robinson, of Nunda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the voice when the person had not spoken above a whisper for five years."—Rev. J Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: "Your Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of six of the Best Oils that are known. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasureably superior to anything ever made Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of those elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it, prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Christmas Market.

Saturday, the 25th, falling on Christmas Day, the regular weekly market will be held on Friday, 24th. Farmers will please not the fact.

Special Issue.

On Saturday or Monday next the special Illustrated Christmas Edition of the EXAMINER will be issued, and mailed free to every householder in the Town and County of Peterborough giving it the most thorough and effective circulation to be had. This will be most advantageous to the merchants, as it enables them to circulate their announcements before the Christmas trade is done, and will be found far more profitable than a publication in Christmas week, when the trade is nearly over. There are a few spaces still available for advertisers at a moderate rate. The special edition will distribute upwards of 6,000 papers throughout the length and breadth of the County.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening. Present the Chairman, Mr. Stevenson, and Messrs. Dumble, McClelland, Denne, Menzies, Toole, Burnham, Wrighton, Carlyle, Rutherford and Denbistoun.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Rutherford enquired what had been done in regard to prayers in the schools, by the religious committee—or rather committee on religion.

Mr. Dumble said some time ago he had written to the committee charged with the preparation of suitable religious exercise but no form had yet been submitted.

Mr. McClelland said he was in a position to say that they were in course of preparation and would be ready to be printed for use in the schools after January 1st.

Mr. Denne asked if there were no certificates running out.

Mr. Stevenson believed there were.

Mr. Dennistoun enquired if the practice of monthly balance sheets had been abandoned by the Board.

Mr. Stevenson said the practice had not been abandoned.

The Secretary said he had made a rule of submitting a monthly statement but had been so busy that he had not been able to prepare it for this meeting. He could say that the receipts for fees for the month were, for Collegiate Institute $76.75, common schools $9.75.

Mr. Dennistoun spoke of the value of these statements showing the progress of money expenditure, and the sources of income.

Mr. McClelland asked if an advertisement in the Globe for four classical teachers' was authorized by the Board, and if not if any steps would be taken to proceed against the person using the name of the Board.

The Chairman did not think the name of the Board had been used.

Mr. McClelland thought by implication it had; teachers had been asked for the Institute.

The Secretary read the advertisement and stated that he had notified the Globe of the bogus nature of the advertisement.

A communication from the Department of Education in regard to 3rd class certificates, (embodying the changes referred to in a recent issue of the EXAMINER) was received and referred to the Inspector.

The report of the school attendance showing number on roll for the past month to be 1,080, average attendance 908 as against 1,003 and 865 the preceding month, was received.

An account of W. H. Robertson & Co. for advertising, $4.80, was referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication from the Secretary of the Ottawa High School Board, asking the number and salaries of teachers, was received.

The application of Miss Keele, for employment under the Board, was received, and referred to the Committee on Appointments.

A communication from High School Inspector Marling, embodying the results of his inspection of the school, in which he spoke highly of the efficiency of the staff and of the work being done, the substance of which appeared some time since in the EXAMINER, was filed.

Mr. Rutherford asked if it was not usual for all committees to make a report at the end of the year.

The Chairman said it was, but this would be done at the last meeting of the school year, to be held on the first Thursday in January.

The By-law appointing Deputy-Returning Officers for the election of Trustees, was passed, the following being appointed: No. 1 Ward, Jos. Laundy; No. 2, C. D. Macdonald; No. 3, John Irwin; No. 4, W. Lee.

The Chairman said the Douro people wished to withdraw from the Auburn School. Their principal grievance seemed to be that they were paying $400 for a teacher when they could get one for $250, and that even at that they were not given satisfaction. They had already taken steps for separation, but he believed had not fully complied with the law. It was for the Board to say what was to be done in the matter.

After some discussion the subject was referred, on motion of Mr. Toole, to a special committe consisting of Messrs. Dennistoun, Dumble, Denne and the mover, to report at the next meeting of the Board.

Mr. Dumble referred to the unavoidable absence of Mr. Cox in England, and moved, seconded by Mr. Dennistoun, that leave of absence be granted to him till the next regular meeting.

Mr. Denne asked if that was legal.

Mr. Dennistoun said it was, and the motion passed.

Mr. Burnham asked what was to be done in the cases of those teachers whose certificates were expiring.

The Inspector said there were two whose certificates were expired, and who would not be eligible for re-engagement.

Mr. Dumble said both were ambitious young men, and asked how long it would be before they would be able to qualify.

The Inspector said he thought it doubtful if they would be able to qualify next year. He had spoken with them, and neither of them intended to present themselves after next year.

Mr. Stevenson said that hereafter the Board should make it a rule to employ none but teachers holding 2nd class certificates so that this kind of trouble might be avoided.

On motion of Mr. McClelland the Board then adjourned.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL.

The Ashburnham village council met on Monday evening last. Present, the Reeve, John Burnham M. P., and Councillors Calcutt, Wand, Mowry and Rogers.

A communication was received from Mr. D. J. Hatton asking the council to exempt from taxation a store house and grain elevator, which he and others propose erecting in the village.

On motion of Mr. Calcutt seconded by Mr. Wand, the following accounts were ordered to be paid if found correct: Toker & Co., $5.05; John Craig, $5.15; J. Z. Rogers, $81.98; C. Young, 70c; J. Friend, 68c; W. H. Taylor, $7.50.

Mr. Hatton was requested to address the council and explained that the object of the parties on whose behalf the communication was made was to erect an elevator and other facilities for the more convenient and expeditious handling of grain. In connection with this, provision would be made for machinery for the dusting of barley, which gave it a better appearance and more value on being sent to the market. They also contemplated the erection, in case sufficient encouragement were afforded, of a malting-house, which would enable them to ship barley both in the raw and manufactured state, and would afford considerable employment to labor. The building would be 100 x 40 feet, and in part three stories high, and would cost some $4,000 or $5,000. As the proposed erection would benefit the village and its financial success would be a risk undertaken by those who embarked in it, they asked the council for remission of taxation for ten years on the building and machinery.

The Reeve referring to the establishment of a barley market in the village, pointed out the advantage they had, which would be appreciated by the farmers, that were would be no market toll to pay in Ashburnham, while there was in Peterborough.

After more discussion the following resolution was on motion of Mr. Calcutt seconded by Mr Wand, carried. That having considered the proposition of Mr. Hatton, regarding the erection of a storehouse and elevator in this village, it is agreed to exempt the said building and contents from taxation for a term of ten years, and that a by-law be passed confirming this motion.

A motion was also carried authorizing the Reeve and Clerk to sign a memorial to the Ontario Government asking them to grant aid to the Grand Junction Railway, from Chemong lake to Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls.

A motion by Mr. Rogers, to purchase a railway ticket to enable May Kelly to attend the hospital at Kingston, was carried.

The election by-law, appointing John Wood Returning-Officer, and Jonathan Stevenson and A. H. Peck Deputy Returning-officers for the North and South Wards respectively, was then passed through its different stages and the Council adjourned.

No medicine is more justly popular than Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It is a positive specific for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs leading to consumption. It loosens the tough phlegm or mucous, soothes irritation, allays troublesome coughing and heals diseased Lungs. Sold by all dealers at 25 cents per bottle. 48-4ins

It is believed that Lord Blandford, the eldest son of the Duke of Malborough, will join the Liberals. His views have long been too Liberal for his family.

The tribes on the north-east of Herat are supposed to have formed a strong combination against Ayoob Khan, in consequence of which he will have to seek asylum in Persia once more.

Mr. Gladstone's physician demands his withdrawal from the House of Commons. It is currently reported that after the budget is made known the Premier will accept a peerage. If this should be so, he would be able to support the Irish Land Bill in the Upper House. Meantime he is laying in a stock of energy for the coming session by his favorite means of exercise, chopping trees at Hawarden.

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

Receipts of wheat continue small, with a heavy decline in price; $1.16 is now about the top figure. A good deal of barley for this season of the year has been sold at lower prices, buyers being uncertain as to value in a declining market, 65c. to 85c., according to quality, being about its value. Peas have also declined, and may be quoted at 65c. to 65c., with a good many offering. Oats are offering and freely selling at from 31c. to 32c. Very little Rye offering—prices somewhat lower. Hays continue to be offered freely—price shady, from $6.50 to $8.50 being outside figures for heavy hays. Small commodities unchanged, except poultry, which is somewhat firmer and higher.

He still Lives.

Some years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, of the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, of Buffalo, N. Y., and London, was sent for to examine a terrible disease of the knee-joint, resulting in ulceration and extensive sloughing of the bone and tissues. The man's life had been despaired of by the previous attendants. Amputation at the thigh was promptly decided upon and skillfully performed by Dr Pierce, and as after treatment to purify the blood and prevent a recurrence of the malady the docter's Golden Medical Discovery was freely prescribed. The man's system was thoroughly purified and strengthened he rapidly gained his health, the stump healing nicely, and he is to-day a happy man. This case was among the first in which this wonderful blood-purifier was tested. It has since manifested its wonderful power over the worst scrofulous and other blood diseases. Taken for a time it so purifies and strengthens the system as to strongly fortify against the encroachment of diseases. Sold by druggists.

MIDDLEVILLE Mich., Feb. 15th, 1879.
Hon. R. V. Pierce.
Dear Sir—I would say I have sold your medicine for seven years. The Golden Medical Discovery is the best cough remedy I have ever used and in every case where I have recommended it, it has cured. I have used it in my family for my children. It cures their colds and coughs in a day or two. My wife has used several times when down sick. It invariably gives immediate relief. Its sale increases daily. J. B. KESTER, Druggist.

BOOM IN PRINTING.—We don't desire to disparage our contemporary's workmanship, but borrowed plumage should not be too obtrusively displayed. Parties desiring work of any kind, will find it to their advantage to visit the EXAMINER Office. We have now in use, recently added, fonts of all the new styles of type, in wood and metal, and the latest mechanical appliances. Our work is turned out in modern style, and designs for fancy printing original, so that merchants who want really nice work, may be spared the mortification of finding that the work on which they spend their money is simpy a second-hand copy of the last year's work of a neighboring town.

HORSE DROWNED.—Messrs. Rush & Elliott met with a serious loss on Monday night last, in the drowning of their valuable horse Jack the Barber, an animal valued at $250. The animal was being at the time used in drawing barrels to the Midland Station, and coming down George Street, the horse became frightened by a bolt dropping out from one side of the shafts, detaching that side of the shafts from the sleigh, and ran away. Opposite Garvey's store the fastening of the shafts on the other side gave way and the horse ran at a furious rate down George street as far as Dalhousie street, and past Romaine's brick factory on to the river. The ice being very rotten gave way after he had gone a few yards. Those who had followed the runaway, managed to get a rope round his neck, and by breaking the ice succeeded in dragging the animal to the shore, where it soon died either from chill and exhaustion, or as some say from being choked to death by the rope. Jack the Barber was a splendid animal and worthy of a better fate.

Several complaints are made in this neighbourhood about the way some get their letters. One person received a letter at Villiers P.O. bearing the following post marks:—Port Hope Oct. 25, Peterboro Oct. 25, Villiers Nov. 20.—This seems to cast the blame on the Peterboro' Post-master. We are inclined to look on this as "not fair play." What do you think?

THE QUARTER SESSIONS.

The Court of Quarter Sessions was held last week before Judge Dennistoun, when the following Grand Jury was empanelled: Isaac Robinson, Foreman, Wm. Aldrige, Leonard Dobbin, Thomas Eson, Charles Fox, George Gardner, Samuel Lyle, Jas. Menzies, William Redpath, James T. Stenson, John Cook, Andrew Douglas, William English, John Fitzpatrick, Jas. Little, Richard Lillico, William McIlmoyl, Lucius Sherlock, Alexander Scott, Samuel P. Wigg.

After the usual charge the Grand Jury retired and afterwards brought in true bills against Andrew Moore, for larceny, and Benj. Johnston, charged with stealing timber, the property of Gilmour & Co.

The following civil cases were disposed of:—

HALL VS. AMELL.—An action on account. Verdict for plaintiff for $79.58. Geo. Edmison for plaintiff. C. A. Weller for defendant.

BRADBURN VS. HOGAN, Administrator.—Action for rent of store. Verdict for plaintiff for $100 with full costs. Geo. Edmison for plaintiff; N. D. Beck for defendant.

CLUXTON VS. MILLAR.—Action for rent of store. For the defendant it was objected that the court had no jurisdiction. Reserved by the Judge for consideration. C. A. Weller for plaintiff; G. Edmison for defendant.

In the case of Johnston Mr. Weller appeared for the Crown and Mr. Dumble for the prisoner. After hearing the evidence, which went to prove that in June last the prisoner towed two floats ashore on Crow Lake, Belmont, and cut off the mark of the firm, and used the same in building a shed, he was found guilty and sentenced to one week in gaol.

The case against Andrew Moore for stealing fowls from the yard of Miss A. Cowmin was proved and the prisoner was found guilty with a recommendation to mercy. On Thursday he was sentenced to thirty day's imprisonment.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 16, 1880.

Reduction of Legislators.

"And now it is the Stratford Beacon which cries out as to Canada, and especially Ontario, "Canada is the most governed country we know of." As everybody knows, the Beacon is an out and out supporter of Mr. Mowat, and supported him in making the only addition which has been made to the representation of the people since Confederation, except the one made imputation (sic.) under the act of union."

The above appears in the Review, of course. It does not explain that the Beacon was discussing the subject of County Councils, however, or that it advocates reducing legislation by wiping out that effete, obstructive, useless, capricious and anomalous body popularly known at the seat of Government as the "chamber of refuge for moribund politicians." No doubt the Beacon did perfectly right in supporting Mr. Mowat in increasing the representation in the Ontario Legislature in order to give adequate representation to our increased population and wealth, and more especially to give influence and representation in the Legislature to the interests of the settlers who, since Confederation, have reclaimed new counties out of the wilderness; and most certainly it was much more justified in doing so than was the Review in supporting Sir John Macdonald in giving six members in the House of Commons to a population of 10,000 in British Columbia, besides the Pacific Railway agreement. We note that the Review also goes in for decreasing members in the House of Commons as well as in Ontario, or at least has gone so far as to say, "why not?" The absurdity of its position in both respects is easily demonstrated. In regard to the Dominion House, we cannot reduce the number of members from Prince Edward Island nor from British Columbia, because the number is fixed in their terms of union, which have become a part of the Constitution and cannot be interefered with, so that it would be the utmost folly to attempt to rob Ontario of some of its representatives, and of some of its influence, to give still greater power to the excessively represented smaller Provinces. But aside from that, the proposition of the Review is ridiculous, because the Constitution expressly provides that,—

"Immediately after the official census of 1871, and immediately after each decennial census thereafter, the representation of each section in the House of Commons shall be readjusted on the basis of population."

"For the purpose of such readjustments Lower Canada shall always be assigned 65 members, and each of the other sections shall, at each readjustment, receive, for the ten years next succeeding, the number of members to which it will be entitled on the same ratio of representation to population, as Lower Canada will enjoy according to the last census taken, by having 65 members."

Our contemporary will please note, since it ignorantly sneered at the EXAMINER a short time ago for the assertion that the representation is fixed at about 18,000 of population per constituency, that it is so governed for all time to come by the Terms of Union. But the Constitution still more explicitly makes the ignorance of the Review manifest, and the preposterousness of its proposition more conspicuously evident, by providing that,—

"No reduction shall be made in the number of members returned by any section unless its population shall have decreased relatively to the population of the whole Dominion to the extent of five per centum.

Is the Review looking to the N. P. exodus to qualify the Province of Ontario for such a reduction of members in the House of Commons? The proposition to reduce representation in the House of Commons is therefore beyond discussion. As to the proposed reduction of the people's representatives in the Assembly, the idea is in part suggested by a desire to appear in the role of economist in the face of the desperate position it is placed in as an apologist of the flagrant extravagance of the Ottawa Government, and partly in furtherance of the policy adopted by the Conservative party—to undermine the autonomy of this Province and to impair the usefulness and dignity of its Provincial institutions. The representation as it at present exists is fair and reasonable. It gives equity of representation to all sections and classes, which could not be secured by limited representation with larger constituencies. It has worked well and is not likely to be changed to suit the whimsical fantasies of moon-struck political writers, driven to the wall by the impossibility of an intelligent defence of their party policy. The expenditure of the Province is not influenced by having a larger or smaller representation, except in so far as the cost of each legislator goes, a matter of some $800 each. The expenses of administration must be governed by the requirements of the business of the whole Province, and cannot be reduced where its interests, population and wealth are expanding, by the simple contraction of number of members of the Assembly. The cost of committees, etc., would be the same with less or more members, and as a factor in the direction of economy the proposal is absurd. The proposition to limit the people's representatives to one half, in the Ontario Assembly, is a proposition to reduce the control by the people over their own affairs, to limit the accountability of the Executive and to centralize power. It is, in fact, just what we might expect from a fossilised Tory organist, who begrudges the people the power and privileges they have won by a hard-fought constitutional struggle; and the same spirit would take us back, if it dared to hope for success, to the days of irresponsible government and a family compact. They say, why could not Peterborough's interests be attended to as well by one representative as two?—as well go further, and say, why not the whole Newcastle District be entrusted to one member as of yore? The principle is precisely the same. Our representation in the Legislature is not excessive; it is not unreasonable; it is not the cause of undue expense; it is not more than suffices to enable the people to keep a careful, vigilant and effective watch over the conduct of their public affairs, and to empower the public opinion of the majority to enforce its views in the government of the Province. Those who urge it on the pretended ground of economy are holding out false lights to the people, to lure them on to the rocks where the ship of our Provincial independence and autonomy would be wrecked irreparably. If they were in earnest in their professions of desire to relieve the people from undue burdens, they would not seek to distract them from the real evils they are enduring, by these fallacious and chimerical proposals. They would join in the cry which goes up from the people, the fruits of whose industries are being confiscated by an oppressive tariff of taxation, for relief from the burdens which are fettering the energies and restricting the capacity for development of the nation, and would assist in the good work of compelling a venal and corrupt ministry to halt in a career which is fraught with oppression and injury—which is grinding the faces of the poor to add to the riches of the wealthy—which makes the consumer the legal victim of the opulent monopolist—which imposes taxes, not to meet the necessities of the revenue, but to build up wealthy corporations at the public expense—which is contrary to every moral obligation of government, to every instinct of freedom, and to every aspiration of human liberty.

Editorial Jottings.

THE DETROIT Free Press, with pointed and pertinent sarcasm, remarks:—"Protection is rapidly enriching the laboring man in Canada. A Toronto paper contained an advertisement calling for a man to act as porter for a few days. Two hundred people applied for the position. There is evidently not 'more froth than porter' over in the Dominion."

THE MONTREAL Journal of Commerce says: "No one can read the history given to the commission by Mr. Mackintosh without arriving at the conclusion that Mr. Whitehead believed that it was his interest as a contractor to pay what was necessary to secure Mr. Mackintosh's influence with the public works department. Let us just imagine what would be said in England if the leading organ of a government were discovered to be in such relations with a contractor."

SIR FRANCIS HINCKS says in the Journal of Commerce: "It has been the lot of the Liberal Administration to have been in office during the period of depression, and of the Conservative Government to obtain power at the turn of the tide. IT CAN SERVE NO GOOD PURPOSE TO DECEIVE THE PEOPLE INTO THE BELIEF THAT THE DEPRESSION OR THE REVIVAL IS ATTRIBUTIVE TO THE FISCAL POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT. The falling off in imports from the United States, to which Sir Leonard Tilley referred, is in our opinion to be ACCOUNTED FOR BY THE REVIVAL OF BUSINESS IN THAT COUNTRY MUCH MORE THAN THE NATIONAL POLICY."

THE Review has not the courage nor the honesty to face the disgraceful revelations of the Pacific RailwayCommission, on its own account. Like the pickpocket in the story, it sneaks into the crowd and cries "stop thief," as lustily as any honest man among them. Without shouldering its own opinions it puts at the head of its editorial columns an article copied from the Bobcaygeon Independent, calling Sir Charles Tupper's ex-Secretary, a "blue-blooded rascal," and makes the dismissed official the scapegoat of the iniquities of the greater sinner. Sir Charles Tupper, who mulcted the country of a quarter of a million dollars for the benefit of personal friends, is in its estimation whitewashed by the vicarious sacrifice of Mr. Chapleau.

SIR SAMUEL TILLEY does well to spend the time and money of the people gallivanting around Ontario, cossing the manufacturers by buying here a piano-stool, and there a side-board, for "Lady" Tilley, who is "so much impressed with their beautiful goods, etc., that if she could get rid of the one she had she would buy a new piano from your establishment," etc. He obtained his election and his following in New Brunswick by false pretences, and dare not show his nose at home. New Brunswickers have not forgotten the following famous telegrams:

St. John, N.B., July 13.

"Right Hon. Sir John Macdonald:

"The Government press here state that you propose to raise the tariff generally to 30 per cent. Can I contradict this?

JOHN BOYD."

Toronto, July 20.

"To John Boyd, St. John:

"It is an absurd statement; neither at London or elsewhere have I gone beyond my motion in Parliament, and have never proposed an increase but only a readjustment of tariff. "JOHN A. MACDONALD."

The people of that deluded Province, in common with the whole Dominion, have to grin and bear the imposture till 1882, when they are prepared to do their duty in the day of reckoning coming.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"Since the arrival of the snow, and the commencement of good sleighing, the value of the Harvey Road is becoming apparent. It is travelled from end to end, and some parties who never before were seen in this village have been here to do their marketings. Along the roads there are good lots of land for sale, and in the township of Cavendish there are some splendid lots of land in the Free Grant district. These will probably all be taken up next spring and summer, and the area of territory tributary to our village will be largely increased. Whilst on this subject, we cannot omit to draw attention to the fact that for the opening of the Harvey Road, the people are indebted to the Provincial Government. Mr. Wood and Mr. Pardee, are the men we have to thank for this road through Harvey, though Mr. Howson's claim upon the public must not be forgotten, for it was he who so successfully laboured to prove to the Government, the necessity of the road. A small grant next year from the Government would complete the road, and open up a large district to profitable settlement." Our contemporary the Review being more interested in abusing the local government than in the development of the back country for settlement, will probably not reproduce the above.

IN 1874 Sir John Macdonald, in a public speech at Kingston, reckless of the consequences so long as he saw an opportunity of embarrassing Mr. Mackenzie in dealing with the legacy of difficulty which he inherited from the Pacific Scandal Ministry, openly advised the British Columbians that they had "the right to secede." Curses like chickens, in his case, come home to roost. We are in receipt of a letter from the Secretary of a public meeting of Sir John's Vancouver Island constituents, in which he says "The maltreatment which this Province "has for so many years received at the "hands of the Dominion, leads British "Columbia to hope that your sense of "right and sympathy for an injured peo-"ple may induce you to use your power-"ful influence to secure for British Co-"lumbia justice from the Dominion or a 'release from political connection with "it." Among the resolutions is the following: "That the Dominion tariff, "however beneficial it may be to the "Eastern Provinces, is an injury to Brit-"ish Columbia, as it weighs heavily upon "the great producing interests of the Pro-"vince and has destroyed the large trade "previously done by Victoria in British "goods with the adjoining states and "territories of the United States, and "has failed to create or encourage any new "industry." Sir John's constituents ask that they be compensated for the injury done them by the tariff robbery, by immediate expenditures on the Pacific Railway in that Province, and this to be done at the expense of other Provinces who have been equally robbed and plundered by the Tariff.

ELOPEMENT.

MR. CARD AND MRS. SNIDER GO OFF WITH ABOUT $17,000 OF SNIDER'S MONEY—HOW A POWER OF ATTORNEY WAS USED.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—On the 16th Nov. John L. Card, Deputy-Reeve of Vaughan, and a member of the County Council, eloped with Mrs. Levi Snider, of Woodbridge. The parties moved in the best society in the township, Snider being worth $125,000, and Card well-to-do. Some years ago Snider became addicted to drink and the habit grew upon him so that he could not transact his business. He called upon his friend Card to look after his affairs, and gave him power of attorney over his property. Mrs. Snider, who had the reputation of being the handsomest woman in the county, is only about 33 years of age. She had often threatened to leave her husband, owing to his dissolute habits, but no one ever suspected she would fly with Card, who is about 60 years of age, and the father of ten children. About a week previous to this time Mrs. Snider sent her two daughters to a ladies' seminary at Whitby, and gave out that she intended to visit in Florida. She made ample preparations for her departure, and called upon many of her friends. Card had not been idle, but using his position raised about $17,000 on his own and Snider's farm and came to Toronto. On the 16th Mrs. Snider came to Toronto and was joined by Card. On the 17th they visited Whitby, and the mother took away her daughters from school. Since then the couple have not been heard of.

A Wisconsin theorist says that hay will satisfy hunger. There may be something in this, for a couple of straws will frequently satisfy thirst.

"Have you cologne?" she asked. "No, ma'am," replied the druggist, "I have no scents at all." And she said she thought so all the time.

DISTRICT NOTES.

Compiled and Condensed from County and other Convenient Contemporaries.

Mr. Jas. Frost of Orillia has removed to Dakota.

More incendiarism at Bowmanville, at the Farmer's Hotel again.

Bowmanville is exporting fowls and dairy produce to Manitoba.

John Shea of Lifford has got married to Miss Lizzie Shea of Manvers.

Mr. Reesor, East Whitby has had eight head of cattle stolen.

Jos. Adams' house and barn Brighton were destroyed last week by fire.

Rev. Dr. Hodgkin's has assumed charge of Omemee Episcopal Church.

Major Worsley last Friday week examined the Norwood Armoury.

Mr. Gray of Newcastle bought and shipped 1,500 turkeys to England.

In Fenelon Mr. J. D. Naylor intends, we learn, to contest the reeveship with Mr. Jno. Daniels.

John Smale, Bowmanville, going home from the B. C. Church Sunday week, slipped and broke his wrist.

The many friends of Dr. Patterson, of Norwood, will regret exceedingly that he is still in a very low state of health.

A little two-year old son of Mr. J. L. Lead, P.L.S., Bowmanville, got hold of a razor on Friday last and cut one of his hands very badly,

Mr. Pusey is having an air compressor put into the Seymour mine. The drills will hereafter be driven by air, which is much to be preferred to steam as a motive power.

A. F. Gault, of Montreal the gentleman who proposes the erection of a woolen mill in this village, came here by special train Thursday and took a survey of the site.—Campbellford Herald.

The loss occasioned by the last storm has been pretty accurately arrived at. Out of 100 vessels driven ashore 66 were more or less injured and 17 are total wrcks. The loss of property is placed at $500,000 and of life 93.

In Lindsay it is likely the mayor and reeve will be re-elected by acclamation. We do not hear of any opposition to either. For deputy-reeves and councillors there will no doubt be a large crop of candidates.

The residence of widow Irish, Haldimand, was completely destroyed by fire on Thursday of last week. No one was at home at the time, and consequently nearly all the contents were consumed. Loss, about $1,200.

A fire broke out in the attic of the residence occupied by Capt. Ross and owned by Mr. John Barnard, at Lindsay, on Tuesday evening last between six and seven o'clock. It made a large hole in the flooring before it was extinguished.

At a meeting of the Hastings Junction Cheese Factory, the following very satisfactory report for the year just closed was presented by the Directors. Milk sent season 1880, 599578 lbs. Cheese from said milk, 59985 lbs. Being a little over a pound of cheese to 10 pounds of milk. Receipts: amount received for cheese, $5995 83; amount received for whey, $40. Total amount, $6,025 83.

The Colborne Express says:—"Abner Colby, whom we mention last week as having had his hand badly crushed in a threshing machine, displayed considerable pluck before coming to the surgeon to have the mangled member dressed. One finger was broken and cut nearly off; and he coolly took his jack-knife and finished the work by cutting it completely it off."

Mr. James Blackwell, lot 9, con. 10. Ops, reports a large yield of wheat of fine quality this year. Last March he purchased two bushels of White Russian wheat from Mr. R. Finley, grain dealer. From it he harvested and threshed 72 bushels, making 36 bushels to the acre. One bushel weighed as it came from the threshing machine 63 lbs; and it will weigh 64 lbs. when put through the fanning mill.

Dr. Ford has found it necessary to amputate the remaining two toes of Mr. Allen Peter's injured foot, who, it will be remembered, was the victim of a threshing machine accident a few weeks ago in Asphodel. With a commendable spirit, Mr. George Elliott, of Asphodel, has circulated a subscription list in that township and Norwood to assist the sufferer, and, as is usual in such cases in those localities, has been liberally signed.—Register.

Day after day the evidence accumulates that the "Myrtle Navy" is the people's favorite tobacco. The demand keeps increasing, and from every new circle of consumers who have been induced to try it the evidence is emphatic in its favor. Its genuine qualities always hold the friends they have once made. These qualities will be kept up to their full standard by the manufacturers of it. It is to these qualities and the reasonableness of the price that they attribute their marked success. To the quality they will adhere at all cost, and also to the price if that be possible.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.—"I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and I used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said "Hurrah for Hop Bittters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—The Mother.—Home Journal. 49-2ins.

The Napanee Express says: Last Saturday, Mrs. (Dr.) Chamberlain was terribly injured by a fall on the street. She and Mr. Embury, town clerk, were passing east on Thomas street. Just after passing the gate of Mr. William Mullen's stable yard, a vagrant cow rushed out of the gateway pursued by a dog. Mr. Embury turning saw the danger to Mrs. C. who was on the outside of the walk, was exposed, but before he could seize her to withdraw her from danger the cow struck her with her shoulder, with such force that the poor old lady was thrown completely off her feet and hurled a distance of about ten feet, striking on the edge of the walk and breaking the neck of the thigh bone. A stranger passing in a cutter, kindly lent his vehicle to convey Mrs. C. to her residence.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says—Some distinguished visitors called at our office the other day to pay their respects to Mr Sniff. The old reprobate happened to be in and perceiving a hot scotch in perspective, he at once opened out with an elaborate description of the amazing beauties of our local scenery. Taking the visitors to our back window which overlooks the river, Here, he observed, I can sit on my editorial mail bag, and gazing upon the murmuring waters draw my inspiration from the open book of nature. You sir, thirped in the 'devil,' he drawe it through the window with a string and a pop bottle when the boss ain't looking. That imp instantly dodged with admirable dexterity and allowed a quart ink bottle to plunge into the gable end of one of the visitors.

Facts To Be Known.

It would appear as if the larger portion of the people of Ontario were ignorant of the duties incumbent upon them in relation to the registration of births, marriages, and deaths. For their information we give a synopsis of the clauses of the Act of Parliament on the subject.

The clerks of municipalities are division registrars.

The Registrar-General provides the necessary books and forms for registration purposes. Returns are made by the division registrars twice a year to the Registrar-General at Toronto. Every person authorized by law to marry, baptise, or perform the funeral service, shall keep a registry for recording such acts.

It is the duty of the father or mother to register the birth of a child within thirty days. In case of the absence or death of the parents the party standing in the place of a parent, or the landlady or the nurse present at birth, shall within thirty days of the birth give notice of the birth to the Division Registrar.

Every person authorized by law to celebrate marriage shall report every marriage performed by him within ninety days of the marriage.

Every minister or other person who performs any funeral or religious service for the burial of the dead, unless he has received a certificate under the hand of the Registrar of the Division in which the death occurred that the particulars of such death have been duly registered, shall make a return of such death to the Registrar of the Division in which such death took place, within seven days after such burial.

Every duly qualified medical practitioner who was last in attendance during the last illness of any person shall within ten days after having knowledge of the death of such person, transmit to the Registrar of the Division in which the death took place, a certificate under his signature of the cause of death.

If any error has occured in registering any birth, marriage, or death, the same may be rectified within one year of the registration by applying to the Division Registrar.

A VERY SMART DOG.

If you are looking for downright intellect, call on the pointer dog. He is far more halt man than the monkey, and we cheerfully acknowledge far worthier of the relationship. Look at Jeff, Dr. Mattaner's liver colored pointer. The dog carries notes, goes for the horse and buggy, goes for beef and fetches ice regularly. Would you deny Jeff's intellect? Last week Jeff was sent for ice. He started with a towel, in one corner of which the nickel was tied up. Jeff saw that nickel put in and immediately temptation seized him. He could by ice on credit, but beef was always cash. He buried the nickel, carried the towel in, received the ice and came out, but not for the nickel. The doctor must be left under the impression that the nickle had gone for ice. The ice was carried to the office and Jeff came back like a flash, secured his cash, galloped to the beef stand and in a few minutes was observed homeward bound with his dinner. He was not afraid to carry it home. He reasoned that the doctor would suppose that some one had given it to him.

Joy Among the Children.

CORTLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally palatable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 200 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Cortland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and thorough, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea or griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water." another—"We used to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off." another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight, yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitution (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "CORTLAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL," is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Cortland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto.

NO RISK.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT IT IS TIME YOU DID.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common Sore Throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old Standing Cough. One or two bottles cures bad cases of Piles or Kidney Troubles. Six to eight applications cure any case of Excoriated Nipples or Inflamed Breast. One bottle has cured Lame Back of eight years' standing. Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Tioga Co., Pa., says: "I went thirty miles for a bottle of our Oil, which effected a wonderful cure of a Crooked Limb, by six applications."—Another who had had Asthma for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get no more."—Rufus Robinson, of Nenda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper for five years."—Rev. J. Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: "Your Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of six of the Best Oils that are known. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasurably superior to anything ever made. Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of these elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it, prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

CONSUMPTION

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: 46 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, Sept. 5, 1878.

GENTS—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation, in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used my own family, and in my private practice very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1878. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M.D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.
December 10th, 1878. Very truly, J. SIMONAUD, M.D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following results: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c., I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle, and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2nd, 1878.

About the 26th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 16, 1880.

The C. P. R. Syndicate.

We give a very large portion of our space this week in order to present to our readers, in full, the terms of the bargain into which, on behalf of the country, the Government at Ottawa have entered with a company of its friends, known as the Pacific Railway Syndicate. We have done so in order that every reader may have the opportunity of fully informing himself of the true position of affairs, on the authority of the most favorable evidence which the Government have to offer for themselves, and that we may not be accused, in any reference which we may find it necessary to make to that contract, of colouring or misrepresenting its provisions in the slightest degree, for party purposes. The question is one of too momentous character, of entirely too supreme gravity, as affecting the present position and the future prospects of the Dominion, to be narrowed down to the limits of a party purview. Its disposition will affect, and vitally affect, for years to come, the progress and prosperity of the country and the welfare of the people, and the people should therefore give it a serious and an earnest consideration with a view to determining whether their interests are fairly considered in this gigantic bargain, and whether, if they have not been so considered, they shall exert their sovereign power, by some unusual expression of public opinion, to restrain the Government from recklessly entering into bonds for this country for all time to come, to dispossess the people of the greatest portion of the public heritage, and to mortgage their industries for decades hence to raise an enormous sum of money to be handed over to a corporation, half foreigners, and of wholly foreign interests, which would virtually control the destinies of the country for the next half century. It is a question which affects the material interests for the present and the future of every man of the present generation, and which all will do well, therefore, be they Conservative or Reformer, to look at, to deliberate upon, and to come to a conclusion in regard to, in an impartial, non-partisan, dispassionate and intelligent manner. We have long held the view that the greatest blessing that could happen the country would be to be rid of the Pacific Railway incubus, a burden enormously disproportionate to our resources and strength, and wantonly laid upon the backs of the people by the reckless political exigencies of the head of the party now controlling the government of the country. We were prepared to accept even some hardship in terms, and some sacrifice by the country, for the purpose of removing that stumbling block from the path of our progress, and we had earnestly hoped that when this scheme would be laid before Parliament, though it might contain some objectionable features, though it might not be so favourable for the country as we might have desired, yet that it would afford the country relief from a burden which threatened to crush all our energies, and that we would be enabled on that ground to give it a general approval. With all our knowledge and experience, however, of the utterly unscrupulous character of the men now at the head of our public affairs, with the fresh experience of a tariff which is grinding profits for monopolists out of the industry of the consuming class, we had never dreamed that any Canadian Ministry would have the effrontery to ask of Parliament to give its authority to so monstrous a sacrifice of the public rights, so gigantic a swindle of the people, to use a plain term, as is proposed in the contract which Parliament is now asked to sanction. We ask our readers one and all not to accept any opinion of our's upon this question till they have thoroughly satisfied themselves. Let them read carefully, and re-read, every proposition set forth in the contract, in another column, and consider the nature of this gigantic bargain in which one contracting party has all the "give," and another all the "take." The Government have agreed to hand over to the Company all the work already done upon the Pacific Railway, and to complete all the contracts now in hand, including the most difficult, expensive and unremunerative portion, that of the Rocky Mountains, such work, representing when completed some $37,000,000, to become forever and unconditionally the property of the Company. The Government agree to pay over to the Company $25,000,000 in cash, and 25,000,000 of acres of lands, in alternate sections of 640 acres, extending 24 miles deep on the line of railway from Winnipeg to Jasper House, and if such lands are not fit for settlement, or are broken by water stretches, then the Company may choose compensatory districts elsewhere in the fertile belt. The Government is to pay the company $10,000 per mile for the prairie section (estimated by Sir Charles Tupper last session to cost only $13,000 per mile) upon completion of every twenty miles, and in the same way they are to receive $15,384.61 per mile for the Central Section, with a proviso by which the cash advances, as the road progresses, may be increased to $17,384.61. The Government agree to pay them in cash three-fourths the cost of material brought in for the railway as it is laid down in advance of requirements. The Government agree to permit their admission free of duty, (so that the Yankee partners of the scheme may supply all the rolling stock to advantage,) "all steel "rails, fish-plates and other fastenings, "spikes, bolts and nuts, wire, timber "and all material for bridges to be used "in the original construction of the rail-"way and of a telegraph line in connec-"tion therewith, and all telegraphic ap-"paratus required for the first equipment "of such telegraph line, and will convey "to the Company at cost price with in-"terest all rails and fastenings brought "in since the year 1879, and other mater-"ials for construction in the possession of "or purchased by the Government at a "valuation." The Government agree to buy out the Indian title of all lands now granted or hereafter to be granted to the Company. The Government agree that for 20 years no railway shall be authorised to be built running south or south-west into the United States, in order that the owners of the Pembina Branch who are in the Syndicate may have a perpetuation of their injurious monopoly, and any future provinces to be erected by the settlement of the North-West are to be similarly restrained. The Company only shall have the right to build and operate branch lines, and these the Company may build "to any point or points within the boundary of the Dominion," and the Government "shall grant to the Company the lands required for the road-bed of such branches, and for the stations, station yards, buildings, workshops, yards," etc., necessary. The Government grant to the Company, on all the enormous property to be put in their hands, this privilege, which is worthy of special note: "The Canadian Pacific "railway and all stations and station "grounds, workshops, buildings, yards, "and other property, rolling stock, and "appurtenances required and used for "the construction and working thereof, "and the capital stock of the Company, "shall be FOREVER FREE FROM TAXATION "BY THE DOMINION, OR BY ANY PROVINCE "HEREAFTER TO BE ESTABLISHED, OR BY "ANY MUNICIPAL CORPORATION, and the "lands of the Company in the North-"West Territories until they are either "sold or occupied shall also be free from "taxation for twenty-five years after the "grant thereof from the Crown." Such are the principal, but not all the concessions of the Government. On their part the Company, agree only to deposit one million dollars with the Government, on which the latter are bound to pay four per cent. interest. For the rest the company consent to take the money of the Government and build the railway, and to become possessors of the public domain and to enjoy all the enormous privileges, which have been offered to them in the contract. Such is the bargain, and we venture to say, without fear of intelligent contradiction, that a more monstrous imposition upon the people of any country was never connived at, much less conceived, by any Government. Let no one be deceived into the delusion that we have "got rid of it," much as we would sacrifice for so desirable an object. The contract not only gives the Company these unheard-of privileges, by which practically the Dominion Treasury supplies the capital required for the construction of the road, but it has to pay the interest upon the debt of $37,000,000 already spent and to be spent by the Government, and upon $25,000,00 additional to be borrowed, making in all $62,000,000 of a cash present to the Company, the interest of which will be an annual tax upon the people of the older provinces of the Dominion of over $3,100,000 a year. And in addition to this expense, not only has the most profitable portion of the public domain, upon which so much reliance for the future has been placed, been handed over to the railway monopoly, but the country is to be charged with a systematic immigration, for the sole benefit of the railway owners. The magnitude of this gigantic scheme, undertaken in the name of 4,000,000 people, might well make one stand aghast, but the manner in which it is now asked to be disposed of, leaves no room to wonder at the reluctance of the Premier to take the people into his confidence, or to allow them to give their representatives instructions on the subject before they were called to Ottawa to pass into law the most iniquitous proposition ever suggested by a Canadian Government. We see by the Government's organ, the Mail, that at a caucus of the Government supporters, held after only twenty-four hours knowledge of the contract, it was decided at all hazards to sanction Sir John Macdonald's contract. Thus both the duties and the dignities of Parliament have been set aside, and even the pretension to action under the guidance of intelligent deliberation abrogated. By the brute force of a temporary Parliamentary majority, at the back of an unscrupulous party leader, the rights and interests of the people of Canada in the Pacific Railway and the lands of the Great North-West are to be swept away and disposed of for all time to come! We can only hope that the minority in Parliament, feeling that they represent the majority in the country, will persist in opposition to the headlong sanction of the scheme, till the public opinion of the country has had time to exert its influence upon the majority of Parliament, if that majority be susceptible to reason or capable of being influenced by any higher or more patriotic motives than the blind determination to follow the party leader.

House of Commons.

The opening proceedings of Parliament will be found elsewhere. On Monday, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie moved for all papers connected with the Railway contract. After discussion, the motion was defeated by a vote of 111 to 51—Government majority, 60. Hon. Wm. Macdougall voted with the Opposition. Hon. Mr. Blake moved the postponement of the consideration of the Pacific Railway contract until January 5th in order to enable the members to consult their constituents. Sir John insisted in a high-handed way on going on with the discussion at once, and finally Mr. Blake's motion was voted down, Mr. MacCallum, however, voting with the Opposition.

On Tuesday, Dr. Tupper aired his eloquence on the Railway question, and after him Hon. Mr. Macdougall announced that his views were such that he could not support the Government on this question. Hon Mr. Blake occupied the floor yesterday afternoon, and made a telling speech against the action of the Government. It is worthy of note that the only paper which gives warm approval to the Syndicate scheme is the Peterborough Review. The Mail attempts a half-hearted defence of it; the Montreal Gazette damns it with faint praise; and the Ottawa Citizen condemns it utterly. The Opposition leaders will contest the adoption of the nefarious outrage proposed in Tupper's resolutions inch by inch.

The Christmas Boom.

The Extra Christmas Edition of the EXAMINER, was mailed on Tuesday to every part of the County, and delivered by carriers to every house in the town and suburbs, Ashburnham and Auburn, making the largest circulation ever before had of any paper in Peterborough. If any subscriber in town has, by any inadvertence of the carriers, not received this issue, they will be supplied on application at the office, as the Christmas Number contains the first instalment of our new serial, "Vivienne's Crime, or For Love of Him," which will be continued in next week's issue and succeeding numbers of the EXAMINER.

In order to accommodate the extra requirements of advertisers at this season of the year, and at the same time do full justice to our readers, the EXAMINER will be published as a paper of TEN PAGES, till after New Year's next.

Next week our edition will be increased in circulation by printing of one thousand extra papers for gratuitous distribution, for the benefit of advertisers.

Our readers are notified that they may secure the Daily Globe during the session (which will probably last two months), giving full reports of the great Syndicate discussion, on payment of FIFTY CENTS in addition to our regular subscription rate. This offer is only open in connection with subscriptions for 1881 paid in advance. For ONE DOLLAR, we will send the EXAMINER and Daily Globe to any address, postage free, during the continuance of the session of Parliament.

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

DECEMBER 15th, 1880.

Receipt of grain during the week has been small, with very little life in the market. Wheat continues dull at the decline, $1.15 being about the best offered. Chicago market has nearly reached $1.00, being a decline of thirteen cents in less than as many days. There is nothing doing in Fall Wheat—none offering. Barley continues steady, if anything firmer—65c. to 90c. according to quality; not much offering. Peas and Oats are offering more freely. Peas are worth 60c. to 62c., the latter price being for the very best. Oats not very saleable, now 30c.—local demand has fallen off. Hay about last quotation, nothing particular to notice on the market. Hops have fallen off—prices continue firmer, from $8.00 to $8.50. Poultry continues scarce and in good demand at somewhat higher prices, particularly Turkeys—holding back for Christmas; from 80c. to 90c. for turkeys, and 40c. to 50c. for geese. Butter continues unchanged, usually of poor quality offering; 15c. to 20c. for rolls, and 16c. to 20c. for firkin. Apples continue plentiful—good ones 75c. per bag, inferior less. Lard about 11c. Eggs 16c. to 17c.—the supply has fallen off. Meats of all kinds plentiful and unchanged. Other commodities unchanged.

REVOLUTION IN IRELAND.

Captain Boycott has again written to Gladstone, asking for £60,000, as reparation due him from the State.

A significant movement in regard to the agitation is the attitude suddenly adopted by a number of Irish landlords, Liberal, and Conservative, favoring a fair rent, fixity of tenure, and free sale. This movement is favoured by many prominent English members of Parliament and also by the London Times. The fixity of tenure was denounced everywhere a year ago as utterly inadmissable.

Parnell was burned in effigy at Portadown on Sunday.

Mr. Thos. O'Connor, M. P., says that a bloody Christmas is not improbable. He admits the presence in the West of Fenian agents, but thinks a distinctly Fenian uprising is improbable. In his opinion the greatest danger was to be apprehended in the west, where every man is armed to the teeth, and where all have revolvers, many rifles of the most approved pattern, and no inconsiderable number carry both kinds of weapons.

Plunkett, member of Parliament for Dublin University at a Conservative meeting at Chesterfield, on Sunday, said the Government was bound to fall. While deploring the outrages in Ireland, he asked his hearers to consider the influences brought to bear on his countrymen by agitators seeking to serve their own purposes.

Stansfield, Radical member for Halifax, at Stowberry Bridge, said as a member of the Commission of Agriculture he spent some time in Ireland studying the Irish question. They had now to face a great crisis. He believed a remedy for the present state of things would be found.

A correspondent at Dublin says that the country is drawing nearer the rocks and nothing is done to save her. The wave of agitation sweeps with greater force through the provinces, and although it met with a check in Ulster, nobody can tell how long the barriers which the loyal feelings of Ulster impose will be able to withstand the repeated shocks at Parnell's hand. Coercion triumphs, while the Government shrinks from any attempt to counteract it.

The Times says that law-abiding citizens have to submit to a terrorism, which not only defies, but supplants law, and after looking long and anxiously for help from the Government, they have begun to resign all hope and no longer venture to resist the dictation of the Land League. Cases in which the public are able to arrest and magistrates able to commit seem to become daily rarer, and even when a trial is secured, witnesses fear to speak and jurors are afraid to convict. To deliver the peasantry themselves as well as the upper and middle classes and vindicate the law, has become imperative.

Justice McCarty, Home Ruler, on Sunday night said he had reason to know that Forster is well convinced that the state prosecutions in Ireland must fail.

The Irish Land Commission is expected to report on Thursday. It is rumoured that the majority of the Commission are agreed on the outlines of a scheme, the principal features of which are: The extension of the Ulster tenant right to the whole of Ireland, with the alternative of compulsory purchase with a view to the creation of a class of peasant proprietors, in the event of the owners objecting to the extension of tennant right and re-valuation. It is understood that Kavanagh and O'Connor do not assent from the proposal, and will make a separate report.

A jury at Belleville were unable to agree on a verdict, eleven being in favor of defendant and one for plaintiff. The Judge ordered them to be locked up for the night, but consented to a sealed verdict. When the verdict was opened in the morning judgement for the plaintiff for $61 damages was given. The Judge polled the Jury, when it was found that the eleven were still in favor of a verdict for defendant. They were severely reprimanded and sent back to reconsider the verdict.

Another case of inhuman treatment of orphan children has turned up. Some time ago a farmer residing near Guelph took a girl out of Miss Rye's home and treated her most brutally. The family afterwards moved to St. Catharines, where the treatment became worse. She was compelled to wash and scrub whilst suffering from a painful felon on her finger; her hair was cut off short; she was kept a close prisoner, and frequently beaten with an iron rod. Her dress was composed of the thinnest material, and her feet were encased in rough boots with footless socks. Some kind-hearted ladies who heard of the case took her away during the absence of her keepers.

General Foreign Telegrams

Committees are quietly being formed in the English counties somewhat on the basis of the Land League, and a demand is springing up on all sides for lower rent and the right of purchase after a certain occupancy.

A Capetown despatch says that the Boers have gained a great victory and captured Heidelberg. This places the colonials in a very perilous situation, and it is understood that they have notified the Government that it will be necessary to forward troops from England without delay. On the whole the Cape news is most alarming.

Private telegrams from Capetown confirm the official despatches, and state that the Colonial authorities are panic-stricken, and that Paul Kruger has been proclaimed Governor of Heidelberg.

The crew of the British ship City of Montreal, from Quebec, recently abandoned, passed five days in the rigging before being rescued.

It is reported that a request for British troops for the Cape of Good Hope, was received at the War Office on Monday.

It is stated that three hundred experienced London policemen have been selected to strengthen the civil forces in certain parts of Ireland.

In the case of the Attorney-General against the Edison Telephone Company, to compel the defendents to take out a license to use the telephone, on the ground that it is an infringement of the Government's monopoly regarding telegraphs, judgement was given for the Crown.

It is stated that a battalion of Grenadier Guards will go to Ireland on Friday.

A telegram to the Colonial Office from Pietermaritzburg reports that five thousand Boers have taken possession of Heidelberg and established a Republic, with Paul Kruger, President, and Joubert, Commandant. No violence was committed. Communication with Pretoria is cut. All available troops are being sent up.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE ENTERTAINMENT.

"Were you at the Opera House last night?" "Yes; wasn't that a grand success?"—or, "Were you at the Entertainment last evening?" "No, I was disappointed in getting there, and from all accounts I missed a treat." Such were the dialogues heard upon every side last Saturday. We do feel heartily sorry for any one who was deprived of the pleasure. By 7.30 on that evening the Hall was well filled, and when 8 o'clock arrived every seat was occupied, while a number of persons who were determined to witness the performance were obliged to stand. Promptly at 8 o'clock, Mr. J. G. Douglas appeared upon the stage and in a neat and appropriate little speech opened the exercises. The first piece on the programme was a song and chorus by the Choir, the group of young ladies and gentlemen, tastefully attired, forming in itself a bright and attractive feature. Upon consulting our programme we found that the same next in order was that of Mr. A. Edmison, whose praises as a Comedian have been resounding ever since the midsummer Entertainment. However, owing, doubtless, to some circumstance over which he had no control, Mr. Edmison had failed to put in an appearance, much to the regret of both committee and audience. A vocal duett requiring considerable skill and compass of voice, was very sweetly rendered by Misses Johnston and Errett. Miss N. Young then read an original poetical Essay, (subject, Arctic Regions.) This young lady should certainly court the muses. Next came a vocal solo (One Day) by Miss Charlotte Ellsworth, a touching bit of poetry and music, prettily sung. Mr. J. P. Eastwood then read an Essay full of well pointed remarks. An instrumental solo the (Chasseurs De Reichoffen) was next rendered by Miss M. Edmison, in a style which showed what that young lady could do provided with a first-class instrument. A recitation, "The Baron's Last Banquet" afforded the elocutionary powers of Mr. J. G. Douglas an opportunity for display, after which came the feature of Part 1st—a Tableaux representing, in four scenes, the wonderful, time-tried story of Cinderella. In the first scene the step-mother and her daughter are enjoying the comforts of a sumptuous apartment, while Cinderella is seen in the background, superintending some culinary arrangements. In the second the abused one is being informed by the fairy God-mother of the good fortune in store for her. The third represents a brilliantly lighted drawing-room filled with handsomely attired guests, from which Cinderella is being expelled by the incensed step-mother. In the fourth scene is represented the reward of virtue, when the kneeling Prince places upon her tiny foot the magical glass slipper, while the defeated mother and daughter look on from a distance, with faces expressive of mingled wrath and disdain. We feel sure that Miss Panton's good taste, skilful hands, and indefatigable energy were again brought into play in this department. Part Second was opened by a very bright song and chorus by the Choir, after which an instrumental duett (Blind Tom's March) was rendered by two very little girls, Misses Lech and Wrighton. This performance was received by the audience with well-merited enthusiasm. Then followed the recitation, "A Brave Deed," delivered in clear ringing tones, and with good emphasis, by Miss A. Young. After this came the comic part of the programme—the well-known "Breach of Promise Case,"—"Bardell vs Pickwick." It would be impossible, in the time and space allotted for this report, to give even a meagre description of that most ludicrous scene, but it is only just to say that in the personation of the characters Mrs. Cluppins and Mr. Winkle would have done credit to professionals. Mrs. Cluppins' faithful quotation of "h's and ho's," and Mr. Winkle's well assumed perturbation were simply inimitable. The addresses of the lawyers, Sergeant Buzfuz, Sergeant Snubbin and Mr. Plunkey which, we understand, were original, prove the possession of much more than ordinary ability, and should we ever be arraigned upon false charges we should place the case with strong confidence, in the hands of the gentleman who acted as counsel for the defendant. When the sentence was pronounced by the judge, the Court room became a scene of wild confusion, the victorious party shaking hands and congratulating each other in the most demonstrative manner, the widow and her friends hugging each other viciously, while Mr. Pickwick and his party entered into a violent protest. Upon this affecting scene the curtain dropped. The following are the names, and characters of those who took part:—

Mrs. Hurdell, Plaintiff	E. Cox.
Mr. Dodson, Fogg, Attorneys	G. McCall. A. Stevenson.
Mr. Pickwick, Defendant	W. Wood.
Mr. Perker, Attorney	F. Dumble.
Sergt. Buzfuz, Counsel for Pl'ff	J. J. Douglas.
Mr. Skimpin, assistant	A. Ventress.
Sergt. Snubbin, Counsel for Def'd	J. Wright.
Mr. Plunkett, assistant	J. Gilmore.
Mrs. Cluppins, Mrs. Sanders, friends of Mrs. Bardell	J. Miller. G. Schofield
T. Bardell, son of Mrs. B.	F. McNaughton.
Mr. Winkle, wit, friend of Mr. P.	P. Henry.
Sam Weller, servt. to Mr P.	J. C. Robertson.
Judge	J. D Graham.
Clerk of the Court	M. R. Wilson.
Court Crier	H. Ash.
Usher	W. Lachey.
Jurymen	12 Pupils.

Miss S. Hamilton then appeared and recited the touching story of Little Gretchen Match girl. When the curtain rose again a wonderful picture met all eyes. A Christmas Tree laden with a variety of tokens, Santa Claus standing under it ready to distribute his gifts, a family party enjoying the season's cheer, while from a distance was wafted the sound of sweet voices, singing the Christmas carol. God save the Queen was then sung by the company in the various costumes worn during the evening. It is a time honored saying that "brevity is the soul of wit," so instead of attempting any lengthened comment upon the performance, we simply wish the Collegiate Institute, teachers and pupils, with their friends the "compliments of the season," and hope that each may receive a handsomer Christmas box than—No. 506.

The students regret that any misapprehension should have arisen with regard to the tableaux given at their concert—from the programme many understood four distinct scenes were to have been given in last, whereas the four were grouped in one.

A correspondent at Vienna says that the idea of arbitration appears to engage the whole attention of the powers who are seriously discussing it. The idea meets with no opposition whatever.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 23, 1880.

THE FREE MARKET QUESTION.

There seems to be but one opinion among those on the borders of the section for whose trade and custom we stand in the attitude of competitors with towns like Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg, and that is that the erection of a Free Market in Peterborough would popularize our town in the surrounding country to a greater extent than ever, and would bring here permanently large numbers of farmers who are now but occasional visitors, and of others who are now customers of the towns east, west and south of us. There does not, in the town, seem to be any dissenting opinion as to the wisdom of establishing the market on the system undoubtedly best calculated to benefit the trade of the town; the only trouble in the way seems to be an apathy and indifference in those quarters where the proposition, if it is to be carried out, must be taken up. It is the duty of those who are entrusted with the management of the affairs of the town, in the Council, and of those who aspire to be possessed of the same trust for the next year, to take this matter up, and deal with it in such manner as will best advance the interests of the community. But our municipal representatives seem to be content to think that they discharge their duty sufficiently by regulating the current of expenditure in the ordinary channels, and seeing that the necessary revenue is derived from the municipal taxation. They seem to too large an extent to forget that it is their proper function not merely to carry out an established routine of levying rates and expending the money derived therefrom, but to labor, to devise, and to promote by their official position, such progressive changes or enterprise as may promise to benefit the trade of the town. The Councillors, present or prospective, should give this subject of Free Markets their earnest consideration, and if they are convinced—and we do not see how they can escape the conviction, if they give the subject intelligent deliberation—that free markets, (with a small fee to meet the expenses of weighing and measuring and cost of a market constable) would, by effecting a large addition to the number of farmers of the district who are brought to buy and sell in the town by the advantages offered here, be beneficial to the trade and business of the town, would increase the circulation of money in our midst, and would give permanence and stability to our position as the trading centre of the district, then they are in duty bound to act accordingly. For the sake of these greater benefits we can afford to forego the trifling contribution of $1200 a year to our revenue at the expense of the business of the town. We pointed out lately the danger to which the town is exposed by the competition opened up by the Grand Junction Railway. We have since had it brought home to our attention in the recent proceedings of the Ashburnham Council. At its last meeting steps were taken to give aid by way of exemption from taxation to the establishment of a barley market. The Reeve stated that "barley paid a toll "in Peterborough and did not pay any "in Ashburnham, which was an advan- "tage which would be looked at by farm- "ers and cause them to market their grain in "the village." Like considerations at other places along the line will have their due influence. What is wanted is for the town to show an interest in the trade which is the basis of its prosperity, and to the retention and increase of which it must look for its future. We should show the farmers who trade here that we appreciate their business, and are prepared to give them the advantages of a free market in return for their custom. We hope to see some one take up this subject, and display an intelligent zeal in the interests of the town which would without doubt redound to the advantage of the community.

Where the Money comes from.

This year there were exported from the Province of Ontario 4,240,940 bushels of barley, as against 3,644,776 last year. The increase in the quantity alone represents about $277,300, and the increase in price about $400,000, or in all considerably more than half a million dollars of actual cash brought into the Province for barley this year than last. At the Port of Port Hope alone the export of barley was this year 716,794 as against 492,333 bush. last year, thus bringing into this section on the increased quantity about $150,000 more than last year, and on the increased price some $22,000 more. The other day Mr. Stevenson sent $10,000 worth of wool to the United States; not long ago there were some $50,000 worth of butter exported, and large sums have been left in this district from the sale of cattle, sheep and horses to be sent abroad. All this represents so much wealth created this year out of the industry of the people and the resources of the soil, and it is the circulation of this very money, which is making times improve and the business pulse beat more healthfully. Not one dollar of it was in any way influenced by the N. P., and we defy any man to prove that this section has been benefited to the extent of a copper, except from the cause we have alluded to. The only effect of the tariff is to reduce the purchasing power of every dollar so produced by adding to the cost of everything into which the producer may have occasion to turn his money.

An Apt Illustration.

The English letter of the Iron Age, of Dec. 2, after discussing the Iron, Metal and Hardware Trade, draws attention to a peculiar fact. It says: "The success of "Krupp (the great German ironmaster) "in securing an order for 3,000 tons "(steel rails) from the contractors for a "new line between Fakenham and Lynn, "in Norfolk has excited a good deal of "comment. The price is said to be £6. "5/ per ton delivered at Lynn, which is a "small east coast port, rather handy for "shipments from Rotterdam. Bolchow, "Vaughan & Co, might have secured this "order had they been in a position to "guarantee early delivery. The German "makers have also taken a contract for "30,000 tons from the Alta Italia Com- "pany at £6. 6/ delivered at Geneva, in "the teeth of a very close English com- "petition, wherras to the Berylish Markisch "line at Elberford, close to their own works "they quoted £3 to £3 3/ per ton. Free "Traders point to these facts in triumph "and with some reason." It will be noted that the German makers are able to sell to the Italian company, paying the extensive freight costs of delivering at Genoa, steel rails, at a profit, for $32.50 per ton. But from a German railway, close by the doors of their factory, they demand $40.75 per ton, that is to say $8.25 more per ton, to say nothing of the cost of freight to Genoa, than they are actually able to sell for at a profit. Protected by a tariff something like our own N.P., however, they compel the German consumers to pay considerably more than one fourth more for their steel rails, than they would be glad to sell for in any other market. This incident illustrates the whole system of protection. The protected manufacturer will fix the value of his productions, not by a fair rate of profit, but by the cost at which the same goods can be brought into market for, from outside competitors, after paying the duty. It is human nature and self-interest for the manufacturer to do so, and he cannot be blamed for making the highest profit upon his goods. But the effect of such a tariff must always be, as in the case quoted above, to make the consumer pay very much more to the manufacturer, than he would were the natural laws of trade not perverted by artificial restrictions, tending to benefit the few at the expense of the many.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

CANADA SCHOOL JOURNAL.—Last issue of the SCHOOL JOURNAL contains the following editorials: "Co-education," a strong putting forward of the arguments in favor of the full right of woman to education, with a criticism of Professor Goldwin Smith's arguments in the last two issues of the Bystander against Co-education. "High Schools versus Collegiate Institutes;" which upholds the County High Schools. The other editorials concern purely School interests, but the concluding editorial, "The case of 'Bombastes' against Canada," is an arraignment of the Rev. Mr. Norman, of Montreal, for a letter over his signature in the Spectator making little of "Canadian Graduates." In the interests of Canadian Scholarship, the CANADA SCHOOL JOURNAL "goes for" the Rev. Mr. Norman in a very amusing article. This number has also an essay on schools by Dr. Allison of Nova Scotia, and a most practical and important paper on "Corporal Punishment," by Jas. L. Hughes, P. S. I. "The Condition of Ireland" furnishes matter for an interesting article by Mr. Hodgins, Deputy-Minister of Education. There are full reports of Teachers' Associations, Examination Papers, School Notes. This Journal will be sent to any address by the publishers, W. J. Gage & Co., on receipt of price.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending December 11th and 18th, contain the following, among other interesting and valuable articles: Nature and Law, by Dr. W. B. SUNDAY MAGAZINE.—Now is the time to subscribe to the SUNDAY MAGAZINE. The January number, which commences a new volume, is a very brilliant Holiday one, opening with a poem, "Christmas," and followed by "Christmas Carols and Customs," "The Children's Carols," "St. Nicholas, the Patron of Christmas," "Christmas Eve in Madrid," "Christmas in the Far West," &c., &c. A new and powerful serial is commenced, entitled, "Out of the World," by Mrs. Robert O'Reilly; there are several interesting short stories, sketches, essays and poems, in fact, the 128 quarto pages are filled with highly entertaining and instructive articles, and the embellishments are numerous and beautiful. The SUNDAY MAGAZINE has now reached its ninth volume, and has deservedly a large circulation; it pleasantly inculcates religious, moral and virtuous sentiments and should be found in every family in the land, for it is essentially a family magazine. The price of a single copy is only 25 cents, and the yearly subscription $3; six months $1.50, and four months $1, sent post paid. MUNICIPAL ELECTION NOTES.

In Snowdon, Mr. Scott, the present Reeve is opposed by Mr. Donald Hartley.

S. Otto and Mr. Kellett will contest the Reeveship in Lutherworth.

Mr. Jos. Pritchard is in the field for Reeveship of Stanhope.

In Galway: Michael Mansfield will oppose Mr. Thos. Clark the old Reeve; Jno. Doherty is to be a candidate for the Council.

Mr. E. Quinlan is a candidate for Port Hope Mayoralty.

In Lindsay: Mr. Joseph Cooper is talked of as a candidate for the reeveship; Mr. J. W. Wallace is out for first deputy-reeve, for which Mr. Fee will not be a candidate for re-election.

In Mariposa: Mr. Robt. Adam states positively that he will not be a candidate for re-election. The people, however, are determined to bring him out.

In Emily: Mr. Bailey's name is mentioned for the reeveship in opposition to Mr. Stephenson.

Candidates who contemplate running for municipal offices would do well to look into the Municipal Act past at the last session of the Local Legislature, so that they may make themselves sure as regards their qualification. See 285 of the Municipal Act, where a property qualification is required, provides that the person is to make and subscribe to a solemn declaration, the conclusion of which states: "And that such estate at the time of my election was of the value of at least (specifying the value) over and above all charges, liens and encumberances affecting the same." Mr. Dalton, in Practice Court, reports, page 249, April 15, 1879; in Reg. Ex. Rel. Bole vs. McLean, held: Notwithstanding the use of the word "estate" in the declaration of a candidate under the Consolidated Municipal Act, 1873, that he is nevertheless qualified if the rating of the value on the roll is sufficient in amount. No change has been made in the law that encumberances are not to be considered in ascertaining the amount of qualification Sec. 4, Chap. 24, of the Statutes of Ontario amends sec. 70 of the Municipal Act by adding after the words "to at least the value following" in the twelfth line thereof, the words "over and above all charges, liens, and incumbrances affect the same." So that all intending candidates for municipal honors, whether as mayors, reeves, deputy-reeves, aldermen or councillors, must look well after their title deeds and see that they are not embellished with too many liens, encumberances, and similar ornaments, or if they are, to see that they are assessed at sufficient value to set of these hatchments.

THE MAYORALTY

To the Electors of the Town of Peterboro:

GENTLEMEN,—As rumors have been placed in circulation to the effect that I am not a candidate in the contest pending for the Mayoralty of the town, I deem it my duty to give the earliest contradiction to all such reports as are now, or as may be put in circulation. Having consented, at the request of a very large number of the representative ratepayers of the town, to become a candidate, it is my intention to go to the polls and to use every lawful endeavor to secure my election, not from any motives of personal interest or ambition, but to carry into effect, so far as in my power lies, the wishes of those at whose suggestion I have become a candidate, and to whose generous support I have no doubt I shall owe my election.

Rumors have also been put industriously into circulation that I am an opponent of the Trent Valley Scheme. While I am at a loss to conceive the motive of the introduction of such a question into our municipal affairs, I take this opportunity of saying that both my convictions and my personal interests make me a strong advocate of the Trent Valley Canal, and that if elected I shall, believing that the interests of the town would be promoted by the prosecution of this work, exert every influence in my power to advance the Trent Valley enterprise.

Having always, since honored with a seat in the Council Board, been a firm advocate of prudence and economy in the management of the finances of the town, I shall, if elected, do my utmost to keep down every unnecessary expenditure, to oppose new burdens being placed upon the backs of the ratepayers, and to maintain the effective working of our municipal affairs at the lowest possible cost to the ratepayers.

As it may be impossible for me to personally solicit the votes of all the ratepayers, I take this opportunity of requesting their support on polling day, and I believe I can safely appeal to my past record, both in and out of the Council, as the best evidence that the trust which I have reason to believe will be confided to me in the result of this election, will be honestly and conscientiously fulfilled, with a single desire to perform the duties of the position for which I am a candidate to the best advantage of the town and the promotion of the welfare of its people.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,
HENRY DENNE.

The Bobcaygeon Independent correspondent says the settlers all along the Monk road are better off than usual. This must be attributed to several causes. First, there was a good harvest; second, lumbering is very brisk; third the iron mines are making work and circulating money.

When last heard from he was in pursuit of his partner with an axe or bowie knife. He is passionately fond of adventure."

The Post of last Thursday says: A little twelve-year old son of Mr. William Wingrove wandered away from his home in Lindsay on Thursday evening last and has not been heard of since. His parents are very anxious about his safety and desirous of his returning home. He wore dark trousers and vest, black jacket and a frieze cap. His Christian name is William. It is supposed that he got on a Midland train going south and is somewhere along the front.

The room in which a number of friends pass the evening smoking either cigars or inferior tobacco will have an unpleasant odor next morning. Let the same friends smoke only the "Myrtle Navy" and they will find quite a difference in the room next morning. If it is reasonably well ventilated, as with a fire-place for instance, no unpleasantness whatever will be found. The purity and fine quality of the leaf used is the reason of this.

On Friday week the sad tidings reached Warkworth from Manitoba of the sudden death of Mr. Wm. Ingles, of that place. It appears Mr. Ingles and his partner (Mr. Andrew Cowie) had taken contract to furnish a firm with wood. The pair started out in the morning to the woods, when by some mishap Ingles was struck by a falling tree killing him instantly. The friends of deceased feel it a terrible blow. They telegraphed for the body to be sent home.

The Norwood Register says: "A little child about two years old, daughter of Mr. John Thompson, Asphodel, about two years ago, was playing with a shingle nail in her mouth, and after a time it unfortunately passed from her mouth into her throat, where of of course it lodged, causing the little one a good deal of pain, and considerable trouble and anxiety to her parents. Only last week Dr. Ford placed the child under chloroform, and succeeded in extracting the obstacle.

Cause and Effect.—The main cause of of nervousness is indigestion, and that is caused by weakness of the stomach. No one can have sound nerves and good health without using Hop Bitters to strengthen the stomach, purify the blood and keep the liver and kidneys active, to carry off all the poisonous and waste matter of the system. See other column.—Advance. 52-2ins

At Newcastle, on the 15th, the Newcastle Flour Mills with entire contents—owned by Mrs. S. W. Adams—were totally destroyed by fire. The fire had gained such headway before discovered and there being very few people living near the mill that it was all but useless to try to save any of the property or contents. One hundred barrels of flour that stood just inside the door and were to have been shipped to-day were consumed. There is not the slightest clue to the origin of the fire, there being no fire in the mill the day before.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the only medicine that acts upon the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and the Bowels at the same time, while it allays nervous irritation, and tones up the debilitated system. It cures all humors from an ordinary pimple to the worst form of Scrofula. For sale by all dealers. Sample bottles 10 cents, regular size $1.00 52-2 ins.

At Port Hope J. C. Watson, Private Secretary of A. H. Williams, M. P., on Friday evening last, committed suicide by strangling himself with a silk handkerchief. An inquest was held on Saturday afternoon when several witnesses were called as to the finding of the body, and medical testimony in regard to the death. One witness stated that he had made an attempt on his life in her house some time previously. It appears from the evidence that the deceased had been drinking very freely for some time. The jury returned a verdict that the deceased, J. C. Watson, came to his death by strangulation whilst under great mental depression. The deceased leaves a wife and one child to mourn his untimely end. Mrs. Watson's friends live at Smith's Falls.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning the paper does not answer the law) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for payment.

Joy Among the Children.

Copland's Sweet Castor Oil, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 500 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea or griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water," another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off," another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight," yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "Copland's Sweet Castor Oil," is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto.

One or two bottles cures bad cases of Piles or Kidney Troubles. Six to eight applications cure any case of Excoriated Nipples or Inflamed Breast. One bottle has cured Lame Back of eight years' standing. Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Tioga Co., Pa., says: "I went thirty miles for a bottle of our Oil, which effected a wonderful cure of a Crooked Limb, by six applications."—Another who had had Asthma for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get no more."—Rufus Robinson, of Nunda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper for five years."—Rev. J Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: "Your Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of six of the Best Oils that are known. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasureably superior to anything ever made Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

Note—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised.

Not the Slightest Affinity exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of those elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it, prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 23, 1880.

A Merry Christmas.

We beg to wish all who may read the the pages of the EXAMINER this week, and especially those of our readers who have been, as a large number of them have, for many years accustomed to its weekly visit, the "Compliments of the Season," and a "Merry Christmas."

The C. P. R. Swindle.

We are pleased to learn that the Opposition leaders have resolved to consult public opinion upon the outrageous sacrifice of the material interests of the country involved in the swindle, which the Government have called a contract and placed before Parliament for sanction, and that on Friday 31st, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, Sir Richard Cartwright will address the Electors of Peterborough County, in Bradburn's Opera House. We hope Messrs. Burnham and Hilliard will attend and explain the course they propose to take upon this most important question, and the reasons which govern them. Of Mr. Hilliard we have little hope; but Mr. Burnham is a man of intelligence and of probity. He is not shackled as Mr. Hilliard is, either by poverty of intellect or by the bonds of the local party wire-puller. He cannot but discern the outrageous surrender of the future of Canada, and the gross injustice done to its people, by the terms of this capitulation of the Government to a foreign railway monopoly. Can we hope that in a matter of such vital importance he will develop the patriotism and the independence to rise above the level of party lines, and record his vote in the interests of his country, to the satisfaction of his constituents, and to his own lasting honor? Let the reader again read carefully the contract, which we published in full last week, and not fail to be here on the 31st.

NEW CORPORATION—Messrs. R. A. Morrow, Dr. Boucher, D. W. Dumble, D. G. Hatton and Henry Calcutt, are applying to the Ontario Legislature for incorporation as the "Peterborough Storage and Malting Company," the object of incorporation being for "securing, storing and shipping grain and farmers produce, and merchandize and making advances thereon, and for the carrying on of the business of malsters." Capital $20,000 in 400 shares of $50 each. The place of business will be in Ashburnham.

The House of Commons.

Since its going into session the House of Commons has been engaged principally in the discussion of the terms of the Pacific Railway contract, or capitulation, as it has come to be called, the other business so far taken up being unimportant. Sir Charles Tupper has given the defence by the Government of their contract, and in dealing with it he exerted his oratorical powers to the uttermost, and he is one of the best of our public speakers, to show, not that the Government had made a good bargain, but that they had done the best they could. His speech was an able one, but like all his efforts, his utter disregard for the truth rendered it utterly devoid of substantial argument. Hon. Mr. Blake made a masterly exposition of the magnitude of the sacrifice which the Government asked Parliament to sanction, and made a patriotic appeal to the House, to reject this bargain in which all the best interests of the country are sacrificed to the political exigencies of the Government. The speech of Mr. Langevin, the Minister of Public Works, was, though not so intended, a confession of the failure of the Government, and the straits to which Sir John Macdonald had been driven, by placing himself in the power of the Syndicate. The Government defence is best summed up in the following words of Mr. Langevin:

"Well, Mr. Chairman, in this case we have not to deal with only one party. We have to deal with the Syndicate. These gentlemen are the one party and we are the other. We have to make a contract with them for the building of the road. Shall we say to them, "You must take that or nothing!" That is not the way contracts are made. You have to give and take. You have to take into consideration the exigencies of the case. You have to see whether your terms are acceptable to the other party, and if after reasoning the matter with the other party you find that he is right and your proposal is not sufficient, and if you have to give more lands or more money, or other conditions, the result is that you have to give and take on both sides to prepare the contract and sign it. That is what we have done. Here is a contract, and we say that it is the best we can do."

Sir Richard Cartwright followed in a scathing exposure of the "give and take," part of the transaction, in which the Government had done all the giving and the Syndicate all the taking. He alluded to the criminal career of the leaders of the Government in the in the former Pacific Railway contract, in a manner which brought Sir Charles Tupper to his feet in a rage that made him forget all the amenities of ordinary decency, and he indulged in an attack upon Sir Richard, and a person outside the House who, he knew, was not able to defend himself, in a manner that was simply blackguardly. Sir Richard drove it home to the Great Stretcher, by retorting as follows:—

"I do not wonder, Sir, that the man who has only got to look on his right hand, when his friends and colleagues are in their seats, to see the man of the "other ten thousand," and on his left to see the man of the $32,000, should not like to have called to his mind that most infamous passage in the history of Canada, when the honor of Canada, the interests of Canada, were sold and sacrificed by these men, as far as it was possible for them to do it, for Sir Hugh Allen's $360,000 or $200,000 of money; and, Sir, I have to tell this hon. gentleman that though I could have excused him for not having deserted his chief in his hour of need, yet, Sir, after the facts were disclosed and proved, I hold him at least to be an accomplice after the fact and very nearly as guilty as the man who was himself the criminal."

The principal following speakers on the Ministerial side were Mr. Ives, and Mr. Plumb, the poetical buffoon of the House, and on the Opposition side Hon. Messrs. Anglin and Laurier. To-day (Thursday) the House is to adjourn till Jan. 4th, and during the recess public opinion will be consulted by the Opposition leaders.

THE SYNDICATE SWINDLE.

Sir John's Surrender to the C.P.R. Monopoly.

The following is the conclusion of Hon. Mr. Blake's great speech upon the capitulation of the Goverfiment to the St. Paul & Manitoba Railway people "Now, I cannot understand why it is that this monstrous bargain has been brought to Parliament, how is it that Ministers who, during the last session of Parliament, told us they were able, without infringing upon the resources of the country, to construct the Pacific railway, should bring down a plan which does not relieve us from the burden of its construction; which obliges us to go on spending our money for ten years to come; which involves a total expenditure by us of $60,000,000 and the cession of 25,000,000 acres of land; which hands over to a private corporation the whole profit of that expenditure. Had the gentlemen proceeded in the business-like way suggested, and gone on with the Thunder Bay branch, had they agreed that our finances could not stand the strain of building in British Columbia, there would have been no reason for them to invite Parliament to pass the act they have laid before us. But having made those statements, which the public mind did not credit, they felt bound to make some other arrangement to escape from the difficulty into which they had plunged themselves. They went to England and made an offer. It turns out that they did not succeed in England. The First Minister said that they very nearly failed, and that when they left England they had not succeeded in making a bargain at all, that details which were so vital that disagreement upon them would nullify the whole proceeding were still in suspense when they came here, and remained in suspense some six or seven weeks after they arrived. Prudence demanded that they should simply say that negotiations were going on, but the hon. gentleman could not wait. They announced with triumph that they had already made their bargain a contract firm, and by such an announcement placed themselves in the hands of those gentlemen who formed the syndicate. They could not afford to differ from those gentlemen. The First Minister had announced, and the people had accepted his utterance, that a bargain had been made which would ensure the construction of the railway without cost to the people, and induce a flow of immigration into the Northwest. What could he do if, after being here seven weeks, he would be obliged to give the lie to those declarations, and to say, "I have made no bargain at all. The details remained unsettled when I spoke to you. The syndicate would not agree to my terms, and consequently we are where we were." To the chance of that humiliation he had exposed himself, and in order to avoid it I do not doubt he has passed many anxious hours struggling with the man in whose toils he had placed himself, endeavoring to obtain some terms less bad than those to which he has been obliged to submit in the end. They knew the First Minister could not afford to declare that what he had stated was not correct, and that they could press him to stipulation after stipulation, point after point, additional pound after additional pound of flesh, until they had their fill. A contract might have been presented containing altogether other terms, which might have been worthy of our adoption. This contract is worth only our rejection. I shall not venture to hope that this House will reject it, but I do not doubt that an indignant country, although you will not give it time now to raise its voice, will take the first opportunity to inflict a summary penalty upon those persons—offenders for a second time—who, having once betrayed the country's honor and been forgiven, have taken advantage of the opportunity which a too confiding people conferred upon them to betray in the same transaction her most material and vital interests." (Loud cheers.)

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Nominations on Monday.

Candidates for the Mayoralty and Council.

Addresses by Messrs. Smith and Denne.

The nominations for the municipal elections took place on Monday throughout the Province. The centre of interest in the town was the opening of proceedings at the Town Hall, as it was well understood that the insipid events of the past few years were to be varied by a contest for the Mayoralty, in which two strong candidates were pitted against each other. At ten o'clock there was quite a gathering of the electors in the hall. Shortly after the hour struck, Mr. Wm. Cluxton, ex-M.P., addressing the Returning Officer, Mr. Macdonald, formally nominated Henry Denne as a fit and proper person to be Mayor of the town for the coming year. Mr. Robert Fairbairn seconded the nomination. Some time elapsed, when Mr. James Stevenson came forward and nominated Mr. H. H. Smith as Mayor for 1881, the nomination being seconded by Mr. William Logan. Both candidates evinced a disinclination to open the ball, but after a little preliminary skirmishing, the first nominated was adjudged to speak first, and the following address was read by

MR. DENNE:

Mr. Returning Officer and gentlemen: It has not been my habit in or out of the Council to indulge in long speeches, and I do not think it necessary to do so on the present occasion. It is proper, however, that I should refer briefly to the course which I propose to pursue if honored by your confidence, and the course which I believe the great majority of the electors wish to be carried out in the Council. I believe it to be the duty of the Council to keep down expenditures to the lowest point compatible with the efficient carrying on of our municipal affairs, and I think that there is scope for the exercise of economy within the control of the Council. It will be my duty if elected Mayor, to use the influence of my position as ex officio member of all committees to exercise the utmost economy. I believe it will be found in the interests of the town, and to the better satisfaction of the ratepayers, that the appropriation for streets and bridges shall be fairly apportioned to the different wards, and that the expenditure of the amount so set apart should be expended by the Councillors representing the ward, and I shall endeavor to have this system adopted. I am of the opinion that the interests of the town would be promoted by holding the meetings of all committees open to the press. It is in committees that the business of the Council is mainly conducted, and the ratepayers have a right to know what course their representatives pursue upon all questions, as well in committees as in open Council. I believe there should be no secrecy in connection with the management of the town affairs. I believe the ratepapers desire that the meetings of the Town Trust should also be open to the public, as in the case of all other town where such corporations exist, and I shall endeavor to have the Council of 1881 press upon the Town Trust the adoption of this rule, so that their proceedings may be made public. Last year a motion was passed unanimously in the Council, which motion I seconded, that before any new debentures were issued the Trust should be required to give the Council a statement of the last previously issued debentures, of the amount realised and to whom sold, and to what purpose the proceeds were applied. That order of the Council has never been complied with, and I shall, if elected, endeavor to have the Council and the public supplied with this information from time to time. I pointed out to the Mayor the danger with which the town was threatened by the proposed legislation asked by the Toronto and Ottawa Railway enterprise, by which the town would be placed in the same position in regard to the $150,000 bonus now lapsed, as the County Council have been with the Grand Junction Railway. I endeavored to induce the Council to take action to avert this danger, and if elected Mayor I shall advocate the strongest opposition to any such measure passing the Legislature. I shall oppose the granting of any new bonuses during the coming year without by wish of a majority of the ratepayers, believing that the taxes of this town should not be increased without being quite certain we shall derive a benefit by so doing. I am of the opinion that there no longer exists any necessity for continuing the expense and complicated method of conducting a portion of the town business by a close corporation, not responsible to the electors. The law requires that the amounts realised by rates for different debentures shall be placed to the credit of those debentures and not applied for any other purpose. Under the management of the Town Trust I believe these accounts are improperly complicated, and that moneys are unlawfully appropriated for other purposes than that for which they are set aside. I am of opinion that these accounts should be simplified and placed on a proper footing by being placed in the hands of the Town Treasurer, under the direction of the responsible representatives of the electors, and that the Trust and the expenses connected should be done away with. I am not here, gentlemen, as a candidate of my own choosing—I should have prefered if some other had been selected—I am a candidate at the wish and in the interests of, I believe, the great majority of the electors who desire that there should be a change from the control of certain influences which for some time past have more or less ruled the town. I have no personal ambition to serve, nor anything to gain by attaining to this office, but I shall if elected regard it as a most responsible trust, and shall devote my time and energies, and whatever ability I may possess, to promote to the utmost of my power the interests of the taxpayers of the town. I see that I have been charged by some anonymous writer, who, I have no doubt, had his own reasons for concealing his name—or rather the charge has been insinuated, for it is not the nature of the snake in the grass to act honestly or aboveboard—with the offences imputed in the following letter. (Mr. Denne here read the letter published in the EXAMINER over the signature of Ratepayer.) In reference to the first I am not ashamed to say that it was through my efforts that the special audit was made. My present opponent threw every obstacle in the way, but the audit was ordered and he himself was forced to support. The result proved that it was high time, for a deficiency was discovered of over $1,100, as well as the most incompetent conduct of the official concerned. Owing to the refusal of facilities for the carrying out of their work as they desired by the persons most interested in shirking investigation, there were some errors in that audit, which was reaudited at a cost of $50 and not $100, not because it was necessary to have it re-audited, but that it might be placed in the hands of such as the writer of this letter to accuse Messrs. Mills and Hogan of incompetency. They did their work well; they discovered the leakage in the money of the ratepayers, and the result was a change of officials and system, to the great advantage of the town. I have no reason, gentlemen, to be in the least ashamed of that work. With regard to the law suit with Mr. Hatton, I had nothing to do with it, and as to that against Mr. Edwards, I believe it was the right of town to obtain their money, which the auditors report showed to be in his possession. If the effort failed the lawyers may be thanked for it, but it may be that a way will still be found to enforce the rights of the ratepayers. As to the charge of putting useless rubbish on the streets in return for a little earth for my croquet grounds, the Street Inspector will tell you that he got over 900 loads of good material for the streets. I told him if it suited he could have it for nothing at the same time the town had been paying 15 cents per load, and if you ask Mr. E. Thompson he will tell you I paid him 25 cents per load for the earth delivered, also a few loads from the man who watered the streets. Ask them who paid for it. I think the town instead of being a loser was largely the gainer by this transaction. The last charge from the "poor man's friend," insinuates that I wanted to put a penalty of five per cent. on the poor man who could not pay his taxes promptly. I have more than once in the Council complained that wealthy men were allowed to let their taxes stand long after they should be paid in, while the Collector was forcing the taxes out of the poor man. We all know that it is always the rich man's taxes and not the poor man's which are last to be collected, and the motion for five per cent. to taxes not not paid by a certain date gave a two month's grace, so that all might have a fair chance to pay their taxes in. I make no special pretence of being the poor man's friend—I am not a lawyer—and we all know what great friends of the poor men we find generally about election times—but I can leave it to those who know me best, either in the Council or in private life, whether I am likely to be the man to grind the face of the poor man or to refuse him any leniency or any assistance whether in taxes or anything else, as far as lies in my power. Gentlemen, I have to thank you for your hearing. As I said, I am not a man of many words, but if I am elected, as I believe I will be—as I am sure with your assistance I shall be—I can only promise you faithful and honest service as Mayor, and to do all in my power to keep down the expenses and advance the interests of the town, without fear or favor, to all, rich and poor alike.

MR. SMITH

followed. He complimented Mr. Denne on his speech, which, though short, contained a very good programme, with many parts of which he agreed, and if elected, as he expected to be, he would carry out such parts as he agreed with. As to Mr. Denne's remarks in reference to economy he was heartily in accord; some persons had accused him, the speaker, of extravagance, and he pointed out that a general statement of this kind was difficult to meet, and could only be met by a general denial; if, however, his opponents would come down to particulars and point out in what respect he had been extravagant, he would be prepared to meet his accusers, and discuss such matters most fully. The taxes for the town for the present year were only 12 mills and were much lower than they had ever been before in his recollection, and notwithstanding this fact and the further fact that the assessment was about $125,000 less than in 1879, there would be a surplus of about $2,000; this showed the affairs of the town had been well and economically managed, as they had been for the previous three years, as he would show by figures later on. The surplus for this year would enable the incoming Council to make more extensive improvements and repairs upon the streets than had been done during the present year. Many of the streets and sidewalks were in a very bad condition, and it required the expenditure of a considerable sum to put them in proper condition, which the surplus in question would assist to remedy. He approved of the proposition that the Councillors for each Ward should see to the expenditure of the money appropriated to their respective Wards, and claimed that in reference to street improvements and repairs, sectional interests should not be alone considered, but that each application should be treated on its merits, and that necessary work should be performed even if one Ward should on some occasions receive more improvements than others, and claimed that the expenditure should not be regulated alone by the amount each Ward is assessed for. As to the holding of open Committee meetings, he thought, as a general rule, the ratepayers, if so desirous, should be allowed to attend the meetings, and that while he had been in the Council he had always been willing that they should, but that he believed in some cases it might be necessary for a members of committees to discuss and dispose of matters in private, and that this right should be reserved. The Town Trust Commission was established many years ago, and doubtless the Commission was called into existence for some good reason; at present he was unprepared to express a decided opinion as to the advisability of continuing the Trust, but promised to give the matter his best consideration, and if he came to the conclusion that the interests of the town would be better served by the abolition of the Commission he would support legislation in that direction; at present the Commissioners acted as trustees, both for the town and its creditors. With regard to Mr. Denne's remarks respecting the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, he called attention to the letter which he had written to the Review last week pointing out the fact that the Company had given notice of their intention to apply for legislation which would be very injurious to the town. He thought that in any case $150,000 was more than the town could afford to pay it, and that now owing to the excellent management of the Midland R. R. by Mr. Cox, and the facilities now afforded us for visiting the Provincial capital, the town does not require further railway accomodation, and so no aid should be granted to the Toronto & Ottawa R. R. We now have two daily trains to and from Toronto, which is all that is necessary for the accommodation of the public. Then again, we also had the Grand Junction Railway, giving us an additional outlet to the East, and had got it without the expenditure of a dollar, and if other Railway Companies were willing to come here on the same terms we cannot object. He was convinced that a large majority of the ratepayers were opposed to granting any aid to the T. & O. R. R., but in case a deputation should be sent to Toronto to oppose the legislation now asked for, they might benefit by the objection that they did not represent the views of the ratepayers inasmuch, as the By-law granting the $150,000 had been carried almost unanimously. To remove this objection it had been suggested that an open vote be taken on Monday next, as to whether or not the ratepayers do approve of the proposed legislation; he felt sure the result would be that every vote in the town would be recorded against such legislation. The effect of this would be such that it would have to be abandoned. With reference to the letter in the Examiner, which he had not seen until published, Mr. Denne should not be too sensitive. We all know that during elections letters of this kind are frequently written and must be judged by their contents. If the statement as to the cleaning out of Mr. Denne's lot is incorrect his neighbors will know it and it can do him no harm. On the other hand, if true, he must assume such blame as he is entitled to. As to the statement in reference to the imposition of 5 per cent on the taxes of those who do not pay promptly, all he could say was that in his opinion it would weigh heavily upon the poorer classes, because the rich man can always pay promptly and thus save the 5 per cent, but in many cases the electors of small means were unable to do so, and would have to submit to the additional charge, which in many cases would be a hardship. He was pleased to be able to say the election up to the present had been brought out by Mr. Denne himself in a fair manner, though he could not say so much for some of his friends. He had known Mr. Denne for many years, and entertained a high opinion of him, and trusted that the close of the election they might be as good friends as at present. He had studiously avoided making any personal remarks respecting his opponent during the contest, and proposed to continue to pursue a like course. He complained that some one in the interest of Mr. Denne, with a view of injuring him with some of the ratepayers, had circulated a story to the effect that he had got up a supper for the Orange Young Britons, and had contributed $100 dollars for this purpose. He need hardly say he was not in a position to contribute such an amount for any such purpose, and as a matter of fact, he knew nothing whatever about the supper or that it was to take place until after it was over. Such statements were made to injure him, and were utterly false. He claimed that the public acts of the candidates in the council were fair subjects of discussion, and objected to personal matters being dragged into discussion. He came here prepared to discuss Mr. Denne's and his own public acts, and in referring to his opponent, his intention was that his remarks should apply to the Councillor and not to the individual. As Mr. Denne had not seen fit to refer to his, the speaker's, public acts, he proposed to deal with some of his (Mr. Denne's) actions during the five years he had sat at the Council board. Objections had been made by some persons to him (Mr. Smith) because he was a lawyer. He said there was nothing in this objection, but, on the contrary, a lawyer, from his education, was peculiarly fitted for the position, and gave instances in his own case in which he had prepared by-laws, and which otherwise would have had to be prepared by the Town Solicitors at a heavy outlay. In dealing with matters involving the expenditure of money, he had always acted liberally consistent with proper economy, and would, if elected, continue so to act. When he came to the Council in January, 1877, there was considerable feeling evinced against the previous Council. This feeling existed to such an extent that only three members of the Council of 1876, including the then Mayor, Mr. Toole, were returned. He, the speaker,

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 30, 1880.

Selling the Country.

Our contemporary the Review, which, we may remark, is about the only out-and-out supporter of the Syndicate Swindle in Canada, makes the singular defence of the bargain by which its leaders propose to hand the Pacific Railway and the North-West over to a soulless Syndicate, that Sir John Macdonald's opponents have always opposed his policy. And it actually invites its readers to "look back" to prove for themselves that this marvellous condition of opposition to Sir John's policy has actually always existed among his opponents. It refers to the Washington Treaty, to the Intercolonial Railway, and to the N. P., and to the Liberal denunciations of Sir John's policy in reference thereto, and points with idiotic glee to the fact that the country still survives, as evidence that Sir John was always right, and his opponents were always wrong. Hence it argues the C. P. R. Swindle "is a most desirable one for the country." "What a valuable country this must be to stand selling so often!" cries the Review. It forgets that had Sir John Macdonald not basely surrendered the right of free navigation of the St. Lawrence to the Yankees, Canada to-day, instead of being taxed unmercifully by the N. P., would have long ago secured the incalculable advantage of reciprocal trade relations. That the country has been able to "stand selling," in that instance is but another proof of the elasticity of her resources; but it does not alter the fact that she has endured grievous injury by the transaction, and would have been far more advanced and prosperous to-day had Sir John acted with the prudence and patriotism which the Liberal leaders urged upon him. As to the Intercolonial Railway, it is true, as the Review says, that the country has survived the extravagance and mismanagement of its leaders in connection with it, and that it has at last been brought into the position of paying its own expenses. But it is also true that the adoption of the northern and circuitous route to suit the political purposes of Sir John's lower Provinces supporters, imposed a needless cost of several millions in original construction, rendered it useless for a long time until a vast expense for constructing snow-sheds had been borne, and prevented it from being, as it would otherwise have been, self-sustaining and remunerative from the beginning. But because the country was able to "stand selling" in that instance, why, the Review argues, it is able to stand more of the same. It is not necessary to discuss the N. P., because every merchant, mechanic and farmer in the county knows that whatever of prosperity they enjoy is due to the better crops and better prices, and not to the N. P. fraud. When the Trade and Navigation returns are laid before Parliament we shall take occasion to show exactly how much the people of this county have been robbed of, directly, by the N. P. The whole argument of the Review summed up is as follows: "The country has, on several occasions, been robbed without being ruined; therefore, one more swindle, greater than all the rest combined, will be an incalculable blessing to the country!" If the merchant detects his clerk tapping his till, and finds that he has not been ruined by the pilfering, let him scout the warning of the honest employee and entrust the thief with the key of the safe, that he may be benefited by greater peculations! When the Review was engaged in "looking back," why did it not discover that Sir John Macdonald is wholly responsible for the original imposition of this gigantic burden of the Pacific Railway upon the people? British Columbia came asking for a waggon road across the Rocky Mountains; but because Sir John wanted the six votes with which he endowed its ten thousand people, he wantonly committed Canada to the building of a Pacific Railway in ten years. Why does it not look back to Sir John's first Pacific Railway contract, sold to Sir Hugh Allan and his American associates for $[illegible],000 with which to carry the elections of 1872? Is he more honest now than then? Can the leopard change his spots? Are we not right to suspect some new iniquity, more gross than the rascality of 1872, in this monstrous bargain which hands over to the St. Paul and Manitoba Railway, a Pacific Railway built with the money of the people of Canada, as well as the sovereignty of the whole Northwest—a country for a portion of which only, ten years ago, when it was unknown, unsettled, undeveloped, without means of access, and without knowledge of its resources, we paid one and a half millions of dollars in cash to the Hudson's Bay Company? The Review "looks back" and complacently notes that the country has survived "selling so often;" but it forgets to note that each sale of its interests by Sir John Macdonald put an additional mortgage upon the productive industry of the people, and that looking back we can see a public debt of $63,000,000 in 1867 swollen now by his mismanagement, to the colossal proportions of OVER TWO HUNDRED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS! Let every man who feels interested in the future of his country, who understands that he has an integral share in the burden of the public debt, and an individual responsibility for a portion of the taxation which is a consequence, read carefully the contract which is to legalize this monstrous swindle, and he will see there that the Company to be their own property forever, the following:

ARE TO RECEIVE,

$37,000,000 in railway completed by the Government;

$25,000,000 in cash;

25,000,000 acres of land;

The privilege of choosing the best land in the North-West territories;

Exemption from taxation for the lands for 20 years or until sold;

All the lands required for stations, docks, termini etc., free of charge, in addition to the 25,000,000 acres;

All materials used for construction of the road, TO BE FREE FROM DUTY which the N. P. makes every other corporation and citizen bear;

The Indian title extinguished by the Government, no matter what it costs, or where the Company choose to select lands;

The right to choose any route they please for the road;

The right of way and road bed, and property for yards, etc;

The exclusive right to construct branch lines, and the right of way, road beds, yards and grounds etc., in addition to the 25,000,000 acres;

No line of railway to be allowed to be constructed south of the Railway for twenty years, except such line shall run south west, or west of south west, nor to within 15 miles of the American boundary;

Future provinces to be compelled to recognize this provision;

The property of the Company and its lands, stock etc., to be forever free from taxation;

The Government to accept the land bonds of the Company and pay interest on them to the extent of one fifth of the issue, thus guaranteeing them and giving them value;

The Government must construct the line from Thunder Bay to Selkirk, with its stations, water supply etc., and hand it over to the Company TO BE THEIR PROPERTY FOREVER;

The Government must build the line from Yale to Kamloops and hand it over on the same terms;

The Government must build the line from Yale to Port Moody and hand it over to the Company in the same way;

The Government are to undertake systematic immigration for the benefit of the Company;

The Company may fix their head office, and carry the profits of this gigantic monopoly, "within OR BEYOND THE LIMITS OF THE DOMINION,"—at St. Paul's, Chicago or New York.

These privileges, grants and monpolies, have been fairly estimated at the following figures:

Cash Subsidy	$ 25,000,000
Land Subsidy	50,000,000
Completed Branches	37,000,000
Remission of Customs duties	10,000,000
Exemption from Taxation	12,000,000
Excess in val. of picked land	15,000,000
Harbors, stations, yards etc.	5,000,000
Road bed, branches, stations	5,000,000
Twenty years monopoly of branches	5,000,000
Monopoly charges above ordinary profits for 20 years at $5,000,000 a year	100,000,000
Total sacrifice	$264,000,000

THE COMPANY GIVE

the Government a deposit of $1,000,000 on which interest at 4 per cent must be paid, and agree to take the money of the country and build the prairie section of the railway with it! And that is all they risk to secure these unparalelled sacrifices of the interests of the country, and of its future!

Electors of Peterborough, think of it!

MIDLAND PRESS ON THE SYNDICATE SWINDLE.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

"But to many who are alarmed at the certainty of being called upon to pay the enormous cost, the bargain is bad. To pay the Company with 25 million acres of the best land in the North-West and allow them to escape taxation for 25 years and set their stations and rolling stock for ever free, does not speak so directly home as the money cost does to residents in this province. There is no wonder that it does. Ontario will have at least 10 millions of that sum to pay besides the annual interest accruing thereon, and at the same time receive the least compensation. The absence of any benefit to Ontario from direct trade with the west by the construction of the road makes things look worse. Railways she has that foster internal traffic; but this only passes through to meet the wants of parties outside of the Dominion."

(Lindsay Post.)

"It is highly desirable that the members for North Victoria should, during the holiday recess of Parliament, hold each two or three public meetings for the purpose of discussing the bargain with the Pacific railway syndicate. The people ought to have an opportunity to express their views upon a question of such magnitude. We accordingly suggest that Mrs. McQuade should hold meetings at say Lindsay, Omemee and Oakwood; and that Mr. Hector Cameron should hold meetings at Fenelon Falls and Woodville for the purpose of giving their views and of discussing the whole question. Will they consult with the people or will they "go it blind?" Will they follow the Ministerial herd like "dumb driven cattle," or will they stand up like men and refuse the enormous sacrifice demanded?"

(Cobourg World.)

"But the proposition to give a company, into whose power the Ministry fell through the foolish assertions of the Premier, enough to build the whole railway, and fifty millions of dollars to spare, and then to give them the railway itself after paying them to build it,—to say nothing about destroying the future of the North-West by the establishment of the proposed monopoly in land,—this proposition, we say, is so monstrous that we cannot understand how any lover of his country can regard it with any favor at all.

MISTHUR EDITHUR,—The commoshun here at the Capital over the Railway Contthrack and Sin Dikate Bargin is somthin wondherful intirely. Spakin widh the Markis, His Xclency axed me opinion av it. I tould him honistly that I thout it a big swindle, and that it should be called The Swindlekate. This med him laff. Axin me further to let him hev me views in ritin, I gev em to him impromchu, as follows:—

THE SWINDLEKATE BARGIN.

Ooh! the Swindlekate, got a Bargin nate—
A nater Bargin never was seen—
Two hundhred millions and more, the villians!
Given away by our gracious Queen!
Och! sin an' shame, that the Queen's good name
Should be brought to blame this blessid day,
By politicians, whose only missions
While the sun shines to make hay.

There's money laid out—an' money paid out
Thirty-seven millions is the amount—
An' the money axed for, an' to be taxed for Twinty-five millions more go to the count—
Besides this Cash, Sir, the schamers ask for!
Twinty-five million acres of the best land!
Which Markis, honey, wud bring in good money—
More than a hundred millions! you undherstand.

Then for pre-emshuns, an' tax exemshuns
Harbours an' stations, an' branches galore
An' rights an' privileges, an' towns an' villeges—
That fully alquil twinty millions more!
Why nothing but Millions will do the villains—
For simple thousands they don't care a rap—
Just read their speechin', an' hear their screechin'—
'Tis Millions! MILLIONS! they cry out for pap!

In histhory's pages, down all the ages,
Was there ever yet a Govermint, I wondher,
As wud so behave, scarce sayin' by your lave,
To the people they want to plundher?
Is there no opinion in this whole Dominion?
Must the party mandate be prompt obayed?
An' without a questhun, or one suggesthun,
Tho' a whole nation may be bethrayed?

No use in argin agin the bargin?
That is the talk of Sir John and Tupper,
Who, conthrack scamin' an party dhramin',
Made the whole thing up, afther aitin supper
Now, what I ask is—Most Noble Markis—
Is that the people should have their say;
t is their due, Sir, an' unto you Sir,
They're anxious lookin' for full fair play.

TO GEORGE HILLIARD, GEO. A. COX AND OTHERS:—

GENTLEMEN.—In compliance with the request, contained in your requisition presented to me to-day, I beg to say that I will allow myself to be nominated for the honorable position of Mayor of Peterboro' for 1881, and beg to assure you that if honored with the confidence of the Ratepayers, I shall endeavor to forward the interests of the Town to the best of my ability, and by every means in my power, without looking for any other reward than the approbation of my fellow Ratepayers.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your Obd't Servant,
H. H. SMITH.

Peterborough, Nov. 17th 1880. 47-tf.

THE MAYORALTY

To the Electors of the Town of Peterboro:

GENTLEMEN, As rumors have been placed in circulation to the effect that I am not a candidate in the contest pending for the Mayoralty of the town, I deem it my duty to give the earliest contradiction to all such reports as are now, or as may be put, in circulation. Having consented, at the request of a very large number of the representative ratepayers of the town, to become a candidate, it is my intention to go to the polls and to use every lawful endeavor to secure my election, not from any motives of personal interest or ambition, but to carry into effect, so far as in my power lies, the wishes of those at whose suggestion I have become a candidate, and to whose generous support I have no doubt I shall owe my election.

Rumors have also been put industriously into circulation that I am an opponent of the Trent Valley Scheme. While I am at a loss to conceive the motive of the introduction of such a question into our municipal affairs, I take this opportunity of saying that both my convictions and my personal interests make me a strong advocate of the Trent Valley Canal, and that if elected I shall, believing that the interests of the town would be promoted by the prosecution of this work, exert every influence in my power to advance the Trent Valley enterprise.

Having always, since honored with a seat in the Council Board, been a firm advocate of prudence and economy in the management of the finances of the town, I shall, if elected, do my utmost to keep down every unnecessary expenditure, to oppose new burdens being placed upon the backs of the ratepayers, and to maintain the effective working of our municipal affairs at the lowest possible cost to the ratepayers.

As it may be impossible for me to personally solicit the votes of all the ratepayers, I take this opportunity of requesting their support on polling day, and I believe I can safely appeal to my past record, both in and out of the Council, as the best evidence that the trust which I have reason to believe will be confided to me in the result of this election, will be honestly and conscientiously fulfilled, with a single desire to perform the duties of the position for which I am a candidate to the best advantage of the town and the promotion of the welfare of its people.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,
HENRY DENNE.

Mr. Wilson, the editor of the Port Hope Guide, was savagely assaulted last week, by a half drunk commercial bummer, named Frank Lowe. It appears that some time since this fellow took a young girl of Port Hope to Cobourg for a few days and registered at the hotel as man and wife. Mr. Wilson considered it his duty to publish the fact. Whether or not it were wise to have done so, does not affect the present case, as Mr. Wilson no doubt did so in the interests of public morality. The public and 'society' of course sympathise with the bummer,—they always do like a man the better, after he has ruined two or three young girls, or eloped with a married woman. The police magistrate, however, before whom the ruffian was brought, denounced his conduct in the strongest terms, and inflicted a fine of $20.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Man's Noblest Work.—This is an age of great works and wonderful inventions. Steam, electricity, water, air, all are made to serve man, but unquestionably the greatest inventions are those which preserve man's health and prolong his life, and among the greatest of these is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Its effects are truly wonderful, and hundreds are happy to-day who once looked forward to an early grave. For Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Loss of Voice, Hay Fever, Hoarseness, Croup, or any affection whatever of the Throat, Chest or Lungs, Dr. King's New Discovery will positively cure. We can cheerfully recommend it to all, and can unhesitatingly say it is the only sure cure for Throat and Lung Affections. Trial bottles ten cents; regular size $1. For sale by all druggists.

The Greatest Remedy Known.—Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this wonderful discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggist and get a trial bottle for ten cents which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by all druggists.

About noon on Monday last one of the employees of a Kent street, Lindsay, hotel, saw a strong, able-bodied woman drinking from a large black bottle in the rear of the hotel. She was about forty years of age and respectably dressed. After a short time the woman made her appearance in the hall of the hotel and fell on the floor in a helpless state of intoxication. She had got no liquor in the hotel, and it was at once concluded that she had got the whiskey from the bottle she was seen drinking from. On being removed to the open air she partially recovered her senses, and when Chief Constable Smart arrived on the scene she told him that her name was Irwin and that she resided in Haliburton. She was placed in the lock-up and next morning was brought before the police magistrate, who dismissed her with one dollar costs. By that time she recovered from her spree, and told the authorities that she had been working for a man in Ops named John Greer for the past eight months. During that time she had only received $2 from Greer, and when she asked him for money he turned her out of the house. On coming to Lindsay she got into the condition stated. During her incarceration she attempted to cut her throat with a jack-knife, but the knife was so dull that it did not cause more than abrasure of the skin. After her dismissal by the magistrate nothing was seen of her till Wednesday morning, when she put in an appearance at the police court and took action against Greer for non-payment of wages. She was then to all appearances in her proper senses and was stopping at the house of a relative, James Arksey, Cambridge street. On Wednesday evening, while in Mr. Arksey's house, she called for a glass of water, and taking a small vial out of her pocket she poured the contents into the water and drank it down. The people in the house almost instantly discovered that what she had drank was laudanum, and the woman having by this time become almost insensible, Dr. Herriman was sent for, and at the same time a messenger was despatched for the chief constable, who brought Dr. Coulter, town physician, with him. Emetics were administered and the woman was brought round so as to be able to make her escape from town during the night. It is supposed that she has gone back to Haliburton. Had she not made her escape she would have been arraigned and probably committed to gaol for safe keeping.—Post.

Joy Among the Children.

Copland's Sweet Castor Oil, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea or griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water," another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off," another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we could never get her to take it without a fight," yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, "Copland's Sweet Castor Oil," is on both the wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Copland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto.

NO RISK.

Thomas' Eclectric Oil! Worth ten times its Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not it is time you did.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common Sore Throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old Standing Cough. One or two bottles cures bad cases of Piles or Kidney Troubles. Six to eight applications cure any case of Excoriated Nipples or Inflamed Breast. One bottle has cured Lame Back of eight years' standing. Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Tioga Co., Pa., says: "I went thirty miles for a bottle of our Oil, which affected a wonderful cure of a Crooked Limb, by six applications."—Another who had had Asthma for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get no more."—Rufus Robinson, of Nunda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper for five years."—Rev. J. Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: "Your Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of six of the Best Oils that are known. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasureably superior to anything ever made. Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

Note—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised.

Not the Slightest Affinity exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs (when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected), colds, laryngitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption, it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it, are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of those elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as in strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it, prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, and sold by all druggists.

CONSUMPTION

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, Sept. 2, 1876.

Gents—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation, in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

Messrs Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used my own family, and in my private practice very extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent, as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 18, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M.D., Baltimore.

Messrs Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

December 10th, 1878. Very truly, J. SIMONAUD, M.D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne: Gentlemen—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following results: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your Emulsion and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, &c., I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle, and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne: Lynn, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2nd, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

The Mayoralty.

As will be seen by our report of the proceedings on nomination day, the candidates before the electors for the Mayoralty are Mr. H. H. Smith and Mr. Henry Denne, both members of the Council for a number of years, and both gentlemen of good ability and undoubted integrity, and both highly respected in the community. The programme offered by each candidate is very similar to that of the other, and on that ground there is little to choose from between them. Mr. Smith however, has claims to the favor of the ratepayers on this occasion, which it is but just to consider, and which should be fairly considered in his favor by the electors. The position of Chief Magistrate is the fair reward of a faithful apprenticeship in the Council, and Mr. Smith has certainly earned consideration on that ground, more especially in view of the fact that two years ago, when his friends were urging him to be a candidate, he refused to put himself forward so long as Mr. Lundy was willing to occupy the civic chair. This year, too, we understand, Mr. Smith had offered to waive his claim if the present Mayor would consent to stand again, and was only induced to be a candidate on Mr. Lundy's definite refusal, so that it cannot be said that he has unduly put himself forward, or even asserted claims which he might fairly have presented ere this. Now, however, the field being clear, at the request of the leading ratepayers of the town of both sides of politics, he is a candidate. In the Council Mr. Smith has been an active worker, and has taken a leading part in the management of the town finances since 1877, and it is due to him to say that the low rate both of assessment and taxation are in a large measure due to his well directed labor and good judgment. On the whole, though we do not desire to say a word of disparagement as to Mr. Denne, who, we have no doubt, if elected would fill the chair satisfactorily to the ratepayers, we believe the interests of the town will be best served at the present juncture by the election of Mr. Smith. We trust the subject of Mr. Smith's political proclivities will not be introduced in this contest, and that no one will allow his vote to be influenced by the fact that he does not support the party in politics whose views we advocate. Such a consideration ought not to enter into this or any municipal election contest.

STOLEN.—On Friday night Mr. T. Hooper's horse and sleigh was stolen from in front of Long's store. It was subsequently returned from Downey's Corners. It may have been taken for a joke, but the offender, if discovered, would have a good show for reflection at leisure in the Penitentiary.

Mr. Forbes' Lecture.

We have to thank the Mechanic's Institute, and especially Rev. Mr. Clementi, to whom the visit of Mr. Forbes is mainly due, for the treat in store on the evening of January 6, at Bradburn's Hall, in the shape of a lecture by this world-renowned war correspondent. The lectures of Mr. Forbes are of no ordinary character; they are unique. He speaks of thrilling scenes, great events and curious adventures, with which he has stood face to face, an eye-witness, and he brings to their pourtrayal a marvellous gift of language and power of description which make each picture stand out in bold and vivid relief in the mind of his auditory. No one should miss taking advantage of his lecture here, which will be one of his best—"The Inner Life of a War Correspondent." All who attend may rely upon enjoying a rare intellectual treat.

The Midland Railway.

We printed last week the report of the proceedings at the meeting of the proprietors of the Midland Railway, held in London a short time since, which indicated the unbounded confidence of the stockholders in the President and Manager, in his policy, and in the future prospects of the road. The meeting also gave the credit for having brought about a condition of affairs so different from that which formerly prevailed, where it was due, one of the principal proprietors going so far as to attribute their possession of so successful a manager to "the Providence of God." However that may be, it was beyond doubt an exceedingly lucky thing for those who had their money invested in that hitherto luckless undertaking, that they did secure Mr. Cox's services at a critical time. Mr. Cox returned on Saturday from Europe, and we are pleased to learn from him, that as a result of his conference with the proprietors and the English Directors, his hand has been strengthened in the carrying out of the policy of improvement, which has hitherto been attended with such good results both to the Company and to this town. We believe there is a reasonable prospect that, at no distant date, Peterborough will be placed on the main line of railway by the construction of a track direct from this point to Omemee, doing away with that now in use between Millbrook and the latter place. This scheme is one of no little importance to the town as it will ensure its position as the depot of the Midland business, and will moreover give us command of a large share of the trade to the west of us, by making easy access to our markets—a trade which naturally belongs here, and which would add not a little to the volume of business of the town. We understand that the general policy of the Company will in the future be directed with a view to reach the trade of the country to the north of us, and to make the trade of that important and rapidly developing district in a large measure subsidiary to Peterborough.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Our fellow citizen, Mr. Hector Cameron, has received a sharp letter from some of his constituents in North Victoria, asking for an explanation of his neglect of their pet project, the Trent valley canal. At none of the meetings held to further the project has Mr. Cameron been present, and the impression that he was "actually hostile to the measure" has got abroad. The writer says further, that if Toronto were the outlet Mr. Cameron would support the project. We do not see why Mr. Cameron or any other Toronto man, should oppose the canal, and Mr. Cameron may still be able to give other reasons for his non-attendance at the meetings besides his being a resident of Toronto.—Toronto World.

J. HACKETT,

Late Hackett & Shirley.

had been elected in three subsequent years at the head of the poll. This afforded strong evidence that the ratepayers in his own ward, who naturally watched his acts in Council, believed that his record was a good one and deserved support. A fact that many, and apparently Mr. Denne himself, had forgotten, was that he (Denne) had sat in the Council for 1873-4, as well as in 1878, '79 and '80. In 1873 there was a deficit of $5,248, and in 1874 of $6,418, for which there exists no excuse except the bad management and want of ordinary business ability on the part of the Council in these years. In 1874 the Finance Committee reported as follows:—

The Committee on Finance and Assessment in submitting the estimates for the financial year, beg leave to say that they have to recommend a higher rate of taxation than they desire. At the same time they are anxious that the demands upon the Corporation be fairly and fully met.

* * * * * * *

Your Committee while making the necessary provision for the several items of of expenditure in accordance with the Estimates, are pleased to hear a general expression on the part of the Council of a determination not to exceed the amount appropriated, which determination, if adhered to, will exhibit a pleasing state of affairs, experienced only before, of closing the year's accounts without a deficiency.

* * * * * * *

Leaving $26,272.70 to be raised by taxation and requiring 17 mills on the dollar, which your Committee recommend to be adopted by the Council and the requisite amount put on the collector's roll under the separate headings and the proper By-law passed without delay.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Sg) ROBERT ROMAINE,
Chairman, pro tem.

From this it is quite clear that any rate less than 17 mills would leave a considerable deficiency, yet in the face of this apparent fact, when a motion was made to reduce the rate to 15 mills, I find by the proceedings of the Council that Mr. Denne voted for the lower rate, the result of which was a deficiency of $5,418, as stated before. He thought the ratepayers approved of the rate being struck sufficiently high in each year to meet all ordinary expenditure. This had at least been the practice since he (Smith) entered the Council in 1877. In this year the Council had to face a deficiency of about $13,000. This was subsequently paid off by debentures being issued, Legislative authority having been first obtained for the purpose. The result of the year's financial operations proper was a surplus on hand of $1,319. In 1878 we had a surplus of $3,149. In 1879 a further surplus of $3,681, and for the present year we expect a surplus of $2,000, the rate being lower than for many previous years. These figures show conclusively that the charge of extravagance against him was untrue, but on the contrary they showed a most satisfactory result. He claimed credit in a measure for these results, having been a member of the Finance Committee during the years in question, and having taken an active interest in the management of our financial affairs. He blamed Mr. Denne for the law suits carried on against Messrs. Hatton and Edwards which resulted in no good but which cost us large sums of money, the costs in each suit are as follows:

STATEMENT OF COST OF POLICE COURT MATTER.

Paid Messrs. Pearse and Eastland for special audit..		$200 00
" Mr. Scott, for opinion..	$ 10 00
" Mr Bethune do ..	20 00

THE EDWARDS MATTER.

" Mr. Mills	50 00
" Messrs. Pearse & McDonald, (including audit of Debenture acct...	150 00
" C. A. Weller, Retainer..	20 00
Mr. Weller, Bill, yet to pay, about.....	70 00
		370 00
		$757 91

He had opposed bringing the suit against Mr. Edwards because he believed the chances of success were very poor and advocated allowing the arrears chargeable to him to struck of by way of a gratuity, if this course had been pursued the Town would have saved $370. Mr. Denne has charged that irregularities existed in the debenture account of the Town and had Messrs. Pearce and McDonald appointed to audit the same the result was announced to the Council at its last meeting, and it was that the account was perfectly correct, this is another instance of the reckless conduct pursued by his opponent. Credit had been claimed for Mr. Denne by his friends because he had unveiled the errors in Mr. Edward's books and accounts but he denied that he was entitled to credit because $1,410 or more than half the errors in question occurred during the years 1873-4, while he, Mr. Denne, was a member of the Council, the total errors of all kinds amounted to $2,214.87, and had Mr. Denne been alive to his duty in 1873 and discovered the errors then committed the errors in the subsequent years would have been avoided and the Town saved the large sum of $1,830.21 and instead of being entitled to credit for unveiling the errors in question six years after they first occurred and when too late to be of any real service, he is entitled to censure for neglect of duty or in 1873-4. The rate of taxation in Peterborough as compared with other towns is most favorable to Peterboro' and he quoted the rates in numerous towns to show this. If elected he would oppose the proposed legislation sought for by the Toronto and Ottawa R. R. believing it to be wrong in principle and would, if necessary, visit Toronto for that purpose. He had advocated the Trent Valley Canal simply in the interests of the citizens and pointed out the labor he had performed in this connection, and promised to use his best efforts in the future to have this most desirable work accomplished, which would be of incalculable benefit to the ratepayers of the town and County. He also advocated the obtaining of a public park for the Town, and pointed out the various steps he had taken to obtain the old burial ground for this purpose, which, owing to his exertions, was now vested in the town and county jointly to be used as a park after the lease to the Agricultural Society should expire next fall. When this time arrived he proposed to ask the County to join in selling this ground and with the proceeds purchase a more suitable tract of land. He was in favor of some system being adopted for the better distribution of charity and if elected promised to bring about a meeting of representatives from each of the several denominations in town with a committee of the Council, when some plan could be devised for the distribution of charity, so that the really deserving would obtain all necessary assistance. The town had paid nearly $1,600 on this account during the present year, and he believed with some organized system a large saving could be effected, and greater benefits be conferred upon the deserving poor than at present.

The following statements were read by Mr. Smith during the delivery of his speech, illustrate the several points he made:—

STATEMENT.

Yr.	Ass't	Expend.	Rate.	Deficit.	Surp.

1874	$2,134,196	$47,870		6,418

MEMO FROM REPORT OF MESSRS. PEARSE AND M'DONALD re MR. EDWARDS ACCT.

From 1873 to 1877—Total amt. which should have been received, but which was not received by the Town.....		$1126 60
Of this sum the errors which occurred in 1873 amt. to.$	122 12
And in 1874 "	513 06
	$705 26
Same years—Taxes reported as paid to Collector, but which did not appear in Books		94883 00
Of which sum the errors in 1873 amounted to.....	16 40
And in 1874 amounted to	326 06
	$342 46
Same years—Taxes which were not collected....		846 25
Of which sum the errors in 1873 amounted to	175 78
And in 1874 amounted to	177 02
	$352 80
Or Total errors of all kinds..		$2214 87

Of which amount $1410.86 occurred in 1873 and 1874.

Mr. Denne spoke a few words in reply, stating that he was not to be blamed for not having discovered the errors in the town accounts in 1873, because he went then to the Council to some extent a "greenhorn," and had relied upon the auditors of the town, who were supposed to report to the Council the state of affairs. He had always opposed the expenses which led to the deficits mentioned by Mr. Smith, and had done nothing while in the Council which he was ashamed of, or which he would not do over again if it had to be done.

The proceedings then terminated. Mr. Smith and Mr. Denne shook hands, and expressed mutually the determination that however the contest might terminate they would conduct it as it had been so far, in an honorable and manly way, and with a good spirit.

NOMINATIONS FOR COUNCILLORS took place at 12 o'clock in the different wards, as appointed by the Council. The following are the candidates:—

In No. 1 Ward—John McNaughton, George Taylor, William McBain, Thos. Cahill and Wm. Dumble.

Telford and Patrick Brick, were nominated, as well as the following new ones: Wm. Curtain, Stephen O'Reilly, Martin Leonard, Martin Doran, Daniel Shanahan and Richard Cosgrave.

DOURO.

John Moloney, re-elected Reeve by acclamation. For Councillors: Ward No. 1—Ed. Foley, re-elected by acclamation. Ward No. 2—Martin McManus (old Councillor) and Patrick Moher. Ward No. 3—James McCliggot (old Councillor) and Dennis Leahy. Ward No. 4—John Shea, re-elected by acclamation.

OTONABEE.

On Monday, the 27th instant, a meeting of the ratepayers was held in the Town Hall, for the purpose of choosing candidates for municipal honors for the year 1881, when the following gentlemen were nominated for Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Councillors, viz.:

Reeve.—Mr. John Lang, proposed by Mr. John Miller, seconded by Mr. Redmond Carew. No opposition.

Deputy Reeve.—Mr. George Stewart, proposed by Mr. William Drummond, seconded by Mr. W. J. Miller; Mr. Andrew Nelson, proposed by Mr. A. McFee, seconded by Mr. David Moore.

Councillors.—Mr. James Wood, proposed by Mr. J. Gillespie, seconded by Mr. John A. Bennet; Mr. John Grady, jr., proposed by Mr. T. Esson, seconded by Mr. John Gillespie; Mr. Wm. Anderson, proposed by Mr. Wm. Armstrong, seconded by Mr. John Miller, sr.; Mr. W. J. Miller, proposed by Mr. W. Drummond, seconded by Mr. D. D. McIntyre.

A poll was then demanded for the Deputy Reeveship and Councillors. There is likely to be a close contest between Mr. George Stewart and Mr. Andrew Nelson for Deputy Reeve.

Mr. John Lang was then called upon to take the platform and give an account of his stewardship for the year 1880. He explained the numerous difficulties the Council had to contend with in regard to the Grand Junction Railway. Relative to the crossing over the 6th Con. Line, the railway by making a deep cut across the road, had destroyed the usefulness of the road. This matter had been satisfactorily settled without recourse to law, and a good road built to the east of the old one. The next thing he spoke of was the case of Mr. Ellis, C. E., who was injured by capsizing over the Keene bridge embankment. He said he offered him a fair remuneration for loss of time and expense, which he declined, the amount being $625. Mr. Ellis said he would take $2,500 rather than go to law. He was asked what was the lowest sum he would take and settle, the sum asked being $2,000 and $60 expenses. The Council came to the conclusion not to grant it. The case will come off during the Spring Assizes. Next year the township expenditures will be considerably increased, owing to the rebuilding of Keene Bridge, and the Base Line to be opened up and bridge built over river near G. J. Railway.

Mr. Geo. Stewart gave an account of his stewardship in a very appropriate speech, dealing principally with appropriations to High Schools and extension of time to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. He was willing to give his support to all measures according to the voice of the majority of ratepayers of the township. After a few preliminary remarks by several other gentlemen the meeting was brought to a close.

ASPHODEL NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

As election times are once more drawing nigh, that excitement which is generally hovering around about that time, has once more taken possession of the majority of the people, rendering them so uneasy for the results, that every gathering is with them a Nomination day, and any encouragement as the favored one, an election in the distance. Our Council last year all went in by acclamation, but with the exception of our worthy Reeve Mr. Rork, who the people seem to think cannot be bettered, there will be considerable change in the state of affairs this time.

Mr. Buck has started to draw timber to Hastings. He is doing a rushing "Square Business" this winter, having several shanties going which will give lots of work to both men and teams.

The following is the standing of the pupils in S.S.No. 9. Asphodel for December, 1880. P. MacNaughton, Teacher. Fourth Class;—1st, Minnie Scott, 2nd, Mary Rork, 3rd, Susie Elliott, 4th John Elliott; Jun. 4th Class;—1st Andrew Magee, 2nd William Elliott, 3rd Edward Howson; Third Class;—1st Jane Rork, 2nd Ella Elliott, 3rd Maggie Cowan, 4th John Scott; Sen. Second;—1st Lilly Elliott, 2nd Louisa Cowan, 3rd Herbert Elliott; Jun. Second;—1st Minnie Preston, 2nd Bessie Howson, 3rd Geo. Richardson, 4th John Rork; Second Part;—1st John Cowan, 2nd Tilly Scott, 3rd Emma Rork, 4th Lizzie Metcalfe; First Class;—1st Allan Elmhurst, 2nd Albert Thistlewaite, 3rd Ella Preston, 4th Harry Buchanan. The average for the year was over 32.

COLD SPRINGS OTONABEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Christmas day is generally looked forward to, as a great and glorious day, when people enjoy themselves; but there are always some families, who are visited by trouble in some shape or form on that memorable day. Amongst these last Christmas was Mr. J. Guthrie, whose only son, a boy about eight months old, was taken away by the hand of death on the evening of that day. Just as the body of the little fellow was being taken to its long home, another funeral came up the River Road, and the two funerals met, a thing which rarely occurs in the county.

On Tuesday Dec. 28th a number of gentlemen came down from Peterborough to Mr. J. Matchett's to try the qualities of a new fanning-mill. Amongst these gentlemen was Mr. Taylor of Peterborough, pump-maker, who, we understand, intends buying the patent for the mill, if she works well. We wish Mr. Taylor every success in his new scheme.

Messrs J. F. Jenkin and A. M. Miller, teachers of S. Section No. 10 and 19. Otonabee, respectfully, were the recipients of a grand oyster supper on the evening of Dec. 23rd, given by Mr. Wm. Stewart, at which about forty friends were present. After spending a very pleasant evening, the party broke up about 2 o'clock a. m., and the participants wended their way homeward, all seeming to have enjoyed themselves splendidly. Mr. J. F. Junkin leaves Otonabee and takes charge of a school in the township of Emily in the County of Victoria, at a salary of $400 per annum, and Mr. A. M. Millar remains in Otonabee for 1881.

The Farm and Household.

Farm Notes.

Poultry need to be fattened and killed early, if intended for market. Though prices generally go up steadily after the first of January, yet the additional cost of fattening in December, or of holding poultry after it is fat, is but rarely paid for by the higher price. Warm quarters are essential to winter laying.

A writer in an Australian paper states that in many instances the leaves of celery are highly esteemed as food for milch cows, and are often preferred to red clover. The cows are said to eat them greedily, and to yield on this food a far richer milk than on any other. Sometimes leaves are cut up small, scalded with hot water and given as a mash mixed with bran, and sometimes they are fed whole in their natural state along with the other ordinary food.

Close, ill-ventilated stables are injurious to the health of animals, for air which has been taken into the lungs and expelled from them, becomes deprived of its oxygen, and is then positively injurious to the health. Stock of all kinds should have abundance of pure air, and it is to the want of it that many of those epidemic diseases which have been fatal to European cattle, may be attributed. Sometimes European farmers of the poorer classes confine their cattle in close dark houses or sheds. The places not being properly ventilated, frequently occasion those disorders which sometimes devastate whole kingdoms, and require all the energies of the authorities to arrest their progress.

Household Receipts.

ROLL CAKE.—Three eggs, tablespoon of sour cream, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup of sugar, 1 of flour, butter the size of a hickory nut.

JELLY CAKE.—Beat 2 eggs in a cup; fill up with cream. Take 1½ cups of sugar, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda. Bake in four pans.

PIE CRUST.—Three and a half cupsfull of sifted flour, one cupful sweet lard, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful baking powder, one cupfull of very cold water; mix with knife, using hands as little as possible; roll.

APPLE BUTTER PUDDING.—Four beaten eggs, one pint of milk, two cups of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, two even teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Peel and core eight ripe, tart apples; put into a deep baking dish; fill the centre of each with sugar, and pour the beaten batter over them. Bake an hour and eat with cream and sugar, flavoured with nutmeg or lemon.

CHEESE RELISH.—Grate one-half lb. cheese. Rub the yolk of a hard-boiled egg to a paste, with a teaspoonful of olive oil; add a teaspoonful each of salt, white sugar and made mustard and one quarter teaspoonful of cayenne pepper. Work these in well with the cheese; then add a teaspoonful of vinegar. For tea or lunch, eaten with bread or crackers and butter, it is good.

REMOVAL OF STAINS AND SPOTS.—Gum, Sugar, Jelly, etc: Simple washing with water at a hand heat.... Grease: White goods, wash with soap or alkaline lyes. Colored woollens, the same, or ammonia. Silks, absorb with French chalk or Fuller's earth, and dissolve away with benzine or ether.... Oil Colors, Varnish, or Resins: On white or colored linens, or woollens, use rectified oil of turpentine, alcohol lye, and their soap. On silks, use benzine, ether and mild soap very cautiously.

Kitchen Maxims.

The best meat requires the simplest preparation.

Neatness is the first virtue in the kitchen. The dishes of a careless cook all have a mixed flavor, as if cooked in one pot. The general rule is to cook long and slowly, with an even heat, so as to reach every part. Frying ought to be the 'last' method for cooking meats. Broil, boil, roast, stew or bake in preference.

To make soup when the object is to extract all the juices from the meat, cut cut up in small pieces and put on in cold water.

To roast meat properly the air must have free access to it. This is the reason why meat roasted before an open fire is more palatable than that roasted (baked) in a close oven.

Never mix, or place on the same dish, meats or vegetables that are unlike in flavor.

In building or choosing a house to live in, take care that the kitchen is roomy, and has plenty of sunlight. A dark kitchen is an abomination, and a cramped kitchen increases the cost of housekeeping one-half. Let the kitchen be supplied with all modern conveniences, even if the parlor suffers in consequence.

A hardwood floor, oiled with linseed oil, is the best floor for the kitchen. A floor of pine, unless straight-grained, is apt to "silver" and grow rough. It is impossible to oil such a floor with good results, if in the least knotty, as the pitch prevents the oil from penetrating, and the floor takes on a grimy look. Oilcloth is sometimes used, and is preferable to a carpet, but is not so neat as a plain hard-wood floor, made of matched boards four inches wide and closely laid.

Arrange work to save fuel. Mix bread at night so that it will be ready to bake while the oven is hot from the breakfast fire. If fruit is prepared the night before, pies may be made and baked after the breakfast. Hashes intended for breakfast should be made ready for cooking the night before. The kitchen should also be in perfect order and the kindling ready for lighting the fire.

Buying in large quantities is as often a waste as an economical measure. In providing for a small family, perishable articles should be bought in only moderate quantities. The loss by waste and decay would exceed the grocer's profits. Besides a variety of food is a necessity to preserve health, and a large supply at hand is a constant temptation to a sameness in bills of fare. When the family is large and the house provided with means for keeping supplies without waste, there is economy in wholesale purchases.

The dish-cloth should never be used to wipe the floor, and napkins are for table use and not for wiping dishes. It is better not to use silver spoons for scraping out iron kettles, and no economical and thoughtful housewife will allow the dish cloth to be used as a duster, or the new broom to sweep the back yard, or the best enamelled saucepan to melt down snow.—The Household.

OBITUARY MENTION.

The Norwood Register records the death of Dr. Patterson of that place, which took place on Friday afternoon the 10th inst. The deceased gentleman had been confined to his bed during the greater part of the year by a painful disease of the hip, the result of an accident occurring to him about a year ago. His ailment had made [illegible] upon his not altogether strong constitution, and though skilful physicians were brought from a distance to consult upon and adopt means to arrest it, or relieve the sufferer, all medical treatment proved of no avail. Dr. Patterson was universally respected in this neighborhood, and since he became a resident of Norwood—some eight years ago—he had, by a steady application to his professional duties, acquired a large and remunerative practice, and had become possessed of a very handsome and pleasantly located property here—a property which, under his personal supervision and direction, had been very much improved and beautified, as well as considerably enhanced in value. The deceased gentleman leaves a wife and two young children to mourn his sad and untimely death.

During the past week the Township of Asphodel lost Mrs. Hannah Scott, relict of the late Mr. Wm. Scott, one of the early settlers of the Township. The deceased had been long and favorably known in Norwood and its community, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She might well be called one of the earliest pioneers of the Township, having devotedly assisted her husband in the many hardships and difficulties which surrounded the farmer in the early settlement of this country. We have been credibly informed that Mrs. Scott, following only the rude line of road indicted by the "blaze" on the trees, has frequently carried a large grist of flour upon her shoulders all the way from Peterborough to her home in Asphodel; and even then humanely sharing her dearly earned morsel of flour with her less fortunate neighbors. However, such were the wives and helpmates of the men who composed the advanced guard of the main body who now enjoy the fruits of their almost constant toil and many hardships. The deceased lady has been but a short time complaining of ill-health, and only a few hours intervened between her last illness and her death. Deceased lived her allotted time on earth, having reached the ripe old age of 79 years.—Register.

DUMMER NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Township Council met at Warsaw on the 11th instant, all the members present. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. On motion Mr. Robb's report as Woodranger was laid over until the Council receives a statement from him as to whether the money value is collected or the work performed for the timber sold by him—the Clerk to apply to Mr. Robb for the information required. The Clerk was instructed to notify the County Treasurer to refund $6.65 to Richard Taylor, said sum being arrears of taxes on West ½ 19, con. 10, which Taylor has settled with the township. Councillor Wason was instructed to ask for tenders for 20 single cords of hardwood to be delivered to George Forbes, sr., on lot 6, con. 2. Moved by M. Hannon, seconded by W. One of the Most Important Discoveries of this Age.

We make the startling announcement that KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE will cure Bone Spavin and completely remove the enlargement, so that the best horseman cannot tell that the horse ever had a spavin. We make this statement, and give below testimonials from persons who have used it, to prove our statements. It is excellent for removing unnatural enlargements of any kind. It does not blister nor cause any sore. It has no equal, to our knowledge, for spavin, ring-bone, curb, callous, sprain, swellings, galls, lameness from whatever cause, and all enlargements of the joints, or any part of the body or limbs, and is also good for cuts, scratches, wounds, etc.

For man, it is a complete remedy, for Corns, Frost-Bites, or any bruise, Cut or Lameness.

Remember that we claim it will

OBSERVATION OF THE SABBATH DAY.

The following discourse on the Sabbath was preached a few weeks ago in one of the churches in the neighborhood of Peterborough. The preacher has reason to know that some of the statements contained in it have been misinterpreted. What he said and what he did not say is still a subject of hot discussion. That there may be a chance for fairness to both sides the sermon has been handed in for publication:—

"Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy."—Exodus xx. 8.

I have been led to make choice to-day of the subject of the desecration of the Lord's Day from a variety of circumstances—circumstances of course connected with the desecration of the Sabbath. The sin of the violation of the Sabbath law is very prevalent. This I state from my own observation and experience. In many cases, of course, the evil arises from thoughtlessness, in some cases from ignorance. In not a few cases, I believe, it arises from a desire for profit, because of the time that can be saved for work during the week by attending to some little items of business on the Sabbath. This is one reason why there is so much visitation of friends on the Sabbath. It is a duty to visit friends and relations, and if this can be done on the first day of the week, why, there will be so much time saved to devote to secular things during the week. This is one reason again why funerals are held on the Sabbath. There are other reasons, but this is one. There is a day saved which must otherwise have been taken from worldly pursuits. This, it is supposed, is so much time saved, and with not a few time is money. I do not enter into particulars at present as to the ways and parties by whom the Sabbath is profaned. My object is to prove that we have still a Sabbath, and that the day is as holy in the sight of God as ever it was, and its observance as binding as it ever was on any people. On the first point there is no necessity to speak at length. Most of you, I am sure, believe in the Sabbath as a divine institution. I will only aim at stirring up your pure minds by way of remembrance. I would remind you then that the Sabbath is not a Jewish institution. It was instituted in the Garden of Eden when God rested from all His works, and when He blessed the Sabbath day and sanctified it. All the nations of the world then stand in a similar relationship to it. To all it is commemorative of the same event—the completion of the great work of creation. Its sacredness was indeed better understood by the Jew, because he had special teachings on the subject. To the Jew its true character was revealed, not altered. What it was to him it should have been to all. The expression "Remember the Sabbath day," implies an existence prior to the Mosaic dispensation. What God said to the Jew regarding the sacredness and obligation of the day would have been said to others had he been speaking to others as he was to the seed of Abraham. God has been teaching the world through his ancient people regarding the character of the day of sacred rest just as he has through the same channel been teaching the world regarding the Saviour of mankind. The division of time into weeks by the nations of the earth can be accounted for only on the supposition of one day in seven, different and distinct from the six that went before and the six that came after. There are very few races of mankind who have not this distinction of time. Some of them could not have got it from any other source than from our common parents, Adam and Eve. Nature itself divides time into days and months and years, but what is there of a similar kind to make a division into weeks? The command "Thou shalt not kill," was not spoken unto the Jew exclusively. If not, the command "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy" was not spoken unto the Jew. All the precepts of the Decalogue are of the same nature, and consequently of the same duration in point of obligation. Christ has not relaxed the law of the Sabbath. He has indeed interpreted it in a way different from what the Scribes and Pharisees did, but he has not annulled it. So far from that, He said, "Not one tittle of the law shall pass away until all be fulfilled." In the Scripture the observance of the Sabbath law is as much insisted upon as the observance of any other law. In Exodus xxiii. 12, Moses said to Israel: "Six days thou shalt do thy work, and on the seventh day thou shalt rest, that thine ox and thine ass may rest, and the son of thine handmaid and thy stranger may be refreshed." Pass on to the xxxv. chapter of Exodus. There we hear Moses again say to the people, "Six days shall work be done, but on the seventh day there shall be to you a holy day—a Sabbath of rest to the Lord." There are many parallel passages. The promises of God are great to those who keep the Sabbath. Look at Isaiah lviii. 13 14, "If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath from doing thy pleasure on my holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honourable, and shall honour him, not doing thine own ways nor finding thine own pleasure in speaking thine own words, then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord, and I will cause thee to ride on the high places of the earth and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father." If possible more precious still are the words of God through Jeremiah, "If ye diligently hearken unto Me, saith the Lord, to bring in no burden through the gates of the city on the Sabbath day, but hallow the Sabbath day to do no work therein, then shall there enter this city kings and princes sitting upon the throne of David riding in chariots and on horses, they and their princes and the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and this city shall remain for ever.—Jeremiah xvii. 24 25. Contrast with these the denunciations upon those who violate the Sabbath. Here is one:—"If ye will not hearken unto Me to hallow the Sabbath day, and not to bear a burden when entering in at the gates of Jerusalem on the Sabbath, then will I kindle a fire in the gates thereof and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem and it shall not be quenched."

Inspiration tells us that it was because the children of Israel did not keep the Sabbath that they were carried away from their own land. After the restoration Israel began again to transgress, hence we find Nehemiah remonstrating with them saying, "What evil thing is this that ye do and profane the Sabbath day? Did not your fathers thus and did not our God bring all this evil upon this city; yet ye bring more wrath upon Israel by profaning the Sabbath." It cannot be reasonably urged that the change of the Sabbath from the seventh to the first day of the week has removed the obligation of the Sabbath. There was good reason for the change. The resurrection of Christ was a greater event than the creation of the world. After the resurrection the Saviour appeared to his followers more frequently on the first day of the week. Why did he choose this day more especially? Was it not that he might put honor upon it and teach others to do likewise. The first great out-pouring of the spirit after the ascension, was upon the first day of the week. The members of the early Christian church believed in the change from the seventh day to the first. Upon the first day they met together in religious assembly, this was the stated day for public worship. This is evident from the words of Paul to the church at Galatia. "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store as God has prospered him." There can be no doubt it was of the first day that John was speaking when he said "I was in the spirit on the Lord's day." The Christian Sabbath is then an ordinance of divine authority and of perpetual obligation. The next question is,—Is the Sabbath observed among us as it ought? Before we can settle this question, however, we must ask ourselves again. What is it that constitutes the profanation of it? The Sabbath, we would say, is profaned by sinful thoughts, the observance of it is a matter chiefly between ourselves and our God. Now God notices thoughts as much as words and actions. Man can look only on the outward appearance, but God judgeth the heart. The Sabbath is profaned in thought, then, when we allow our minds to dwell on temporal things—things wholly and purely secular. How much more is it profaned when we engage in the contemplation of sinful pleasures and amusements. God tells us in one of the passages already quoted, that we are not to do our own will or seek our own pleasure on His Sabbath, and that then we honour him and only then. He tells us again that we are to call the Sabbath a delight, "holy of the Lord and honourable." The outward observance will not please God if the heart is not right in his sight. If then we would keep holy the Sabbath, we must sanctify the Lord in our hearts, and let him be our fear and let him be our dread. If the Sabbath is profaned by bad thoughts it is also, surely, by bad words and actions. Bad words will follow bad thoughts, and bad words will draw forth more bad thoughts to find utterance in words again. By our words we are to be justified, and by our words we are to be condemned. The Sabbath is more openly profaned by sinful and unnecessary actions and works. I have no doubt that much is done by us all in our own household affairs and in our farmyard duties which might be avoided without any injury to man or to beast. There is room for reflection on this matter. The question with us all should be—not how much time may I innocently give to household and farmyard work but—how much can I spare from these to devote to the work of the soul and to the service of God. Let us all make this a matter of conscience. We cannot lay down rules for each other and therefore of transgressions in this respect we cannot easily take notice. There are outward violations of the Sabbath law of which we can take notice, however; some of them I have hinted at already. I will only speak of four.

1st. Wilful and unnecessary absenteeism from the Church. This is a desecration of God's day. God's day and God's house are inseparably connected; you cannot do dishonor to the one and not to the other. Disregard to the place of God's worship is disregard to the day of His worship. We need not wait to argue this point—all will admit it. Absence is criminal on the part of those who are in circumstances to be present. It is criminal when the duty connected with being present is not insuperable, but how much more criminal when the reason of absence is in itself criminal, when it is indolence or carelessness or unfriendliness toward some one else in the congregation, or when it arises from a distaste of the word of God itself. Some are detained from one and some from others of these reasons. Then they are doubly guilty—guilty on account of the absence itself—guilty on account of the cause of it. Unnecessary absence, then, from the Church of God on the Sabbath, is a desecration of the day.

2nd. Social visiting is another way in which the Sabbath is profaned. It is right for us, sometimes, to wait on friends on the Sabbath—as for instance, when we have heard of some sudden sickness, or of the nearness of death or when some great calamity has overtaken them; then, and in other cases that might be mentioned, it is right for us us to go on the Sunday. But these are not the cases to which I have reference. The cases are those of relatives visiting each other when all the parties are in good health—friends visiting friends—neighbors visiting neighbors, because they have more leisure on the Sabbath or because they cannot find time on any other day. Not to visit each other at all would certainly not be right, but why not take your own time for it and not the time belonging to God? You think your own time on a working day is too precious to be spent in merely showing politeness to your friends and neighbors. Well your friends should not take it as a compliment that you steal the time belonging to God to visit them. Again it is oftentimes more for you own pleasure than for the pleasure of your friends that you visit them on the Sabbath. It is perhaps too, because you want to kill time—time that hangs so heavy on your hands—time that you have no heart to use for the purpose for which God has given it to you. This social visiting is too common among ourselves. It is no justification that you intend accompanying your friends to their church when you go to their houses. It is still a social visit made on the Lord's day. Then think how often the friends are kept at home themselves by your visit. They have not the courage to ask you to go to church with them, and they think it would not be polite to leave you alone. I have faith to believe that the members and adherents of this congregation will not after this indulge in social visitation on the Sabbath, and I do hope that when your friends visit you on this day you will not deem it want of politeness to ask them to come to church with you.

3. Unnecessary Sabbath funerals is another way of desecrating the Lord's day. Funerals are sometimes necessary on the Sabbath, but if they are unduly hastened or too long delayed in order to have them on that day, then it is a desecration of the Sabbath. Many are the evils that arise from Sabbath funerals. The churches in the neighborhood are greatly thinned if the people have to go to some distance to the place of interment. Some congregations will be broken up altogether, some disappointed of a preacher because the minister who should have been at one place has had to attend a funeral at another. Sabbath schools, too, for the moment, become disorganized and the lessons of the day unlearned, because the superintendent and teachers have been summoned to attend the funeral of a deceased friend. And why are funerals so often appointed on the Sabbath when the Saturday or the Monday would suit quite as well? The great reason, I believe, is that there may be a large company of friends to join in the funeral procession. Sabbath funerals are usually large. We can easily assign the reason. It is easy to go—no worldly business to hinder. Many who would not go on another day would rather go on the Sabbath than not, and so the friends of the deceased are pleased because of the apparent kindness and sympathy and regard to the living and the dead. Now, I would not take it as a token of respect for a man to come to my child's funeral or my wife's funeral on the Sabbath, when I know that he would not have come on the Saturday or the Monday. Large Sabbath funerals, then, are often a delusion. They do not prove greater respect for the dead than smaller funerals would do some other day of the week. Let me express the hope that in the future, when bereavement comes—as come it will—you will conscientiously avoid as far as possible holding funerals on the Sabbath. It will be an unspeakable kindness to your minister and a kindness to your neighbors. There will be times when it will not be possible to avoid inviting your friends to the mournful gathering on the Sunday. Then the funeral is a work of necessity. If it is not a work of necessity, the funeral on the Sabbath is a sin against God, against ourselves and against those whom we call away from their churches, their Sabbath schools and their families to be where we should have had them the day before or not have had them until the day after. I speak these things with sincere affection, desirous of doing right myself and of having you do that which is right.

4. Idleness is also a desecration of God's holy day. It sets aside the object of God in appointing it. It was intended to be a means of honoring God and of administering to the spiritual and temporal improvement of ourselves and our fellowmen. God will not be honored, man will not be benefitted by sleeping and lounging on the day of worship. "The fourth commandment requireth the keeping holy to God such set times as He hath appointed in His word expressly one whole day in seven to be a holy Sabbath to himself." "The fourth commandment forbiddeth the omission or careless performance of the duties required and the profaning the day by idleness or doing that which is in itself sinful, or by unnecessary thoughts, words or works about our world of employments or recreations." "The Sabbath is to be sanctified by a holy resting all that day, even from such worldly employments and recreations as are lawful on other days, and spending the whole time in the public and private exercise of God's worship except so much as is to be taken up in the works of necessity and mercy."

By looking at the quotations of the Virginia tobacco markets it will be found that the highest price paid for "fillers"—which is the tobacco which forms the body of the plug—very closely corresponds with the invoiced price of tobacco leaf imported into Ontario. As over four-fifths of all the leaf imported into the Province is for "Myrtle Navy" stock, this fact is official proof of the claim that the "Myrtle Navy;" is made of finest Virginia leaf.

DELICATE WOMEN.—Those of female weakness, delicate and enfeebled constitutions, and those suffering with Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, will find Electric Bitters a speedy and certain cure. The sick and prostrated should rejoice such a reliable remedy is placed within their reach. Health and happiness will surely follow where Electric Bitters are used. For sale by all druggists, price only fifty cents.

THE BELIEVER'S TRANSPORT FOR SAVING GRACE.

[FOR THE EXAMINER.]

Bless the Lord, oh, my soul let thy high praises be
To Him who with goodness hath crown'd Thy life, and Whose grace interposing for thee
Burst th' fetters wherewith thou wert bound.
Yea, deluded and pleased with my state, He allur'd
From fatal delusions, and my soul's peace secur'd.

An instance, illustrious through all ages, I'll prove
Of mercy abundant and free,
A trophy that sovereign unconquerable love
Victoriously reigning is me
Triumphantly won, when my will was subdued,
And the Spirit my heart of corruption removed.

Bless the Lord, O my soul, for the glad happy time
When the Day Star on high shed its rays,
Dispelling sin's gloom, while the pure beams sublime
Illumin'd with lustre my ways,
Its brightness I welcom'd, and rejoic'd in the glow
That the life-giving flame did benignly bestow.

My Glorious Redeemer, can I ever forget
Thy marvellous tenderness, shown
When my soul on its own utter ruin was set?
Yea, after Thy name I had known
My waywardness suffer'd, and still didst pursue
Me with favors till back to Thyself Thou didst woo.

And, oh! Why didst Thy spirit strive with me so long,
When thousands are lost in the snare
That leads to destruction, why amid the rav'd throng
Am I number'd, and chosen and heir
Of Glory, and given a kingdom above?
All, all I ascribe to Love! Infinite Love.

As the clouds disappear when the morning sun lights
This earth, so its pageantry fled
When the Heavenly scenes of celestial delights
To my gaze were invitingly spread.
Such pleasures seraphic, o'er my spirit did roll,
That unutterable joys fill'd with transport my soul.

How trifling those pleasures that charm'd me before—
Now faded and gone as a dream—
Their attractive enchantments I can relish no more,
Since I've tasted the nectar supreme
Of ineffable bliss, as transcendantly sweet,
My soul hastes the hour of enjoyment complete.

Ah, well might the rolling skies stand in amaze
At the breadth and the depth and the height
Of His measureless grace, but, oh how shall my lays
So feeble extol Him aright.
But gratitude, humble though fervent is mine
Glory, blessing and honor is Thine, Lord, is Thine.

Bring hither, bring hither your harps, O ye bright
Pure spirits who stand round the Throne;
Oh teach me your language, ye fair sons of light;
Oh lend me your strains to make known
What I owe my adorable Savior, who stands
Exalted o'er praise that Archangel commands.

O Thou who divinest the thoughts of my soul
Accept what I cannot express,
For as ages ascending in Paradise roll
I'll still have fresh reasons to bless.
Grace, unmerited Grace, this my song still shall be.
Bless the Lord, O, my soul, for His goodness to thee.

MEMORANDA UPON THE CONTRACT

...t Government with the Syndicate for the Construction of the Canada Pacific Railway.

THE RECKLESS AND RUINOUS NATURE OF THE PROPOSED SCHEME.

The Ministry have, until the last moment, withheld from the country information of the utmost consequence, and put it out of the power of the people's representatives to consult their constituents before the meeting of Parliament. The First Minister has in his place, in the House of Commons, denied the right of the electors to be consulted on a subject which must affect their material well-being in a larger degree than any other which has come before Parliament since the Union. It has generally been conceded by all parties that, with proper restrictions in the working of the road, and the power of resuming the ownership, it would have been in the public interests to have the Pacific Railway constructed and worked by a private company. Looking also to the enormous obligations undertaken at the time of the Union with British Columbia, it has been admitted by all parties that this work would require to be aided by the Government with subsidies of land or money, or with both;

But in the contract now submitted, the aid promised is out of all proportion to the work to be performed, and the restrictions which are imposed upon the country in the interest of the Company makes its members the lords proprietors of the North-West Territory, and will enable them to impose such rates for freight as in effect to collect rents from the settlers for at least thirty years to come;

All the objections which lie against a great public work of this kind being built by the Government still continue, as portions of the road remain to be constructed under the supervision of the Minister of Railways, which will not be completed in less than ten years;

Since the elections of 1878 various projects for the construction of this railway have been entertained by the Government all of them of a highly objectionable character, only to be again abandoned, but none of these projects were as bad as the one Parliament is now called upon to confirm. The country is now face to face with a great danger, and so far as the control of the scheme, and, it may also be said, so far as the control of the North-West Territory itself is concerned, this may be the last opportunity of avoiding it;

Under the present arrangement the Government have agreed to hand over to the Company, in a completed state, the following parts of the Canada Pacific Railway: That part from Lake Superior to Selkirk, 406 miles in length, and which has already cost, or will, when completed, cost, the country $16,600,000; also the road from Emerson to Selkirk, 85 miles in length, and which has cost $1,500,000; also, 125 miles, from Kamloops to Yale, which is now under contract for the sum of $2,169,000. The Government are also to build 90 miles of road, extending from Yale to Port Moodie, before the first day of May, 1891, at an estimated cost of $3,500,000. The country is also charged with the amount expended upon the survey of the whole line, which sum amounts to $3,119,618,, making in all 706 miles of railway built by the country, and upon which there has been expended, or is yet to expend, according to the Ministry's revised statement, $31,119,618;

In addition to the gift of this long stretch of railway, costing this large sum, the Government have agreed to pay to the Company for the construction of 1,335 miles across the prairies to Kamloops, $15,000,000 in money and 18,750,000 acres of land. In April last Sir Charles Tupper informed Parliament that the maximum cost of the first thousand miles of this section would be $13,000,000; and of the remaining 335 miles through the mountains, $15,500,000; or, in all $28,500,000. This is less than the estimated cost of the road under the former Administration, but the difference is due to a change made in the character of the road, a cheaper road, with steeper grades and shorter curves having been determined upon. The road to be built by the Company is of this inferior class, and there is no reason for fixing the cost of construction at higher rates than was estimated by Sir Charles Tupper in April last;

According to the valuation of Sir John A. Macdonald and the Department of the Interior, the lands to be received by the Company are worth $3.18 an acre, a sum less than the price realised by the railway companies of the United States;

This will make the Government subsidy in land for the construction of the central section of the railway equal to $59,925,000; or in lands and money; $74,625,000, for building a road worth $28,500,000, and which the Company are to own when completed.

The terms of the contract give the company a monopoly of the entire trade of the North-west, until the year 1900. A territory larger than the settled portion of the whole Dominion, fertile, and in every way well suited for colonization purposes, is actually debarred from having railways constructed, except as tributary to this one belonging to the Company. No other Company can build a railway extending eastward or southward, and no other company can build one extending westward or southward that will come within fifteen miles of the American boundary;

There are two great railway corporations in the North-western States of the Union contending for the traffic of those regions of the North-west territories of Canada. The proprietors of one of these companies constitute the Pacific Railway Company of Canada, and they have made a contract with the Minister by which they are to enjoy a monopoly of the Canada trade and by which they are enabled to prevent competition;

The only road connecting the traffic of the North-west territories with the Northern Pacific Railways of the United States—the railway from Emerson to Selkirk, known as the Pembina Branch—is to become the property of the new company. The mischiefs which are certain to flow from this monopoly are too great to be realised by any except those who will suffer from them. At the present time the charges for freights from St. Paul to Winnipeg are much greater than from St. Paul to the seaboard. The prices realised from the products of the soil are low in proportion as the freights are increased, and by the total absence of all competition the railway company have it in their power to levy such tolls as will practically compel the farmers of the North-west to give them, beyond fair freights, a share of the monies they receive for the products of their industry;

The lands the Railway Company received from the Government are to be exempt from taxation for 20 years after the patent from the Crown is issued, so that the Company will not be forced to put their lands in the market until great value is given to them by the labor of and taxes of the settlers. The settlers will be separated from each other by these vacant sections, which can neither be taxed for school purposes nor for building ordinary highways. The establishment of schools will be well nigh impossible, and where they can struggle into existence, will entail great burdens upon those by whom they are supported, as more than one-half the lands in all that portion of the North-west territory open for settlement will be exempt from taxation.

The evils felt in New Brunswick and Ontario from large land grants free from taxation for many years, owing to the existence of the Canada Land Company in Quebec; in Prince Edward Island from a tenant population; and in Ireland from absentee landlords—will exist under this railway corporation in an intensified degree.

All the land required for the right of way, and for station grounds, are to be given to the Company, and these lands, along with the rolling stock, workshops, and other property of the Company, are to be forever free from taxation by Canada, or by any Province or municipality which may be formed in the territory. The Eastern section of the road, extending from the Lake Superior section of the railway to Lake Nipissing, a distance of 650 miles, is to be aided by a grant of $10,000,000 in cash, and 6,250,000 acres of land, which, at the Government valuation, will be equal to $19,875,000, or, in all, $29,875,000. This section was estimated in April last by Sir Chas. Tupper as likely to cost $18,000,000, and by the Chief Engineer, Mr. Fleming, at $20,000,000—being less than the subsidy given by the Company by $9,875,000. It will be seen that the disparity between the amount received for this section, and the actual cost of construction, is very much less than for the much more profitable section upon the prairie. If any regard were had in the distribution of the subsidy to the cost of construction, or the cost of working the road, the subsidy to this portion of the road should have been relatively greater than the prairie section.

It will be seen from the brief statement which is here made that 706 miles of railway are to be built by the country at a cost, including the expenditures upon the entire survey, of $31,119,618; that for the construction of 1,335 miles of railway, estimated by Sir Charles Tupper to cost $28,500,000 the Company are to receive $74,625,000, besides owning the road when completed; that is, $46,125,000 more than the estimated cost; and for the construction of 650 miles of the eastern portion of the road, estimated to cost $20,000,000, they are to receive $29,875,000 or $9,875,000 more than the estimated cost of building this section, besides owning the road when completed. The Company are thus made the proprietors of a road built for them by the country, and will receive from the people not only the railway, but also a bonus in excess of what the road costs of $56,000,000.

It cannot be doubted that construction of this eastern section is at the present time wholly unnecessary. The country to the north of Lake Superior, so far as known, is incapable of sustaining a population. It would add nothing to the wealth or resources of the country to construct a road at the present time through that region, and it would only add to the cost of working and maintaining the line, to build an eastern section for many years to come;

A Company had already been organized in Canada, offering to build a railway from Lake Nippissing to the South, a distance of 250 miles, for what the Government proposes to give to this Company for 60 miles of this eastern section. Such a road would give to the country two competing lines during the season of navigation. It would secure to this country the trade between the seaboard and the North-Western States, which could not be secured by the proposed route. It would bring the great volume of the grain and other surplus products of Northern Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and the territories to the westward, down the valley of the Ottawa to Montreal. It would open railway communication between the seaboard and the North-West seven years earlier than it can be accomplished in the way proposed. It would save the country at least $20,000,000, in land and money, in the cost of the eastern section of the road alone;

The people ought to oppose the consummation of this scheme. They should favor early, direct and cheap communication with Manitoba and the North-West. They ought to condemn the enormous subsidy proposed to be given to this company for building a section of the road, which can be easily and cheaply built, and which at an early day will yield a fair dividend upon all the capital required for its construction. They ought to oppose placing all the gateways to the North-West in the hands of a single corporation, to levy such tolls as they please upon the trade and commerce of that country. They ought to aid Parliament in defeating, if possible, the scheme to place the whole railway system in the prairies of the North-West in the hands of a single corporation, by which the settlers of that country would be denied the advantages which flow from healthful competition, and subjected to spoliation and oppression. Parliament should not give its sanction to a measure which will add nearly $40,000,000 to the public debt, and furnish a pretext for oppressive taxation.

Twenty Years a Sufferer.

Dr. R. V. Pierce:

Dear Sir—Twenty years ago I was shipwrecked on the Atlantic Ocean, and the cold and the exposure caused a large abscess to form on each leg, which kept continually discharging. After spending hundreds of dollars with no benefit, I was persuaded to try your Golden Medical Discovery, and now, in less then three months after taking the first bottle, I am thankful to say I am completely cured, and for the first time in ten years can put my left heel to the ground.

I am, sir, yours respectfully,
WILLIAM RYDER.

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

By the Author of "CLEVEDON MANOR," "MRS. SHELDON'S AMBITION," &c., &c.

"There I am sure you must differ from many; from me among others. There are many things I would shrink from fearing even more than I should fear the loss of one whom I deeply loved or valued."

Jocelyn turned his gaze on Ethel's face as she spoke—a face as it were chiselled out of marble, faultlessly beautiful, but with the marble's chill look upon it—a face too, to some eyes, like that of a lily, as it then showed with that pale calm upon it, that shadowless repose.

Then he turned to look at Vivienne's scarlet lips, and dark unfathomable eyes, where the luminous lights, the dusky shades, of passionate feeling showed themselves. What wonder that the contrast again chafed him—that his man's heart, selfish as yet in its untried strength, should cry out against the icy reserve of the one, and yearn, with strong, vague longing, towards the other?

The rain ceasing suddenly as it had begun, the evening light broke out in opal and amber bars through the thin rifts in the storm-clouds, and the birds in the old-fashioned garden filled the freshened air with their chirpings. An ominous silence, however, had seized hold of the trio in Dr. West's parlor after Ethel's last speech. Certainly Jocelyn did not care to break it, for he stood there stiff and reticent, stroking his heavy beard and watching eagerly for the time of departure. Vivienne guessed instinctively what were his thoughts.

"We shall stay no longer, Ethel," she said, with one of her sweet smiles; "I am sure you must be tired of us, seeing that we arrived so unexpectedly. And now that the rain is over, the ride home will be exceedingly agreeable."

Ethel did not ask them to stay, but proceeded with Lionel and Vivienne to the porch, and there remained in the glitter of the sunset, cold and stately, like a piece of statuary, her cloud of soft rippling hair floating loosely about her shoulders. Presently she saw Vivivenne, seated in her saddle, fastening in the bosom of her habit a wet rose she had plucked on her passage. A painful mist swam before her eyes, and her lips quivered. As soon as she recovered herself she looked again at Vivienne, sitting there in the sheen of the declining sun, her bright eyes sparkling, her lips full of graciousness to Jocelyn, who stood there beside her smiling.

"She is indeed beautiful," cried poor tortured Ethel, truthful and just even in her sorrow." "How can he help loving her? Dare I blame him for doing so? I fear not."

Turning suddenly, Jocelyn saw, with something of a clearer light, the mingled pain and love in Ethel's face. Instantly moved to the heart with some of his old feeling, he hastened back to the low porch, stooping to take her two outstretched hands in his, the light she had latterly often hungered for in vain beaming in his clear gray eyes.

"My own little white love, let me see the roses in those cheeks when I come to-morrow."

And even as he spoke they appeared blooming under his words, his touch, his fond smile.

Vivienne, patting her horse's neck with her little hand, speaking to it, in her low, ringing voice, brief words of endearment, did not seem to heed that abrupt return, and curious soft return of words at the porch. When, however, she and Jocelyn were riding homewards, and he turned to look at her face, as he had grown used to do, for very wonder at its beauty, the change therein startled him. The flitting bloom of her cheeks was gone; the red had even left her lips, and in its place appeared a strange pallor.

"Are you ill, Vivienne?" he asked, anxiously.

"No," was the reply; "only fast becoming tired."

The answer did not satisfy him. He wondered somewhat, but said nothing. Still, the time had come when that which touched her touched him also.

As soon as they had departed Ethel became restless, unsettled, strangely excited. The air of the house oppressed her, and thinking it would cool her aching head, she hastened out to walk along the ledge of rocks that the tide by this time had left uncovered. Great gray rocks these were, forming a natural roadway, broken here and there by little pools, where the sea had settled. Above, like a huge wall, the outermost crags were piled, standing like grim sentinels, and extending for miles along that part of the coast. Famous crags in their way were these of Thornton. Along the top of them wound a narrow path, hard to find and easily lost—a path that had led many a stranger, wandering there in the night or storm, to his grave. Away to the left the sun was shining, leaving, as it sank, a parting streak of crimson here and there on the tossing sea, on the wet sands, and on the rocks that fringed them. The fishing boats were putting off, the men singing snatches of some rude ditty in chorous, that across the water sounded mournful and strong.

Standing, looking out after them, was a tall man, a stranger to Thornton plainly. He seemed just then to have nothing better to do than lean on his thick walking-stick, and watch the clumsy little smacks as they slipped away from the shore, sailing in a broken half-circle towards that far-off red light on the sea, where the great sun had but recently disappeared.

Ethel glanced at his face as she passed him, much as she would have looked at any of the rough fishermen who were loitering about seeing their comrades off.

She did not know the man, nor had she a thought for strangers at the moment; hence she gave no second glance as she proceeded on her way, turning presently from him and from the scattered knots about, more in an inland direction, where lay the shadows of the crags, and the yellow sand took the place of the rough gray boulders.

At sight of Ethel, however, the stranger, who a moment since seemed idle and listless, started and flushed.

"Is it Dick's girl!" he whispered to himself, softly, fearing to be heard. Then turning his face in the opposite direction to whither she had gone, he walked swiftly till he found himself out of sight and sound of the laughing, talking fishermen, amid whom he had just stood—out of sight and sound of aught but the wild birds, that whirled in to their nests on the rocks above him. Presently, with the sea at his feet, he sat himself down on a broad stone, holding his face between his hands, resting his elbows on his knees—a man full of his own brooding thoughts perplexed perhaps with many heavy cares.

Sighing often as he looked across the great expanse of waters, some inner emotion seemed to stir the stranger's heart. Nervous and unsettled, with despondency strongly depicted upon his face, with old ghostly remembrances mustering thickly about him, there plainly sat Paul Knox, all the way from his shabby London lodging, back again in Thornton, as he had said he would be, but after the lapse of weeks instead of days.

Long and patiently did he rest there, till the little pools began to fill again with every splash of the incoming tide, till the shadows of the Crags had the spot all to themselves and were soon united with those other shadows that had crept to meet them with the wind that blew fresh from the sea. Then he arose, pulled his hat over his eyes, and, climbing across the shelving rocks in front of him, made his way, like one who knew the place, up one of the paths leading on to the crags till he was swallowed up in the darkness.

Hours before this Ethel West, going home through the village, had stayed to talk with first one and then another of the few friends or acquaintances whom she knew in the neighbourhood, most of them lounging idly at their doors, enjoying the sea breeze,—old residents principally, whose rough, kindly faces had smiled on her since she was a child. Not proud or cold even did these people think her; they knew her to be tender, generous, and helpful to the lowliest among them. The little toddling children put out fat fingers to touch the folds of her muslin dress, the men stood respectful before her, the women smiled, made their best curtsey, and gave her gracious greeting as she went onward.

Coming out of one of the houses was the Rector of Thornton, the Reverend Herbert Grant, one of the richest men in the county, and surely the best beloved. In appearance he was young, but somewhat bent, with dark eyes, dark hair closely cut, and without beard or moustache to hide the firm out of the massive chin, the tender sweetness of the mobile mouth.

"Good evening, Miss West."

"Good evening, Mr. Grant." Ethel would have passed the Rector, but, quickening his step, he walked with her, holding his hat in his hand and letting the cool wind lift the little twists of short, crisp curls that lay on his forehead.

"Mrs. Holt is much worse to-night. I should like to see your father about her. Indeed, I am afraid her case is hopeless."

"From what I have heard my father say, I think he wonders how she has survived so long."

"She tells me you often go in to see her?"

"I go as often as I can," said Ethel, simply. "I feel for her, she is so lonely. My father, of course, goes to."

"So she said. But to-night her mind is evidently wandering. Another Mr. West, she said, had been to see her, and left her some money. I told her it was the Doctor, but she would not have it so. It was the 'dark West,' she said, 'not the Doctor;' and that was all I could glean from her."

"It has been some one like my father, or perhaps she was thinking of a brother he had who went up to London years ago, and who died there. You know she nursed my father, and doubtless she nursed my brother too."

"Possibly. And now in her delirium the old days have come back, and the old faces also. It is often so."

Smoking his meerschaum in the porch of his house was Dr. West, looking out for Ethel—not uneasy about her—only anxious to see her face again after the long day's toil.

The Rector and he shook hands cordially, and the three went indoors together.

Placing her hat on the first chair she passed, Ethel pushed back her hair and loosed the cloak she wore before closing the lace curtains, and shutting out the misty light of the summer evening, as the servant brought in the lamp ready lighted. For Thornton-on-the-Crags was a primitive little place, to which, as yet, gas was an unknown, unthought-of luxury.

"Papa, poor Mrs. Holt is worse to-night; she has been talking, too, of your young brother who died so long ago."

"What of him, Ethel?"

The Doctor's voice rang out sharply, and his hand trembled as he laid his meerschaum carefully by in its morocco case.

The Rector answered him, "She fancied in her delirium that he had been in to see her to-day and given her money. The money is there certainly, but of course the poor woman has received it from some one who she has mistaken for him."

The speaker was watching Ethel, sitting near her father in the mellow light of the lamp, and did not notice the strange look that grew in his host's eyes, nor the grim shadow that stole over his face, making it seem pinched and old. Before he did turn his eyes thitherward, the Doctor was himself again, easy and genial of manner.

"The grave cannot give up its dead," he said, reverently enough, yet with a dash of mockery, which indicated how little the sick woman's fancies had touched him. And there the matter ended.

The Rector and the Doctor, with lives running in much the same kind of groove, had many interests in common. Good friends for years they had been, and they mutually liked and esteemed each other. In the midst of their earnest discussion, however, the Rector again and again looked across at the sweet young face that seemed to him to make the simple, low-roofed room all the brighter and fairer for its presence.

When Mr. Grant rose up to go home, the Doctor put on his hat to accompany him part of the way, but not because he thought danger lurked in any spot of Thornton for its Rector. He went merely for a chat, he said. He had grown nervous and uneasy; perhaps he thought the walk would do him good.

As Ethel turned in from seeing them off, a shadow fell across the path outside the house, and the shrubs by the gate rustled, as at the touch of some one brushing past. Looking out, but seeing no one, she retired again, and sat down at her piano to amuse herself until her father should return. Melody after melody did she play, touching the keys dexterously and softly; while now and again her clear fresh voice rose above the notes of the instrument, and filled the room with sweetest music.

She began to feel happier than she had hitherto felt since Vivienne Stuart came to the Manor. But her happiness, like her fear, was vague, for all its temporary strength; baseless, apparently, as a dream of the night, and yet with a certain degree of deep-rootedness.

When her father entered—and he had been absent longer than Ethel expected—he looked pale and jaded. As usual, however, she sat down by him to talk and listen to all the simple events of the day, as she had talked and listened every night almost since childhood; until at length she had slipped into a woman's duty, as her father's comforter and confidant.

"I called at the Manor, in passing, this afternoon, but I did not see Miss Stuart, —she was out riding, Gilbert told me."

The Doctor did not say "with Jocelyn Thornton;" he checked the name when on his lip, and only in thine. Did he guess that Jocelyn was more than a friend to this gentle little daughter of his?

"Gilbert has charged me strictly to send you up to-morrow. It is a week, he says, since he has seen your face, and I promised him you should go. Poor Gilbert!"

The Doctor sighed, watching the smoke rising like a filmy cloud from the huge bowl of his pipe.

Ethel looked up at him.

"Is he worse to-day, papa?"

"No—I think he is much better. He was suffering little pain, he said—far less than usual."

"Then what made you say 'Poor Gilbert' so sorrowfully? You quite startled me."

Dr. West looked down in the same grave way into his daughter's face.

"And I say it again, "Poor Gilbert.' You may learn yet, Ethel, that there are many and various ways of suffering pain. Gilbert has become acquainted with some already; and surely few have learned the bitter lesson more patiently or better than he."

The tone of the Doctor's voice was sad; troubled and thoughtful he looked. Ethel, not understanding either tone or look, wondered somewhat at both, but sought not to solve the mystery.

CHAPTER.

"They are late to-night," said Gilbert Thornton, as the servant wheeled his couch from the window to the side of the fire, by which his mother was seated.

When the man had left the room, the invalid lay still a little, listening to the continuous roar and rattle of the two conflicting elements, wind and tide.

"I am surprised that Vivienne ventured out in such boisterous weather," said Mrs. Thornton;" but she is well wrapped up, and no harm, I hope, will result."

"I trust none may come to Jocelyn." was the measured reply.

"My dear Gilbert, you need not think that there will. Jocelyn is strong and hardy; a wind like that is certain not to hurt him,—it would not have hurt his father."

Gilbert sighed. He could not help comparing his own sad helplessness with his brother's activity and strength.

"You mistake me, mother. It is not the keen wind, nor the heavy mist, nor the long walk that I fear on his account."

Mrs. Thornton remained silent, her delicate face somewhat flushed.

"Mother, you know our Jocelyn loves Ethel West—has told her that he loves her—has he not?"

The simple question, so candidly put, cause the pink to deepen in Mrs. Thornton's face, and her lips to compress.

"How strangely you state things! Of course I know all about what you have mentioned."

"Then you must see as clearly as I do the danger into which Jocelyn is running day after day—the cruel pit he digs for his feet every time he walks out with Vivienne, even as he has done to-day."

Gilbert's voice grew painfully earnest, his keen gray eyes kindled as he spoke. A man to trust and love just then, to respect always, was this invalid head of the house.

"You speak harshly. You have no trust in your brother's honour; you are unjust to him, while you are certainly wanting in consideration for Vivienne."

Mrs. Thornton, to use a parental word, idolized her youngest born, and Gilbert knew it. Nevertheless he did not spare for feelings. Was it tender care for another that made him so severe in his speech to-night, or had years of pain and baffled hopes done their sure work after all, and ripened an evil nature in him?

"Weeks ago I told her that he loved Ethel. They will be man and wife some day, I said—living here, I hope and trust, they and their children, when I am out of the way. For, after me, Jocelyn will be master of the Manor. If Vivienne Stuart be not warned, it is no fault of mine; I told her the truth."

"You did, Gilbert! Why, what need of such haste?"

The invalid took no heed of the question, nor did he appear to notice the angry flash in his mother's eye.

"But I might have saved myself the trouble. She still goes on luring him away from Ethel West."

Gilbert was fast becoming angry too—a rare occurrence with him—angry, excited, and restless, as he lay there listening to the fierce wind come and go about the house, and to the noise of the waves dashing up on the rocks and shingle.

Mrs. Thornton stirred the fire and rearranged, with nervous fingers, the cushions of her chair—a woman chafed and apparently inclined to resent the feeling—a woman with many teeming thoughts to give vent to, dare she but risk it.

"It is very strange, Gilbert, that you should have taken such a strong dislike to poor Vivienne."

"Poor Vivienne!" he echoed scornfully. "Poor Vivienne! with a face that a queen might envy, with nameless graces and rare attractive power, and a splendid fortune to boot! Pray understand me, mother. I do not dislike her: I only dread her power over Jocelyn, and through him over the future happiness of Ethel West."

"You think more in this matter of Ethel West than of your own brother," sharply retorted Mrs. Thornton, her anger fast overcoming her prudence.

For a second or so Gilbert looked as if he would reply; then a shadow of agonising pain came into his face, dimming the clear eyes, making the firm lips gasp and quiver. Mrs. Thornton, half frightened, hastened to his side, and, bending over him, pale herself now and anxious, would have soothed him if she might. Gilbert put her from him gently but coldly, and turned his face away into the shadow, where the tell-tale flame of the fire could not reveal its varied expression.

"Dear Gilbert, you have talked too much, you have allowed yourself to become unduly excited over this matter," she said, all the anger gone from her face and breast, only tender pity left. "Let me send for Doctor West."

"No," was the reply; "I need no doctor—I will have none."

* * * * *

"Did you think I was lost?" said a clear ringing voice, calling to them out of the shade at the end of the long room. A second afterwards, Vivienne, still dressed in walking costume, came forward to the hearth, and held out her gloved hands to the fire. Mrs. Thornton, surprised, looked up, and, raising her hand, whispered softly, "One of Gilbert's sudden attacks, dear. Pray do not disturb him."

Vivienne, with the rain-drops thick on her hair, knelt down on the rug, mute as a child, her face curiously pale, her dark eyes strangely troubled. She knelt there a brief while, as though waiting his recovery. His mother seated herself on the opposite side of the hearth, also waiting patiently. But he would not turn his face towards them—would not utter a word.

RETURNED.—Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President of the Midland Railway, arrived in town by special train on Sunday, on his return from England. He was accompanied by Mr. A. White, General Traffic Agent of the Midland, who went to meet him at New York. Mr. D. Hopkins also returned home at the same time, looking well after his trip across the briny.

'XMAS FESTIVITIES.—On Friday night last the firm and employees of Hall & Ostrom were entertained at an oyster supper at T. Cavanagh's at the expense of Mr. Clegg, miller. On the same evening Mr. Adam Hall entertained his employees at Chamberlain's in a similar manner. At the same time the latter took occasion to present to Mr. John Dixon, Mr. Hall's foreman, with a handsome silver watch, which we trust he may long live to wear.

THE ROARIN' GAME.—On Christmas morning a match was played at the rink, between two teams of curlers, representing Canadians and Old Countrymen, resulting as follows:—

RINK No. 1.—Canadians—W. H. Budden, A. Hall, F. P. Attrill, Geo. Browne, skip, 18; Old Country—M. Dennistoun, John McClelland, Geo. Dunsford, A. Bertram, skip, 5.

RINK No. 2.—Canadians—Dr. Boucher, R. S. Davidson, A. H. McDougal, J. R. Dennistoun, skip, 12; Old Country—A. McNeil, John Bertram, P. Connal, W. G. Ferguson, skip, 15.

Totals.—Canadians, 28; Old Country, 20: majority for Canadians, 8.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. R. Tudhope, who has been for some time Teacher in charge of the school in No. 2 Section, Otonabee, being about to retire, he was waited upon on the 23rd, at the residence of Mr. English, by the Teachers of the Sabbath School, of which he was Superintendent, and in which he had taken deep interest, who presented him with an elegant writing desk, and an address regretting his departure, and referring to his services in connection with the school. Mr. Tudhope made a suitable reply. At the same time, Miss Connal, who leads the singing in the Sabbath School, and has been a faithful worker in connection with it, was the recipient of a handsome present in acknowledgement of her services.

MASONIC.—Monday evening, St. John's Day, the officers in the Masonic Lodges in town, were installed as follows:—

CORINTHIAN LODGE, No. 161.—W. Bro. E. H. D. Hall, I.P.M.; Bro. R. A. Morrow, W. M.; Bro. J. E. Belcher, S. W.; Bro. R. E. Wood, J. W.; Bro. D. G. Hatton, Treas.; Bro. N. D. Beck, Sec'y; R. W. Bro. MASONIC HALL TRUSTEES.—W. Bro. R. P. Boucher, M.D., was elected trustee for Corinthian Lodge, and Bro. Wm. Menzies trustee for Peterborough Lodge.

REV. MR. HAMMOND.—The weekly meeting of those interested in bringing Rev. Mr. Hammond, the Evangelist, to Peterborough, took place at St. Paul's Church school room, on Thursday evening, and was well attended. Rev. Mr. Stobo presided, and Rev. Messrs. Torrance, Fletcher and Ratcliffe, took part, with Messrs. Yelland, Wasson and Graham. Rev. Mr. Stobo read a lengthy and well written resume of Rev. Mr. Hammond's work in Winnipeg, from the Free Press of that city, showing that great good had been accomplished. It showed that the attendance at these meetings had increased from 400 to 1000, and that 600 persons, not including children, had professed saving benefits. Rev. Mr. Torrance spoke of the advantage of prayer for blessing upon such work. Mr. Robert A. Strickland testified to Mr. Hammond's character and good work. The next meeting will be held in the Baptist Church this evening.

ENTERTAINMENT.—A musical entertainment and fruit social was given by the members of Robinson's church, Smith, last Thursday. Several sleigh loads from Peterborough lent their sunny countenances to brighten up matters. The church was comfortably filled and to judge from faces, wreathed with smiles and jollity, all enjoyed themselves. Rev. Mr. Washington opened the concert by a short address welcoming the audience and hinting that as the building was a sacred edifice, no stamping or unreasonable noise would be allowed. Rev. Mr. West followed with a short address, after which the Misses Stratton and Ellsworth rendered a very charming song. An appropriate solo by Miss Bella Elliott was followed by another from Miss Errett, both these pieces showed evident talent. Here Rev. Mr. Starr was called upon and after the stir on his rising had subsided, he delivered a delivered a short and sensible speech. A pathetic song by Miss Coates formed part of the evening's programme. The choir lent their voices to the rendition of several hymns. The Misses Elliott and Errett were encored several times and had the inevitable. The Rev. Mr. West and Mr. Elijah Sherin favored the audience with melo-dramatic recitations. During the evening a small bag laden with cakes, apples and raisins was given to each person.

OPEN DOORS.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—One of the most odious things in connection with the Town Council is the secrecy which surrounds the business of committees and of the Town Trust. An expression of opinion on the subject of amending the rule in this regard, by some the supporters to the Council, would not damage their chances with many electors.

Yours very truly,
VIGILANCE.

KEEPING THE PEACE.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—The disgraceful conduct of drunken rowdies who infested the streets and made night hideous on Friday and Saturday evenings, has been a subject of general remark. I would like to know what the ratepayers pay $1,000 a year for to peace officers? We might just as well be without them apparently.

Yours, etc.,
ORDER.

THE MARKET QUESTION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—The articles in the EXAMINER upon the Market question are watched with much interest in this section. The payment of tolls is a matter of more importance with us farmers than most townspeople imagine. The arduous nature of our occupation makes us weigh the cost of every penny we are able by hard labor to produce from the soil, and we look upon the market tolls as an unnecessary extortion. There are two sides to the subject of the trade of the farmers. The town gets the benefit of the sale of their grains and other produce in more ways than one. Not only do the profits of of their millers and coopers arise from the sale of grain on their markets, and laborers benefit by the necessary handling of the grain, but the markets are kept fully supplied with all other kinds of produce, butter, eggs, etc., and through competition householders always have the best choice, at the lowest prices. Then the merchants of every description get the benefit of the greater part of the money for which their produce is sold. It cannot be denied that the advantage of profit is largely on the side of the town, and that they are or ought to be interested in maintaining the position of the town as a market for the farmers. This year a great deal of trade that would have gone to Peterborough, with a free market, has gone to Hastings and other places. The grocery trade in Peterborough is likely to be the greatest sufferer by the division of the farmers' business, for while we are compelled to go to Peterborough for many things, we can buy our groceries and get other casual wants supplied in the villages nearer by, where there is sale for grain. If you want to attract greater trade to your town and to make it popular among the farmers, by all means, abolish the odious tolls.

Yours truly,
AGRICOLA.

Villiers, Dec. 23rd, 1880.

A WARNING.

THE $150,000 BONUS BY-LAW OF THE TOWN.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

It appears that the Council has recently decided not to repeal this by-law, on the ground that, having lapsed through the delay of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway Co. in the construction of the road, it is unnecessary to repeal it. This was the argument of the County Council in reference to the by-law granting $75,000 to the Grand Junction railway, and the people now see the result of it. In all probability this will be the fate of the town by-law also. I understand that the Town Council has been advised that this by-law is dead, but that they are at the same time advised to watch legislation upon the subject. If the by-law has no existence, why watch legislation? Would it not be the wisest and safest way to repeal the by-law, because then we know it would really cease to exist, and the necessity to watch legislation would be dispensed with? But suppose we do watch legislation, and suppose, what is very likely, that Parliament does legislate, and that it passes an act in terms like that passed in reference to the County by-law, what then? Would it not be better, in view of such a possibility, to remove this by-law out of the way altogether by repealing it, and then save the necessity of watching legislation, which can only be done by deputations from the town and at great expense, while in the end the railway magnates will surely succeed. This advice, not to repeal the by-law but to watch legislation, is something very much like the advice of one man to another not to remove his valuables to a place of safety but to watch the burglars. It costs nothing to repeal this by-law, and if its repeal does no good it can do no harm, and then at all events the town will be safe. The ratepayers ought to insist upon the Council repealing this by-law at once, and thus they will be saved the danger and the trouble and expense of watching legislation. And if the present Council does not repeal it, the ratepayers should take care to pledge the new Councillors and Mayor to do it at their first meeting, because the Legislature meets on the 13th of January, and after that it may be too late to repeal it. And it is to be hoped that the electors will also pledge their new Councillors to make a large reduction in the official salaries as well as in other expenditures of the town. They must remember that the next opportunity for doing this will not occur again for another year.

A CONTRADICTION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—As I am told that there is a rumour current to the effect that I am supporting Mr. Deane in the Mayoralty contest, I beg to say that, if anything is needed to contradict such a rumour beyond seeing my name to Mr. Smith's requisition, that I am supporting Mr. Smith, and intend to vote for him.

Yours truly,
WM. TOOLE.

INFORMATION WANTED.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—A constant reader of the EXAMINER wishes that 'ere South Dummer Correspondent to inform us (through the columns of your valuable paper), what part of a driver the "mould board is?" Have diligently enquired of wise men, but they are all of the opinion that the driver in question is some inhuman creature, or else South Dummer possesses a home-spun correspondent, who makes irrational discoveries his vocation. A little light on the above subject would greatly oblige,

Yours, &c.,
CURIOSITY.

THE MARKET.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—Having of late seen several communications in your paper respecting market fees, and being asked to sign a petition to the Dominion Parliament praying them to amend or annul the Act respecting Market Fees, I declined doing so, fearing it would affect the town, and saying I did not care for the fee if a reasonable accomodation was provided.

Last Saturday my wife was early on the market, and, as a matter of course, took the warmest side of the building. But when the good-natured Market Clerk, Mr. Doharty, came along, he told her she must go to the the other side of the building, and kindly lifted her basket and left it where he considered the proper place for farmers' wives.

Now sir, just think of a woman travelling 5 to 20 miles when the thermometer is 10 deg. below zero, to get to Peterborough market. After paying the market fee, she is coolly conducted to the north side of the building. If Mrs. Doharty, or any other lady of Peterboro', would come to a farmer's house on a cold day they would be taken to the best room, get a seat at the warmest side of the fire, and get a cup of good tea into the bargain. Now, sir, I hope the Town Fathers of Peterborough will cause a reasonable accomodation to be provided, so that parties coming to market to dispose of their produce will feel that they are well repaid for their market fee.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN BAILEY.

Emily, Dec. 21st, 1880.

THE MAYORALTY.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—Your paper of last week contains an address by Henry Denne Esq., to the Electors in which he asks for support for the Mayoralty because he has "been a firm advocate of prudence and economy in the management of the finances of the Town."

Will Mr. Denne please answer the following questions. Who got two incompetent Auditors appointed at a cost of $100, to examine Mr. Edward's accounts making it necessary to employ Messrs. Pearse & McDonald to re-audit the accounts at a cost of another $100?

Who led the Town into a law suit with Mr. Edwards which cost the town a great bill of costs and resulted in nothing? Who urged on the useless suit against Mr. Hatton which cost the town nearly $500.?

Who got the corporation to level his lot under pretence of gravelling George Street, got a foot of useless sand and rubbish put on top of the good gravel and then got clay from corporation property spread over his new made croquet ground?

Mr. Denne says he will "oppose new burdens being placed upon the back of the ratepayers."

Will Mr. Denne say who it was moved to make the poor man who might be a little behind in his taxes pay a penalty of five per cent because he couldn't give a cheque for the money the day it was asked? When Mr. Denne answers these questions satisfactorily, I will know who to vote for.

SMITH TOWNSHIP ELECTIONS.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—The following paragraph appears in the correspondence of the Review from Young's Point.

"Some persons are interesting themselves around this section for the purpose of ousting Mr. William McIlmoyle as Councillor, and having Mr. C. Blewitt in his stead, but owing to the underhand way in which they have gone about the business, nearly all that have signed the requisition will not vote for the latter; far better, gentlemen, to have things done squarely and above board. One or two very enthusiastic individuals go so far as to say that their nominees, viz., Templars and Grangers will rule the township; such hot heads does not deserve the use of the franchise."

In reference to the above, I ask room to state that the nomination of Mr. Blewitt was not made in an "underhand" way in the slightest degree. Many residents of the division of the township represented by Mr. McIlmoyle felt that that gentleman's place of residence, entailed an inconvenience on the majority of the ratepayers, and that it would be better to be represented at the board by some one more centrally situated. Moreover, many of those who supported Mr. McIlmoyle in the former election, had been strongly disappointed by his action in using is influence as Councillor to secure a license for a tavern at Selwyn in opposition to their wishes, they having supported him in the belief that he would take a different course. They accordingly invited Mr. Blewitt to stand, and the latter having consented to be a candidate at once himself notified Mr. McIlmoyle of his intentention. Could anything be more "square" or "above board" than this? Why the correspondent should drag in the Templars and the Grangers, for whom he seems to have a special aversion, I cannot say: but I presume electors have their rights whether they belong to one or both of these organizations. The assertion that any of the members of those bodies contemplate "ruling the township" I have no doubt emanated from the brain(?) of the correspondent, under an inspiration for which Young's Point offers certain facilities. Mr. McIlmoyle has no cause of complaint, against either Mr. Blewitt, or his supporters, and the result of the election will prove who best represents the feeling of those most interested, the electors of the division, the gentlemen referred to in the above letter, or the Review correspondent at Young's Point.

Yours very truly,
ELECTOR.

Selwyn, Dec. 20th, 1880.

EVANGELICAL WORK.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the basement of St. Paul's church on Thursday evening last, in connection with the bringing of Mr. Hammond the Evangelist to Peterborough. The Rev. Mr. Stobo, presided and opened the meeting with an address. The Revs. Harper, Fletcher, Starr, Torrance and Messrs. Col. Haultain, Moore, and Greehow took part in the exercises and offered up short prayers, special attention being directed to the number of young men who prefer the street to the House of God on the Lord's Day. The Rev. Mr. Stobo in the course of his address to the meeting said that he had known Mr. Hammond over 20 years, had worked with him in 1859, and he had since known him by reputationonly, and had not heard the slightest hint effecting to his orthodoxy or his morality. He was a man of intense individuality, but he believed he was a good man and one whom God had used much in the work of the Gospel. He was a Minister of the American Presbyterian Church in good standing. He also stated that he had received a letter from the Rev. Mr. Macdonald, Baptist Minister of Winnipeg, speaking of Mr. Hammond and his work in the highest terms, and that his labour had been blessed to all classes and conditions of the people, and that over 400 persons had professed to receive great benefit from his labour. Rev. Mr. Torrance said his attention had first been drawn to Mr. Hammond by Mr. Moody, when he met that gentleman, in Scotland some years ago. He had letters from St. Louis, United States, and from Rev. Mr. Battisby, Presbyterian Minister, Chatham, and from other Presbyterian divines, who cordially endorsed Mr. Hammond's work in their respective towns. He had also eulogistic letters and newspaper extracts from Winnipeg, regarding the good work that had been accomplished there through him. Prior to Mr. Stobo's pronouncing the benediction it was agreed to hold the next meeting this Thursday evening, in the same place at 7.30, p.m., when Moody and Sankey's Hymns will be used.

PERSONAL.

We find the following item in the Winnipeg Daily Times of December 9. At the meeting of the Manitoba Presbytery, in Knox Church, Winnipeg, Rev. Mr. Hammond entered the Court and, on motion of the clerk of the Presbytery, seconded by Rev. Prof. Hart, he was unanimously asked to sit as a corresponding member. Rev. Mr. Hammond recognized the kindness of the Presbytery and addressed them briefly. In the same paper we find the following: "Mrs. Hammond, however, does not figure as an evangelist. She generally attends the morning meeting, and frequently takes part in the singing, in which she is accomplished. Some of her solos have made impressions on the hearts of the people in Winnipeg that will not be forgotten for many years to come. But it is as a councillor and adviser of her husband that she excels. A lady of excellent taste, and rare good sense, she is his faithful guide in his study, and by those who have seen most of their private life since they came to Winnipeg, her hand can often be traced in his sermons. She has won the affection of the christian ladies of Winnipeg."

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

DECEMBER 22nd, 1880.

Receipts of grain are not large, the principal grain offering being peas and oats. Peas are weaker and lower—selling at 63c. to 65c., the latter price being extreme. Oats are steady, at 30c. to 31c. Wheat shows the same decline here as elsewhere; in Chicago the market has gone below a dollar; Toronto shows a decline of 2c. to 3c.; this market during the past week held to $1.17—being Toronto's extreme quotations—but it is not likely to be maintained. Not much barley offering—continues steady at from 65c. to 85c. Rye lowering—not worth over 60c. The market during the week has been large and well attended, and a large supply of everything choice. Poultry has sold well at higher prices, turkeys from 80c. to $1.00, and geese at 40c. to 60c.—some very fine ones offering. Butter continues plentiful and rather easier in price—selling at from 15c. to 20c. Not much doing in keg butter, but will still bring 17c. to 20c. Apples are plentiful for this season of the year, best kind selling at 60c. to 75c. a bag. Hogs continue to offer—prices steady—demand good at $5.75 to $6.00. Lard plentiful at 10c. to 11c. Other commodities are unchanged in price.

An Athens despatch states that none of the Powers have put diplomatic pressure on Greece in reference to her warlike preparations. The French and German Ministers have merely personally advised prudence.

HARVEY NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Harvey council met at the Clerk's office on the 15th day of December. Members all present. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Petitions read from Wm. Ventress and others requesting the Council not to stop up the allowance for roads between lots 20 and 21, 17the con., from the marsh west to the precipice on said lots. Also read a copy of resolution passed by the Boyceygeon village Council, to memorialise the Ontario Government to grant a subsidy to assist in extending the Grand Junction railway to Fenelon, and requesting the Harvey Council to similarly memorialise and join in a deputation to present the memorials to the Government. Orders drawn on the Township Treasurer as follows: Wm. H. Taylor, Trustee S. S. No. 5 levy for 1880, $120; Wm. Weir, Sec-Treasurer S. S. No. 3 levy for 1880, $220; Jas. S. Cairnduff, Sec-Treasurer S. S. No. 2 levy for 1880, $192; Wm. Weir, Treasurer, to pay debenture, S. S. No. 2, $78; Thos. Bick, Sec-Treasurer, S. S. No. 1, levy for 1880, $210; Angus McMartin, Trustee S. S. Also passed by-law 134 authorizing the Reeve and Clerk to convey that part of the said road allowance stopped up, to James Coons in lieu of a forced road through his lands adjoining the same. The Council adjourned.

ALNWICK NEWS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We hear occasionally of teams getting a cool dip in the Lake but it is only on account of being driven to near where the ice has been heaved or cracked, as, for thickness and solid ice it is considered to be perfectly safe now.

Items regarding Market fees are read now with apparently as much interest as those about the Trent Valley Canal. Outside of corporations and in rural districts this tax on farmers although small, is considered to be an imposition, and if Peterboro' be the next to abolish it, we can safely promise for the winter at least a considerable of the produce from here.

Last week some families of racoons were taken from their quiet winter quarters, a hollow log. The finder Mr. J. George, carried home seven, plump and fat, which will, when manufactured, be as useful as ten or twelve dollars.

Two of the principal business men of Fenella have left for the other side, and it's amusing to us, but not to some, to know how they tried not to be seen by men who were, not this time but ordinarily, as smart as they were.

The Missionary Meetings of Fenella circuit, of W. M. Church, were commenced on Wednesday evening 13th, Rev. Mr. Buchanan assisted by Messrs. Doxy and Ash conducted the services in every way a success.

The students of Cobourg Collegiate Institute, petitioned for leave a few days earlier than usual for the Christmas holidays.

The Alnwick Council will in all probability remain in office for next year. The Reeve will not be opposed and the Councillors are ambitious to continue.

Fenella will have a good entertainment, in W. M. Church, 'Xmas Eve, by way of music, recitations, readings, &c., Proceeds are to procure a library for Sunday School.

A Christmas tree will be the object of interest in Presbyterian Church, Roseneath, Wednesday evening Dec. 29th.

COLD SPRINGS, OTONABEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Matrimony is the topic of the day in this section, and it cannot be wondered at when we think that almost as soon as Mr. S. Deyell had taken home his bride, Mr. J. Hanbidge, getting tired of single blessedness, took unto himself a helpmate, on Wednesday, Dec. 15th. This is one of those who were to follow, but "Still there are more to follow." Judging from report it would seem that nearly all the young people of this neighborhood were getting tired of single blessedness, but we are not at all surprised when we call to mind that it is Leap Year.

While a young country pedagogue, who resides not far from this part, and not a hundred miles from the Otonabee, was amusing himself on skates the other evening, he was surprised to find one foot going through the ice while out on the middle of the river, but we are glad to say that he received no further injury than a severe fright.

The annual missionary meeeting was held at Bethel Church on the evening of December 16th. It was a beautiful evening, and in consequence there was a large attendance. Mr. Robert Hanbidge was in the chair, and the speakers were Mr. Roberts and others. Misses E. Deyell and F. Matchett were appointed collectors for the ensuing year, after which a very successful meeting was brought to a close by pronouncing the benediction.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The annual meeting of the South Monaghan and South Cavan Bible Society was held in the Methodist Brick Church, South Monaghan, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 15th. Thos. Dodds, Esq., genially occupied the chair. The choir gave several choice selections during the evening. The Secretary of the Society read the Annual Report, from which it appeared that the amount collected last year was over $105. Prospects are better—the outlook is even brighter for the coming year. This branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society long since established a reputation for success in replenishing the financial treasury of said Society, thereby promoting the interests of the best of causes—the circulation of the Best of Books.

"Most wond'rous Book! Bright candle of the Lord!
Star of Eternity! The only star
By which the bark of man could navigate
Securely the sea of life, and gain the coasts of bliss."

The Agent of the Society, Rev. T. W. Jeffrey, of Cobourg, addressed the meeting. The rev. gentleman's ability, his religious fervency, his evangelical zeal, his great originality, his reputation as a platform speaker, his renown as a pulpit orator, at once render a common-place, complimentary description of the masterly effort of a might mind, immodestly imprudent and tamely offensive. The speaker alluded to the commendable spirit of enterprise and energy manifest in certain religious denominations, and earnestly hoped to see circulation of the Word of God until all shall know Him from the least unto the greatest, Whom to know aright is life eternal. The officers elected for the coming year are as follows:—President, Thos. Dodds; Vice-President, Hugh Waddell; Treasurer, Robt. Waddell; Secretary, J. W. McBain; Depository, R. Fair.

VILLIERS NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

All the old members of the Council will stand for re-election for Otonabee.

The threshing is now nearly all done. The "Wild-Cat," of the Gillespie & Wood Company, is now laid up for the season, with great credit to the managers, P. Gillespie, R. Wood, and R. Wood.

F. Walker has a gang of men getting out timber for a barn for Peter Gillespie.

The ice on Rice Lake is all good on the north shore, but not so good on the south shore, so that teamsters should be careful when crossing. There are more current and air holes on the south shore.

A span of horses belonging to W. Brotherston got through the ice the other day and had a very narrow escape from being drowned.

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The public examination of the Lakefield school commences to day (Wednesday) at one o'clock, and will be concluded to-morrow.

The Methodist Sunday School will hold their Christmas entertainment on Thursday evening (23rd) in the P. C. A. Hall, when it is to be hoped there will be a large attendance.

The following is a report of the Lakefield Public School for the month of November, 1880.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

In the Peterborough EXAMINER of the 2nd instant appeared a letter from a "Western Shipper," in which he asserts that the "Trent Navigation has advantages over any other water route on the continent." The writer says that that "the Government must open it before long, for it would never do to let it pass into the hands of a foreign country, which controls too many of our outlets already." The whole Dominion will be largely benefitted by the construction of the canal, but every man, woman and child in the ten or eleven constituencies along its route are more particularly interested, and should not cease urging its construction until its success be placed beyond a pre-adventure. The late disasters on the lakes afford a most powerful argument in favor of building the canal, as by its construction the most dangerous navigation of lakes Erie and Huron would be avoided. Were a charter granted to the Americans, all the money necessary for the undertaking would in a few weeks be secured by Chicago, Milwaukie and other western cities, and the work in progress in less than six months. All our channels to the seaboard are already overtaxed, and the cheapest route, which would be the Trent Valley Canal, will always command the traffic. The State of New York looks across the border in amazement at our lethargy in allowing our grand natural water way to be idle, while they are obliged to use to its utmost capacity the Erie Canal, a mere ditch when compared with the Trent Valley waters. They are beginning to fear that before a great while we shall wake up to the importance of the treasure we possess, which has been hidden from us so long. Of the 19,000,000 of bushel of wheat that have arrived at Montreal within a given time, 17,000,000 found their way there by water. Railroads never can compete with the water in the heavy carrying trade. It is calculated that the construction of the Trent Valley Canal would reduce the present rate of carriage per bushel four or five cents, which from the enormous traffic it would have, would soon realize profits equal to the cost of construction. We are are a loyal people and love our country, let us—at least the ten counties more particularly interested—drop all paltry party policies, and have "Trent Valley Canal" only for our cry, until our cherished scheme be fully realized. Fenelon Falls Gazette.

THE SYNDICATE SWINDLE.

In reference to the statement that the Company could clear $18,000,000 by building the Central or easy section and then throwing up the contract, it is the opinion of competent railway authorities that this section can be built for the cash bonus allotted to it viz., $10,000 per mile. The land subsidy in that case would not at all be drawn upon ror purposes of construction. The land grant of 12,500 per mile for nine hundred miles gives 11,259,000 acres. The drawback of 20 per cent, of the land to be retained by the Government would be 2,250,000 acres and if this were forfeited by the abandonment of the contract the Company would still retain as so much clear profit 9,000,000 acres on the Central or Prairie Section. This at $2 per acre would represent a profit of 18,000,000, out of which the Company could easily afford to forfeit its one million dollars cash deposit as well, and still be $17,000,000 in pocket by the abandonment of contract. It is abundantly evident that the Company is to have every advantage in its own hands. Kingston Whig.

One of the Most Important Discoveries of this Age.

We make the startling announcement that KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE will cure Bone Spavin and completely remove the enlargement, so that the best horseman cannot tell that the horse ever had a spavin. We make this statement, and give below testimonials from persons who have used it, to prove our statements. It is excellent for removing unnatural enlargements of any kind. It does not blister nor cause any sore. It has no equal, to our knowledge, for spavin, ring-bone, curb, callous, sprain, swellings, galls, lameness from whatever cause, and all enlargements of the joints, or any part of the body or limbs, and is also good for cuts, scratches, wounds, etc.

For man, it is a complete remedy, for Corns, Frost-Bites, or any bruise, Cut or Lameness.

Remember that we claim it will

COMPLETELY REMOVE

a Bone Spavin, Splint, etc.,

WITHOUT BLISTERING

or causing any sore.

Washingtonville, Ohio, June 17, 1880.

Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co Gents.—Reading your advertisement in Turf, Field and Farm, of your "Kendall's Spavin Cure," and having a valuable and speedy horse which had been lame from spavin for eighteen months, I sent to you for a bottle by express, which in six weeks removed all lameness and enlargement and a large splint from another horse, and both horses are to-day as sound as colts. The one bottle was worth to me one hundred dollars.

Respectfully yours,

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

GENERAL MEETING IN LONDON.

Great Satisfaction Expressed with Mr. Cox's Management.

At the general meeting of the shareholders of the Midland Railway of Canada, held at the City Terminus Hotel Cannon Street London, on the 1st Dec., Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President of the Company presiding, before Mr. Cox, took the chair Mr. Edward J. Halsey, Chairman of the London Board of Directors, in introducing Mr. Cox, made some remarks upon the past and present condition of the Company. He referred to the utter hopelessness of the prospects of the stockholders, and the deplorable condition of the road in 1877, at which time Mr. Halsey was authorised to proceed to Canada with limited powers. The result was the reorganization of the Company, the conversion of the bonds, and placing the control of the Company in the hands of the bondholders. In December 1878, he went to Canada armed with the necessary power to elect a board in the special interests of the proprietors. It had been anticipated by him in May 1879, and by the report of the Directors in January 1880, that up to 1881 no interest could be looked for, but that in 1881 there should be a surplus available for interest. The meeting of May 1880 authorized the issuance of Preference Bonds by which the debts were to be paid off, the road put into good working order, and the applying the whole net revenue from the beginning of 1881 to the payment of interest upon the bonds. At that meeting he (Mr. Halsey) had been authorized to say that matters had taken so favorable a turn that the Directors hoped for a surplus of net revenue for the purpose of dividend in 1880. The official report of the meeting proceeds: "That, gentlemen, as you are aware has been realised (Applause.) We have been able for the first time for many years to divide a sum of money among you. (Renewed Applause.) So much gentlemen for the past, and I think you will admit the anticipations expressed, when the reorganization of the Company was put before you, have been realised. The property is now in satisfactory working order and as you will hear presently, the net revenue will be available for you. That we have done so much is, I am bound to say, due to the gentleman on my left, the President of the Company, whom I will introduce to you. (Applause.) It is by his ability and exertions that the Company has been released from the burden of debt and the miserable condition in which it was through all the complications attending a bankrupt and insolvent Company. It is due to him, I say, to his ability and great exertions, to his industry and energy, that this Company has been relieved from its difficulties, and to the gentleman on the right, Mr. Jaffray, whom you saw at the last meeting, who so well seconded the President our thanks are also due, and they are due besides, I need hardly add, to the remainder of his Canadian colleagues. It is to the President that I must leave the pleasure—and it is a great pleasure—of speaking as to the future of this Company. It is a future bright with hope, and one I am glad to say which will I think go a long way to redeem the old unfortunate past." He then introduced Mr. Cox asking him to take the Chair, which he did amidst applause.

Mr. Cox said: It has afforded me much pleasure to visit London, and to make the acquaintance of my co-Directors in London, and to-day to meet with a number of Bond and Shareholders of the Company. As Mr. Halsey has already informed you, this is not a regular meeting, and, consequently, no detailed reports have been prepared for it, and particularly so as we are within a few weeks of the close of the year, when our usual annual report will, as soon as possible thereafter, be placed in your hands. I desire, however, briefly to review the past two years during which I have, together with my co-Directors, been entrusted with the management of your property, to give you, at the same time, a statement as to its present position and what I believe to be its future prospects. I need scarcely remind you that at the time we entered upon our duties, the efforts of my predecessor in office to complete the construction of the road without the necessary capital to do so, combined with a severe depression throughout the country, had reduced the property to a very low state of repair, and we found it with a large and very troublesome floating debt, without credit and without equipment sufficient to transact the business offering, with four miles of the road still to construct and fourteen miles unopened. The employees, the creditors, the Bondholders, the shippers, and the public generally, were in a state of chronic dissatisfaction. After counteracting the effect of these untoward circumstances to the utmost extent we could with our own capital and credit, our next duty was to get the consent of the Proprietors to the creation of new securities. It was then found that the legislation which had been previously obtained for that purpose was defective, and it was not until the meeting of Parliament in March in this year that this difficulty could be overcome, and the necessary authority obtained, subject to the consent of the Proprietors, to create £150,000 of Preference bonds. This consent was obtained, and the bonds placed on the London market in June last at 90; but they were not taken. This you will observe brings us till within a few months of the present time without any fresh capital, and when we were obliged to obtain it in Canada, where fortunately we were able to do so upon exceedingly favorable terms, because the improved condition and credit of the property and its encouraging future is much better known there than it is here. The following is a brief statement of our present financial position. The total amount of the bonds (a portion of which you hold) is, as you are aware, £526,000; of this sum £460,000 only have been disposed of, leaving a surplus of that issue in the hands of the Company of £66,000. This, with the £150,000 recently issued, but still unsold, represents our available assets. But against these we have up to the present borrowed £108,000. I may say that was partly at 6 per cent. and partly at 5½, which we consider a low rate of interest for Canada. (Applause.) With that sum and with a portion of our revenue during the past two years, we have compromised and consolidated our floating debt in Canada, and have made extensive renewals and improvements on the line, and added very considerably to its equipment, further particulars of which I will give you later on. We have no desire or intention of selling our securities at present, feeling confident that future events will increase their value; but for the purpose of more clearly defining their value, I will estimate the £150,000 of Preference Bonds at 90, my £147,000, and the £66,000 of Surplus Consolidated Bonds at 85, my £52,250, making a total of £202,250; deducting £108,000 that we have already borrowed and leaving a margin of my £94,000 for the header over and above the estimated value, £92,000 still remains as the sum which we should be able to realize upon the securities. Out of this we require say £15,000 to complete the settlement of our floating debt, nearly all of which is now in London, and which will leave us £45,000 with which to complete terminal facilities at Midland and to make further improvements upon the road. I do not wish to convey the impression that this sum with what has been already expended will give what you, judging from your English railways, would consider a fully equipped line, but I think you will agree with me, when I have given you the details of what has already been done, that it will place the property in a position to compare favorably with most of our Canadian railways, and to transact the business now offering in an efficient and satisfactory manner to our shippers, and at a moderate rate of expenses, say not exceeding 60 per cent. of its gross earnings. Although in some respects it would be desirable to make still further improvements and still greater additions to the rolling stock, in view of its almost certainly increasing business, still I am of the opinion that it is not desirable to do so at the risk of having to ask our Bondholders, who have so long and patiently waited for their interest, any longer to forego their claims upon the net revenue of the road. (Applause.) We have therefore decided to confine our expenditure on capital account to the amount which we have available for that purpose, that is, £60,000 (applause), and henceforth apply our net revenue to the payment of interest; and we feel fully warranted in expressing the opinion that that will enable us from time to time to forward promptly to retire our coupons in full as they mature. I need not remind you that the interest on the bonds for the first three years was 2½ per cent., and 5 per cent. thereafter. The three years having expired on the 1st of November last we shall have 5 per cent. to pay in future. In order to do this and pay interest on the amount raised by the hypothecation of our securities, we shall require a net revenue of £33,400, and I shall say a gross revenue of £80,000; although at the rate of expense that we have been able to operate the line this year it would not require that. In order to show you that it is not unreasonable to anticipate these results for 1881, I may add that our net revenue for 1880 will exceed £30,000. With the generally improved condition of the country in all its interests, and particularly in the staple of lumber, in the carrying of which we are so largely interested, with the largely increased operations that have been commenced by the mills already located on our line, and with the addition of other mills now in course of erection, it is not unreasonable to hope that we shall have the small increase necessary to give us the net revenue required. But I am not basing my hope exclusively upon that; the expenditure that has already been made and the amount set apart in the above estimate for further expenditure, will complete our terminal facilities at Midland in time for next spring's operations, and place us in a position to offer for, and we hope realise, some of the benefits of the through grain trade to which the Company has been for some time looking forward. The Northern Railway, a company similarly situated to our own so far as this through business is concerned, has had a large acquisition to their earnings during the present year from this source, not less I believe than £45,000 or £50,000, and we cannot I think, therefore, be wrong in anticipating that we shall at least earn enough upon this business to make up for any possible disappointment or over-estimate in the results of our present trade. The net revenue of this year will, as I have stated, slightly exceed £30,000. Out of that amount we have paid one half-yearly coupon of 1½ per cent. The balance of that amount, as well as the net revenue of 1879, and the £108,000 borrowed upon our securities, have, as already explained, been expended in payment of our floating debt, and the improvement of the property. The full details of this will so soon be placed in your hands through our regular annual report that I will not refer to them at length here, but you may be able to judge of the present state of the road, I may enumerate some of the principal improvements that have been made since the present Directors came in office. Four miles of the line from Wye River to Midland has been constructed, and the 14 miles from Waubaushene finished and opened; 49½ miles of new steel rails in addition to the 14 previously laid, have been placed upon the line. Up to the end of September 146,965 new ties or sleepers have been laid down and 3 new iron bridges have been constructed. There has been some 30 miles of ballasting and 50 miles of fencing on portions of the line not previously done. Several important additions have been made to our siding accommodation at some of our principal stations and mill yards; besides many other repairs and improvements of a less important nature. In addition to the 63½ miles of steel rails which we now have, we propose to secure 1,500 tons, say 18 miles more, and this will leave the balance of the line with a good first-class fish-plate iron rail. As to the equipment, in addition to a thorough repair of that previously on hand, one new locomotive, four new first-class passenger coaches, 120 new platform cars, as well as smoking, baggage, express and mail cars have been added to our rolling stock. These improvements, with the proposed expenditure alluded to above, will place the property in very good order; the improved state of the road and the increased accommodation and comfort that we have been able to give in our train service, has given very great satisfaction to the travelling public; and by satisfying our shippers of our ability to move their products to market, we have made them feel safe in enlarging and extending their operations. Looking to the fact that Mr. Halsey, who has taken an active interest in the Company, and has been connected with it much longer than myself, as well as Messrs. Grinnell and Burke, London Directors, and Mr. Jaffray, one of my co-Directors from Canada, who has rendered very valuable assistance in the resuscitation of the property, are all present, and will, no doubt, desire to say something to you. I shall only trespass further upon your time to refer to the subject of the overdue coupons, amounting in the aggregate to 6¾ per cent., and suggest that it would be in the interests of the Bondholders themselves, as well as the Company, if some plan could be proposed whereby they should be exchanged for Deferred Interest Certificates, redeemable at the expiration of five years, or sooner, at the Company's option, with Interest in the meantime at 5 per cent. If this suggestion meets with your approval, after an expression of opinion from the Meeting, a resolution might be prepared in accordance therewith. Any resolution passed at this meeting would not, of course, be binding upon any Bondholder who was unwilling to concur in it, but it appears to me so clearly in the interest of all concerned, that no person will object to it. As to the desirability of it, however, I see some gentlemen present who are members of the Stock Exchange, and who will no doubt be able to explain the effect of it much better than I am. There is one more point to which I should refer. The question of elevators will no doubt recur to you, and I should explain that this decision to apply our full net revenue to the payment of dividend and the desirability of expending all that we can realize for capital account on the road bed, rolling stock, wharfage, &c., it will be necessary to provide private capital for the erection of elevators at each end of the line. This has already been done and the elevator about completed at Port Hope, and there will be no difficulty in doing the same thing at Midland, and in a way to make them self supporting and at the same time keep them practically under the control of the Company and with the power to take them over at any time they are able to do so. (Loud applause.) I thought it better to adopt that plan than to come to you and ask you any longer to forego your claims upon your dividends.

A PROPRIETOR: Does that apply to Port Hope also?

Mr. COX: That applies to Port Hope and Midland both. The Port Hope elevator is already done; the Company has the right at any time to take it over at its cost price, and in the meantime they control it entirely with the rates and so forth.

In answer to a question Mr. COX said as to proposed legislation, "we simply say that we are not able at present to pay the arrears of interest and at the same time pay our maturing coupons and we think it would be in the interest of the Company as well as the Bondholders to have them cut off and exchanged for Deferred Interest Certificates payable at the end of four years or sooner at the Company's option and upon which we would pay interest in the meantime.

A PROPRIETOR: What price is the preferred stock issued at?

MR. COX: They were not issued at all. There were £150,000 Preference Bonds offered on the London market but not taken, and upon the security of these we borrowed money in Canada yearly at 6 per cent. and later on at 5½ per cent.

A PROPRIETOR: How long does this last?

MR. COX: For one year only, but we feel very certain that we shall be able to return it at a fair rate and for a reasonable time.

Mr. LYLE one of the Proprietors, said he had visited the road in August of 1877 and referred to its wretched and demoralized state. At this time he looked upon it as completely gone, and would have sold his £8,000 for £20 or £30. At that time he said he had been lucky enough to "get advice and assistance from some good men in Toronto—one of them being the late Hon. Geo. Brown, a man of high standing and honor, and known for his integrity over the whole of Canada, and I had from that gentleman at the time an assurance that notwithstanding the wretched condition the company had been brought to and the hopeless position in which it was, it was so well placed that he had no fear whatever that the day would not be far distant when we should get our money back. In the Providence of God we fell in with two honest men, Mr. COX and Mr. Jaffray, and in the providence of God they were placed in the position they now occupy, and I think from the business-like statement we have heard from them to-day, that I for one have the greatest confidence in them so that if you were ready to-day to offer me £100 for any bonds I would respectfully decline it. (Applause.) I have the greatest confidence in the line and I believe the future is a great one for all of us. I have waited for long enough without any reward, but I think I have heard sufficient to-day to justify us in looking for bright prospects in the future. He moved, seconded by Mr. Gebhart, the following resolution:

"That, in view of the statements made to this Meeting by the President, that, to the best of his belief, the net revenue of the Company for 1881 and thereafter will be sufficient to enable the Directors to pay the full 5 per cent. interest on the whole bonded debt if the other assets of the Company are kept available for repairs and renewals of the line and rolling stock, and necessary additions to the works and other purposes on capital account, and the settlement of the balance of floating debt—this Meeting approves and recommends all the holders of the First Mortgage Bonds to agree to the funding of the overdue coupons of those bonds (say $6 5s 0d. per bond), depositing such coupons with the Directors in London, as Trustees, in exchange for Deferred Interest Certificates for the like amount, payable 31st December, 1885, and bearing interest at 5 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly, with option to the Company to pay off the principal of the certificates on any 30th June or 31st December previous to 31st December, 1885, on giving one month's notice.

The motion was carried unanimously.

MR. COX said as to the money arrangements, I can only say that we will do as we have done in the past, the very best we can to make the most favorable terms we can for the Company, and I hope that these will be such as will enable us—and I believe they will be so—to go on with additional improvements and for the settlement of the balance of our floating debt which still remains unpaid. I will repeat again that I am exceedingly obliged to you for your kind attention here this afternoon, and for the very friendly remarks that have been made as to myself and my co-Directors for what we have done in the past. We have had—as Mr. Satterthwaite said—a great deal of difficulty to contend with, but the satisfaction we have had in seeing the property emerge from its difficulty, and the appreciation of our efforts that has been expressed here to-day fully repays us for our trouble and will encourage us to go on and do the very best we can.

MR. PARKER: I rise to propose a vote of thanks to our esteemed friend Mr. Cox, the President of the Midland Railway of Canada. (Applause.) He took charge of the line when we were nearly under water, and, if I am informed correctly, he staked nearly all, or all, that he possessed in order to float the line. This shows his confidence. (Applause.) Therefore I think we ought to have every confidence in Mr. COX. But, gentlemen, it is a very empty thing to propose a vote of thanks to a gentleman for such services. I do not know how I should proceed, but I should like to see something tangible set forth by this meeting this afternoon for the services which Mr. Cox has rendered, and which should receive some consideration at our hands. How it is to be done I am not in a position to say, but I certainly think if this should not be the time, that at the next Meeting this matter should be taken up and something substantial should be awarded him. (Applause.) I have, however, very great pleasure in moving:—"That the best "thanks of this Meeting be given to Mr. "Cox, the President of the Railway, for "his great and valuable services to the "Company, and for his clear and satisfactory statement here to-day." (Applause.)

MR. SATTERTHWAITE seconded the motion which was carried unanimously, and after a brief expression of thanks from the President, the meeting terminated.

Mrs E. Wall, of Cincinnati, was burned to death in her bed on Thursday.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Tuesday evening, the Acting-Mayor in the chair. Present, Messrs. Cahill, Taylor, Smith, McNaughton, Yelland, Douglas, Toole, Dunn, Menzies and Paterson.

A communication from the Town Clerk of Bobcaygeon asking the town council of Peterborough to join in a memorial to the Ontario Legislature for aid to the Grand Junction railway extension, on motion of Mr. Toole, was received.

A communication from Mr. J. F. Denistoun, enclosed a letter from Mr Bethune stating that a rule had been issued ordering the Town to pay the costs in the case of the Town v Hatton.

A communication from Miss Isabella Rogers, set forth the facts stated in the EXAMINER recently, concerning the man Cave, brought down from Apsley, and asked the town to pay for his attendance and keeping.

The Acting-Mayor said this was one of the reasons for calling the Council together; man was on the charity of the Home, and could not be expected to be provided for by them.

Mr. McNaughton said there was two others in the Home who cost us nearly $300 a year, when there were ratepayers who couldn't get any charity.

The Acting-Mayor said a committee should wait on the County Council to represent the fact of these paupers foisted on the town.

Mr. Toole advised that an act be procured from the Local Legislature to enable the town to send back paupers to the municipalities from which they come.

Mr. Yelland said the law bound the Protestant Home not to use the money received from the Hall fund, some $700 or $800, unless the person receiving relief had been a resident of the town for a year.

Mr. McNaughton thought it was not fair nor just that the town should be compelled to pay for the poor from the county.

Mr. Smith moved that the matter be referred to the charity committee.

Mr. Yelland thought the council ought not to get rid of the matter that way.

Mr. Menzies moved, seconded by Mr. Douglas that the Town Physician be requested to examine the man left at the Protestant Home, and if he is found to be in a fit state to be moved, that he be sent back by the first stage to the place he came from.

The motion was lost, Messrs. Menzies, Toole and Denne only voting for it.

On motion of Mr. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. Yelland, the communication was tabled.

In reference to the communication by P. C. McGhee, the Acting-Mayor said as Mr. Johnston was back now, there was no occasion for action.

Mr. Toole found fault with the constable for complaining of the duties imposed on him by the council. He thought it wasn't just the right thing for the constable to dictate to the Council.

The Acting-Mayor said Mr. Hatton had complained of the want of attendance at his police court.

On motion of Mr. Paterson the matter was referred to the Acting-Mayor with power to act.

A communication from Mr. Charles Cameron complained with being charged with taxes in arrears, which had formerly been remitted to tenants who were too poor to pay rent.

Mr. Toole said he knew that on one or two years the taxes of Mrs. Kennedy had been remitted. If Mr. Cameron had been good enough to let poor people have houses rent free he shouldn't be expected to pay the taxes. He moved that the taxes filed against the property be struck off.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Taylor that the matter be referred with all the other petitions respecting remissions of taxes to the Court of Revision.—Carried.

The petitions of Chas. Cameron, E. Burnham, Geo. McComb, John Riordan, Mrs. C. Boyd, Mary Ann Roger, Jas. Stevenson, Mrs. Wilson and Thos. Bradburn were referred under the above motion.

On motion of Mr. Denne, the accounts of Wm. Morgan, $3.00, drawing prisoner, and S. McAulay sawing wood for lockup, were ordered to be paid when certified to.

The Finance Committee reported recommending payment of the following accounts:—Edge Pearse, repairs Locks Bridge, $2.50; Mr. Trennum, $7.50; also that the other matters referred to them be allowed to stand pending the return of Mayor Lundy. The report was adopted.

The Clerk read the following report of the Court of Revision.

To the Mayor and Town Council of the Town of Peterboro'

The court of Revision, also appointed a special committee, to whom was referred applications from sundry persons asking remission of taxes &c. beg to report:

The court have had before them the several petitions referred to above and recommend.

1. In accordance with chapter 180, Section 58, R. S. O. that the applications of the following persons asking remission of taxes be granted and that the same be charged to charity account. Mrs. Walsh, $4.21; Mrs. Ware, $8.81; Mrs. Cowbey, $4.28; Mrs. Prince, $15.72; Mrs. Ritchie, $3.93; Mrs. Binsotte, $3.93; John Brown, $3.91; Samuel Detcher, $3.60; John Martin, $2.00; Total, $50.37.

2. That the petitions of the following persons asking remission of taxes on account of their premises having been destroyed by fire be granted. Mrs. Tobin, $3.93; John Parnell, $12.61; total, $16.54.—Each.

3. That arrears of taxes charged against the following persons on the collectors roll of the present year be refunded as from evidence produced to your court we are led to believe that the same have been paid or settled but not credited. Mrs. Whalen, $13.36; Matthew Wright, $6.31; Robert Duncan, $17.56; Michael O'Donnell, $4.21; total, $40.42.

That the sum of one dollar be refunded Wm. Lough on his making a statutory declaration that at the time of assessment he had not more than one a dog or bitch or that he harbors the same.

That the foregoing remissions amounting to $50.37 be charged to charity account. Remission of taxes on account of fire $16.54, arrears of taxes, $40.42, and remission of dog tax, $1.00 be charged as refunds, and that to simplify the accounts the treasurer be and he is hereby instructed to issue his cheque for the sum of $108.33 the amount of remissions and refunds as above enumerated.

5. That John McMahon be refunded $4.45 arrears of taxes paid in 1879 and Messrs. Rowe and Stevenson be refunded $9.97 being 6 months taxes in premises occupied by the Collector of Inland Revenue for the year 1879, and which by law is exempt from taxation.

6. That John B Vennette now assessed and rated as a supporter of Roman Catholic separate schools, be changed to a supporter of Public Schools, and the amount rated against him amounting to $2.25 for support of Roman Catholic separate schools be placed to the credit of public schools, and that $12.95 for support of Roman Catholic separate schools, rated against P. D. Dorna for property occupied by him, be also transferred to credit of Public Schools, as such appears to have been the arrangement made with the owners of the property, Messrs. Rowe and Stevenson.

That $22.94 arrearage charged and standing against lot No. 9, N. Murray W. George, and $3. 15 against part 9, S. Macdonald, W. George, the property of Wm. Toole, be by the Treasurer struck off, as it appears that said arrears were entered on the Collector's Roll of 1879 and paid.

8. That no action in the petitions of Mrs. Gillespie, George McComb, Mrs. Larkin and P. W. C. Shewan, be taken at present, as your court is not in possession of sufficient evidence in these cases to justify them in disposing of the same.

Mr. Yelland referred to a case in which last year Rev. Mr. Clementi had promised to pay the taxes.

It was explained that Mr. Clementi only received a small sum by way of charity for the woman, and that she was receiving aid from the Hall Committee in order to live.

Mr. McNaughton didn't see why Mrs. Gillespie, who had been paying taxes for 17 or 18 years, was refused remission when Mr. Clementi's friend was released.

Mr. Denne drew attention to the fact that property was year after year getting rid of taxes on the ground of having poor tenants. It was not right that property should be practically exempted in this way.

Mr. McNaughton asked if the whole of Mr. Parnell's taxes were to be remitted. If so he objected, though he would make some allowance on account of loss by fire.

Mr. Taylor said the whole of the taxes were not thrown off.

The Clerk said by the report they were.

Mr. Yelland said the Council should take no notice of these petitions till the Collector had got done with his rolls. When he had got all he could get, then was time to act.

The reccommendation of the report referring to Mrs. Weir and Mr. Parnell, was referred back to the Committee and the balance of the report adopted.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Taylor, that the taxes in dispute in the case of Mr. Montgomery in 1876, be referred in the Court of Revision, to be dealt with along with other similar cases.—Carried.

Mr. Toole moved, seconded by Mr. Menzies, that whereas the question of remitting taxes on real estate, where the tenants are unable to pay them, has become one of considerable importance to the town, be it therefore resolved that in future this Council will not make any such remissions after the return of the present roll, and that the corporation seal be attached to this resolution.

Mr. McNaughton—That's too thin I'm afraid.

Mr. Paterson said he wouldn't like to vote for that.

Mr. Toole said it would put the landlord in a position to provide for the payment of taxes, and they could not in future make excuses before the Council.

Mr. Paterson said it was a good idea if it could be carried out.

Motion carried.

On motion of Mr. Cahill the Council then adjourned for three weeks.

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

Patting her on the head, he passed quickly into a room on the first landing, shabby, ill-furnished, littered with a multitude of odds and ends, and densely dark now from the deepening shadows of night. This was Paul Knox's home. For three years off and on he had lived here. To-night, with only the light of a solitary candle, sitting in the old chair by the hearth, with its rusty grate staring at him as it were like a gaping mouth in the blackness, a loathing of the place and of himself came over him. His life's present surroundings and its sorrowful retrospect made him wretched. A cast of Plato, battered and soiled, stood on the narrow mantlepiece; other casts were scattered about the room. Pencils, brushes, palette, and other paraphernalia appertaining to the calling of a painter, were piled on the rickety table along with cigar-boxes, spirit bottles, dominoes, and cards. The room told its own story of the life of this man, whose days, for those three past years, had been chiefly spent in it.

Paul Knox was an artist—not truly from any love of art, but because it was his only means of earning a livelihood and gratifying his insatiable love of drink. That night, sitting sad and solitary, he indulged his old craving a little. He drank sufficient to make him forget his weariness, his bitterness of heart, his disgust at his miserable life-struggle—to bring the color back to his face, and make his eyes brighten, and his long white fingers grow once again strong and steady. Money for one of his pictures had been forwarded to him; and here in his shabby room, full of an unrest that brought the hot blood to his cheeks and made his dark eyes flash fiercely, he gave himself to thinking over his position and circumstances. For the fiftieth time in his life Paul Knox made a good resolution. "This time," he said to himself, "I shall keep it." He rang the bell close by his hand, and when the little maid of the house, who attended to him appeared, he told her to answer to any one asking for him, "Not home yet."

And many called and enquired during the evening, old boon companions, eager to give him welcome after his eight days' absence, eager too to see what "luck," as they termed it, he had brought back with him in the shape of notes or gold. Paul heard them come and go, but they had no power to move him from his new resolve.

"I will show him," he muttered more than once, "that it isn't my last chance. I have not quite come to that yet, low as I am."

Sitting here, resting after a slight repast, and smoking by the open window that looked out on the narrow street, still noisy and echoing with calls and cries innumerable, a tender memory was awakened in his heart—the memory of a fair-faced girl whom he had watched one night nestling against Dr. West's knee in in the low-roofed parlour of the old house at Thornton.

"He shall not do it for me!" he passionately exclaimed, with a shake of his massive head, and he rapped his pipe on the window-ledge to clear out the ash, proceeding slowly to refill the bowl again with tobacco. "Yes," he added, "I am resolved."

This man, living much alone, permitted his thoughts to shape themselves into words, and then gave them utterance. Presently, he opened his pocket-book and began to count the contents. He counted over and over again the various sums therein set down, till the lines grew sharper and deeper about his eyes, and his forehead became furrowed with wrinkles; all his counting could not alter the figures—a heavy sum total faced him when he had done. Looking at it, the good resolution he had made faltered, and querulously and bitterly he asked himself,

"What is the use of trying? Even if they were willing to wait, it would take years to clear off, and at the end I should still be Paul the beggar."

As he stood there brooding, his face appeared to assume a shadowy likeness to Dr. West's. There were the same wide forehead and deep keen eyes; the same massive, well formed and balanced head. Plainly then did this man show what his past life had been, those dead, bygone days the ghosts of which still haunted him.

When the night had well advanced, a single knock, sharp and imperative, broke the surrounding silence. A minute or two afterwards the handle of Paul's room door was turned, and, startled from his conflicting thoughts, he hastened to face his visitor.

Perceiving, or rather guessing with the quickness of inborn fear, who he was, he almost immediately sat down again.

"They told me you were still from home; but I knew it was otherwise. How have things gone with you? But I needn't ask; you are ready to meet the bill, of course."

The stranger spoke quickly and blandly though evidently with some restraint. Less than the average height, his appearance yet was noticeable,—a man with thin, wiry, light-coloured hair, pale face, sharp and restless eyes, one plainly not unused to "good society," although really, perhaps, not forming a member of it.

Paul Knox offered no reply to his question. Why should he speak? He had nothing to say that the man would care to hear.

"I have waited far too long as it is," the stranger continued; "but I must have the money now."

Still no answer; seeing which, the speaker raised his voice angrily, anxiously.

"You went away assuring me you were certain of this money. You don't mean to tell me now that you haven't got it?"

"I mean to tell you precisely that," answered Paul Knox, suddenly bringing his clenched fist down on the table with a heaviness that set everything upon it—bottles, glasses, paint-dishes, cigar-boxes—jingling and tossing together. "You, and the like of you, must wait. I will pay you every farthing, but I am determined to have my own time to do it. What's more James Simpson, I won't be bullied and badgered any longer as I have been this month past."

Was the good resolve gaining strength in his heart? Did he indeed mean to spare Dr. West and his bright-haired daughter? Fixedly he looked across the table at his visitor, that strange likeness to the doctor evidencing itself more and more as his eyes opened and his brow cleared of its wrinkles. Perhaps just then the remembrance of better days clustered thick about him. The man he called James Simpson heard to the end, then slowly and calmly got up, and proceeded to stand by Paul's chair, bending his head a little, the better to look him in the face.

"The others may suit themselves as regards what they may permit you to do. I won't wait, and I won't come here again to tell you so. Before many days are over Dr. West shall hear of the life you have led here. He shall receive an invitation to come and see his precious prodigal in a prison. You thought yourself all quiet and safe, did you? But I know you better than you imagine, Paul Knox."

A greenish light seemed to flicker balefully in the speaker's restless eyes, and the sickly pallor of his face added to the effect. He turned quickly away, however, as though he feared a blow, paused at the room door to give a parting glance of mockery back at the man, who, surprised, sat staring after him, white and hollow-eyed. Once outside, he hailed the cab waiting for him at the corner, and quickly drove away, still having that wicked, sardonic smile of malice and hatred upon his countenance. No sooner did the slamming of the hall door tell that he had really departed than Paul shiveringly arose from his chair. To and fro he paced his room like some caged monster of the jungle, the chased, daunted look in his eyes gradually giving place to furious anger. A mad fear possessed him that what this man had said he would do, if not hindered. And this act accomplished, then, indeed, the last chance was gone. Paul Knox in prison meant a person whom Dr. West of Thornton would know no more. Paul understood this, no one knew it better,—felt it, in truth, deep down in his heart, where the pain and passion of remorse were raging.

"Five hundred pounds!" he muttered, giving vent to his agonized thoughts. "It might as well be five thousand. I never can pay it off, and Simpson knows that as well as I do."

Hope seemed to die as he faced his difficulty; and turning it round and round in his brain with the cruel skill of self-torture, the old evil life stood temptingly before him; the old bad selfishness that wilfully leaned on others seemed to assume the shape of common justice.

"As well pay Dick as that wretch Simpson; as well work for him when I am free as now try to disengage myself, knowing as I do that I never could accomplish it in the time they would grant."

A way out of this entanglement was shaping itself in his mind; yet his face lost none of its care; rather was there added an unnatural gloom.

"I will go back and tell him everything. Then, if I must leave England, why, I must." So he decided. Presently he lit his pipe and sat down to smoke, talking out his thoughts at intervals in a dreamy undertone, framing plans for the future he might never live to perform, trying to satisfy his heart he was no coward, no poltroon to thrust this burden of his own piling on to the patient shoulders that had borne so much for him already.

"I will go down to-morrow, and, after all, it is only taking him at his word."

This determination arrived at, he proceeded to write a few letters, that from their length appeared to require careful study. He was anxious, too, about some of them, for these he copied many times until they gave him satisfaction. That done, he opened his pocket-book once more, and again counted the contents, with the creases gathering in his forehead and the shadows darkening his face as the night was advanced to a close.

A man who kept late hours, and lived an irregular sort of life in divers ways, was this Paul Knox—a man who sorely puzzled his neighbours by his odd movements, jarring as they did upon their sense of what was right and sensible in one who had to work from day to day for his daily bread. His inexplicable waywardness caused him to stand out from his ordinary surroundings like a shadow sharply cast by unexpected change of light on the sober outer uniformities of the lives about him.

"A real gentleman, plainly," said some—mostly women. "Unmistakably good for nothing," said others—these latter mostly men. Who were right, who wrong? Were the one side just, the other cruel? Had the question been put to Paul, it is doubtful if he himself could have answered. Another time perhaps will throw a brighter light upon him, bring out into the sunshine those spectres of his bygone prosperous days, and show him to be a better, worthier man than he has appeared, or even cared to appear, during the slight glimpse we have had of him these few latter years.

Men tire of evil, as we all know, and have yearnings, faint, half-stifled, yet Heaven-sent, for the purer life, the higher ground—reaches up, so to speak, of the famished soul towards toward the only good that can satisfy it. Paul Knox possibly was one of these. Who can say?

CHAPTER IV.

A heavy storm of wind, accompanied by rain, was lashing the sea into fury, as it dashed against the rocks at Thornton. Ethel West, with her long fair hair falling loosely about her like a bright golden cloud, stood listlessly behind the parlour window of the little house at the Crags, looking out through the diamond panes at the elemental turmoil before her. That morning Jocelyn Thornton had paid a visit, and had stayed rather longer than usual.

"Handsome Jocelyn—her own—and yet not her own," she muttered softly to herself. Weeks before he had told her of Gilbert's wish respecting them both. "Gilbert's fancy," he had termed it, in his jesting way. And she, trusting him wholly, loving him as he, looking into her shy face, never dreamed, had rested content that the matter should be as Gilbert wished. She was well pleased to keep her love secret yet a while. It seemed too sacred to be disclosed almost in its first fresh bloom, this one great joy of her life. The feeling is strong with every earnest, untried heart, when the first roses of its love are ripening.

But the days since Jocelyn's declaration had brought many changes. Time after time lately had Vivienne Stuart come with her winsome appearance and rich and dainty attire to brighten the Doctor's quiet rooms. Time after time Ethel met her at the Manor House, where hitherto the former alone was supreme, being, as Jocelyn put it, "One of the necessaries of life to Gilbert," lying all day long on his couch by the broad window. Withal, the two girls were not friends, though they might have been held friendly. Vivienne, after her manner, was always cheerful and gracious, as though she were desirous to win the favor of her shy, fair-faced attractive rival, who would not own her sway.

"You make me quite envious," she said, one day, stopping before Gilbert's couch, by which Ethel sat reading; "you seem to compel everybody to love you. Here is Gilbert, and he has never yet asked me to read to him." She put her little hand, white and tender as the heart of a lily, and flashing with many a rare and costly ring, on Ethel's shoulder, smiling as she spoke, her soft eyes full of a half-sad wistfulness.

Ethel, colouring slightly at her words, seemed to shrink somewhat from her touch.

"Ethel has been my constant visitant and ready sympathiser, Vivienne, so you must not feel envious. Years gone by, when she did not stand quite so high as that table, she would come to see me day after day, and talk to me, and coax away my headaches with her kind words and girlish prattle. I don't know what I should have done without her then. Nor do I know what I should do without her now."

Vivienne, with a pleasant ringing laugh, full of the subtlest music, hastened away, still protesting in her pretty wilful fashion "that she was dreadfully envious of Ethel."

The time approached, however, when envy and jealously, those dark twin sisters, would rise up in the heart of Ethel, and not in that of Vivienne; poor Ethel, whose whole life now had but one rare jewel—Jocelyn's love—to brighten it.

Under the tall old trees by the garden gate, she had stood that morning and watched Jocelyn walk away, much as she had watched him go once before on a certain Summer's night, when he had first told her in so many words, "Ethel, I love you," and which now seemed so far off in its golden setting of promise. But even the while his kisses were warm on her lips, his fondest words new in her heart, she stood there, an echo of distrust, like a jarring note in a piece of sweet music, had sounded through all.

"You have grown fanciful," he had said to her; "sometimes you look even cross, as I never thought my Ethel could look. Can't you trust me and my love?"

"I do trust you, Jocelyn," she had answered, her eyes wet from pain at his reproach.

"Then what has changed you?"

She might have told him, if she would, that a fear had arisen within her day by day, and that it had changed her—a deadly fear of Vivienne Stuart's beautiful face and dainty ways—a fear that that which she had dreaded from the first would surely come to pass, and that Jocelyn's love would at no distant time be stolen from her. Instead of this, she answered him lightly, putting his question by. "I never had the best of tempers, I think; and I am afraid you have all helped to spoil what was good of it."

He responded to the charge with a kiss, and went away smiling. But none the less did she tremble under this creeping, darkening shadow, for which as yet she could find no substantial origin.

Standing where she now stood, watching the raindrops beating on the tender plants, and bending low their heads—watching the waves dash roughly in on the shore, with a loud boom that rang along the coast, waking up all the many echoes of the Crags,—looking up at the low, overhanging clouds, with no light breaking through their gray, leaden surface, the girl's heart seemed to sink within her. Perhaps it sank all the more because the sense of impending evil was undefined—the cause of her troubled fancies was not clear.

Presently other sounds rose above those of the storm of hissing raindrops and the rush and roar of the waves. Horses at a gallop were coming along the road that led past the Doctor's garden walls straight on towards the Manor House. Another moment, and she saw both them and their riders clearly on the open. No need for a second look at the latter; she knew them only too well. They were Jocelyn Thornton and ——Vivienne Stuart.

Soon they stopped at the gate, and Vivienne, springing lightly from her horse, hastily gathered her habit about her, and sped swiftly towards the open door, nodding and laughing in at the window at Ethel as she passed. Jocelyn followed more leisurely, first seeing that the horses were cared for by the man whom Ethel had sent to attend to them.

She herself met her visitors with a welcome as unlooked for as was their presence. Her own hands brushed the raindrops from Vivienne's velvet riding-dress, and smoothed them gently off the shining coils of her hair. Then she rang for refreshments, and all three sat and talked, and watched the storm die away, much as if no shadow ever had crept, or ever could creep, in amnog them.

Vivienne looked unwontedly well, and, like most of her sex, she knew when this was the case. Her blue, closely-fitting habit set off to advantage her faultless figure and the exquisite turn of her dainty white throat. Her hair swept carelessly back from her face, showed in all its luxuriance and lovely colour. She was in excellent spirits too, and her manner consequently appeared unusualy charming and attractive. Ethel, with her bright hair making a golden frame for her quiet thoughtful face, where the light and the bloom seemed for the time almost dead, appeared but as a foil to her companion.

Joceyln, watching the two, saw this without clearly comprehending it. And the contrast chafed him. Once again the truth struck him, that Vivienne Stuart was fairer far than the woman he had chosen out of all others to be his wife.

"We have had a delightful ride," said Vivienne, as she settled herself comfortably back among the cushions of Ethel's favorite chair by the window: "we have been many miles over the downs, and were about to ride to the top of that great bare rock amongst the crags, when the tiresome rain overtook us."

"You mean the Monk's Head, I suppose," said Ethel.

Poor Ethel, she was trying her best to seem pleased, lest Joceyln should think her ill-tempered again.

"I don't know what name it goes by. It is bare at the crown, certainly," answered Vivienne, laughing; "perhaps that is the reason they call it the Monk's Head."

"The origin of the name is lost in obscurity," interposed Jocelyn. "Years and years back, when the oldest men in Thornton were then but children, the rock bore that name, and none knew its derivation."

"In Italy there is generally a story attached to places with strange or peculiar names. Has not the Monk's Head one?"

"I never heard of any," said Jocelyn. "I can tell you, however, that it is counted a very unlucky spot by the people about here. No one would care to venture to the top of it after dusk. A man was once found dead there, I believe; that is partly the reason why people shun it."

"I should much like to ascend it," cried Vivienne. "Would not you, Ethel?"

"No, I think not. I never cared much for the place; and after Joceyln has mentioned, I should feel half afraid to go to the top of it."

"That is not my feeling. There is only one thing I fear on this earth, and that is the loss of the love of one whom I valued or cared for. That, I know, I could not bear.

What wordless message was it that came to Jocelyn Thornton from out the moist, upturned eyes looking towards him, that his broad brow should suddenly become tinged with red and his lips tremble as with a spasm of pain?

Ethel West answered Vivienne's words with coldness, a shade of aversion passing over her fair proud face.

The C. P. R. Syndicate.—Gentlemen visiting town on the occasion of the visit of Sir R. J. Cartwright would do well to visit S. White's store, George street, and provide themselves with substantial and stylish boots. 52-1in.

An Untoward Accident.—Mr. Chas. Manning on Saturday evening had the misfortune to slip on the Smithtown hill, the fall resulting in a fracture of the arm. Dr. Bingham spliced the injured member.

"They All Do It."—Everybody uses "Teaberry," the new toilet gem, to beautify the Teeth and give fragrance to the Breath. Ask your druggist for sample packages, 5 cents. 44-1y

Thanks.—We have to thank a large number of our subscribers for prompt payment of their subscription for 1881. There are a number on our list in arrears, and we should be glad to hear from them.

New Goods opened this week in men and boys overcoats, tweed suits, rubbers, felt overshoes, leather and felt boots and shoes of all kinds. Fresh new teas, coffees, sugars, spices, fruits and tobaccos. Bring on your cash and you will get good bargains. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 49-4

Returned.—Mayor Lundy and W. B. Chamberlain, returned home on Thursday evening last from their trip to the Old Country. Owing to the perturbed condition of the country they did not visit their estates in Ireland. Both gentlemen appear to have profited in health by their trip.

Midland Railway.—The following are the traffic receipts of the Midland Railway for the week ending Dec. 14th, 1880, and the corresponding week of 1879: 1880—Passengers and mails, $1,398.65; freight, $1,975.53; total for week, $3,372.04; aggregate from 1st January, $325,406.91. 1879—Passengers and mails, $1,416.01; freight, $1,975.53; total for week, $3,325.80; aggregate from 1st Jan., $250,088.97. Increase for week, $46.24. Increase from 1st January, $75,317.94.

Miraculous.—While a crowd of boys on a double sleigh were coasting down Bradburn's hill, a couple of days ago, they ran under Mr. Belcher's horse, which was crossing the road, slightly injuring the animal and breaking the shafts of the cutter. The handsleighs at the time were going at a tremendous pace, and it is one of the seven wonders of the world that some one was not hurt. Two or three dangerous accidents will perhaps put a stop to this sport.

Resurrection.—A meeting of the Peterborough Literary and Debating Society was held last Monday evening, Mr. N. D. Beck in the chair. A small but enthusiastic audience was called to order, after which Messrs. Henry, Peck and Orr were appointed to draft a constitution and report at next meeting. It is to be hoped, since new life has been infused into last year's corpse, that the body will not decline through want of energy or attendance. A few more active, live members are desirable. The Society will again meet next Tuesday.

Afflicted by Fire.—On Sunday morning, while Mr. D. Costello of Enniskmore, and his wife were attending Church a fire broke out in the house. The children gave the alarm at the Church, which is near by, and by the energetic efforts of the neighbors the flames were extinguished, the damage, which was covered by insurance in the Royal, being adjusted by Mr. Saulter for $40. Mr. Costello seems to be singularly unfortunate in the matter of fires, but has escaped this time more luckily than on the two previous occasions.

A Missionary from Formosa.—We are happy to announce that Rev. Dr. Mackay, Missionary to Formosa, China, from the Canada Presbyterian Church, will be here on Saturday ('Xmas) and will address a meeting to be held in St. Paul's Church, on the evening of that day. Meeting to commence at 7.30 o'clock. The public generally are cordially invited to be present. This meeting is in addition to the others already announced, and no doubt will be a great treat to Christian workers of every denomination. Come and hear him.

Go, Think of it in Silence.—A musical treat for 15 cents. St. Andrew's S. S. give their annual concert on the 29th. Tea furnished in the afternoon to scholars only. Concert to commence at 7.30. [illegible]

That Interview.—Mr. Bailey, the Chief Engineer of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway, expresses his unbounded respect for the ingenuity of the reporter of the Review who got up the alleged interview which appeared in that paper of last Thursday.

The Ideal-Weld Cup.—This elegant trophy, with the handsome Canoe Cup, is now at Hamilton in charge of Mr. Æ. Jarvis. If the Peterborough carsmen do not develop more ambition and muscle next year than during the past season, the cups will probably become Mr. Jarvis' property.

Ladies Desiring to secure a fashionable and durable article in the boot and shoe line should call at Larmour's, where there is the choicest, most complete and varied stock between Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Larmour is now so widely and favorably known in the boot and shoe line that to say that your boot comes from his establishment is equivalent to saying that it is a fashionably cut and perfect fitting article. 44-tf.

Foreign Missions.—We understand the Rev. [illegible] McKay, Missionary to Formosa, Ch[illegible]a, for 8 or 10 years, is to preach next Sabbath forenoon in St. Andrew's Church, and at evening in St. Paul's. He is also to address the Sabbath Schools of both these two churches at 3 o'clock p. m., of the same day, in St. Paul's church. A collection will be taken up at the close of each service in aid of the Foreign Mission Fund. 52-1in

O. Y. B.—The following officers for the ensuing year were elected by Victoria Lodge of the Orange Young Britons, on Monday evening:—David Jamieson, W. M.; John Gibbs, D. M.; Robert Hamilton, Secretary; S. Kemp, Treasurer; C. Rutherford, Chaplain; H. Kemp, D. of C; F. Brown, 1st Committeeman; J. Armstrong, 2nd com.; W. Robinson, 3rd com.; John Roseborough, 4th com.; J. Brown, 5th com.; H. Evans, Inside Tyler.

Santa Claus.—This genial old gentleman will be on hand on Saturday next, to superintend the usual distribution of his Christmas gifts. In the meantime an immense stock of goods have been poured into Wilson & Davis' Bookstore to supply the demand created by Christmas. He has there a splendid assortment of X-mas and New Years' Cards, of most exquisite design and marvellous cheapness. Toys of all kinds for the children, some of them of wonderful construction. Albums for photographs and autographs, scrap books, work boxes, writing desks, portmanniocs, card cases, presentation books, etc,, are among other goods suitable for Christmas purchasers. The visitor cannot fail to satisfy himself or herself and ensure certain delight to the little folks, if they make Christmas purchases from Wilson & Davis. 52-1t

St. Luke's Parochial Association gave their second entertainment in the shool room, Ashburnham, on Thursday evening, December the 16th. The admission fee being placed very low—five cents per each person—it was expected the attendance would be large, and the expectation was fully realized. The programme, which we give below, shows that the committee who have these entertainments in charge know how to cater for the public, and are determined to give everybody who chooses to attend the opportunity of spending a pleasant evening. The next public entertainment will take place Thursday evening, January the 13th, at 8 o'clock. The following was the last programme:—1, Instrumental Duet, Trombone and Cornet,—Messrs. McCabe and Fraser. 2, Solo, "That Young Man Across the Way,"—Mr. J. Butcher. 3, Reading, "Christmas,"—Rev. V. Clementi. 4, Solo, "Grand Mother's Chair,"—Miss Ada Huston. 5, Vocal Quartette, "Farewell to the Forest,"—Misses Revell and McNab, Messrs. Hallett and Butcher. 6, Solo, "Gently Down the Stream,"—Miss F. Rickey. 7, Reading, "Browne's Account of Piano Playing,"—Mr. H. Ashe. 8. Duet,—Messrs. McCabe and Fraser. 9, Recitation, "Ship on Fire,"—Master Harry Denne. 10, Vocal Trio, "The Wreath,"—Mrs. Soanes, Miss McNab, Mrs. Butcher. 11, Duett,—Miss A. Huston and Master H. Huston.

The Hero of Candahar.—Concerning the gallant General Roberts, who, notwithstanding the Review, is not an Afghan, the Christian Guardian contains the following:—"A correspondent at Peterborough corrects the correction made by another concerning the family of General Roberts. He says:—'I noticed in your paper a short time ago, a statement to the effect that Gen. Roberts who is commanding Her Majesty's forces in the east, is not a son of a Waterford (Ireland!) Episcopal clergyman. Whoever gave you the information is wrong, and knows nothing about it whatever. Two of his cousins are living here at present, who correspond with his mother and sister, who are, at the Queen's request, to reside the remainder of their lives at Hampton Palace. The names of his cousins living here are Samuel Price, Esq., and Mrs. Ann Hurst, widow, the latter of whom received a gift of money a short time ago from H. R. H. the Princess Louise."

Week of Prayer.—A couple of weeks ago we published the programme of the week of prayer issued by the Evangelical Alliance. The following are the details of the local arrangements for carrying the same into effect:

On Monday, Jan. 3.—Meeting at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Topic: "Praise and Thanksgiving for all blessings." Address by Dr. Harper.

On Tuesday, Jan. 4.—At St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Topic: "Humiliation and Confession for personal and national sins." Address by Rev. K. Roberts.

On Friday, Jan. 7.—At Baptist Church. Topic: "Prayer for all nations and rulers, for universal liberty, for the cessation of war." Address by Rev. Mr. Torrance.

Each meeting to commence at 7.30 p.m.

The Holiday Boom.—We are pleased to observe that most of our merchants have been fairly busy during the past week, many of them unusually so. The only merchants who have not received a full share of the Holiday boom are a few who are too niggardly to advertise. Among those stores who have been specially honored by the throng of holiday purchasers is that of T. W. Robinson & Co., Hunter street, where judicious purchasers have found not only choice groceries at the best rates, but rare holiday gifts in the shape of majolica, parian and other wares, suitable for holiday presents. One reason of T. W. Robinson & Co.'s success in pleasing their numerous visitors is the fact that they advertise their business liberally, and the second is that customers have learned that they may rely upon finding everything just as advertised. These are two secrets which other men in business ought to take to heart.

REV. MR. HAMMOND.

We reprint below copies of resolutions published in the Review as passed at a meeting of the St. Andrew's Church. While we must allow the members of that congregation full liberty of action, according to their light, we cannot but regret the (as we think) unwise and uncharitable course which they have chosen to pursue in regard to Rev. Mr. Hammond. That they did not join the other evangelical denominations, was of course a matter of their own business. But when the congregations of St. Paul's Church, the Baptist Church, the two Methodist Churches and the two Bible Christian Churches, had—after satisfying themselves of the usefulness of Mr. Hammond as a religious worker, and taking knowledge of the beneficial results which had followed his labors elsewhere,—united in encouragement to Mr. Hammond to engage in revival services here, had given the arrangements publicity, and had entered upon weekly meetings for prayer for spiritual blessings upon his labors in our town, the duty of St. Andrew's church, since it did not sympathize with the movement, was to have held a neutral course but we are compelled to regard the attitude it has assumed as un-wise and un-charitable, and as calculated and designed to throw discredit upon Mr. Hammond and those who have assumed the responsibility of inviting him here, as well as to cast a stumbling-block in the way of an effort to accomplish a great good in the field of Christian labor. That rev. gentlemen of the experience and high Christian character and piety of such as Rev. Messrs. Torrance, Harper, Stobo, Roberts, Starr and Blatchford have united for a special effort to advance the great cause in which they are worthy and honored teachers, is a sufficient answer to the disparagement which the resolutions below would seem to cast upon that effort. Though it is not the province of a lay journal to offer opinions upon such subjects, nor to enter into controversy in regard to them, we may say that we have had occasion to watch, in the contemporary press, the labors of Mr. Hammond, and the testimony which has risen up of their fruitfulness, and we can only hope, in all reverence, that the earnest anticipations of the reverend gentlemen who have thought it wise to have the assistance of Mr. Hammond's eloquence and ability, and the special blessing which experience seems to show attends his labor, may be most fully realized. The following are the resolutions of St. Andrew's Church:

Resolution of the Session.

That while recognising the right of others to judge for themselves as to the best means of promoting the interests of Christ's Kingdom, we claim the same right for ourselves, and as from present information we are of opinion that Mr. Hammond is not the man through whose instrumentality or agency the good sought would result; we therefore deem it inexpedient to join in inviting Mr. Hammond to visit Peterborough, and cannot therefore take any part in so doing.

Resolutions of Congregation.

Moved by Dr. Bell, seconded by Mr Glover,—That having heard the very extensive and trustworthy information placed before us by the Session, the congregation heartily approves and commends their action as set forth in the resolution of the 13th October last in regard to Mr. Hammond's proposed visit, and in view of the almost unanimously unfavourable reports of Mr. Hammond's methods of conducting his services; his manner of presenting the truth; his plan of dealing with both children and adults in estimating their conversion, and the unsatisfactory results as given by so large a number of the ministers of our own church, who have had experience of his working, and ample opportunities of judging, and in view of the further fact, that three public meetings, called for the purpose, declined to invite Mr Hammond, this congregation cannot help expressing the opinion that it would be both unwise and imprudent for it to countenance any effort being made to bring Mr. Hammond to Peterborough.

Moved by Mr. McClelland, seconded by Mr. J. C. Brown,—That this meeting regrets to learn that a telegram from Peterborough appeared in the Globe of the 14th inst. calculated to convey the impression that this congregation had, in conjunction with the other evangelical congregations of the town, joined in extending an invitation to Mr. Hammond to visit Peterborough, when we not only knew nothing of such action being taken, but had through our proper representatives declined to have anything to do with such a movement.

Firemen's Ball.—Electric Hose Company's Annual Ball will be held at the Huffman House on New Year's Eve, instead of Hill's Music Hall, as intimated on invitations. Those invited will please make a note of the change. 52-1

Bankrupt Sale.—Mr. D. H. Moore, yesterday purchased at Sheriff's sale, the entire stock of Mr, L. Fisher. The stock, as will be seen by advertisement in another column, is being offered for sale under cost.

Legislation.—The solicitors of the county are applying to the Ontario Legislature for an Act to repeal so much of a former Act as implies the legalizing of the disputed bonus to the Grand Junction and Halburton Railways.

The Mayoralty.—As stated elsewhere, a change has been made in the law regarding qualification of persons elected to Municipal Councils. As some doubt has been raised on the subject, we may say that we have ascertained that both candidates for the Mayoralty are fully ilegible to hold the office, so far as property qualification is concerned.

Matrimonial.—Last week we recorded the marriage of Mr. D. J. Lundy, brother of the Mayor, to Miss Florence L. second daughter of our respected townsman Mr. D. Ullyott. Yesterday Hymen again visited the family of Mr. Ullyott, and bore off another daughter, Katie Marie, to be the bride of Mr. G. G. Gladman. We wish the young couples all prosperity, and a long and happy wedded career.

Given Up by the Doctors.—Where doctors have failed to cure, and have given their patients up to die, Electric Bitters have often been used, and a cure effected, greatly to the astonishment of all. Diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs are positively cured by Electric Bitters. They invariably cure Constipation, Headache and all Bilious Attacks. Try them, and be convinced that they are the best medicine ever used. Sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a bottle.

THE MAYORALTY

To the Electors of the Town of Peterboro:

GENTLEMEN,—As rumors have been placed in circulation to the effect that I am not a candidate in the contest pending for the Mayoralty of the town, I deem it my duty to give the earliest contradiction to all such reports as are now, or as may be put, in circulation. Having consented, at the request of a very large number of the representative ratepayers of the town, to become a candidate, it is my intention to go to the polls and to use every lawful endeavor to secure my election, not from any motives of personal interest or ambition, but to carry into effect, so far as in my power lies, the wishes of those at whose suggestion I have become a candidate, and to whose generous support I have no doubt I shall owe my election.

Rumors have also been put industriously into circulation that I am an opponent of the Trent Valley Scheme. While I am at a loss to conceive the motive of the introduction of such a question into our municipal affairs, I take this opportunity of saying that both my convictions and my personal interests make me a strong advocate of the Trent Valley Canal, and that if elected I shall, believing that the interests of the town would be promoted by the prosecution of this work, exert every influence in my power to advance the Trent Valley enterprise.

Having always, since honored with a seat in the Council Board, been a firm advocate of prudence and economy in the management of the finances of the town, I shall, if elected, do my utmost to keep down every unnecessary expenditure, to oppose new burdens being placed upon the backs of the ratepayers, and to maintain the effective working of our municipal affairs at the lowest possible cost to the ratepayers.

As it may be impossible for me to personally solicit the votes of all the ratepayers, I take this opportunity of requesting their support on polling day, and I believe I can safely appeal to my past record, both in and out of the Council, as the best evidence that the trust which I have reason to believe will be confided to me in the result of this election, will be honestly and conscientiously fulfilled, with a single desire to perform the duties of the position for which I am a candidate to the best advantage of the town and the promotion of the welfare of its people.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,
HENRY DENNE.

B. MORROW.

CARD.—In wishing my numerous friends and patrons and the public in general the compliments of the season, I desire to express my sincere thanks for the extensive patronage accorded me during the past year. In the coming year I shall feel encouraged thereby to give renewed care to the purchase and sale of all my goods, and thus deserve a continuance of the liberal support accorded to me in the past. I can buy goods upon the best terms, and my aim being quick sales and low profits, my customers can consequently rely upon obtaining all they want at the lowest possible rates. A CALL IS RESPECTFULLY SOLICITED.

THE BEST.

BLACK DRESS GOODS.

The wearing of black at a wedding was formerly considered as suggestive of evil that people in mourning either stayed away from the ceremony or put off their mourning for the occasion.

This prejudice is fast disappearing from among intelligent people. Black toilets are often worn at the ceremony now, and no lady supposes ill luck to the bride will be the direct result of such an unfortunate choice of colors.

Blue and Jet Black Cashmeres.

Jet Black Cashmeres are essentially mourning goods, but have been greatly patronized by ladies for general wear. The obvious advantage of purchasing a Cashmere dress is that it can be worn either in or out of mourning, and is decidedly the most serviceable material that can be selected.

The popularity of our Cashmeres is shown by the extent of our sales in this department and we can with confidence recommend the excellence of present stock. In finish, dye and price our Cashmeres are everything that can be desired by the most particular lady buyer.

Black Lustres.

Our stock of Black Lustres is very full, and in Dye and Finish are not excelled by any in the trade.

Reversible Lustres, Twilled Lustres and Brocaded Lustres.

Black Persian Cords.

Another popular line of Black Dress Goods Very rich and serviceable and moderate in price.

Balmoral Grape Goods.

LOCAL NEWS RECORD.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—The High School entrance examinations will commence on Tuesday, 21st inst.

SAILED FOR HOME.—Mr. George A. Cox, President of the Midland Railway, sails for home from England to-day.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.—A fine lot of Christmas Cards, the cheapest ever offered in Peterborough, at the 8 cent store, George street. 49-4t

THE ELECTIONS.—Nominations for the Mayoralty and Council will take place this year on Monday Dec. 27th, for the Mayoralty at the Town Hall at 10 o'clock, and for Councillors at noon.

ROBINSON has still a few of those cheap boys' suits on hand, and has opened to-day a lot of men's, women's, boys and girls plush and fur caps. Call and see them. 44-tf

STATIONERY TRADE.—We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. Toker & Co. who are offering special reductions for the Holiday Trade in all of stationery.

SNOW BY-LAW.—Ratepayers should take advantage of the present thaw, and clear the sidewalks of snow. We hope the By-law will be more strictly observed during the balance of the winter than it has so far been.

"THEY ALL DO IT."—Everybody uses "Teaberry," the new toilet gem, to beautify the Teeth and give fragrance to the Breath. Ask your druggist for sample packages, 5 cents. 44-1y

No. 2 WARD.—Mr. George Chamberlain has been induced to become a candidate in this Ward and is making a vigorous canvass, bidding fair to lead the poll. Mr. Chamberlain would be a useful man in the Council, and can be depended upon to follow a straightforward, honest course.

UNION PRAYER MEETING.—A Union prayer and conference meeting of those interested in the contemplated visit of the Rev. E. P. Hammond, the gifted Evangelist, to Peterborough, will take place in St. Paul's Church on this evening at 8. p.m, and weekly thereafter until Mr. Hammond arrives in town.

PREPARE FOR THE WINTER.—"A cool head and warm feet," was Dr. Abernethey's prescription for perfect health. Anybody can keep the head cool; but you want to go to S. White, George street, to get substantial, well-made boots and shoes, which afford warmth and comfort, in conjunction with style and perfect fit. 28-tf

ORANGE ELECTION.—L.O.L. No. 80 last week elected the following officers for the ensuing year:—Bro. John Sharp, W.M.; Bro. Adam Dawson D.M.; Bro. John Smith, Secretary.; Bro. Thos. Brown, Treas.; Bro. H. H. Smith, C.; Bro. David Jameson, D of C.; Bro. Jas. Duncan, Bro. W. J. Green, Bro. John Agnew, Bro. Edward Dancy, Bro. W. Wrighton, Committeemen.

LADIES DESIRING to secure a fashionable and durable article in the boot and shoe line should call at Larmour's, where there is the choicest, most complete and varied stock between Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Larmour is now so widely and favorably known in the boot and shoe line that to say that your boot comes from his establishment is equivalent to saying that it is a fashionably cut and perfect fitting article. 44-tf.

CHRISTMAS CHEER.—According to announcement in posters, issued by Mr. H. C. Winch,

"Christmas comes but once a year,
And when it comes it brings good cheer."

at his stall, No. 1, in the Market. A visit to the Market will amply prove the truth of this. For Christmas cheer he has killed one fine steer, seven heifers, 50 sheep and lambs. This stock has been carefully selected from the well-known herds of Messrs. Jas. Campbell and Jos. Green, of North Monaghan; Arch. Yates, J. T. Paul and Charles Moore, of Smith; Michael Welsh, of Westwood; R. Moloney and John Moloney, Reeve, of Douro; Matchett Bros., of Otonabee; whose reputation as breeders and feeders is the best guarantee that customers can have of getting the choicest meats our county can produce. Those who want to feast the eyes in anticipation of the coming festivity, or who want to see a real handsome display of first-class meats, will be able to do so any time after Saturday morning, when the Christmas Show will be made at Mr. Winch's stall. Harry has given us some very creditable exhibitions in the past, but he intends this time to eclipse all former efforts. He has on hand some of the finest haunches of smoke-dried venison we have ever seen, a fine stock of pork, carefully selected from young and properly fed animals to ensure good eating, a splendid lot of turkeys and geese, the pick of the markets, sausages in profusion, and tongues, brawn, etc., galore. Mr. Winch is determined to keep up his reputation as a first-class caterer, and his Christmas display, will show that "Excelsior" is his motto in business.

SHIPMENT OF WOOL.—Last week Mr. Jas. Stevenson shipped via the Midland to Providence, R. I., a consignment of $10,000 worth of wool.

LUMBER SALE.—Messrs. Irwin & Boyd announce an auction sale of lumber on the 11th of January, at which half a million feet of lumber will be disposed of.

GREEN-HORNS.—The Review conveys the cheering intelligence that the brakesmen on the Grand Junction Railway are "nearly all green-horns."

PRESENTATION.—The Grand Junction employees on Saturday last presented Mr. E. H. Brennan, who has severed his connection with the company, with $200 worth of gold watch and chain.

MR. DENNE'S ADDRESS.—Mr. Denne in another column publishes his address to the electors. It is couched in a very good spirit, and indicates that whatever be the issue of the contest, the town is likely to be well served in the Mayor's chair.

CONDOLENCE.—The Committee of the Peterborough Branch U. C. Bible Society at a meeting held in St. Paul's Church on the 3rd instant, passed a resolution of condolence with the family of their late Treasurer, Geo. E. Shaw, a copy of which was ordered to be forwarded to Mrs. Shaw.

REV. MR. HAMMOND.—Rev. Mr. Hammond, the noted Revivalist, will visit Peterborough early in January, and engage in a season of evangelical labor here. Several of our churches will, in the meantime, hold weekly meetings for prayer and preparation.

NEW GOODS opened this week in men and boys overcoats, tweed suits, rubbers, felt overshoes, leather and felt boots and shoes of all kinds. Fresh new teas, coffees, sugars, spices, fruits and tobaccos. Bring on your cash and you will get good bargains. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 49-4ins.

GRAND JUNCTION TRAINS.—Trains on the Grand Junction railway leave Ashburnham and Belleville at 7 a. m. and 3 p. m. and are due at Belleville and Ashburnham at 11 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Trains run by Belleville time which is 14 minutes slower than Montreal time, and 6 minutes faster than Peterborough time.

RETURNED.—Mayor Lundy and Mr. W. B. Chamberlain were expected to arrive home from their visit to England last evening. They arrived in New York on Saturday, and it is reported remained over for a day or two to buy up a car load of imitation Irish black-thorn canes for home distribution. This is, no doubt "a weak invention of the enemy." We don't believe it.

It cures Scrofula, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Jaundice, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Headache, Nervous and General Debility, and all Female Complaints. CHOICE HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—The excellent quality of the Li-Quor Tea Company's teas, sold in this vicinity by Mr. Jas. Hinks, the District Agent, have won for them the favor of all lovers of "the cup that cheers." The sale is rapidly extending, and no doubt the popularity of these teas will continue to increase. The public have also become satisfied that the elegant books given away with every three pounds of tea offer a genuine advantage. A voucher is given with each purchase, no matter how small, and when three pounds have been reached, the customer chooses his book. The books are elegantly bound, and really valuable. People should call in next week and see the splendid volumes of poetry etc. specially selected for holiday gifts, which will be on hand for drinkers of the Li-Quor tea. Buyers can supply their wants and at the same time secure splendid Christmas and New Year's gifts without extra charge.

RARE GOODS FOR CHRISTMAS.—The stocking which hangs expectant in every household on Christmas eve, will in no case meet the lawful anticipations of our little folks, if it be not generously supplied with a proper assortment of candies, bon-bons and toys. The selection of candies is a matter of more importance than most people imagine. Serious consequences often follow giving children candies made at wholesale, containing pernicious and deleterious drugs. This may be safely avoided by making your purchases from Mr. D. Lemay, of George Street, Peterborough, who manufactures his own candies, using only the choicest and most wholesome materials. He has an immense stock especially prepared for the Christmas trade, comprising a most beautiful assortment of every variety. He is also prepared for the Christmas demand for cakes of every description, of whose toothfulness his high reputation is a sufficient voucher. Christmas cakes and wedding cakes he makes a specialty, and in this line he has some most elegant designs. Particular attention is paid to the quality as well as the external appearance of these cakes. In general confectionary, fruits, toys, etc. Mr. Lemay has the largest and finest stock ever offered by him, and his prices are placed so low that the general public will not fail to be well repaid by a visit to his store.

CHRISTMAS GROCERIES.—Attention is directed to the advertisement in another column, of Mr. B. Morrow, who calls the attention of our readers to his new consignment of first-class groceries, placed in stock to meet the demands of the Holiday Trade. Buyers can always judge of the character of a dealer by his advertising. If he does not advertise at all, they know that he is content to extract large profits out of a limited business; if he advertises in a meagre, parsimonious way, they understand that a similar disposition will not benefit them in dealing with him; if he advertises with judicious liberality they know from experience that they have to deal with a merchant of push and enterprise, who seeks by extending his business, and by rapid sales at moderate profits, to make his business both remunerative to himself and advantageous to his customers. Mr. Morrow advertises with judgment, enterprise and liberality, and the public will find that all his dealings are conducted on the same principles. What he advertises, you may be certain to find on his shelves or in his storehouse, and when he says that he is offering a choice stock of groceries, wines & liquors, at favorable rates for the holiday trade, holiday purchasers have only to visit his store to be convinced that he means just what he says. His stock of staple and general family groceries has always been kept up to the standard of the best in the Province. He is a close and careful buyer, keeping accurate observation of the markets, and buying at the most favorable rates, and with a large discount for cash, so that the rates he is enabled to offer to the public, after a fair margin for profit, are most advantageous to his customers, and would bankrupt a business conducted on less shrewd and economical principles. We can cordially recommend Mr. Morrow's store for a liberal share of the holiday trade.

MRS. FREEMAN'S NEW [illegible]

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fourth Parliament—Third Session.

At three o'clock on Thursday afternoon last His Excellency the Governor General, proceeded in state from the Government House to the Senate Chamber, and, having summoned the Senators and Members of the House of Commons, was pleased to read the following:

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In opening this the third session of the present Parliament, I have to offer you my sincere congratulations on the bountiful harvest which Canada has been blessed with, as well as on the satisfactory returns of commercial prosperity, and the substantial development of her various industries.

During the recess my advisers thought the most opportune [illegible] the desirableness of [illegible] the proposed conference of Parliament for the construction and operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway by means of an incorporated company, aided by grants of money and land, rather than by the direct action of the Government. [illegible] of my ministers therefore proceeded to England for the purpose of carrying on negotiations. I am pleased to be able to inform you that their efforts were so far successful that a contract has been entered into, subject to the approval of Parliament, with men of high financial standing in Europe, the United States, and Canada, for the speedy construction and permanent working of this great national enterprise. The contract and papers connected therewith will be submitted to you without delay, and I invite for them your earliest and earnest consideration, and with this view I have summoned you before the usual period, as no action can be taken by the contractors to prosecute the work, and no permanent arrangements for the organization of emigration from Europe to the North-West Territories can be satisfactorily made, until the policy of Parliament with respect to the railway has been decided. Steady progress has been made in the constructions of those portions of the railway now under contract. Two additional sections have been recently opened for traffic, one from Winnipeg to Portage la Prairie, the other from Cross Lake to Keewatin, so that there are now in all 264 miles in operation.

You will be glad to learn that the measures adopted to promote economy in the working of the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island Railways, have resulted in a large reduction in the difference between revenue and expenditure, and that the steadily increasing traffic warrants the expectation that during the current year these railways will be self-sustaining.

I have the gratification of informing you that Her Majesty's Government has generously presented to Canada, for training school purposes, the steam corvette Charybdis, which has lately returned from service in the Chinese waters. The correspondence on this subject will be laid before you.

I have thought it well, in consideration of the increasing duties thrown by the development of the country upon the civil service, and for the more efficient organization of such service, to issue a Royal Commission to examine and report on the whole question. The report of the Commissioners will, I believe, be ready to be laid before you at an early day, and I ask for your consideration of such report, and of the whole subject of civil service reform.

A measure for the enlargement of the boundaries of the Province of Manitoba will be submitted.

I greatly regret being obliged to state that the entire failure of the usual food supply of the Indians in the North-West, to which I called your attention last session, has continued during the present season, and has involved the necessity of a large expenditure in order to save them from absolute starvation. Several of the bands have, however, already applied themselves to the cultivation of their reserves and the care of cattle. No effort will be spared to induce the whole of the aboriginal population to betake themselves to agricultural pursuits.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The accounts of the last and the estimates for the incoming year will be laid before you. The estimates will, I trust, be found to have been prepared with due regard to economy and to the efficiency of the public service. It will be satisfactory to you to know that the existing tariff has not only promoted the manufactures and the products of the country but has so far increased the revenues of the Dominion as to place it beyond doubt that the receipts of the current fiscal year will be in excess of the expenditures chargeable to Consolidated Revenue.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

Several measures of importance will be submitted to you. Among them will be Bills for the winding up of insolvent banks and incorporated companies, for the amendment of the Railway Act of 1879, for the revision and consolidation of the laws relating to the Government Railways, and for the improvement in several respects of the criminal laws.

I am pleased to inform you that there now are good prospects of our being able to place the naturalization of German settlers on a more satisfactory footing. Measures will be submitted, with all the papers connected with the matter, for your consideration.

Your best attention will, I am sure, be given to the subjects I have mentioned as well as to everything that affects the well-being and the good of the Dominion.

IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The house met immediately after, when Mr. Blake rose and said perhaps it would not be inconvenient to state whether it was proposed to lay before the House the papers referred to in the Address connected with the contract under question immediately on the answer to the Address being carried, or perhaps the hon. gentleman would say whether these papers would include any other offers or correspondence connected with any other offers and with the contract in question.

Sir John Macdonald—I am not prepared as yet to say what they will contain.

Mr. Mackenzie asked the Speaker whether he would be good enough to state to the House for what reason Mr. Patrick had been superannuated. Was it recommended on account of Mr. Patrick's inefficiency? Had he resigned, or what had become of him?

Mr. Speaker said that the Commission of Internal Economy had recommended the Executive Committee to superannuate Mr. Patrick because it was considered that his health was failing, rendering him unequal to the labours of the session.

Mr. Mackenzie said he was informed that Mr. Patrick was entirely unconscious of that failing himself—(laughter)—and he (Mr. Mackenzie) would like to know how members of the Committee found it out.

Mr. Speaker said the remark that Mr. Patrick did not think himself incapable of performing the duties of clerk was perhaps the best evidence that he was unable to perform the duties of the session satisfactorily.

Mr. Anglin said he had had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Patrick that day, and so far as he could find he never saw that gentleman in better health, physically or intellectually. The House adjourned at 3.30 p. m.

ON FRIDAY

in the House of Commons the adoption of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was moved by Mr. Beatty, of West Toronto, seconded by Mr. Vanasse, member for Yamaska.

Hon. Mr. Blake, on rising, was loudly applauded. After some preliminary remarks in reply to the mover of the address, in which he pointed out that there was no Conservative re-action in North Oxford and that Mr. Sutherland was an out-and-out Reformer, also that a similar change at the general election to that in West Toronto would restore the Reformers to power, he proceeded to refer to the Pacific Railway scheme, and to point out the different points to be considered in making a bargain with a company, and on which they had no information. He asked particularly that it should be known whether or not the Sault Ste. Marie line was to be lost, and also whether they were to have a colonization line or a first class trans-continental road. Special stress was laid upon the necessity of securing proper arrangements relative to the charges for freight and passengers. He stated that the December rates of freight from Montreal to Winnipeg were $293 per car, of which $120 was for the distance from Montreal to St. Paul. In other words, 47 9-10c. per mile was paid between St. Paul and Emerson as against 9½c. per mile between Montreal and St. Paul. Last summer the rate from Montreal to Duluth by the Collingwood line of steamers was $70 per car, while to Winnipeg by rail it was $245. He was told that the rate for wheat was 6½c. per bushel from Emerson to St. Paul and from St. Paul to Toronto 8c. per bushel. It was necessary to see that the railroads should not secure a proprietary interest in the profits of farming in the North West instead of a fair and reasonable compensation for labor performed. Under these circumstances, he could not doubt that the Administration had taken care to provide for the most strenuous competition between the new company and the St. Paul & Manitoba Railway. This was a great and difficult problem which has now to be considered for the first time, when they were proposing to hand over the road to a private company. They had a right to see when public money was to be spent that proper facilities were granted. They should also know what security was to be given for the performance of the work. All these things had to be considered, as well as many other minor but still important details. So long as the government was doing the work, so long as from session to session they controlled it, there was no difficulty, but now things were to be changed, and it was to be regulated and arranged for all time. The first minister was reported as saying immediately on his return from England that the contract would be proceeded with whether Parliament met at once or not, and they would trust to Parliament to ratify it. This statement did not agree very well with the words which had been put in the speech from the Throne, which were that the consideration of this scheme necessitated the calling of Parliament together at this early season. The public interest required that it should not be too hastily disposed of, it required that time should be given for reflection before they were called upon to give a verdict. They had been told that the dignity of Parliament required that no communication should be made of this matter until they were all here assembled. He thought there was more than one member of the House who, upon this question, would have been disposed to put his dignity in his pocket, and readily commit his constituents to become acquainted with its details at the same time as he was himself, in order that they might have sufficient time to consider the subject before the meeting of Parliament. In a case like this he thought it better that the people should have an opportunity themselves to express an opinion upon this subject at the polls, than that it should be said that they were not even to know of it until it had been disposed of. Many people would not have been made acquainted with the terms before their representatives had finally passed upon it. He asked that after the papers were laid on the table ample time should be offered before they were asked to consider them. Rumor had it that it was said by their masters that if they were good boys and said their lesson by the 23rd inst. they would have Christmas holidays, but that if they did not they would keep at work until they had said their lesson. (Laughter.) They were willing to work, willing to meet at this inconvenient period if the public interest required it, and also prepared to do without their Christmas holidays. He contended that the people should have an opportunity of reading and considering the terms of the bargain before they were made the law of the land. He referred to the proved uselessness of the Joint High Commissioner, to the land monopolies which the present government was creating in the North-West without consulting Parliament, to the fact that the immigration into that country this year had only been one-third of what had been promised last session by the First Minister, and also to the rumors that settlers had been driven out of the Turtle Mountain District because the Government had put up notices which informed them that their tenure would be uncertain. This was said to be to favor some railroad corporation. From the appointment of the Civil Service Commission he judged that no measure of Civil Service Reform would be brought down this session. There was another commission which was not referred to in the Speech and which had attracted a good deal of attention. The commission appointing these gentlemen instructed them to inquire into certain allegations which had been made in Parliament. Charges made in this House should be investigated by machinery constituted by it, and not by any machinery independent of Parliament. It was not to investigate questions of this kind that royal commissions were appointed. It was contrary to the principles of both reason and justice that men should appoint their own judges, and it was also contrary to the first principles of reason and justice that men should appoint the judges of their adversaries. Both these principles were violated by the appointment of the present commission. Who were the members of this commission? One was a junior County Court Judge, another was an officer of the Inland Revenue, and a third was occasionally employed by the government. He presumed that the First Minister was satisfied with his commission, —at least he ought to be as he himself had constituted it. He believed that there was a necessity for an enquiry, but it should be an enquiry in which both sides could be heard. He did not intend to refer to the disclosures which had been made before the Commission, but to the general principle. Referring to information gleaned anterior to the appointment of this commission, he thought that it right that Parliament should take some action to put an end to contract broking. He thought it should be declared that it was not right for members of Parliament to act as agents for suitors before the departments or before the government. He did not impute any unworthy conduct to any hon. gentleman either directly or indirectly, but when the impression prevailed that parties having negotiations with the government could do better by getting the assistance of Mr. So-and-So because he was a member of Parliament it was time that the practice was put an end to once and for ever, and that for profit no one of them should be able to intervene in departmental or executive matters any more than they could intervene in matters pendent in either House of Parliament. He next referred to the tariff, paragraph in the Address, and more particularly to the promises previously made regarding the stoppage of emigration from the country by the adoption of the National Policy. He pointed out that the fact was that during the time the late government was in power the number of Canadians who left the country steadily decreased year after year. Yet gentlemen opposite groaned and wept at the way the best blood of the country was being drained away. Turning to the records of emigration since the change of government they found that a tremendous impetus had been given to the exodus. By returns furnished by United States officials 17,000 more people left Canada during the last 15 months than went away during the whole five years the late government was in power.

After recess Mr. Blake continued his speech, alluding to the disappointments which the tariff had created, and the speeches and peregrinations of the Finance Minister. He thought the latter gentleman should remember that there were some rural districts in the country, and should pay the farmers a visit. The hon. gentleman had visited two manufacturing establishments in his county, and he was glad to know that their business had been somewhat improved by the advertising which they then got. For this he had to thank the hon. gentleman. The good times had come rather in spite of the tariff than in consequence of it. The sectional character of the coal tax, and the effects of the hasty coal oil legislation of last session were touched upon, and the hope expressed that with improving times the government would seek to reduce the rate of taxation. In conclusion he expressed the hope that their debates would be conducted with moderation, and that their decisions would be such as to redound to their honor and to conduce to the prosperity of the country whose interests were committed to their care. (Loud applause.)

Sir John Macdonald congratulated the mover and seconder of the address upon the able manner in which they had acquitted themselves, and also the last speaker upon the manner in which he had discharged the not very pleasant duties of leader of the Opposition. He charged the gentleman with departing from the usual course in traversing so many questions during the debate on the address, and declined to be drawn into a general discussion on the Pacific Railway matter before they had the papers before them. They should pass the address and proceed as rapidly as possible to the actual business of the session. The hon. gentleman had stated that the Government ought to have placed before country the arrangement with the Syndicate, but it was for the representatives of the people according to the British Constitution to consider a matter of this kind, and not to have the papers laid before the people in the first instance. It was a matter of principle that Parliament should have the first knowledge. No more unsatisfactory tribunal could be had for a complicated measure of this kind than to place it before the whole people.

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie showed the absurdity of the statement made by the leader of the Government that it was not usual to debate the address, mentioning the fact that the last year he had been in power the hon. gentleman had himself led a seven day's debate. The hon. member for West Durham had not referred to subjects which would be apt to come before them, but had merely laid down certain general principles. The speech was not worded so as to avoid a discussion, but contained statements which were calculated to challenge contradiction. This was more particularly true with regard to the clause bearing on the tariff. He pointed out that when he introduced his Pacific Railway scheme in 1874, he had first made the particulars known to his constituents, and then asked the leader of the Government to state if it was true that it was intended to force a decision before the 23rd, or else punish the House by refusing a holiday.

Sir John Macdonald said that it was important to contractors and for immigration purposes that the syndicate agreement should be passed as early as possible, and, if this was not done before Christmas, they would have as short an adjournment as possible.

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie said if the measure was a just one he would not only not oppose it but give it his hearty support, but if, as he feared it was, of a different character, he wanted time to consider it, and intended to go fully into the question.

After some further discussion the address was adopted.

Sir S. L. Tilley stated that it was hoped to bring down the Public Accounts by Christmas, and the House adjourned.

THE MAYORALTY

To the Electors of the Town of Peterboro:

GENTLEMEN,—As rumors have been placed in circulation to the effect that I am not a candidate in the contest pending for the Mayoralty of the town, I deem it my duty to give the earliest contradiction to all such reports as are now, or as may be put, in circulation. Having consented, at the request of a very large number of the representative ratepayers of the town, to become a candidate, it is my intention to go to the polls and to use every lawful endeavor to secure my election, not from any motives of personal interest or ambition, but to carry into effect, so far as in my power lies, the wishes of those at whose suggestion I have become a candidate, and to whose generous support I have no doubt I shall owe my election.

Rumors have also been put industriously into circulation that I am an opponent of the Trent Valley Scheme. While I am at a loss to conceive the motive of the introduction of such a question into our municipal affairs, I take this opportunity of saying that both my convictions and my personal interests make me a strong advocate of the Trent Valley Canal, and that if elected I shall, believing that the interests of the town would be promoted by the prosecution of this work, exert every influence in my power to advance the Trent Valley enterprise.

Having always, since honored with a seat in the Council Board, been a firm advocate of prudence and economy in the management of the finances of the town, I shall, if elected, do my utmost to keep down every unnecessary expenditure, to oppose new burdens being placed upon the backs of the ratepayers, and to maintain the effective working of our municipal affairs at the lowest possible cost to the ratepayers.

As it may be impossible for me to personally solicit the votes of all the ratepayers, I take this opportunity of requesting their support on polling day, and I believe I can safely appeal to my past record, both in and out of the Council, as the best evidence that the trust which I have reason to believe will be confided to me in the result of this election, will be honestly and conscientiously fulfilled, with a single desire to perform the duties of the position for which I am a candidate to the best advantage of the town and the promotion of the welfare of its people.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,
HENRY DENNE.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

FIRE.—On Monday afternoon a house occupied by Mr. D. Doig, in the south end of the town, took fire and was destroyed. There was no insurance.

NEW GOODS opened this week in men and boys overcoats, tweed suits, rubbers, felt overshoes, leather and felt boots and shoes of all kinds. Fresh new teas, coffees, sugars, spices, fruits and tobaccos. Bring on your cash and you will get good bargains. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 49-4ins.

HANDSOME LEGACIES.—Some of our townsmen are in luck. By the death of a maternal uncle in Ireland, Mr. Alex. Sproule receives a bequest of $25,000, and a life interest in a large landed estate, Mr. Geo. Sproule receives $25,000, and Mrs. J. Haggart, $12,500. Mr. A. Sproule is at present in Ireland administering the estate, of which he is appointed executor.

FOWL PROCEEDING.—At the sitting of the Police Court on Monday, Andrew Moore was charged with feloniously hypothecating divers fowls, the property of Miss Connin. The prisoner elected to take his chances at the Quarter Sessions. Margaret O'Brien, domestic living with the prosecutrix, swore to the larceny, and identified the prisoner. The Magistrate committed him for trial.

THE GREATEST LIVING TALENT—at least some of the best talent in the Institute, is engaged to render their programme on the 17th. By reference to this programme it will be seen the tableaux will be the finest ever given in Peterborough. Secure your tickets early, or the students will not be responsible for the consequences. All should see the humorous trial, Bardell vs. Pickwick.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President of the Midland Railway, is expected to sail from England on the 16th..... We regret to learn that the state of health of Mr. W. H. Scott, M. P. P., is such as to cause apprehension to his friends, and to preclude his attendance at the session of the Ontario Legislature. He will visit the Bermudas in hope of an improvement. .....Mr. J. B. Trayes, of the Port Hope Times, was in town yesterday..... We had a call the other day from Mr. Jos. Lumley, of the Dominion Paper Co.

ORANGE ELECTION.—At the meeting of Young Canadian L.O.L. No. 49, held in the new Orange Hall, corner of George and Simcoe streets, on Thursday evening of last week. The following members were elected office-bearers for the current term:—Bros. Wm. Thompson, W. M.; Jos. Batton, D.M.; Geo. J. Browne, Chaplain; S. Jamieson, R.S.; John Mowry, F.S.; H. Nesbitt, Treas.; F. J. Jameson, John Lillico, Henry Baker, Wm. Green and Jas. McIntyre, Standing Committee; R. W. Lillico, D of C.; Wm. Robinson and T. Brown, Tylers. This lodge is, we learn, in a very flourishing position, and having decided to hold fortnightly meeting for the purpose of having debates, etc., the members look forward to many pleasant meetings during the winter.

THE ROARIN' GAME.—On Wednesday evening last the play in the Rink was opened, and on Friday evening the formal opening for curling and skating took place, there being a good attendance, and the amusement being relieved by the presence of the excellent band of the Fire Brigade, which gave choice selections during the evening. The first match of the season is being played as we go to press, between the President, Mr. Ferguson, and the Vice-President, Mr. Attrill, with two full rinks, the result of which will be given next week. The ice is in excellent condition, and the prospects for the season's play are first-class. The managers have done everything that could be done to put everything in good shape, and the Rink will, no doubt, be largely patronized. We observed some days ago a correspondence in the Review, containing some undeserved strictures on the management in reference to prices, time of opening, etc. We find on comparison of the rates, which are published in another column, with those of the Victoria Rink of Montreal, and rinks in other towns and cities, that the rates here are much below the average, and considering the expense, and the excellent accommodation, are very reasonable indeed. As to the time of opening, though some of the rinks were a few days ahead, it is to be borne in mind that by the method of providing ice here, there is always good play here when other rinks are closed by mild weather, and that we invariably have play long after many other rinks are closed entirely. On the whole we think those interested in skating and curling are to be congratulated on the successful and effective system of management pursued. Skaters will find the ice in A 1 condition, and every convenience afforded for the pursuit of this healthful and exhilarating exercise, which we hope to see largely patronized during the ensuing winter. Skating promises to be the fashionable exercise during the present season.

MECHANICS INSTITUTE.—A meeting of the Mechanics Institute is to be held this evening.

EXPORT OF HORSES.—Messrs. Cruchlin and Scott, of New York, who have been buying horses in this vicinity, yesterday shipped fourteen horses to New York. Among them were three purchased from Mr. T. Cavanagh for $460.

A COST PROCEEDING.—The Acting-Mayor has received the following notice from the authorities of the Protestant Home: "On the evening of the 2nd Dec. a man named William Cave was brought by the Apsley stage, set down in the street near the Protestant Home and helped to the door by two men who had travelled with him. The man was unable to walk and is suffering from a severe wound on the left leg which confines him to bed. He says he had been working at Eastland's hotel in Apsley, where he met with the accident from the results of which he is now suffering. He was put into the stage by Mr. Thos. Eastland, and sent into this town." This is certain a summary method of appealing to the benevolence of a charitable institution.

MATRIMONY IN APSLEY.—A correspondent writes us from Apsley: "It was observed in a late correspondence from Apsley that she was about to erase the names of some of her citizens from her list of bachelors. Well, Mr. Editor, your correspondent was not far wrong in this supposition, as Mr. Thos. Eastland, Jr., has opened the way by taking to himself one of the fair sex of our land. Last Monday evening Mr. Eastland very hospitably entertained a number of his friends at an oyster supper at his own residence. After supper a very enjoyable evening was spent, the time being occupied with singing and music and other amusements. On Tuesday morning Mr. Eastland and wife left Apsley for Montreal, carrying with them the best wishes of their many friends, for their future welfare and happiness."

THE NEWSPAPER BOOM.—We must congratulate our contemporary, the London Daily Advertiser, upon its handsome and sparkling appearance in its new dress. The enterprise of Mr. Cameron has made the Tiser one of the most successful, influential and deservedly popular of the Western journals. In the Western Peninsula it is without a peer as a newspaper, and we are glad to know that, while with all really Liberal journals it pursues the current of its own independent convictions, and does not hesitate to take up and discuss fearlessly all questions of public interest, it is an able and consistent supporter of the Liberal party under the leadership of Edward Blake.....The Ottawa Free Press, which stands at the head of Eastern Ontario journalism, and is doing good service to the Liberal party at the capital, presented us with a double number on Saturday last, by way of a special enterprise. The Free Press is the vade mecum of all the "correspondents at the capital."

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN.

Mr. Albert Edmison has been engaged as Head Master of the Warsaw School.

Mr. W. M. Wood goes to Mather's Corners to take charge of the school there, at a salary of $400.

The Trustees of the Ashburnham Public School have secured the services of Miss Jennie Smith and Miss Ada Weir, for the 2nd and 3rd departments respectively.

Thus we see the pupils from our Collegiate Institute engaged to fill important positions, and these appointments will, we feel sure, prove very satisfactory.

Mr. Shaw, High School Teacher of Omemee, is recovering from a severe attack of illness.

J. R. McNeily, a Port Hope teacher, has resigned.

Miss C. Gertley is Mr. Harrington's successor for the year 1881 in Salem School, Emily.

Miss Gilchrist, of Islay, has been appointed successor to Mr. F. Brown, in S. S. No. 9, Fenelon.

Mr. J. H. Knight has received the commission for an enquiry into the charges against Mr. Geo. A. Irwin. The investigation will take place at the Court House, Lindsay, on Saturday, the 11th instant, at 10 o'clock a.m.

Mr. Doyle, has resigned his position as teacher in Downeyville school. Mr. Doyle has during his engagement proved himself a very efficient teacher and a model citizen. He intends prosecuting his studies with the object of securing a higher certificate.

Mr. George Staples is the teacher in Hartley for the present year, and has been well liked so far. It is reported that the trustees are about to engage Mr. Duncan McFarlane for 1881. Mr. McFarlane taught there in 1878 and 1879, and was well liked as a teacher.

At the East Victoria Teachers' Convention on Saturday week, the speakers expressed their disapprobation of the untruthful nature of several articles which had lately appeared in the Educational notes of the Toronto Mail, and particularly with reference to a senseless and unwarranted attack on Mr. H. Reazin, I. P. S., in connection with the convention.

PULPIT AND PREACHER.

Rev. Dr. McKay, Presbyterian Missionary to the Island of Formosa, at present on a visit to his native province, will lecture in Omemee on the 22nd instant.

Rev. T. D. Butler, pastor of the Disciple Church, Bowmanville, has resigned his charge and has returned to the States, where he will assume the pastorate of a congregation in Akron, Ohio.

The New Testament revisers have held their 102nd session, at which they sat for seven hours. They were engaged in considering suggestions from the United States Committee.

Rev. Mr. Stewart, of Trenton, has gone to California, where he expects to spend the winter, it being considered necessary for the prolonging of his life that he seek a more genial clime during the cold season.

Rev. Dr. Hodgkin has been appointed by the Bishop of this Diocese, to the charge of the parish of Omemee and Emily. Service will be held regularly in future in Christ Church at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and in St. James', Emily, at 3 p.m.

The Christian Guardian suggests that in connection with the Canada Methodist Church in Ontario, that Conventions be held in such places as London, Chatham, Brantford, Peterboro' etc. It argues that much good would be done by bringing together ministers and laymen, not only to discuss Church polity or doctrine but to carefully consider the state of the work and the best means of making the church more useful.

The quarterly meeting of the Ruridecanal Chapter of Durham and Victoria Deanery took place on Thursday, 25th instant, at Millbrook. There were a few of the clergy present. An interesting afternoon was spent in considering the third chapter of Galatians. It was decided that the next quarterly meeting should be held at the residence of the Rev. Mr. Baker, Incumbent of St. Mark's Church, Port Hope, on the first Thursday in February next.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Mr. H. G. Taylor, formerly of the Midland, has been appointed mechanical superintendent and master of transportation on the Credit Valley Railway.

Mr. R. H. Brennan, late General Superintendent of the Grand Junction railway, has received an appointment as Assistant-Superintendent of a western railway.

Mr. Massey Geddes, who some time since acted temporarily as Station Agent for the Midland R. R. here, has been appointed to take charge of the Ashburnham station of the Grand Junction.

A regular train on the Grand Junction was commenced on Monday last. It is expected to run two trains a day each way between here and Belleville when the road gets into thorough working order.

The Midland Railway have just added to their rolling stock a very handsome combined passenger and smoking car. It is a model of first-class workmanship and convenience, and reflects credit not only on the builders but also on the railway company.

The shipment of lumber over the Midland, via the Grand Trunk to Quebec on Midland cars, has commenced in good earnest. It is expected that during the winter and spring a million feet of lumber will be shipped in this way—an amount of business not appreciable by anyone not in or acquainted with the trade. If what is expected is realised, the Midland will have done more during the season than in any preceding one. Last year the total was 700,000 feet.

We learn from the Orillia Packet that "the Midland Railway continued for years to fall behind with the Township of Thorah until the indebtedness reached $7,000. On the 1st of July the Reeve received $2,000, with a promise that the rest would be paid in a few months, and last week he was handed the balance, $5.144."

Midland Railway traffic receipts for week ending Nov. 30th, 1880, were:—Passengers and mails, $2,260.92; freight, $2,183,88; total for week, $5,074.80. For the corresponding week in 1879,—Passengers and mails, $2,627.74; freight, $1,917.53; Total for week, $4,545.27. Increase, $529.53. Aggregate from 1st of January, 1880, $318,181.84. Increase over 1879, $75,034.32.

The Uxbridge delegation who waited upon Mr. Holden to talk about the branch of the Whitby railway to that town, was composed of Messrs. Crosby, Stewart, Darling and Canning. The branch they are desirous of having constructed would not make connection with Port P rry, but Manchester or the Summit, says the Standard. They want a competing outlet, and think Manchester or the Summit preferable to Port Perry, because of the difference in distance and rates. The company, we believe, prefer making connection north, rather than south of Port Perry. This would indicate a point or two in connection with the proposed Toronto and Ottawa combination.

MARRIAGES.

EASTLAND—WEBSTER.—On Tuesday, December 7th, at the residence of the bride's father, Anstruther, Peterborough County, by the Rev. P. Harding, Thos. G. Eastland, to Emma, second daughter of R. B. Webster, Esq.

One of the Most Important Discoveries of this Age.

We make the startling announcement that KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE will cure Bone Spavin and completely remove the enlargement, so that the best horseman cannot tell that the horse ever had a spavin. We make this statement, and give below testimonials from persons who have used it, to prove our statements. It is excellent for removing unnatural enlargements of any kind. It does not blister nor cause any sore. It has no equal, to our knowledge, for spavin, ring-bone, curb, callous, sprain, swellings, galls, lameness from whatever cause, and all enlargements of the joints, or any part of the body or limbs, and is also good for cuts, scratches, wounds, etc.

For man, it is a complete remedy, for Corns, Frost-Bites, or any bruise, Cut or Lameness.

Remember that we claim it will

COMPLETELY REMOVE

a Bone Spavin, Splint, etc.,

WITHOUT BLISTERING

or causing any sore.

FROM A PROMINENT PHYSICIAN.

Washingtonville, Ohio, June 17, 1880.

Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co.; Gents.—Reading your advertisement in Turf, Field and Farm, of your "Kendall's Spavin Cure," and having a valuable and speedy horse which had been lame from spavin for eighteen months, I sent to you for a bottle by express, which in six weeks removed all lameness and enlargement and a large splint from another horse, and both horses are to-day as sound as colts. The one bottle was worth to me one hundred dollars.

Respectfully yours,
H. A. BERTOLETT.

Homœopathic Physician, &c., and Medical Electrician.

OFFICE AND RESIDENCE:—With Walter Patterson, Esq., Hunter Street, Peterboro' Office Hours from 8 to 10, 12 to 2, and 6 to 8.

Homœopathic Physicians are the only ones who claim to be Scientific, skillful and Accurate Physicians; that is, who claim to understand the principle on which all diseases are to be cured; who claim to understand the curative action of all drugs or poisons, and who always give the proper curative medicine alone, without admixture. Ordinary Physicians do not claim to be more than what are called Empirics, that is Physicians whose treatment of disease is founded upon past experience, without their being able in the majority of cases to offer any explanation of their treatment. However, the best authors among them admit that their practice of medicine has abounded in false experience. That in the last 25 years, a great change has taken place, that nearly everything done then has been since found out to be wrong. It is also admitted that probably 25 years hence, just as great a change will have taken place. This shows that crude experimentation can never be the basis of a successful treatment of diseases. As regards the term Allopathy, it is simply a name given them by Homœopathic Physicians. One of their most distinguished authors admits this, and says the name should be refused, being he says "a term of unmerited reproach." Nevertheless the mass of them have ignorantly adopted it, not understanding this fact.

Mr. Claxton has started a new log shanty for the supply of his Minnemurra saw mill.

Wm. Brown, a Millbrookite, was three days in the Lindsay gaol for being drunk, last week.

Mr. James J. Power, of Fenelon Falls, has retired from business, and is succeeded by Mr. John A. Ellis.

A building at Uxbridge occupied by Mr. Churchill as a basket factory, was partly burned last week.

In the case of Mrs. Stewart at Cobourg, the Magistrate fined her $60 and costs or three months in gaol for selling liquor without license.

A Rearboro squaw was before the Lindsay Beak last Thursday for drunkenness. This sale of liquor to Indians ought to be put a stop to.

OBITUARY NOTES.

On Monday last, a very large funeral procession followed the remains of Mr. John Davidson, one of the oldest and most respected settlers in this vicinity. He died on Friday night being in his 71st year. The deceased gentleman was born in Ireland, and when a young man emigrated to Canada. For more than 28 years he lived in the township of Smith, near Selwyn, and was one of the earliest settlers in that township. He then removed to Verulam, and for 24 years had resided on the farm he purchased. He leaves a numerous family.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

For the past two months it has been known that Charles Francis, Esq., of Trenton, had been seized with consumption, from the effects of which fatal disease he was slowly but surely succumbing. The end was reached at about noon on the 2rd, when he passed away in great peace. Mr. Francis was a son of the late Robert Francis, Esq., County Surveyor, and a brother of John Francis Esq., the present incumbent of that office. He was born in Trenton on February 2nd 1837 and consequently was in his forty-fourth year Having received a liberal education, he devoted himself to the study of the law, and in 1857 entered the office of Messrs. Ross and Bell in this city, in due course of time passed the necessary examination and was called to the bar in Hillary Term, 1862. Returning to his native place, he commenced the practice of his profession, which he carried on for seventeen years with much success, and amassed a competence. Municipal affairs claimed his attention, and he became Reeve of Trenton in 1872, 1876 and 1879, his last term of service being for the year 1879, at the close of which year he retired, owing to the failure of his health, which had for several years been deliate. A long trip was undertaken by him, various countries in Europe being visited, as well as Algiers, and he returned somewhat improved, but still ailing, and as the cold weather came on his illness took a firmer hold, with the result above stated. Mr. Francis leaves a widow, namely, Mercy, daughter of the late Sheldon Hawley, Esq., but no children.—Belleville Intelligencer.

THE "MAIL'S" MORALITY.

The Toronto Mail says:—"A great deal of irrelevant gossip has been indulged in as to Bernhardt's moral lapses, and we have had considerable cheap sermonizing on the same score. All this has nothing to do with her artistic merits or demerits. She does not come here to teach morality or set herself as an example of purity. If she did, criticism of her private life would be in order; but as her mission is simply as an actress and nothing more, as an actress let her be judged."

The B. A. Presbyterian in a long editorial, thus shows the fallacy of such a doctrine as that advocated by the Mail, and says:—"Such principles would whitewash Nero, rehabilitate Herod, canonise some of the most notoriously immoral, and all but deify not a few of the vilest of the sons and daughters of men. It would put drunkards in our seats of justice, if they only kept sober on the bench, and rolled in the mud and blasphemed to their heart's content, strictly in their "private" capacity. It would exalt to public honor and power the intellectually vigorous, though they were notoriously and ostentatiously moral lepers. It would give debauchees the place of honor in our country's councils, seducers the guardianship of our country's morals, and blacklegs and blackguards when intellectually competent, the guidance and instruction of our country's youth. It would put decency out of court, silence as an impertinence the verdict of public opinion in favor of purity of morals and propriety of life; make personal virtue a jest, and personal honor a dream. When stolid dullness that affects to be cultured, or vulgar pretence that is sorely anxious to be thought refined, gives forth the verdict that a great artiste or a sublime genius has burst upon the world and that, therefore, all who would in any measure be thought æsthetic must bow the knee and worship, though the artiste be as common as the public road and the "genius" as morally foul as he can possibly be represented, it is about time that some plain words, in quiet intelligible Saxon, were spoken on the other side."

"FULFILS IT'S MISSION."

There seems to be a genuine hum in the newspaper line at present. The Peterborough EXAMINER comes to us this week in a new form with a partially new dress. The EXAMINER is one of our best exchanges, being ably edited and always freighted with a host of local and county news. The public expect a local paper to supply them with the news and gossip of their own district as well as a summary of the news of the day. The EXAMINER fulfils its mission in this respect exceedingly well. The large advertising patronage bestowed upon it shows conclusively that the business men of Peterborough are aware of its value as a medium between the public and themselves. We wish the EXAMINER increased success.—Bowmanville Statesman.

"ONE OF OUR VERY BEST."

The Peterborough EXAMINER comes out this week in a new form and with an entirely new dress. This is one of our very best country exchanges. We congratulate our friend Stratton on this evidence of prosperity. May the EXAMINER continue to be—as it always has been in the past—the exponent of truly Liberal principles, and always ready to stand up for the rights of the great mass of the people, in opposition to class legislation.—Port Hope Guide.

"A CREDIT TO THE TOWN."

The Peterborough EXAMINER comes to hand this week in a new dress, with its form of "make up" changed from quarto to octavo size. The EXAMINER is under the editorial management of our old friend, Mr. I. H. Brock, formerly of the Ottawa Free Press, and is one of our best Western exchanges. It is a credit to the town in which it is published, and we are glad to know that it is meeting with the prosperity it deserves.—Prescott Telegraph.

"CONFUCIOUS FOR ITS GOOD LOOKS."

The Peterborough EXAMINER, one of our staunchest Reform exchanges, has been changed in appearance so that its best friends would hardly know it. It has assumed the eight page form, and with a new dress, heading, etc., is conspicuous for its good looks and excellent get-up. Its editorial department is under charge of Mr. I. Harley Brock, for ten years the editor of that lively daily, the Ottawa Free Press. There is evidently a brighter future than ever before the EXAMINER.—Perth Courier.

"SECOND TO NONE."

"Onward" is the motto of nearly all our exchanges. A number of them come to us in new dress and showing increased prosperity. The Peterborough EXAMINER is the last to show a change, but not the least. This week it appears in new form, and printed throughout in new body-type, headings, &c., and is much improved. The EXAMINER is an excellent paper, and under the the editorship of Mr. I. Harley Brock, for ten years editor of the Ottawa Free Press, ranks second to none in point of ability and influence. We value the EXAMINER as an exchange, and expect to see it still more influential and prosperous.—Belleville Daily Ontario.

"POPULAR, ATTRACTIVE AND INFLUENTIAL."

The Peterborough EXAMINER has donned a new dress and adopted the eight-page form now much in vogue. We congratulate our contemporary on this creditable evidence of progress and prosperity, and have no doubt it will receive cordial recognition from its clientele. Under the management of its young proprietor, Mr. J. R. Stratton, the EXAMINER has greatly increased in circulation and in all that makes a paper popular, attractive and influential. Mr. I. H. Brock, for many years editor of the Ottawa Free Press, is the editor of the EXAMINER, and displays the same talent and vigor that gave him a front rank among the journalists of the capital. Mr. Brock is well-known in this section.—Lindsay Post.

HOW THE FOX CRIES SOUR GRAPES.

Our contemporary, the EXAMINER, appears in a new form, the principal alteration being that it has converted its former four large pages with wide columns into eight smaller pages with narrow columns. We learn, too, on perusing a notice of the change in its editorial columns, that the type upon which it is printed this week is new, and on close examination and comparing it with a copy of their last week's issue, we observe new type among some of the editorial and news columns. The general typographical appearance of the paper, however, has NOT UNDERGONE ANY STRIKING ALTERATION OR IMPROVEMENT, THAT WE CAN DISCERN, such as would call for that praise which an entire new dress carefully selected and skillfully put on is entitled to.—Peterborough Review.

LOCAL NEWS RECORD.

No. 3 WARD.—Mr. Arthur Rutherford has announced himself a candidate for the Council, to represent No. 3 Ward.

IMPENDING VISITORS.—Bellevillains are to have an excursion to Peterborough when the Grand Junction is in thorough working order.

COST OF AN ASSAULT.—Mr. W. Mills, J. P. on Thursday last fined Martin Leonard of Enniamore $5 and $5 costs for an assault of which he was found guilty upon John O. Malloy.

SOLD.—Gilbert & McIlmoyl, Auctioneers, last week sold the house and lot here belonging to Mrs. W. Falls, Bobcaygeon, for $1,250, Mrs. W. J. Larmour being the purchaser.

MEAN THIEVES.—St. Paul's Church managers have offered a reward of $20 for conviction of a detestable thief who hypothecated a string of bells from a rig in the church shed during the service of Sunday of last week.

SCHOOL HONOR ROLLS.—Honor Rolls of the Schools for November will be published in next week's EXAMINER. Teachers who have not yet forwarded their reports will please do so in time for next week's issue.

INTEMPERANCE.—Samuel Detcher on Thursday last was brought before the P. M., charged with an incapacity which he said was physical, but which P. C. McGhee said was dipsomaniacal. He went up to the County boarding house for 14 days.

HONORED.—The firemen mentioned in a report in another column, have been honored by a special vote of thanks from the Toronto Council. One of them, Frank Forsyth, formerly resided in town and has friends here. Another, Thomas Doughty, comes from the vicinity of Warsaw.

COST HIM A DOLLAR.—John Keenan might have been seen on Monday morning meandering away from the Justice Mill, with a melancholy countenance. He had just left a dollar with the Clerk of the Police Court, by invitation of the Magistrate.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—An accident which might have been attended with serious consequences, occurred on Saturday in Ashburnham. Mr. A. Cope was working at a turning-lathe in his shop, when a pulley burst, one of the pieces striking him on the head, inflicting an ugly, but fortunately not dangerous wound.

ASSAULT.—Some young roughs lay in wait for and attacked a gentleman on his way home, on Brock street a few evenings since. However, they "caught a tartar," and got the worst of it. They are known to the police and will be held in surveillance in future, the attacked party not caring to take the trouble of prosecuting them for this offence.

POULTRY EXHIBITION.—The Poultry Association held its annual meeting in the Council Chamber on Friday evening last. Among those present were the President, Mr. T. E. Bell, R. Hall, Jas. Saulter and others. The only business of importance was the decision to hold the annual Poultry Exhibition in February next.

AN EXODUS.—On Friday morning two men who had been boarding with Mrs. Swanson, who keeps a grocery in Ashburnham, left by the early train on the Grand Junction. Contemporaneously $40 in money, which Mrs. S. had left in her bed-room, disappeared during her temporary absence. Neither the men nor the money have since been heard of, nor are they likely to be.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.—At a very early hour on Saturday morning a fire was discovered among the sheds at the rear of the Caisse House. An alarm was given, and in a short time a sufficient number of firemen and the boarders, who took a warm interest in the work, were assembled, and by their united efforts soon put the fire under. Had it gained a little more headway, the consequences must have been disastrous.

RUNAWAY.—On Friday evening, a horse belonging to D. J. Lundy, hitched to a post in front of Mr. Lundy's office, took fright probably at the hideous contravention of the by-law against disfigurement of the streets by sign posts, on the sidewalk in front of the Review office, and broke away, taking a lively tour around the market square. When secured he had succeeded in pretty effectually demoralizing the cutter which accompanied him to the best of its ability in escapade.

SLEIGHING SCENES.—We commend to the attention of our readers the announcement of Mr. T. Peterbrook, which appears in another column. Mr. P. seems bound to keep his studio up to the latest novelties in scenic effects.

POT AND KETTLE.—The Review some days ago uttered a paragraph describing as "a dirty trick" the folding of Globe advertising sheets in copies of the Toronto Mail, intending it as a slur on the Globe. A few days ago a merchant brought us his copy of the Globe with a Mail fly-sheet folded in it, so that, if the papers are responsible, they are both tarred with the same stick.

CORRECTION.—We have been informed that old Mr. Mahoney, of Springville, whose son returned recently from Manitoba, and acted in so creditable a manner, as related in our columns, had not been living on charity, as our informant stated, the old man continuing to work at his trade of blacksmithing for a living. He is to be congratulated on having a son imbued with sufficient sense of filial devotion to make provision for his declining years.

A LESSON FOR MANY.—On Monday last John Hill was fined $5, and $5.35 costs, for ill-treating a horse. The offence consisting of hiring the animal to drive 4 miles and driving him 40. This should prove a warning to young men who frequently violate the law, as well as the instincts of humanity, by over-driving and neglecting to properly provide for horses hired from livery keepers. A few lessons of this kind will do good.

INTERESTING TO THE PUBLIC.—The Misses Leonard will open out in a few days in the store next to Clegg's furniture establishment, formerly occupied by M. T. Lee, with a choice assortment of general fancy goods, etc. They will also keep on hand a full line of books and stationery. This will be an excellent opportunity to buy fine Christmas and New Years gifts, articles to suit all at reasonable prices. Call and see stock.

THE TOWN DEBENTURES.—An analysis of the town debentures shows $100,000 at 6 per cent.; $72,000 of Municipal Loan Fund debentures at 6 per cent., and $12,900 at 7 per cent. of interest. The securing of a uniform rate of 5 per cent. would reduce payments for interest by $1,978. Seven per cent. is a handsome figure in interest to pay in these days when the best bank stock and other securities, invested subject to risks, are not expected to pay more than 8 per cent.

A SPLENDID CHANCE.—There is no better family magazine published than the celebrated Demorest's Monthly Magazine. It presents a grand combination of the entertaining, the useful and the beautiful, with stories, essays, poems, fashions, family matters, art critiques, lovely oil pictures, steel engravings, and other art features, and is only $3 a year. By special arrangements, we are enabled to combine Demorest's Magazine and the EXAMINER for one year for ONLY THREE DOLLARS AND A HALF.

THE RICE LAKE ACCIDENT.—Particulars of the Rice Lake drowning accident, reported last week, state that the two men, Webster and Simpson, having concluded to go to Harwood from Hiawatha, started to cross the ice. On nearing the shore they got out of the track, and drove into an air-hole, the whole rig being submerged. Their cries brought help from shore, when the horse and Webster were rescued, but the Indian could not be found, having come up under the ice. The body was later recovered and an inquest held, resulting in a verdict of accidental death. Messrs. Morgan & Shewan, owners of the horse and rig, besides receiving no pay, lose about $30 by damage to their property.

AT IT AGAIN.—Our friend of the Lindsay Warder has evidently got his mental fibre on training, and is working himself down into condition to fill the editorial chair of the Review. Last week he says:

"That great minds run in the same grove can not be doubted, but that two editors should at the same time select the same subjects for their leading articles, and that their construction or wording should be precisely the same, is indeed a strange coincidence. The last number of the Seaforth Sun and the Peterborough Times contained two editorials, word for word the same. As the Times is published on Saturday, the Sun, published on Friday, could not steal from it, and the latter journal would not reach Peterborough in time for the editor of the Times to indulge in a little pilfering. The EXAMINER thinks the Warder's reporter too smart at times, so now let the faber puaber of that journal show how clever he is by accounting for this strange coincidence."

The natural inference from the circumstances here set forth is that some other newspaper is the victim, and that both the Times and Sun have been working in the same field of literature with their editorial shears. As we have never seen a copy of the Sun that we know of, and don't handle the Times cutlery, we are at a loss to know why our confrere of the Warder should ask us to account for the singular coincidence. It's none of our funeral.

MUSICAL SOIREE.—A very enjoyable entertainment was given the school-room of the Convent Notre Dame on Tuesday evening, on the occasion of the closing exercises of the school. The programme comprised an instrumental duet by Misses F. Lynch, M. Lynch, B. Menzies and T. Mensies; a chorus, Miss A. Lech playing accompaniment; a musical trio, by Misses M. Tierney, M. F. Leonard, K. Simons, B. Lech, C. Harvey and M. Garvey; vocal duett, "Maids of the Greenwood" by Misses L. Mailleux and L. Wilson; recitations by Misses M. Garvey and E. Hogan; "The Battle of the Prague" on two pianos, by Misses A. Lech and B. Fairweather; "Martha," a duett by Misses M. White, E. Halpin, C. Irwin and B. Fairweather; a comic song by the junior pupils; a recitation, "Rights of the Indians defended" by Misses M. Collins and M. F. Leonard; "Il Trovatore," a selection by Misses A. Graham, M. Stratton, C. McDonald and J. Ellsworth; "Stradella Caprice," solo on two pianos by Misses A. Graham and B. Mensies; vocal duett by Misses K. Martin and M. Dunn; "The Scotch Thought," solo on two pianos by Misses C. Ellsworth and M. Henry; "The Four-leaved clover" by Miss K. Grant; L'Italiana in Algeri," instrumental, by Misses C. Bingham and R. Stratton; solo by Miss F. Lech; "Who is to inherit," a comedy in one act; "The Storm," solo on two pianos, by Misses F. and R. Lech; piano solo by Miss A. Lynch; vocal duett, by Misses R. EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

Miss Kells, teacher at Kinmount, has been re-engaged for another year at $325.

Harwood school amateurs had a successful entertainment on Friday evening last.

Miss Palmer, one of the teachers of the Henry Street School, Whitby, is about to leave.

E. Scarlett, I. P. S., inspected Campbellford Public School last week and reported favourably.

J. Y. Cruikshank, Principal of Colborne High School, has resigned his position and given up the profession.

The cost of education is being generally discussed all over Ontario. Public opinion points in the direction that the expenses must be curtailed.

Mr. S. F. Youmans, of Picton, who has been engaged for some time in teaching singing classes in the North-Western States of America returned home on Friday.

Mr. F Grylls has been re-engaged as teacher in S. S. No 9 Smith, for the ensuing year, which will make three successive years in the same school. This speaks well for Mr. G.'s popularity, and efficency in teaching the young idea how to shoot.

High School Inspector McLellan, visited town on Wednesday last, and on Thursday inspected the Collegiate Institute, where he found everything working satisfactory, and of whose method and practice of teaching he spoke in the highest terms.

Col. Von Straubenzie, D.A.G., on Friday last inspected the Cadets in connection with the Collegiate Institute. He did not find the boys up to that degree of proficiency in drill which could have been desired, and expressed a strong desire to be able to note an improvement on his next visit. It must be remembered that the Cadets are a young corps, as yet, and have had but little time to do more than master the intricacies of the goose step. We trust attention will be devoted to drill during the winter, and that they will soon be brought up to the high standard borne by everything connected with the Institute.

SPORTING NOTES.

Bowmanville skating rink was opened this week.

The Whitby curling club are having their rink fixed up in first class style.

Whitby Curlers have commenced play and are organised for the season with the following skips: W. J. McMurtry, R. H. Jameson, W. Beith, C. Johnston, J. S. Ballantyne, E. Armstrong and S. Ray.

It is now settled that Colborne is to have a first-class covered skating rink. The contract has already been let, and the contractor is pushing the work as rapidly as possible.

At the weekly bowling match on Thursday last Mr. P. Rudkins headed the list with a score of 158, Mr. Joseph Joyal being second with 150. The same players occupied the same positions in the previous week's contest, being the first time in this season's play in which the same members came out ahead twice consecutively.

The Lindsay Post says the cold weather of last week caused a stir round the rink of the Lindsay curling club on Russel-st. which has resulted in an opening of the "roarin' game." The same evening a meeting of the club was held for the purpose of balloting for new members and a number were admitted. The prospect is that this season will be the most successful the club has ever had.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Curling and Skating Rink was held at the Huffman House on Friday evening last, Mr. J. F. Dennistoun in the chair, Mr. W. G. Ferguson acting as Secretary. The President reported that preparations had been made to secure good ice for curling and skating at once. He read a statement as audited by Mr. Pearse, showing the following financial operations:—

The statement, which showed a net profit on the year's operations of $250, which, added to last year's profits, nearly paid the debt, was received and adopted. Messrs. J. R. Stratton and A. Hall were then appointed scrutineers, and the following gentlemen elected Directors by ballot: Messrs. J. F. Dennistoun, A. Hall, H. LeBrun, W. G. Ferguson, and R. S. Davidson. A vote of thanks moved by Rev. V. Clementi, seconded by Hon. R. Hamilton, was passed, to the late Board. Mr. J. I. Davidson was appointed Secretary of the Board, and Mr. A. Stewart, Caretaker. It was announced that the Band would play at the Rink as usual.

TRENT VALLY COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the General Committee of the Trent Valley scheme was held in the Council Chamber yesterday afternoon, Mr. H. H. Smith in the chair. Among those present were Messrs. J. Burnham, M. P., Geo. Hilliard, M. P., Thos. Bleasrd, M. P. P., Acting-Mayor Dunsford, D. W. Dumble, John Carnegie, M. Sanderson, Warden of the County, D. G. Hatton, H. T. Strickland, Rev. W. Logan, Fenelon Falls, G. W. Ostrom, and G. H. Gordon, Trenton.

Mr. Smith read a letter from the Minister of Canals, stating that the amount required for a location survey was so large that Parliament would have to be asked to vote a sum. They had asked Mr. Stark to make the survey, but he was unable owing to the pressure of other business.

Ms. Dumble, Rev. Mr. Logan, Mr. Gordon, Mr. Bleasrd, Mr. Dunsford, Mr. Hilliard, Mr. Burnham and others spoke, all urging the importance of taking strong measures to impress upon the Government the necessity of immediate prosecution of the work, and the advisability of those directly interested sinking all minor differences, and uniting upon forwarding this enterprise.

Mr. Smith reported sufficient funds on hand for all immediate purposes.

The following resolution was passed unanimously, after which and a vote of thanks to the Chairman, the meeting adjourned:

Moved by G. H. Gordon, Esq., Reeve of Trenton, seconded by M. Sanderson, Esq., Warden of Peterborough,

That whereas prominent members of the Dominion Government have frequently expressed the opinion that the early completion of the Trent Valley Navigation route was of such importance to the Dominion as to justify its being undertaken at the earliest possible moment consistent with the finances of the country;

And whereas the revenue returns for the Dominion since the 1st July last are such as to leave no reasonable doubt that the current year's revenue will show a handsome surplus at the end of the financial year;

Be it therefore resolved that the time has now arrived when the Trent Navigation route should be pressed forward to early completion, and it is the opinion of the members of this committee that to this end the members of the House of Commons from the Trent Valley District should at once take steps to secure the placing of a sum in the Estimates for the purpose of making a thorough survey of the route from the Bay of Quinte to the Georgian Bay, with the view of ascertaining the best location and capacity to be adopted for the same;

And secondedly that they should, immediately on the assembling of Parliament, ask for the appointment of a committee, with power to send for persons and papers, to thoroughly investigate the merits of the Trent Valley route as an outlet for the trade of the Great West.—Carried.

PULPIT AND PREACHER.

The Presbyterians of Cobourg have resolved to introduce the new hymn book.

Rev. Mr. Dawson, of Gravenhurst, has resumed his duties after a vacation.

At the meeting of the B. C. Ministers of this district, at Lindsay last week, we understand some $400 were raised among the ministers toward reduction of the denominational debt.

Rev. Mr. Floyd, Church of England Incumbent at Gravenhurst, has returned from a prolonged visit to the old country where he has been endeavoring to raise the means necessary for the erection of a new church.

While returning home from service, Thanksgiving day, the Rev. D. Sutherland, of Campbellford, was thrown from his buggy and injured. We are pleased to learn that he has recovered. Rev. Dr. Beattie occupied Mr. Sutherland's pulpit on Sunday of last week.

There was a very large attendance at the Bible Christian church, Murray street, on Sunday evening last, when Rev. Mr. Roberts preached an able and eloquent sermon, improving the occasion of the death of the late Mrs. Christopher Burton.

Dr. Cleary, the new R. C. Bishop of Kingston, was consecrated on Sunday 21st, by His Eminence Cardinal Simeoni, Prefect of the Propaganda, assisted by the Archbishops of Cashel and Dublin. The ceremony took place in the chapel of the Propaganda at Rome.

The following programme has been issued by the Evangelical Alliance for the week of prayer, Jan. 2nd to Jan. 9th, 1881. It is suggested that on Sabbath, Jan. 2nd, sermons be preached from the text, "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, to-day and forever," January 3rd, the general topic is praise and thanksgiving for all blessings; January 4th, humiliation and confession for personal and national sins; January 5th, prayer for the church of Christ that it may be fruitful and united; January 6th, prayer for the young and their instructors, for parents, colleges, Sabbath schools; January 7th, prayer for all nations and rulers, for universal liberty, for the cessation of wars; January 8th, prayer for Christian missions and all engaged in promoting them.

PERSONAL.

Mr. O'Beirne of the Lindsay Post called upon us last week.

Mr. Fauquier, of the Grand Junction, was in town on Saturday, paying off the men.

Mr. J. A. Buck was on a visit to his father Thos. Buck Esq. of Norwood last week.

Mr. McClellan, High School Inspector, while on his visit to the Institute here, sojourned at the Caisse House.

Dr. Dewart, of the Christian Guardian, has been confined to the house for some days, but he is expected to be all right in a few days.

W. A. Hawley, son of Mr. M. A. Hawley, of Campbellford, has gone to Boston, where he will take a curriculum in the Academy of Music in that city.

Col. Straubenzie, D.A.G., of Kingston, Mayor Randall, of Port Hope, and Mr. J. B. Trayes, of the Port Hope Times, were at the Huffman House last Thursday.

OBITUARY NOTES.

The Campbellford Herald of last week records the death of Mrs. Dinwoodie, wife of Mr. James Dinwoodie, Sr., on Friday 19th inst., in the 80th year of her age. Mrs. Dinwoodie was a native of Scotland but has made Canada her home for 46 years. About 32 years of that period she resided in Seymour. She brought up a large family nearly all of whom are living, Messrs. James W., Robert and Adam Dinwoodie, of that village, being three of the number. The deceased lady has left a good record behind her; she was a woman of a high mind, generous and noble-hearted, and during her long career on earth secured the attachment of many warm friends.

TOWN COUNCIL.

TOWN VS. HATTON—THE LATE TREASURER—A MOVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION—PROPOSED REDUCTION OF RATES OF INTEREST—THE ELECTION BY-LAWS, &c., &c.

The Council met on Monday evening. Present—Acting-Mayor Dunsford, and Messrs. Cahill, Taylor, Smith, McNaughton, Paterson, Douglas, Toole, Menzies, and Denne.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

A number of communications and accounts were read.

The Acting-Mayor submitted the report of the Auditors of the Town Debentures. In answer to a question he said the amount of debentures was $185,500.

The communication of Mr. J. W. Moore complaining of inconveniences experienced, especially by ladies, by undue crowding of the market with produce, was on motion of Mr. Toole referred to the Market Committee.

The communication of Mr. Dennistoun in reference to the costs in the test case of the Town v. Hatton, on which judgment was given adversely to the town, was on motion of Mr. Toole, referred to Mr. Dennistoun and the Acting-Mayor, with instructions to close the matter up, on the best terms possible.

Mr. Paterson said there was no use putting more costs on it—there were enough costs already.

Mr. Cahill—It's a pity the Council did not see that in the first place.

Mr. Paterson—We have to pay for our education in this country.

Mr. Denne—There's a good many ways of putting these things in. Sometimes they are not put in right.

Mr. Cahill—Those who put it into the Court ought to have seen that it was put in right.

The communication of John Parnell, whose dwelling house was destroyed by fire, asked a rebate of taxes on that account.

Mr. Toole said Mr. Parnell had suffered a grievous hardship by the fire, having no insurance, and he had intended to move that his taxes be remitted, but on speaking to members of the Board he had decided to refer it in the regular way to the Court of Revision.

Mr. Cahill thought it should go to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Smith said their were certain cases which were referred by direction of the statute to the Court of Revision, and this was one of them. The Finance Committee had enough to do with other matters in their hands, and he thought the other committees should take their share of the work when it devolved upon them. He read from the statute.

Mr. Toole said the petitioner had the right to go to the Court of Revision in the first instance, and that the Court had the power to deal with the matter.

Mr. Menzies submitted a resolution that the case of Mr. Parnell and other similar cases, be referred to the Court of Revision for adjustment, to report to the Council.

Mr. Cahill moved in amendment that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee.

After some cross-firing between Messrs. Toole and Cahill, the amendment was lost, and Mr. Menzies' motion carried.

The account of Hart & Rawlinson, $1.40, for blanks, was ordered to be paid.

Pope & McNamee's account of 50 cents for pitcher, was ordered to be paid.

The account of J. Madden for wood supplied to the lockup, $5.50, was ordered to be paid when certified to.

The account of Aaron Comstock $17.50, for coffins for burial of paupers, was ordered to be paid when certified to, on motion of Mr. McNaughton.

An account of Alex. Harvey $10, for examination of lunatics, was passed on similar condition.

On the account of Wm. Morgan $5.00, drawing prisoners to the lock-up by order of Mr. McGhee,

Mr. Johnston explained that the bill was for conveyance of drunk and disorderly persons who couldn't be moved any other way.

Mr. Smith asked if enough had been made out of fines to pay it.

Mr. Johnston said they were fined costs $8.00, ordered to be paid.

The account of Edg. Pearse, County Treasurer, $5.00, for repairs to Locks Bridge, and F. Trennum $7.56, for planting trees in the Court House Square by order of the Mayor, were referred to the Finance Committee.

The Acting-Mayor read the report of the meeting of Council in Committee of the Whole (proceedings have already been published), and on motion the report was received and adopted.

Mr. Smith presented the following report of the Finance Committee:—

The Finance Committee beg leave to report that they have considered the several matters referred to them. They recommend payment of T. Montgomery's account, $41.60, when certified to. As to the claim of James Edwards, they find that he has already been allowed $17, being a portion of the money now claimed, and as to the other amounts claimed, your committee cannot recommend payment of the same.

Mr. Edwards was heard in respect to his claim and said he thought in all decency he was entitled to the month's salary which he asked. He had remained in office till his duties for June had been entered upon, and in any civil contract would be entitled to the month's salary.

After some discussion of the old matter of $29.70 in dispute between Mr. Cummings and Mr. Edwards, which the latter claimed he had paid to the town without receiving anything therefor, being a deficiency reported by the Auditors in 1876 in money reported from that year's taxes, and the former that he had paid to Mr. Edwards at every settlement all the money that had been demanded of him, the report was on motion received and adopted.

Mr. Smith said last year an arrangement with the bankers had been arrived at with respect to interest. Since then rates of interest had gone down, and it was probable that more favorable rates could be procured. It had also occurred to him that, as had been pointed out in commercial papers, the present was a good time for municipalities to consolidate their debentures debts at a lower rate of interest. We had debentures bearing interest at the rate of 6 and 7 per cent. on a total amount of $185,500. New debentures could be issued at 4 or 5 per cent., which would sell at a premium, and even if the rate could be reduced to 5 per cent. it would be an annual saving of $2,500 per annum. He moved seconded by Mr. Paterson,

That the Finance Committee be and is hereby instructed to communicate with the agents of the several banks doing business in this town, with a view of ascertaining if an arrangement can be made for the transaction of our banking business upon more favourable terms than at present, and that the said Committee be and is hereby also instructed to consider and report at an early date upon the advisability of applying to the Ontario Legislature at its ensuing session for a special Act to enable the town to consolidate its debenture debt with a view to securing a lower and uniform rate of interest.

Mr. Denne asked for what length of time the original agreement with the banks was made.

Mr. Toole said he thought it could be terminated at any time when a better arrangement could be made.

Mr. Menzies thought as the banks compounded the interest monthly it was time a change was made.

An application from Mr. Edwards, for delivery of his bonds, was referred to the Finance Committee.

The By-law for the appointment of Deputy-Returning Officers, and Polling Places for the Municipal Elections, was introduced and read a first time, and after some discussion, Messrs. Toole and Denne not seeing the necessity of hurry, the Council went into Committee on the second reading, Mr. Denne in the chair.

In Committee the blanks were filled in as follows:—

	Dy. R. Officer.	Poll Clerk.
No. 1 Ward	...Jos. Lundy.	Albert Shaw.
2 "	C.D. Macdonald.	Jas. Nobbs.
3 "	...John Irwin.	Geo. Toole.
4 "	...Wm. Lee.	Frank Mason.

The By-law was then reported, read a third time and passed.

Mr. Paterson moved, seconded by Mr. Smith,—That John Madden be paid the balance of his contract for watering the streets, he giving the usual bond for the balance of the work.—Carried.

After some discussion as to the anomalous position of constables acting as bailiffs for the Collector, he having no authority over them, it was moved by Councillor Toole, seconded by Councillor Paterson,—That during the absence of the Chief Constable, the Assistant Constable be directed to call at the Collector's office daily at 12 o'clock to receive any warants necessarily issued by him, and execute the same according to the instructions of the Collector.—Carried.

Mr. Denne moved, seconded by Mr. Menzies,—that whereas doubt exists as to the position of the town in regard to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway By-laws, the whole matter of such By-Laws be referred to Mr. J. F. Dennistoun for his opinion, and that he be instructed to prepare a By-law to repeal all former By-laws referring to the same.

Mr. Toole moved, seconded by Mr. Paterson,—That the matter be referred to the Committee of the whole Council.

The Council then adjourned.

M.D. 1867. Dr. C. C. JOB, M.C.P.S. 1880.
Homœopathic Physician, &c., and Medical Electrician.

OFFICE AND RESIDENCE:—With Walter Patterson, Esq., Hunter Street, Peterboro' Office Hours from 8 to 10, 12 to 2, and 6 to 8.

Homœopathic Physicians are the only ones who claim to be Scientific, Skillful and Accurate Physicians; that is, who claim to understand the principle on which all diseases are to be cured; who claim to understand the curative action of all drugs or poisons, and who always give the proper curative medicine alone, without admixture. Ordinary Physicians do not claim to be more than what are called Empirics, that is Physicians whose treatment of diseases is founded upon past experience, without their being able in the majority of cases to offer any explanation of their treatment. However, the best authors among them admit that their practice of medicine has abounded in false experience. That in the last 25 years, a great change has taken place, that nearly everything done then has been since found out to be wrong. It is also admitted that probably 25 years hence, just as great a change will have taken place. This shows that crude experimentation can never be the basis of a successful treatment of diseases. As regards the term Allopathy, it is simply a name given them by Homœopathic Physicians. One of their most distinguished authors admit this, and says the name should be refused, being he says "a term of unmerited reproach." Nevertheless the mass of them have ignorantly adopted it, not understanding this fact.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Practical Hints to Agriculturists.

Ventilation and Disease.

Close, ill ventilated stables are injurious to the health of animals, for air which has been taken into the lungs and expelled from them, becomes deprived of its oxygen, and is then positively injurious to the health. Stock of all kinds should have abundance of pure air, and it is to the want of it that many of those epidemic diseases which have been fatal to European cattle, may be attributed. Sometimes European farmers of the poorer classes confine their cattle in close, dark houses or sheds. These places not being properly ventilated, frequently occasion those contagious disorders which sometimes devastate whole kingdoms, and require all the energies of the authorities to arrest their progress.

Tree Culture on Waste Lands.

Hitherto the abundance of natural timber in this country has made it easy to dispense with timber culture, and for the most part our land owners have taken little interest in such slow growing crops. This state of things, however, is rapidly passing away. The demand for special woods for manufacturing purposes is steadily and rapidly increasing, while the natural supply is diminishing and must ultimately become quite inadequate. Meanwhile there are millions of acres of land suitable for timber culture and for nothing else, except poor pasturage, that our land owners are allowing to lie waste and idle for lack of a little forethought, and too frequently our would-be thrifty farmers will risk their surplus means in wild-cat speculations, promising but never yielding large and speedy returns, when the same money spent in planting timber would soon convert their worthless swamps and stony places into valuable properties.

A correspondent tells of a piece of land that was planted with walnut twenty-three years ago. This land was flooded every spring and summer, and was unfit for any ordinary cultivation. The trees are now from sixteen to twenty inches through, and have been sold for $27,000. No particulars are given as to the cost of planting the grove or the amount of attention it has had during the years of growth. There can be little doubt, however; that the investment was small in comparison with the return, and the land would have otherwise remained entirely unproductive; to the contrary, the timber crop was so much clear gain. It is clear that our national resources might be enormously increased by a similar utilization by timber culture of lands which are now left unused and unproductive; and the planters would find their groves a surer investment for the security of their family possessions than any savings bank deposit.—Scientific American.

Washing Butter.

A noted Philadelphia butter maker say: "Washing effectually removes the buttermilk, and can be done in one-fourth the time required to work it out, which is an important item to any farmer's wife with her manifold duties. I can now count a dozen who are washing their butter to one who did so ten years ago, and we are not to suppose they are doing an injury to the product. While I do not claim any superiority for washed, over-worked butter (if properly worked,) I do claim it is in no wise inferior, and that the time saved is sufficient if the performance is properly understood, to cause a very general adoption of the method."

The action of water on unsalted butter is purely mechanical, carrying off only the buttermilk, because it is soluble in water and readily mixes with it. As to the flavors and delicate aroma being carried off by water, we cannot believe it, as this is now almost the universal practice in the largest and most noted creameries in the country. Fresh running water as near to 65° as possible is best for this service. If the water is allowed to be so warm as to melt, or render the butter quite soft, it will certainly do harm, but this should of course be avoided, if to accomplish it ice should have to be used. If the water is too cold it will stiffen the butter so that all the buttermilk cannot be reached, and thus do injury. If properly used it is perfectly innocent and most convenient.

Value of Sawdust as Bedding.

Many farmers claim that sawdust is not only worthless as manure, but positively injurious to the soil. A farmer sends the following word in its favor:—I use it when I can get it, and value it very highly for bedding the cow stable, as it will keep cattle cleaner then any other bedding I know of. It also makes the manure fine and mellow, so that it spreads evener and mixes with the soil more like composted manure. I also use it in the hen-house for filling the nest boxes, and on the floor to mix with the manure, as it absorbs all the ammonia and prevents the manure from sticking to the floor. For summer use it is not as good as dry dirt or sand in the hen-house, because it tends to breed vermin, unless cleaned out and replaced with a fresh lot quite often. A small quantity of it thrown into the privy vault will absorb all bad odors arising therefrom in hot weather. It is also one of the best dryers to mix with superphosphate. It makes it fine so as to handle well. I do not think sawdust is very valuable in itself as a fertilizer, yet it must be worth something. It has no other value; it contains all the saline properties found in wood ashes as well as some nitrogen, but these elements are in small quantities and in a form which is unavailable for immediate use. Sawdust contains more nitrogen than straw, but less potash and phosphoric acid, and is probably not as good as cut straw for bedding or manure, but it is a better absorbent of bad odors, and is usually cheaper than cut straw. I believe its mechanical effect on the soil is excellent, especially to lighten heavy clays. Professor Johnston has said that "Fresh Sawdust in light, thirsty soils tends to increase their water holding capacity. In sticky clays it lightens the texture, and on soil that forms a hard crust after rain it prevents, like other mulch, such puddling and baking of the surface." I think a cord of sawdust, well saturated with liquid manure, is worth as much, if not more, than a cord of solid manure.

Some Items in Farm Economy.

The arragement of the buildings and the division of the farm into fields depends so much upon the character of the farm, be kind of farming, individual taste, etc., that it is out of the question to have a fixed plan that is the best one for any farm of any given size. There are certain general principles which should serve as a foundation for the arrangements but the details must necessarily vary greatly. For example, if possible the barns should be upon a rise of ground where a cellar can be built opening to the lower ground at the rear. The fields should be so arranged that there shall be as little fencing as possible, and so located that all the fields can be easily reached from the lane. A long field is considerable advantage over one of the same area that is square—in the longer "heats," and therefore less time spent in turning, plowing, harvesting, harrowing, sowing etc. A pasture close to the stables is always handy, and other things being equal the orchard should not be put at the rear of the farm where the wood lot had better be located. There is much labor to be saved in having everything so placed—and this applies to the very details that seem trivial at first sight—that there will be no extra steps or turns in doing the every-day farm work. For example many days' labor can be saved by having the pump in a handy corner of the barn-yard where the stock from a number of yards may come to the troughs. If the matters of the farm are not already economically arranged, it would be well to make such changes of fences, buildings, etc., as to finally secure the desired end. By degrees the thoughtful farmer will improve his farm until it approximates to a model and therefore an economical farm.

Our Receipt Book.

WATERING HOUSE PLANTS.—House plants in pots should be thoroughly soaked once a week. The best way is to plunge the pots into a pail or tub of water until no more bubbles arise, and then return the pots to their saucers. It will help the plants greatly if a tablespoonful of ammonia is put into the water.

WHAT CAUSES DECAY.—It seems probable that decay in organic matter is caused by the presence of organic growths which feed upon the substances, and that the air is filled with the minute spores or germs of these parasitic growths, many of which produce virulent diseases in animals. These germs are so small as to be invisible, and yet the air is always filled with them.

SOIL FOR BEETS.—The best soil for beets is a light, rich, sandy loam. It requires good ploughing, and high manuring, with a liberal application of salt, of which 600 pounds per acre may be used broadcast as soon as the seed is sown. Any good garden soil, with old manure, will produce table beets; they do not need to be extra large, but clean and shapely.

FRECKLE LOTIONS.—Muriate ammonia, one dram; cologne water, two drams; distilled water, seven ounces; mix and use as a wash. It contains nothing injurious.

ROAST OYSTERS.—Open, leave the oysters upon the lower shells, place in a dripping-pan set in the upper grate in a quick oven for ten minutes. Take out, season with butter, pepper and salt, and serve upon the shell.

BROILED OYSTERS.—Select large ones, wipe dry and broil upon a fine wire gridiron. By dredging with flour before broiling, a crust is formed which is liked by many. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and drop a piece of butter upon each.

PIE CRUST.—Three and a half cupfuls of sifted flour, one cupful sweet lard, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful baking powder, one cupful of very cold water; mix with knife, using hands as little as possible; roll.

VALUE OF IRON SCALE.—The iron scale from blacksmith shops, with the hoof parings, may be used beneficially around the roots of pear trees, forked into the soil. They have the effect of heightening the color of the fruit. They are also very useful in flower-beds, and give great brilliancy to the bloom. Charcoal is also used for this purpose, and for roses is been found extremely effective in enriching the color.

"How Well and Strong."

SHIPMAN, Illinois.

DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sir—I wish to state that my daughter, aged 18, was pronounced incurable and was fast failing, as the doctors thought, with consumption. I obtained a half-dozen bottles of your Discovery for her and she commenced improving at once, and is now well and strong. She took the Discovery last fall.

Very truly yours,

"His smile was so broad that you could see it when his back was turned." It was about as deep as it was broad, and another fellow paid for it.

"I say, Pat, that is the worst looking horse you drive I ever saw. Why don't you fatten it up?" "Fat him up, is it? Faix! the poor baste can hardly carry the little mate that's on him now," replied Pat.

The time and weather havenow arrived when the kind-hearted man leaves his overcoat in the hall that the poor tramp, ever on the alert, may not suffer during the approaching winter.

So you enjoyed your visit to the menagerie, did you?" Inquired young Sillabub of his adored one's little sister. "Oh yes; and do you know, we saw a camel there that screwed its mouth and eyes awfully, and sister said it looked exactly as you do when you are reciting poetry at the church sociables.

The cold weather draws near, and now is the time to practice economy. Hence the sensible and affectionate wife approaches her husband with a benignant expression of countenance, and sweetly smiling in his face, says: "Hubby, dear, don't spend any more money for spices and burnt coffee. I will try and stand it if you won't kiss me on my lips.

A gentleman went home the other night with a severe cold and said to his wife. "I have to-day been told to take hot teas—pennyroyal tea, barley tea, baktd lemon tea, beef tea, curry tea, hop tea, celery tea, liquorice tea, red pepper tea, baked onion tea, mint tea, hay tea, baked apple tea and burnt sugar tea." "Well," said the sympathizing wife, "which do you think you will take?" "If you have no objections," said he, "I think I will take the hot gin sling."

The "Myrtle Navy" brand of smoking tobacco has stood the test for over ten years, and during that time it has lost no friends and gained scores of thousands. This lengthened experience shows that it is no mere passing fashion which has gained it the approval of the public, but its superiority in the essential qualities which make a first class tobacco.

FEEBLE LADIES.—Those languid, tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to stand on your feet; that constant drain that is taken from your system all its elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvellous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are removed at once, while the special cause of periodical pain is permantly removed. Will you heed this?—Cincinnati Saturday Night. 46-2ins.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Views of a Western Shipper.

WESTERN TRADE WILL FOLLOW THE CHEAPEST ROUTE TO THE SEABOARD—SUGGESTIONS TO THOSE INTERESTED IN TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—Your paper, containing a letter from some gentleman—on behalf of the Chicago Board of Trade—to the Commissioner of Public Works, relating to the opening out of the "Trent Valley Navigation" to the St. Lawrence, has been forwarded to me by some friend or another. I do not know who I have to thank for it; however, I do so now, through your columns. This letter should have been addressed to the Minister of Railways and Canals, and not the Minister of Public Works. The former knows all about the Trent navigation and its advantages over any other water route on the continent, to the seaboard, whereas the latter does not, I suppose, know where it is at all—whether he should do so is another thing. The matter, however, would have to be brought up before the Privy Council before a reply could be given. The Government must open it up before long. It would never do to allow it to pass into the hands of a foreign country. They control too many of the outlets already. The farmers and shippers of grain and lumber in the section of the country through which it passes should urge its construction on the Government,—they will reap the benefit of it. The late disasters on the great lakes cry for its immediate construction. Nothing should appease the people throughout the entire 10 or 11 constituencies but immediate action on the part of the Government. Public meetings should be held all over the district. If the Government and the people are willing to allow the American capitalists to construct the canal all they have to do is to say so, and grant a charter, and I will guarantee that in less than six months from the date of the charter being granted, the required amount of stock will be subscribed between Chicago, Milwaukee and other Western cities—but they must get entire control. Canada is too slow in realizing the vital importance of opening out her natural channels to the seaboard, especially at such a time, when competition is raging. Believe me, the cheapest route to the seaboard will command the traffic. Canada possesses this and the Americans know it. The State of New York is beginning to recognize the fact that the Trent Valley project is approaching consummation. The Western States are in their infancy. Dacotah and Minnesota are only just commencing to send forward their yield of cereals, etc., and then, there is our own North-West, which, we are led to believe, will yield more grain than the entire Western States put together, and by what channel or channels can we send this surplus to the ocean? Look at the condition of things at present. There is a deadlock—the Erie Canal, the New York Central and Erie Railways, the Grand Trunk, and all other routes are worked to their full capacity. What will it be then in a year or two, when the extra yield from our North West comes pouring down on us? How can we handle it? That is the absorbing question of the day. Now, Sir John Macdonald is called a great man,—but greatness should be measured by the solid good a man does to the world. He may be selfish in his work,—man is by nature that way—that does not make the substantial benefits less. Measured by this standard, I should say that Jay Gould is not only the most colossal figure in America, but in the world. Sir John knows it is a grand thing to fight for one's country; but is it not a grander thing to make one's country worth fighting for? Our new Napoleons should try this. They are to understand that he who strikes one blow toward building channels that tap the flow of golden grain to Europe, contributes something toward enriching his own land, and also toward feeding the hungry millions of the Old World.

Believe me that Montreal, instead of getting the few bushels of grain she does (19,000,000), should get the lion's share of the surplus exported from this continent and if she can successfully compete with New York, she would undoubtedly handle it. Western men don't care through what territory their grain passes as long as they can make a few cents a bushel on it, and it can be shown that the Trent route will cheapen the transport by at least 4 or 5 cents. Your readers and commercial men should bear in mind that out of the 19,612,190 bush. of grain delivered in Montreal this year 17,719,963 bush. were received by water, which clearly proves to those not initiated that wherever a water route is opened out it must command the grain trade. Grain freights on Railways never pay nor never can pay—parcels and local freights, are peculiar to Railways. I quote from the Hon. Mr. McAlpine, address to the Board of trade at Albany when I state that "If the Erie Canal were to be blocked for a month in the forwarding season, half the merchants of New York city would be bankrupted."

Railways and Canals each carry their own peculiar freight and one is an auxiliary to the other. Montreal is clamouring for the deepening of the St. Lawrence from Quebec up, but Western Canada and the Eastern portion of Lower Canada together with the Maritime provinces must oppose this. Quebec is the natural Ocean port of Canada, and not Montreal. Barges being proved to be the cheapest possible means of conveying grain, could go right through to Quebec? thereby saving the country millions of dollars. If Montreal wishes to have the St. Lawrence deepened, let private enterprise do it, as it does it in London, Liverpool, Bristol, Dublin, Hull. The country should not be called upon to expend money for the benefit of individuals. The deepening of the St. Lawrence canal is a stain on the intelligence of the country. Americans laugh at us,—as it is American bottoms will go right through the Welland Canal to Oswego and Ogdensburg. At Ogdensburg they are anticipating this and erecting elevators from which grain which should enter Montreal's maw will go down the Vermont Central Ry. to Portland.

Strike immediately and strike home for this carrying trade which belongs to you; impress upon the Government the advisability of fulfilling their pledges; set party differences and politics aside and march shoulder to shoulder in this grand enterprise.

There may be, and I know are, croakers and obstructionists among us who are opposed to anything; it is their nature; such men are always to be found to oppose any enterprise; but they must be stamped out here. I leave here for Milwaukee in a few days, and shall be glad to receive some of your papers, bearing on this important subject.

Yours very truly,
FORWARDER.

Editorial Notes.

"No sooner was the House of Commons summoned for the despatch of business than Mr. Mowat forthwith summoned the Legislature of Ontario for the same purpose on the 13th of January next. Thus will both legislatures be in session at the same time. A better plan of preventing a full criticism of both their actions could scarcely be devised."—Review.

Our hypocritical friend of the Review is no doubt perfectly aware that the meeting of the Ontario Legislature has been called at the usual period. We suppose it would have the Government of Mr. Mowat delay the usual meeting of the Legislature till mid-summer, to give Sir John Macdonald time to transfer capital from the Dominion Exchequer to his friends of the Syndicate, before the business of the Province is taken up, so that he could then turn his attention to directing the course of the brainless Opposition at Toronto.

"From a paragraph in the Globe of the 26th inst., we gather that the Ontario Government have decided to accept the resignation of Mr. Powell, as Sheriff of Carleton. If his misdeeds were as numerous and glaring as they were reported by the Globe to be, he surely should not be allowed to resign. However, we suppose now that the chief object of placing the position at the disposal of Mr. Mowat has been attained, we shall hear no more of Sheriff Powell's shortcomings."—Review.

Mr. Sheriff Powell, a Tory of the Review stamp, was proven guilty of flagrant malversations of office. His "misdeeds" were not simply "reported by the Globe," but appeared, from the sworn testimony, in the Mail and other newspapers. To save dismissal he resigned. His "shortcomings," as the Review terms his rascalities, will be further dealt with in the courts by those who have suffered through him. He belongs to the Tory party, by whom he was appointed, and the odours that surround him are not worse than those clinging to his friends Mackintosh, Chapleau, Tupper, et al.

A Contrast.

(From La Patrie.)

The battle which the Tory journals waged against the Mackenzie Cabinet from the commencement of the Liberal regime, demonstrated the want of capacity and the factious character of the men who sat on the left. Not daring to excuse the Pacific Scandal, confounded and humiliated before the people, which had just pronounced condemnation upon the authors of that national infamy, the Conservative journals carried on a guerilla warfare. The purest motives were suspected, and the most upright intentions misinterpreted. They made it a personal attack upon the Ministers from the Province of Quebec. They did not assail Mr. Mackenzie, but they heaped abuse continuously upon Mr. Fournier, continuously upon Mr. Geoffrion, sometimes on Mr. Laurier, and often on Mr. Laflamme, because they did not force their will upon a majority composed of the representatives of Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia. The hypocrites forgot that their old chief, Sir George Cartier, had sold his province to the sister provinces in entering a confederation in which the French-Canadian and Catholic element is in a hopeless minority. If our tactics had resembled those of our adversaries we should have been compelled to ask from the Minerve and its following on Oct. 15, 1878, what the Province had to gain by substituting Messrs. Masson, Baby, Langevin and Pope, for Messrs. Laflamme, Laurier, Pelletier, and Huntington? In comparing the moral and intellectual capacities the Liberal Ministers surpassed a hundred-fold those of their successors. We have not compared the eloquence of Mr. Pope with that of Mr. Huntington, the political morality of Mr. Langevin with that of Mr. Pelletier, or the intelligence of Mr. Masson with that of Mr. Laurin. The comparison makes us sigh—to seek to elevate Messrs. Masson, Baby, Langevin and Pope to the plane of Messrs. Laurier, Laflamme, Huntington, and Pelletier, is to offer to the public a burlesque. We have never attacked the Ministers personally—our policy is more generous than that of our opponents. We have left to Tory journals the congenial work of personal abuse and vilification.

Wm. J. Martin, of Lebanon, Mo., a murderer, under sentence of death, has been released by the sheriff's daughter, a girl 15 years old, with whom he eloped.

Lizzie Berryman, aged 17, the alleged wife of a rich Philadelphian, and wealthy in her own right, was arrested at New York on Friday on the strength of a telegram from Philadelphia. The woman has been married two years, and it is alleged that while coming home from Europe this month with her husband she became infatuated with a young man on board the vessel and took advantage of a recent accident, which disabled her husband, to run away from home.

The official list shows twenty-eight of the inmates of the burned Minnesota State Asylum at St. Peter, Minn., to be dead and missing. Probably half of the number perished. During the fire six patients were seen around a window in one of the upper stories. They seemed more interested in the work of the firemen than in caring for their own safety, and were apparently delighted at the spectacle. As the flames advanced upon them they would move aside, but only for a moment, and finally when retreat was cut off some of them seemed to realise the danger, and then they turned about and addressed a tirade of gibberish to the firemen. The floor gave way and they fell with a chorus of horrid imprecations into the flames and perished.

THE RACKETT CONCERT.—The concert of the Rackett Family, on Friday evening last, was not as well supported as it deserved, though the entertainment was first-class in every respect. An excellent programme was carried out, and the audience testified their appreciation of the various attractions by frequent applause.

ROBINSON has still a few of those cheap boys' suits on hand, and has opened today a lot of men's, women's, boys and girls plush and fur caps. Call and see them. 44-tf

TOWNSHIP CLERKS.—We observe that the clerks in the different municipalities in the county of Wentworth held a meeting in Hamilton recently. The object of the meeting was to discuss the duties imposed upon them and to take measures for securing better remuneration for the work done. A provincial organization is to be formed if possible. The meeting was well attended. This is a step in the right direction and the township clerks in this section should follow suit.

PREPARE FOR THE WINTER.—"A cool head and warm feet," was Dr. Abernethey's prescription for perfect health. Anybody can keep the head cool; but you want to go to S. White, George street, to get substantial, well-made boots and shoes, which afford warmth and comfort, in conjunction with style and perfect fit. 28-tf

THE SONG OF THE BELLS.—Everyday the merry ringing of the sleigh bells and the sparkling laughter of the belles in the sleighs enliven and brighten our otherwise monotonous streets. No amusement is so innocent, genial and healthful as sleigh driving. The sharpness of the air, and the prancing horses, naturally arouse a briskness of spirit and joyousness of soul. Perhaps in the isles of the blest the natives thus while away their time.

A HANDSOME PORTRAIT.—There may be seen at the EXAMINER office, a magnificent steel portrait of Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, 18 x 22 inches, which is well worthy of a place on the wall of any drawing-room. It is presented free to all subscribers who pay $2.50 in advance for the Western Advertiser and EXAMINER from now to Jan. 1st 1882. The regular subscription price is EXAMINER, $1.50; Advertiser, $2.00—$3.50. The engraving is well worth $2.00 by itself.

COUNTERFEIT $1 BILLS.—A large number of counterfeit $1 Dominion bills of class D, are in circulation, and are such close imitations that it is often very difficult to distinguish them from genuine notes. The following marks of distinction have been published as a guide to the public to enable them to detect the counterfeits: Title blurred and scratchy, eye in the portrait of Jacques Cartier like a black spot, and a white streak extends from ear to chin on side of face; in vignette in centre of note, clouding above dove, dark; lathe work around figure "1" defective; long "1" on face of note without Scottish plaid. In signature of W. Dickinson, the first "i" is without dot; also, in signature of T. D. Harington the "i" is not dotted.

A ROWDY DISPOSED OF.—On Thursday last an incorrigible named James Farley pleaded guilty to drunken and disorderly conduct on the public street, and was sentenced to 2 mos. in gaol in default of a fine of $5. He was then charged with attempt at forcible entry into the premises of Mrs. Mary Brown on Water street. It appears that on Wednesday evening Farley, while on the spree, demanded admittance to Mrs. Brown's house, and being refused attempted to break in the house, and indulge in most villainous language. Chief Johnston having been sent for caught him in flagranti delicto and put him in durance. He pleaded guilty, and the Magistrate sentenced him to six mos. in gaol. He will go to the Central Prison where he will have time to reflect in the error of its ways.

ODE TO VENNOR.—A poet in the Belleville Intelligencer, under the influence of the "cold snap," thus brings his muse to bear upon the renowned "weather fiend:"

Mr. Vennor, tell us whether
This is Indian summer weather?
If it isn't, what's the reason
If you call this Indian summer
'Tis indeed a sad misnomer,
You've mistaken your vocation
As a prophet of the nation.
Promises you give us plenty,
But you don't keep one in twenty.
You and Oates, combined together
Don't know much about the weather.
Just like weathercocks you vary,
Always sure to be contrary.
You say "summer," he says "winter."
Causing trouble to the printer,
With your false prognostications.
May old Boreas briskly blow
Each of you to Jericho.

No medicine is more justly popular than Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It is a positive specific for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs leading to consumption. POULTRY ASSOCIATION.—This Association will hold a meeting this (Thursday) evening, at the usual place at 8 o'clock, when a full attendance is requested, as the meeting will be asked to decide upon the advisability or otherwise, of holding an Exhibition in February. 49-1

G. J. R. LEVEE.—On Monday morning Daniel Griffin, John Carleton, Peter Gilhooly and Charles Dolan, members of the Grand Junction Brigade, having spent Sunday in gaol, were arraigned before the Police Magistrate, charged with the usual pay-day offence. They contributed $2 each to the civic treasury.

STOP HERE.—Don't forget the concert to be given by the P. C. I. Students on the 17th. The music will be choice, the recitations select, and the tableaux more beautiful than ever. The rehearsal from Dickens promises to be a great success. The visitors from the country will enjoy a sleigh ride by moonlight, and go home impressed with the idea that they did right in patronizing such an entertainment. 49-1t

LADIES DESIRING to secure a fashionable and durable article in the boot and shoe line should call at Larmour's, where there is the choicest, most complete and varied stock between Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Larmour is now so widely and favorably known in the boot and shoe line that to say that your boot comes from his establishment is equivalent to saying that it is a fashionably cut and perfect fitting article. 44-tf.

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS.—Where doctors have failed to cure, and have given their patients up to die, Electric Bitters, have often been used, and a cure effected, greatly to the astonishment of all. Diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs are positively cured by Electric Bitters. They invariably cure Constipation, Headache and all Bilious Attacks. Try them, and be convinced that they are the best medicine ever used, Sold by all druggists at fifty cents a bottle.

GONE UP.—When the Bowmanville News lent its columns to "puffing" our little contemporary the Daily Evening, and ministering to the vanity and the spleen of that delectable sheet, we had a suspicion that something was out of joint with the News, or it would not have so recklessly sacrificed itself at so poor a shrine. Last week was its last issue, and it has now passed over to the great majority. We are sorry to miss the News from our exchange list, for it was always a welcome visitor; but this is another warning of what evil associations will lead to. Our friend of the Millbrook Messenger is invited to note the handwriting on the wall, and to pull up in its evil courses, while there is yet a chance for it to be snatched as a brand from the burning.

ITS JUST A BOOMING.—Such is the expression from all druggists and dealers everywhere who are selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. No like preparation can begin to have such an extensive and rapid sale. And why? Simply because of its truly wonderful merits. No Cough or Cold, no matter of how long standing or how stubborn, can resist its healing qualities. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Hay fever, Pain in the Side or Chest and difficulty of breathing or any lingering disease of the Throat and Lungs rapidly yield to the marvellous powers. It will positively cure and that where everything else has failed. CHRISTMAS & NEW YEAR'S CARDS.—Mr. J. Little, Photographer, has shown us samples from his stock of 'Xmas and New Year's Cards, which certainly comprise the most beautiful and elegant designs we have ever seen. We commend those who desire to send holiday remembrances to their friends, to select from Mr. Little's stock. The cheapness of these cards, considering their great artistic beauty is a marvel. The sending of these cards has now been fashionably adopted in the place, to a large extent, of the old-fashioned New Year's formalities, and certainly no more suitable or handsome souvenir could be offered to a friend than these cards afford. Some of the floral designs are most exquisite, notably those in moss roses. There are all kinds of mottos to choose from in the designs, and the donor can rely upon securing in his card, the exact sentiment which he wishes to convey in his good wishes, and to adapt the card to the recipient.

TOO BAD.—Saturday was a grand parade day for the Grand Junction employees. In the morning they piled into town as thick as flies on a sugar barrel. Immediately on arrival they presented themselves at the G. J. R. Office for pay. As the filthy lucre was handed over smiles suffused their faces and wiggled their very ears in its intensity and immensity. In their generosity they immediately treated, and the fumes that arose from the crosscut gin and rotten whiskey no doubt had a propitiatory influence on their hard-grained fates. In fact they became warmed up and indulgent, and at night several poor wretches might be seen easily nestled in a fence corner, dreaming happy dreams of Christmas and of a hungry wife and starving children, fed and clothed with their hard-earned wages—to wake, alas! in the morning minus their money, and cold and forlorn, with a dreary winter staring them in the face. Some took care of their "wealth," but to judge by the number of drunks the majority of them had no thought for the future.

BRIEF MENTION.—A Smithtown farmer had his overcoat stolen from under the seat of his cutter, in the George-street Methodist Church shed, on Sunday evening.....A G. J. R. celebrant staggered through Mr. P. D. Doran's window on Saturday evening.....Caroline Fisher, the young girl who broke her leg at the Auburn factory some time since, the other day had the misfortune to fall from a chair and break it again.....The Grand Junction navies have been paid off and have dispersed.....John B. Fowler, of Smith, exhibits a second growth of barley from seed sown on the 26th July, on land from which a first crop was reaped on the 18th July.....The Review records that a young lady had her pocket picked in the Post Office on Saturday evening, and says there is "no clue to the thief." Our boy says, as no names are given, the probability is there is no thief to the clue.....St. Andrew's Society collection in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening amounted to $9.....The episcotic has made its appearance among the horses in this vicinity and is occasioning serious complaints.

NO. 2 WARD.—Mr. C. W. Sawers informs us that he will be a candidate for this Ward at the approaching municipal election.

LIQUOR CASES.—On Tuesday the adjourned liquor cases came before Mr. Hatton. Collins on producing a medical certificate, and paying costs, was discharged with a caution. Morrisey & Flynn were convicted, and sentence deferred.

NEW GOODS opened this week in men and boys overcoats, tweed suits, rubbers, felt overshoes, leather and felt boots and shoes of all kinds. Fresh new teas, coffees, sugars, spices, fruits and tobaccos. Bring on your cash and you will get good bargains. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 49-4ins.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—On Tuesday John Hill was arrested by P. C. McGee, for drunkenness. Yesterday he was fined $1 and costs, and was further remanded till Monday, on charge of abusing a horse belonging to R. White, having hired it to drive 4 miles and driven forty.

DROWNED IN RICE LAKE.—On Tuesday morning P. C. McGhee had occasion to caution two men driving on the street and shouting. They drove on paying no attention, and yesterday a telegram was received from Harwood stating that one of them, an Indian named Simpson, was drowned. It appears that he and his companion, a white man named Webster, hired a horse to go to Hiawatha. The horse belonging to Morgan & Shewan, was saved. No further particulars. Only last week we drew attention to the practice of illegally selling liquor to Indians. We trust this fatality will hasten putting a stop to it.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A fatal accident occurred on Friday morning last on the Grand Junction Railway, near the Otonabee and Asphodel boundary, by which Wm. Watson, a young man belonging to Kinmount, lost his life. Deceased was acting brakesman in the place of a man who was ill. It appears the man, on the brakes being "whistled down" on nearing the gravel pit, applied his break, and jumped down to run forward to open a switch. As he did so he unfortunately stumbled, and before he could recover himself the cars came upon him, passing over one thigh, severing the leg, and fastening the other under the next, wheel, before the train could be stopped. He was taken to Hastings, but only survived till 7 o'clock in the evening.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.—"I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and I used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said "Hurrah for Hop Bittters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—The Mother.—Home Journal. 49-2ins.

The Galatea has foundered off Cape Clear. Twenty-one persons were drowned.

Notwithstanding the snow storm over 160 families of the strikers at Southmore colliery, Durham, have been evicted. The evictions were carried out with great cruelty toward the families of the miners. Fifteen more families have been turned into the streets. Snow was falling at the time, and the suffering of the children wrs most intense.

Sir Alexander Cockburn Lord Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench, died suddenly on Saturday night. He had heard a case at Westminster during the day, walked home, ate his dinner, and was apparently well when he retired. At half-past eleven he was seized with a pain over the heart, and died almost instantly.

The "Great Eastern Fresh Meat Company (limited)," with a capital of £300,000, has been formed. It proposes to bring carcases from both North and South America and for this purpose the steamship Great Eastern has been fitted up with refrigerators and other appliances.

A company of Jesuits expelled from France are negotiating with Monsignieur Capel for the purchase of his mansion at Kensington. Cardinal Manning is bitterly opposing the contemplated purchase. He calls their settlement an invasion and an infringement of his right as Bishop of the diocese. He has written asking the Pope to forbid the exiles entering his territory.

Special despatch from London to the Paris papers mention rumors of a secession of the radical members from the Gladstone Cabinet to be followed by overtures to Lord Derby and the other moderate Conservatives.

Mr Lowell, the American Minister, has submitted to the Board of Trade a project for an International Copyright Treaty.

It is announced that England has made a commercial treaty with Spain, and that the commercial treaty with France has not been renewed.

The Government is considering whether the present restrictions on the importation of cattle cannot be modified without amending the Act of 1878.

A considerable desire is manifested especially in Scotland, to obtain store cattle from America under reasonable quarantine conditions, as recommended in the report of Messrs. Read and Pell. The Government is also considering the regulations in regard to sheep, with a view to their amalioration.

Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, of the Court of Common Pleas, will probably succeed Chief Justice Cockburn.

It is stated that the reason for the prorogation of Parliament to February is that the Cabinet hopes by a short recess to get ready for the critical events expected shortly in Ireland. Earl Beaconsfield is stirring at last in politics. He is about to call a conference of Conservatives.

IRELAND.

The news from Ireland during the past week continues to be of the gloomiest kind. The operations of the Land League are spreading, and assassinations and outrages continue to be reported daily. A landlord in Galway County named Gairdner, was tarred and feathered by an armed mob. The Marquis of Sligo has removed all his valuables from West Port, and will reside in London until the agitation is ended. It is rumoured that a landlord owning an extensive estate in the County of Cork has been shot. A policeman has been shot and wounded at Westford, county Clare. The farmers have combined and will prevent hunting this season. Two brothers named Moore have been arrested charged with being concerned in the murder of Wheeler. Michael Moore, one of the brothers, accompanied Wheeler when he was killed. Intelligence has been received by the police of Bala district that during the past week a large quantity of revolvers have been consigned to merchants in that neighborhood. The caretaker shot at on Thursday night on a farm near Newpallas, was fired at from behind a grove while on his way to the farm. He is not dead but in a precarious condition. The nephew of the evicted tenant has been arrested, and identified by the caretaker as his assailant. Threatening letters are being sent to persons in Dublin county, and the Land League movement is spreading in the north of Ireland. A meeting of the tenant farmers of Monaghan county denounced the agitation. It is stated that the real object of Parnell's trip to Paris is to have an interview with prominent Fenian leaders. The proceedings of both Parnell and his allies will be closely watched by the French authorities. A despatch from Craughwell states that a box containing six rifles, belonging to a merchant of Lough Rea, which arrived from Limerick, was robbed Tuesday night. According to a despatch from Tralee a party of men with blackened faces and long beards visited houses at Cardal, near Castle, Ireland, taking guns wherever they found them. It is now feared on all sides that here is only too much foundation for the reports that the peasantry throughout the country are arming, and are only waiting for a favorable opportunity to defy the Government. Alarming rumors are pouring in from all parts of the Island. Combinations against the payment of rent extend into districts hitherto peaceable, and the terrorism which follows closely in the wake of the Land League is steadily breaking down the opposition of the law-abiding class. Tenants who do not pretend to be unable to pay their rents meet the landlords defiantly and refuse to pay more than Griffiths' valuation, and in some cases decline to pay at all, or demand an arbitrary abatement.

The Government continue to hope that the lawlessness and violence in Ireland will abate, and that extreme coercive measures may be avoided. It is reported that differences in the Cabinet exist, Argyle and Hartington favoring the adoption of coersion, and Bright and Chamberlain insisting that a liberal land law must accompany action to repress the disorder. The dimensions of opinion are not, however, likely to produce a rupture. Mr. Forster, the Irish Secretary, went to Dublin on Saturday, and the decision of the Cabinet to be arrived at on Thursday (to-day) will be influenced by his reports. The Cabinet is now elaborating details of an Irish programme which will most probably include, besides an improvement of the system of land tenure, the purchase of certain lands and estates with Government assistance for the purpose of placing the scheme of a peasant proprietary on trial. It is believed that the Government's Irish Land Bill will enable the local courts to award compensation, even to tenants evicted for non-payment of rent, give the courts more power for interference in cases of excessive rent, improve the Bright clauses in the Land Act, and simplify the transfer of land.

FRANCE

Reports on the French beet crop class it among the worst as regards quality. Advices from Germany and parts of Austria are better.

The capital of the Panama Canal will be 300,000,000 francs divided into 6,000,000 shares. The total cost is expected to be 6000,000,000 francs. De Lesseps states that the contractors estimate the construction of the canal will not cost 500,000,000 francs. A special American commissioner will represent the interests in the company of the United States.

There is a report that another attempt has been made on the Czar's life, and the Czar has been badly wounded. People are greatly excited. Renewed activity among the Nihilists is reported. Russia is full of conflicting rumours; that the whole truth has not yet been made public, and that the case is worse than has been given out. Many insist that the Government is in possession of information that the Czar has been killed outright, but this version is not received by cooler heads. It is agreed that an attempt was made at Livadia, whither he retired with his new wife. It is well known that he left St. Petersburg less on account of his health than to escape the dissension and unpleasantness which his marriage causes among the members of the Imperial family. The Czarevitch, who has been especially bitter and outspoken in his opposition to the Czar's new alliance, is declared to have given a quasi consent to the Nihilistic movement, to make matters so disagreeable as to drive the Czar to abdicate. It is said that many prominent members of the Russian nobility who regard the morganatic marriage as an outrage, are cognisant of such a movement.

Intelligence has been received that the Austrian consulate at Prisrend has been pillaged by a mob.

A dispatch from Magaraki, Epirus, says:—The position of affairs is very grave. Eight thousand Albanians and Epirots have volunteered to serve under the League, and two thousand assembled here on Wednesday. The movement is directed as much against Turkish rule, as against annexation to Greece.

A despatch from Cape Town dated the 19th says:—The force of fifteen hundred men which has been on a patrolling expedition through Basutoland has returned to Mafeding. The troops report that they engaged the Basutos on the 13th, defeating them with heavy loss. Another section of Basutos have rebelled, and have already twice attacked the British Residency at Leribe. Reinforcements are being sent thither at the urgent request of the Resident.

Sir Alexander Cockburn Lord Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench, died suddenly on Saturday night. It is stated that the reason for the prorogation of Parliament to February is that the Cabinet hopes by a short recess to get ready for the critical events expected shortly in Ireland. Earl Beaconsfield is stirring at last in politics. He is about to call a conference of Conservatives.

IRELAND.

The news from Ireland during the past week continues to be of the gloomiest kind. The operations of the Land League are spreading, and assassinations and outrages continue to be reported daily. A landlord in Galway County named Gairdner, was tarred and feathered by an armed mob. The Marquis of Sligo has removed all his valuables from West Port, and will reside in London until the agitation is ended. It is rumoured that a landlord owning an extensive estate in the County of Cork has been shot. A policeman has been shot and wounded at Westford, county Clare. The farmers have combined and will prevent hunting this season. Two brothers named Moore have been arrested charged with being concerned in the murder of Wheeler. Michael Moore, one of the brothers, accompanied Wheeler when he was killed. Intelligence has been received by the police of Bala district that during the past week a large quantity of revolvers have been consigned to merchants in that neighborhood. The caretaker shot at on Thursday night on a farm near Newpallas, was fired at from behind a grove while on his way to the farm. He is not dead but in a precarious condition. The nephew of the evicted tenant has been arrested, and identified by the caretaker as his assailant. Threatening letters are being sent to persons in Dublin county, and the Land League movement is spreading in the north of Ireland. A meeting of the tenant farmers of Monaghan county denounced the agitation. It is stated that the real object of Parnell's trip to Paris is to have an interview with prominent Fenian leaders. The proceedings of both Parnell and his allies will be closely watched by the French authorities. A despatch from Craughwell states that a box containing six rifles, belonging to a merchant of Lough Rea, which arrived from Limerick, was robbed Tuesday night. According to a despatch from Tralee a party of men with blackened faces and long beards visited houses at Cardal, near Castle, Ireland, taking guns wherever they found them. It is now feared on all sides that here is only too much foundation for the reports that the peasantry throughout the country are arming, and are only waiting for a favorable opportunity to defy the Government. Alarming rumors are pouring in from all parts of the Island. Combinations against the payment of rent extend into districts hitherto peaceable, and the terrorism which follows closely in the wake of the Land Leagues is steadily breaking down the opposition of the law-abiding class. Tenants who do not pretend to be unable to pay their rents meet the landlords defiantly and refuse to pay more than Griffiths' valuation, and in some cases decline to pay at all, or demand an arbitrary abatement.

The Government continues to hope that the lawlessness and violence in Ireland will abate, and that extreme coercive measures may be avoided. It is reported that differences in the Cabinet exist, Argyle and Hartington favoring the adoption of coercion, and Bright and Chamberlain insisting that a liberal land law must accompany action to repress the disorder. The discussions of opinion are not, however, likely to produce a rupture. Mr. Forster, the Irish Secretary, went to Dublin on Saturday, and the decision of the Cabinet to be arrived at on Thursday (to-day) will be influenced by his reports. The Cabinet is now elaborating details of an Irish programme which will most probably include, besides an improvement of the system of land tenure, the purchase of certain lands and estates with Government assistance for the purpose of placing the scheme of a peasant proprietary on trial. It is believed that the Government's Irish Land Bill will enable the local courts to award compensation, even to tenants evicted for non-payment of rent, give the courts more power for interference in cases of excessive rent, improve the Bright clauses in the Land Act, and simplify the transfer of land.

A special American commissioner will represent the interests in the company of the United States.

Russia is full of conflicting rumours; that the whole truth has not yet been made public, and that the case is worse than has been given out. Many insist that the Government is in possession of information that the Czar has been killed outright, but this version is not received by cooler heads. It is agreed that an attempt was made at Livadia, whither he retired with his new wife. It is well known that he left St. Petersburg less on account of his health than to escape the dissension and unpleasantness which his marriage causes among the members of the Imperial family. The Czarevitch, who has been especially bitter and outspoken in his opposition to the Czar's new alliance, is declared to have given a quasi consent to the Nihilistic movement, to make matters so disagreeable as to drive the Czar to abdicate. It is said that many prominent members of the Russian nobility who regard the morganatic marriage as an outrage, are cognizant of such a movement.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 25, 1880.

The Trent Valley Project.

The approach of another session of Parliament brings this important scheme to the front again, at least with those who are more particularly interested in it, and it is to be hoped the advocates of the scheme will take proper steps to have the matter pressed upon the attention of the House and the Government, with a view of securing some decided and early action. Of course, the meeting of Parliament so early as the 9th December, is due to the urgent necessity of placing before the people's representatives the details of the scheme by which the Government have agreed to denude the country of 25,000,000 acres of the public domain, and to divest the treasury of $20,000,000, which Canada will have to borrow in the English money market before she can bestow it upon the Pacific Railway Company. This stupendous bargain is of so great importance that we may fairly expect to see it occupy the principal share of attention during the session; but as, in the shortest time, the matter could not be rushed through the House before the holidays, we presume the session will be extended so as to embrace the usual general business for which Parliament is annually summoned, and that there will be ample time to ventilate the merits of the Trent Valley project. The position of the enterprise is this: It has been reported upon by engineers and by Committees of Parliament as feasible, and as likely to be of incalculable advantage to the eastward movement of grain, competition for which is the object of our principal great public works. It has been demonstrated, even lately by an engineer of authority deputed to investigate the matter by the Government, that a canal, or rather an enlargement of existing navigation, can be made sufficient to forward 6,000,000 tons of grain per year, for the trifling cost of $3,000,000, or an addition to taxation of a trifle of $150,000 a year, supposing the Government to derive no revenue from the work. The necessity for its construction is shown by the fact that not taking into account the enormous out-put of cereals from the North-West which will begin next fall, the shippers of Chicago, the centre of all the great western export trade, are eager to secure the construction of this route to the sea-board, as preferable to all others, the Erie or the Welland. The reason of the interest shown by the Chicago people is manifest. The construction of this canal would place them three days nearer New York, than by the Buffalo route, and two days nearer New York, than by the Welland. It would save them, too, the detentions of the St. Clair Flats which now cost them $1,000,000 a year, and the risks and dangers of the lake navigation. It would place grain at Chicago, thirty-six hours nearer to tide-water at Montreal, than it is at present by the Welland, and would give absolute immunity from the disasters which are experienced every year, and with especially severity have been experienced this year, from the dangerous circumnavigation of Lakes Huron, St. Clair, Erie and Ontario. What proves beyond all cavil the genuine advantages of the route, is the offer, which will be read in another column, on behalf of the Chicago Board of Trade, to build the canal, without bonus or assistance of any kind. Of course the Dominion Government will not, and cannot, accept the offer to hand over all right, title and interest in the canal, even to secure its construction; but the offer shows in the strongest light that the construction of the canal is a safe financial investment, and will amply repay any outlay required to complete the work. Indeed, we have no doubt that the magnificent water privileges which would be opened up from one end of the line to the other—not only opened up, but placed in the most advantageous position as regard access to markets for manufactures,—would in themselves almost, if not wholly, suffice to build this canal, while a nominal tariff would, on the continuous traffic which would be assured, pay the interest on the money required to build the canal. The Government have in their possession ample information upon which to act. They have the reports of former Committees, the opinions of their [illegible] testimony of Montreal and Chicago in favour of the scheme, the petition of the whole district from Georgian Bay to the head of the St. Lawrence in its behalf, and the personal inspection of the Minister of Canals, to go upon. They are under promise, officially given by Mr. Tilley, the Finance Minister, to take this matter up as soon as the Pacific Railway question has been disposed of, and those to whom that promise was made look to its fulfilment. The people do not want the question bucked by reference to a Committee, nor do they want a Commission to be issued to provide places for needy followers of the Government, without advancing the enterprise. They want the Government to grasp the enterprise boldly, and to set apart $3,000,000 next session, for the immediate prosecution of the work. It will be a simple matter to raise the additional amount when they go for a loan for the Pacific Railway bonus, and we venture to say the expenditure of $3,000,000 on the Trent Valley, will return a more immediate and a greater interest to the Government, than they will get for the $20,000,000 to be handed over to the curiously impecunious "millionaires from Great Britain, Germany, France, the United States and Canada." We don't want to offer a bribe to the Government; but if they like to take the selfish view of it, we can tell them that the people along the line of the proposed canal will consider their material interests before sentimental differences, and that the Government which undertakes the practical construction of the Trent Valley Canal will find little political opposition among those interested.

Our British Ambassador.

Sir Alex. Galt accompanied the Ministerial delegation to England, on their return to Canada from London, leaving the great interests entrusted to his care at the mercy of a reckless Military Attache. What he came for, seems to be, as Lord Dundreary says, "one of those things which no fellow can find out," though it is suspected in some quarters that the real business of Sir Alexander at present is to act in furtherance of the interests of those "capitalists" of the Pacific Railway, whose capital is to be supplied by the Canadian Government. However, he had no apparent public business here, and he could not have come to consult his Cabinet, as they had already spent three months with him in London; and he departed and made no sign. On his way through New York he had a talk with a member of the New York Herald staff, to whom he unbosomed himself as follows:—

"I think that existing relations between Canada and England are very satisfactory. In my present position it would not be judicious for me to go into the subject and I hardly have time to do so. The English merchants have become more accustomed to the tariff, and are not so sore on that point as they were at first. It was a necessary step. We had to protect our young and growing industries. This could only be done by some such such protective measure. Keen new English goods had their way into our market. But we deal more with American markets. You see, in Canada manufactures are limited to a few lines of goods, and for some time we shall have to import articles which can be made at a reduced cost in other countries, such as cloths, fabrics of various kinds, machinery, and agricultural implements. The latter come mainly from the United States, as the American Implements are considered better than those of any other country."

In England, Sir John and Sir Alexander assure the British manufacturers that the tariff is specially framed to favour our Great Britain as against the United States. Hobnobbing with Brother Jonathan, our Resident Minister has quite a different story to tell. There he explains that some goods do "find their way into our markets" "EVEN NOW," "BUT WE DEAL MORE WITH THE AMERICAN MARKETS." Canada for the Canadians, with a vengeance! Then he goes on to say that our consumers are compelled "to import articles WHICH CAN BE MADE AT A REDUCED COST IN OTHER COUNTRIES." He forgot to add that the consumers are not allowed, however, to purchase at that "reduced cost," but are compelled by a capricious tariff to pay a high price, by the imposition of an excessive duty. But what did Sir Alexander mean by slandering "our young and growing industry," the manufacture of agriculture implements? Notwithstanding a tax in 1879 of $132,635 on iron and steel, and galvanised iron, &c., used as raw material in manufacture, and a tax during a portion of the year only of $109,405 on the coal used in the furnaces, the imports of agricultural implements, in the last fiscal year reported, only amounted to $40,646 for reapers, mowers and threshing machines, and $90,018 on all other agricultural manufactures, the whole not equalling a single season's output by one of the scores of manufactories of agricultural implements doing business in this Province. And yet Sir Alexander Galt tells our Uncle Samuel, and probably in his ignorance believes himself, that our agricultural implements come mainly from the United States! Sir Alexander evidently requires to devote a little attention to our Trade and Navigation Returns, before he presumes to advise the Imperial and Canadian Governments upon matters of international trade and commerce.

THE Casket says of Hon. Mr. Aikins, late Secretary of State:

"AS Secretary of State he had the oversight of the Canada Temperance Act, so far as it is under the immediate charge of the Government. * * * Under his administration of the department there was no doubt but that justice and fairness might be expected by the friends of our work. The Hon. John O'Connor now takes the position of Secretary of State. We have no knowledge of his personal sympathies, but as temperance workers we very much regret the change."

The Hon. John is not a temperance man. On the contrary, if anything will ever drive him out of the Cabinet, where he clings with tenacity till suitably provided for, it will be to pass the Scott Act in Ottawa. He will then be ready to leave the capital forthwith.

CURRENT TOPICS.

The Toronto Telegram referring to the long vacant Collectorship in that city hopes it will fall to a commercial man. It points out very correctly that the great prizes of political life go to the lawyers, and deems it right that in such positions as are suitable for them who are not lawyers the lay element should be recognized.

A Centennial for Ontario has been suggested for 1884, to celebrate the centenary of its first settlement. As a matter of fact, settlement was begun by the U. E. loyalists in 1782-83, but a year or two would make little difference—those who celebrate the second centennial will be allowed to arrange a date for themselves. The idea is a good one, and we hope will be carried out.

The Toronto Mail urges the relegation of the regulation of liquor licenses to the municipalities, alleging that licenses are used by the Government in the interest of their party. Of course the Mail knows well enough how false the charge is. Nearly all the tavern-keepers in the Province are Tories. How many Reformers do we find in that category in Peterborough? The hotel-keepers are nearly all active Tory politicians here; and so they are throughout the province.

It seems not improbable that the march of progressive invention is about to overtake that bete-noir of our inland lakes and rivers, saw-dust. The Chicago Lumberman describes an invention for utilizing compressed saw-dust, for car-wheels, and we see by the Ottawa Free Press that a proposition is under consideration to start a paper mill at the capital, utilising the saw dust for pulp. A great economy will be effected should means be devised for laying this disastrous refuse under tribute to our industrial forces.

The report of the Agricultural Commissioners refers to the subject of Agricultal Exhibitions and Shows, and grants thereto, admitting that there is a feeling in favor of alterations and modifications, but stating that no radical change should be made without ample enquiry and deliberate consideration. The report says:—"It can hardly be doubted but that an enlargement of the powers and functions of the Bureau of Agriculture would be very desirable, in order that a more active supervision should be exercised over the applications of the public money voted for the encouragement and advancement of agriculture, and that the Department of Agriculture should be more closely identified with the great agricultural interests of the Province than, with its present limited machinery, is possible."

The Irish Canadian says that the poverty of the position of the Irish Catholic representative in the Dominion Cabinet was so keenly felt that Sir John "found it necessary to appease the just indignation" of the Irish Catholics, by translating the Hon. John O'Connor from the empty honor of the Presidency of the Council to the more substantial position of Postmaster-General. But the Irish Canadian naively points out: "This was on the eve of an election in a constituency where the Catholic body held the balance of power; and now that the election is long past, and it is thought that the Hon. Mr. O'Connor has been long enough in the enjoyment of a first-class portfolio, Sir John brings to bear his blunderbuss and shoots our representative into the Cabinet dust-hole." It does not pretend to know whether Mr. O'Connor is pleased or otherwise at "playing second fiddle when he should be one of the leaders," but on behalf of the Irish Catholics avers that "the Catholic body will not take kindly to this latest juggle of Sir John Macdonald, by which they are as completely ignored in the distribution of the patronage of the Government, as if they were entirely unrepresented in the Cabinet."

Chats With Exchanges.

"If Liberalism is synonymous with progress and economy, and Toryism is synonymus with turpitude and extravagance, it is easy to understand why Quebec is the dullest, poorest and most unprogressive province in the whole Dominion. It may not be owing to the fact that Quebec is Tory and Ontario is Liberal that Quebec is bankrupt and spiritless, while Ontario is financially sound and full of commercial life and vigor: but to say the least the state of things furnishes an interesting coincidence."

So says the Toronto Telegram, and it may rest assured that the inference suggested by the "coincidence" is not misleading.

For the nine months ending 30th September, cotton and woollen manufactures were exported from England to the value of $266,320,400, and metals worth nearly $181,000,000; while for the whole of the twelve months ending December 1879, the shipments of cotton, woollen and metal manufactures from the United States to foreign countries did not exceed ten million dollars or less than ½ per cent. of the exports of the the same articles from the British Isles. What a wretched state of affairs would be experienced in England if she only manufactured for her local consumption.—Montreal Herald.

In Great Britain the general revival of trade is felt with its full force, and the people get the full benefit of it. Here, in Canada, we are crippled by a tariff which robs the people, fetters their industries, and limits their markets, and whatever returning prosperity we may feel is in spite of, and not due to, the N. P. extortion.

THE LONDON Advertiser draws attention to the following facts:—"In his place in the Commons Sir Chas. Tupper stated that the delay in the construction of a portion of the Pacific Railway was the fault of the contractor, the Government being perfectly free from blame. On oath before the Royal Commission the contractor stated that the sole cause of delay was that the Government had not located the line." Our contem. ought to know that anything the Great Stretcher may say in a political speech does not "count" in considering his reputation for veracity. Sir Charles will never be weak-minded enough to let truth stand in the way of a well rounded period, nor hesitate a moment when falsehood is required to give point to an invective.

"There is great danger that the system of granting bonuses for the establishment of factories in our towns and villages may work injuriously. Towns just springing into existence fancy they will outstrip older places by hoisting some manufacturing establishment. If, however a business gaps, there will be found men of capital who will go into it for the purpose of making money, and it does not require the bonuses granted by municipalities to coax them into it. The utmost aid that should be given is a remission from taxation for two or three years. No manufacturing centre has been created by granting bonuses but has been built up by the enterprise of its people and the natural facilities possessed by it for manufacturing purposes."

So says the monopolists' organ, the Mail, and the admission covers the whole question of so-called "protection" to our industries, which is another name for enabling monopolies to force more money out of the pockets of the people than they could under a fair competition. Meanwhile, the people are paying the piper in the increased cost of everything they buy, without any corresponding increase in what they have to sell, or of the profits of industry.

NOTHING SHOWS to better advantage the correctness of the position of the Review upon the "absurdity" of placing a tax upon the coal of Nova Scotia and the grain of Ontario, than the following statement from the Halifax Recorder:—

Instead of 400,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal going to Ontario the first year of the N. P. about 2,000 went thither. As the coal owners probably cleared ten cents a ton upon this handsome shipment we can easily see that $200 is the credit side of the N. P.

The net result of the policy which the Review, before it backslided, characterized as "insane," in the first year of the N. P., is this: Nova Scotia gained $200 on its mining exports; Ontario paid $50,000 more for her coal on account of the tariff. What the duty on breadstuffs cost the unfortunate Blue-noses we have yet to learn. And yet the Review will swear a hole through a stone wall to prove that the N. P. is a blessing. Perhaps it is: but is mighty successfully disguised.

Apsley Social.

IN CONNECTION WITH THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

In Apsley lately I happened to be,
What night the Kirk-folks met to drink tea.
The object money, the preacher to give,
For preachers, like others, have got to live.
Tithe of our income they say is their due,
But those who cut that number but few.
These we be to the back woods repair,
Are really entitled to a good share;
If he do his duty, preach where he can,
The back woods preacher's not an idle man.
Proceeds of the meeting I cannot tell—
At the close the Chairman said they'd done well;
But as for the tea and the eatables there,
When the tables were clad they made people stare.
Recitations, songs, and music were such,
None thought that Apsley could produce as much;
Entertainment throughout seemed to please all,
For at the close, smiling, each left the Hall.

The best newspaper in the Midland district is conceded to be the Peterborough EXAMINER. Note our new clothes this week.

Mrs. Clarke, of Whitby, has demanded $16 from the Town of Whitby for damages sustained by a fall through a defective sidewalk.

The Orillia Times records the death, at the age of 72 years, of Mrs. Morrison, who settled in that town in 1835, being one of the first pioneers.

A Midland train last Wednesday scooped the wheel off the buggy of Peter Hanlan, of Ops. Mr. Hanlan will cross the track the other end of the train.

The Bobcaygeon Independent records another triumph of the N. P. Mr. Jackson Reid has set up a sausage-stuffing machine in that classic village.

Andrew W. Snider, a native of Picton, but who kept a well known hotel in Belleville for the last twenty years, has "gone over to the great majority."

Lindsay Orangemen, their wives and daughters, to the number of one hundred, celebrated the anniversary of the gunpowder plot by a supper at Bannan's hotel.

A fire inquest was held into the cause of the burning of Henry Ireton's barn, in Dunsford. The jury found a verdict of incendiary, but were unable to connect anybody with it.

Chas. Allen, and J. H. D. Munsen, Cobourg, passed at the recent law examination at Toronto, the former as Attorney, 3rd in a class of 35; the latter intermediate, 3rd in a class of 25.

Mr. Miller, of Newcastle, frequently missing goods from his store, set a watch the other night. One young man escaped. The one in custody is the son of a wealthy and prominent citizen of that town.

Last week we gave particulars of a shooting case at Woodville Junction. The case came before Judge Dean last week, when Geo. Phillips, alias Geo. Currie, was sent to the Central Prison for three months.

James Woods, hailing from Lindsay, blew out the gas at the American hotel, Toronto, the other day. He awoke in time to call for help at 3 a. m., and had a narrow escape from death. It is not safe to blow out the gas.

A horse was found dead with a rope around his neck, tied to a tree, near Colborne, on the 8th inst. No one knows to whom he belonged, and the Express says "the affair seems mysterious." Clear case of suicide, friend Express.

The Lindsay Post says:—"Mr. James Hamilton has this season shipped ten cutters and sleighs to Bracebridge, and four to Midland city. The demand for rigs is so great that he is pushed to get the work finished as fast as it is sold."

Mr. Scott, of Delaware, was convicted of sending skimmed and watered milk to the cheese factory, and fined $5 and costs. The principal evidence was supplied by William Stevens, who stationed himself over night in Scott's barn loft and observed the process carried on.

Little Peter Taylor, last week, was fooling with a ship in Cobourg harbour. She lurched, and he went down between the vessel and the wharf. Then she righted. He was flattened out like a pancake. It was a close call, and when he gets well he will never go fooling round a schooner any more.

John McHugh, of Crease, Iowa, formerly of Lindsay, writes to the Post:—"After an absence of four years, I hope to visit my Lindsay friends the coming spring, but if the exodus from there and vicinity continues in order to visit my friends, I will have to go west instead of east." See the hum?

George Hill, near Picton, is numbered among the many nephews of Uncle Samuel, who have gone away this fall to see that relative. He wasn't much loss though. He owed the Picton Times for two years subscription, and the editor balances accounts by giving him a "free certificate of character as a dead beat."

On Thursday of last week, as Luther Lothrop, a Grafton painter, was working on Edgar Waite's new house in Cramahe, the high wind blew the scaffold down, throwing him down twenty feet, one arm being driven together so that the bone of the upper part was thrust between the two bones of the forearm. By skilful treatment, amputation was avoided.

Grip continues to present its readers with cartoons and reading matter of an ever increasingly interesting character. Each issue seems to be an improvement on the previous one, if such a thing could be possible. It is now an eight page publication, brimful of wit, wisdom and originality. If you want a few hours of good fun every week, subscribe to Grip, The EXAMINER and Grip to January 1st, 1892, for $2.50.

Geo. W. Pringle, of Hamilton township, and John Smith, of that ilk, two brothers-in-law and in iniquity, appeared before Judge Boswell, at Cobourg, on Monday of last week, charged with breaking into the barn of Solomon Bray, of Hamilton, and stealing therefrom fifteen bushels of oats and peas. Smith pleaded guilty and was sent a year to the Central Prison. Pringle was acquitted.

The charges against Irwin, the Lindsay teacher accused of insobriety, were up before Mr. Knight, P. L. S. on the 13th inst, but no witnesses were forthcoming. The accused expressed his readiness to go on with the case. Subsequently Mr. Knight received a commission from the Minister of Education, and having thereby the power to compel the attendance of witnesses, and take evidence under oath, the case will now be thoroughly gone into.

Whitby Town Council has memorialised the Ontario Government to appoint Major Harper, Police Magistrate of that burgh. Major would make a good P. M., but we fancy the Ontario Government have some political friends who have a right to be considered. There is friend Higgins, of the Chronicle now; he is just as thorough a gentleman as Mr. Harper, a better scholar, and as good a judge of raspberry syrup as our friend Major. We shall be pleased to hear of his appointment.

We read in the Norwood Register:—"Mr. H. Kelly, son of Mr. D. Kelly, left last week for Dakota, U. S., having bought considerable land there. He has taken with him ten horses, a quantity of farming implements, and other necessaries to carry on agricultural pursuits on a large scale. Mr. John McNaughton, of lot 6, 4th concession of Dummer, is also leaving for the domains of Uncle Sam. Having heard a good report from friends who have preceded him, he has determined to follow their example, and cast his lot among the Yankees." Thus the N. P. is doing its work of depopulating the country, and draining away its bone and sinew and wealth, to enrich the neighbouring States. And yet journals which pretend to common sense, in the light of these every-day experiences, thrust under their very noses, drivel and prate about the "benefits of the N. P."

Trent Valley Canal.

"To the Hon. the Commissioner of Public Works:

"SIR,—I have been commissioned by the Chicago Board of Trade to place myself in communication with you, and to request that you will submit to the Government at the earliest possible opportunity the proposal of the Board by which I am accredited to furnish the necessary capital to construct a ship canal from the Georgian Bay through the waters of the Trent Valley to an outlet at or near Trenton on Lake Ontario. The parties who are most intimately concerned in making this offer are Canadians of undoubted social position and wealth, and are prepared to make all reasonable deposits and give guarantees not only that the work would be commenced forthwith but that it would be prosecuted urgently to the desired end. As of course it is not intended to ask the Government in any way to aid the undertaking, the promoters look for their recompense to a charter being granted them, making over to them absolutely all the right, title and interest of the Dominion in the canal when completed. If the Government are prepared to entertain this proposal, it may not, perhaps, be out of place to remark that this great work would give employment to many hundreds of our unemployed at a time when, unfortunately, it is so much needed, without in any way drawing upon the Government for assistance. At this stage it is hardly necessary for me to do more than refer you for my credentials to Charles Cuthbertson, President of the Chicago Board of Trade, and for opinions as to my position and knowledge of this subject to the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs. Requesting that any communications may be addressed to me at Barrie.

"I have the honor to be, R. K.
"Orillia, Nov. 4, 1890."

As will be seen from the above letter sent to the Government the Chicago Board of Trade, offer to construct the Trent Valley Canal free of all cost to the Government, while they offer all reasonable guarantees for properly carrying out the proposal. The speedy construction of this Canal is a matter of the greatest importance to the people of the surrounding sections of this district and would greatly promote the settlement of the back townships. And not only would it vastly benefit the country along its route and the districts generally, but it would help to secure to Canadians a good deal of the carrying trade of the Western States, while it would give employment to a large number of people during its construction. But notwithstanding the benefits its construction would inevitably produce, the Government have given the proposal the cold shoulder; they are barely interested enough in a scheme which offers the northern part of this Province so many advantages, to acknowledge the receipt of the communication containing the proposal. The motive actuating the Government in treating the matter so coldly is best known to themselves, but whatever it is, it shows a remarkable want of interest in the section of country the construction of the Trent Valley Canal would open up. The Government have tried to make a great deal of capital for themselves regarding the construction of the Pacific Railway by the representation that by handing over the road to a syndicate they are securing foreign capital to be spent among the people of this country, and if the details of the bargain were anything like satisfactory the aim we would not condemn. And if the aim to secure foreign capital among our people is a leading object with the Government in dealing with the Pacific Railway, why not under reasonable conditions accept the offer of the Chicago Board of Trade, when they propose to do a work of great importance? Perhaps Sir John is so busily engaged in selling the lands of the North-west that he has no time to give to small matters which would benefit the people of a large section of this province. It is nevertheless a duty to urge the matter on the attention of the Government, and if terms reasonably favourable to the people and the country are proposed to have it understood why they are rejected.—Orillia Times.

MANHOOD:

NOW LOST, NOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 25, 1880.

A Sign of the "Hum."

The EXAMINER appears this week in a new form and printed throughout with new body-type, headings, etc., and we trust its improved appearance will recommend it still further to the generous consideration of its numerous readers and patrons. The type upon which it is printed is from the celebrated foundry of Miller & Richard, Scotland, probably the finest in the world, and has been procured at a large outlay of cash, which has been enhanced by the duty placed upon the article by our paternal Government. By the substitution of brevier type for the bourgeois formerly in use, we are enabled to give our readers about one-fourth more reading matter than before, an advantage which they will appreciate. The old-fashioned blanket form having been found to be somewhat unwieldy for so large a sheet as the EXAMINER, (the largest in the County) it is now issued in an eight-page page shape. By this means we are enabled to effect a more systematic and convenient classification of the contents, and to more conveniently arrange the different departments. This will be an advantage to the reader, and will be materially so to the advertiser, as no matter on what page the advertisement is placed, it is in close proximity to live and interesting reading matter, and will be more readily brought under notice. As now arranged, the EXAMINER offers the greatest possible amount of news, local and general, up to the date of going to press, made up in a shape which will make it more convenient for the reader, and of greater benefit to the advertiser. Continued care and vigilance will be applied in the editorial and other departments, to preserve a healthy and vigorous tone, and to make the paper an impartial exponent and a reliable leader of public opinion, in every matter with which it is called upon to deal, and we trust that the continued effort at improvement, of which the EXAMINER this week is an evidence, will give a fresh impetus to the rapid augmentation of our subscription list which has heretofore been maintained. The cost of the new material, added to the establishment recently, for the newspaper alone, represents nearly of a year's subscriptions, and as it affords no substantial return by an increase of prices, either of advertising or subscription, we hope our readers will not require more than the hint that the payment of the current year's subscriptions, and arrearages where they are due, will be very acceptable between this time and the 1st of January next.

The Book and Job Printing establishment in connection with the EXAMINER Office has also received a new outfit, comprising all the latest and most modern styles in wood and metal types, borders, and general printer's material, with new machinery, which has been added at a large cost, and in spite of a heavy duty, and enables the proprietor to truthfully announce that he has as completely and thoroughly equipped a Printing House as is to be found in the Province, and has every facility for turning out work of every description, at the shortest notice, and in a style not to be excelled anywhere. Those desiring printing for the Christmas and New Year's holidays, Posters, Dodgers, Cards, Circulars, Pamphlets, Bill Heads, Memorandums, Envelopes, Notes, or anything in the line of printer's work, will find it to their advantage to order where they can be guaranteed first-class and stylish workmanship, at ordinary trade prices. Having purchased at a discount for cash a heavy stock of stationery, expressly for the above work, the proprietor has no hesitation in guaranteeing satisfaction both in respect of workmanship, quality and prices.

The proprietor of the EXAMINER takes this opportunity of thanking his subscribers and business patrons for the very liberal encouragement his efforts have been heretofore met with, in a constantly extending subscription list and generous business patronage in the advertising columns of the EXAMINER, which now offer by far the most profitable medium through which to reach the firesides of the people, both in town and throughout the county. That the EXAMINER is without dispute the most widely circulated journal in the county is generally conceded by all except, perhaps, our two down-town contemporaries, who are squabbling as to which of the two has the greater circulation, and it is therefore unnecessary for us to claim credit on that score; but we hope before long to be able to announce, without fear of contradiction, that our list has advanced to a number exceeding all the other publications in the county combined. If our list continues to increase as it has during the past three months, we anticipate being able to make that announcement before the 1st of May next.

The District.

Lake Scugog is frozen over, and the ice is seven inches thick.

The fishery inspector of the Belleville district says that 33 per cent of the nets of the fishermen in the district were destroyed by the recent gale.

Mr. S. D. Farley, license commissioner, Belleville, fell on a slippery sidewalk on Sunday, and knocked out four of his teeth, besides breaking his jaw.

Herman Patterson, a young man of 21, was killed at Folger's Camp, on the Mackinaw division of the Michigan Central, Wednesday morning by a tree falling on him. With his father he left his home at Napanee, Ont., for the lumber woods ten days ago.

A drunken fracas took place at the Queen's Hotel, Trenton, in which a young man named Hulsey received a blow that may terminate in his death. The blow was struck with a stick of cordwood by a man named John Edgar, and the skull of young Hulsey was fractured. Dr. Day expresses it as his opinion that Hulsey will not live. Edgar has been arrested.

A Cobourg telegram of the 21st says: "This evening the Rev. E. L. Koyl, aged 66, died of apoplexy while sitting at his seat at the Methodist church here. His wife discovered him breathing very hard, and Dr. Powell was called, but it was too late. Mr. Koyl was removed to the vestry, and shortly expired. The Rev. T. W. Jeffrey, the pastor of the church, read a few verses from Matthew and dismissed the congregation, after the choir had sung a suitable hymn."

IMPORTANT TO TEACHERS.

The intermediate now takes the place of the third-class certificate. A recent regulation makes an important amendment respecting extensions of the latter. Hitherto the regulations provided that a candidate, in order to enter for an extension of his third-class certificate by examination, could do so only by the permision of the Minister of Education on the recommendation of a county inspector; also, he might be required to attend a model school before the renewal would be granted. The Education Department has recently issued a regulation to the effect that in accordance with the spirit of this regulation County Boards of Examiners are now empowered to exempt candidates who pass the intermediate examination, but have already had experience in teaching, from attendance at a county model school, as a condition of their receiving a third-class certificate, in all cases where the boards consider the teaching equivalent to attendance for one term at a county model school. The Minister of Education states that an intermediate (not graded A or B does not qualify the holder, even after acquiring successful experience in teaching for one year, to enter the Normal School. Hence those having taught who have obtained only the intermediate grade, must study to obtain a higher grade, or apply to the county board for an extension of their third-class certificates.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. B. Pearce and N. B. Gould, of Norwood, have dissolved partnership.

H. Cameron and G. Morrison, of Omemee, have dissolved partnership.

Mr. M. Fawcett has returned home from the Muskoka district.

Mr. Chas. Francis, of Trenton, is, we regret to learn, lying seriously ill at his home in that town.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams has gone to Toronto on business connected with the Crown Lands Department.

Mr. Fred. Winch returned on Friday last from New York, where he had shipped, and sold to advantage, a cargo of 500 lambs.

Mr. Hallett, of Ashburnham, was among the witnesses on hand in the case against Mr. Irwin, a Lindsay teacher, for insobriety.

Mr. Jos. Tully, of North Monaghan, who has been on a tour of inspection through Manitoba and the Western States, has returned home.

Dr. McGill, of Oshawa, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Jos. McClellan, of Frenchman's Bay, left last week for Virginia. Mrs. McClelland goes south for the benefit of her health.

THE GREATEST REMEDY KNOWN.—Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this wonderful Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lung yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggist and get a trial bottle for ten cents, which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar bottle will do. For sale by all druggists.

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

The receipts of grain for the past two or three weeks have been very light, and prices have advanced in nearly all kinds. More notably is this the case in barley and wheat. Barley has gone up beyond the expectation of any one in the trade. A few weeks ago it was said by some large dealers in Oswego that No. 1 Barley would decline to 75 cents per bushel. To-day it would bring $1.20 per bushel. The cause is said to be a discovery of a shortness in the crop elsewhere, together with the later fact that a half million bushels have been frozen up in the canals. This latter information has added fuel to the fire, and still it booms in this market. Barley has sold from 65c. to 85c. according to grade. Wheat shows also a marked advance, being now quoted at $1.16 to $1.17, our Chicago friends again endeavoring to make dear bread. In Canada wheat is a poor crop, and the supposition is that there will be no surplus over and above the wants of the country. Farmers do not appear anxious to sell, preferring to hold-over for higher prices. Oats are advancing, and are quoted from 30c. to 32c. per bushel. Peas sell from 65c. to 66c. per bushel, and Rye at 55c. to 56c. per bushel, and not likely to be any higher. Butter maintains former quotations, 20c. to 22c. per lb. for prime. The sleighing has brought in plenty of wood, which is sold at $3.50 to $3.60 per cord. Pork is coming in in large quantities, and fetches $5.50 to $6.25. Beef is plentiful at from $3.50 to $4.25. Fowl, etc., at last quotations, with the market plentifully supplied. Apples sell at 50c. to $1.00 per bag. Hay, $9.50 to $10 per ton, with a slight upward tendency. Straw $3.00 per load.

Governor Jas. D. Williams, of Indiana, died on Saturday.

HOW TO GET RICH.—The great secret of obtaining riches, is first to practice economy, and as good old "Deacon Snyder" says, "It used to worry the life out of me to pay enormous doctor's bills, but now I have 'struck it rich.' Health and happiness reign supreme in our little household, and all simply because we use no other medicine but Electric Bitters, and only costs fifty cents a bottle." Sold by all druggists. 48-1in.

Homœopathic Physician, &c., and Medical Electrician.

OFFICE AND RESIDENCE:—With Walter Patterson, Esq., Hunter Street, Peterboro' Office Hours from 8 to 10, 12 to 2, and 6 to 8.

Homœopathic Physicians are the only ones who claim to be Scientific, Skillful and Accurate Physicians; that is, who claim to understand the principle on which all diseases are to be cured; who claim to understand the curative action of all drugs or poisons, and who always give the proper curative medicine alone, without admixture. Ordinary Physicians do not claim to be more than what are called Empirics, that is Physicians whose treatment of disease is founded upon past experience, without their being able in the majority of cases to offer any explanations of their treatment. However, the best authors among them admit that their practice of medicine has abounded in false experience. That in the last 25 years, a great change has taken place, that nearly everything done then has been since found out to be wrong. It is also admitted that probably 25 years hence, just as great a change will have taken place. This shows that crude experimentation can never be the basis of a successful treatment of diseases. As regards the term Allopathy, it is simply a name given them by Homœopathic Physicians. One of their most distinguished authors admits this, and says the name should be refused, being he says "a term of unmerited reproach." Nevertheless the mass of them have ignorantly adopted it, not understanding this fact.

I'm a Glasgow Chappie, and I'll Fecht till I dee!

GLASGOW, the most populous City in Great Britain, next to London, is situated on the banks of the Clyde, in the Scottish County of Lanarkshire. The City is famous for its Universities and Schools, its Libraries and Commercial Institutions, and the great variety and wide range of its manufacturing and trading activity. Prominent among these are its great facilities for the construction of Chemical manufactures, Shipbuilding and Marine Engineering.

But it is of textile manufactures that we wish to speak. The weaving of light textures has always been the leading feature of the Glasgow trade.—Plain, Striped and Figured Muslins being the staples.

The abundance of pure water in the hill streams around the City led at an early date to the introduction of bleaching, Calico Printing, and allied pursuits. Jute and Silk are worked only to a limited extent although the manufacture of Silk Gauze once flourished extensively.

Thread manufacture, although specially a Paisley industry, is also largely carried on in Glasgow.

Until within late years almost the whole cotton industry of Scotland, with the exception of about 10 per cent., was centred in Glasgow and the surrounding country.

The manufacture of WINCIES is also carried on, and forms an export item of great importance.

OUR 12½c. WINCEY!!

Our trade in Winceys this season has been exceedingly large. We have a full range of Prices and Makes all FIRST-CLASS VALUE. OUR 12½c. WINCEY is something that is really excellent, and our opinion is endorsed by everyone who buys it.

LOCAL NEWS RECORD.

THE DISPUTED BONUS.—An article of interest, showing the history of the connection of the county with the bonus claimed by the Grand Junction Railway Company, will be found on our seventh page.

"THEY ALL DO IT."—Everybody uses "Teaberry," the new toilet gem, to beautify the Teeth and give fragrance to the Breath. Ask your druggist for sample packages, 5 cents. 44-1y

A BLIZZARD.—A regular blizzard visited town on Saturday evening last, and was followed by intense cold on Sunday, the thermometer registering 8° below zero. The expectations of the curlers run high.

MEN OR BOYS in want of a good overcoat, rubber coat, suit of clothes, hats, caps or underclothing, should see the splendid assortment of W. J. Wallace, Lakefield. 43-6ins.

DIVIDEND DECLARED.—The Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company have declared an annual dividend, payable on and after 1st. December prox., of eight per cent. upon its paid up capital stock. This speaks well for the healthy and thrifty management of this concern.

ROBINSON has still a few of those cheap boys' suits on hand, and has opened today a lot of men's, women's, boys and girls plush and fur caps. Call and see them. 44-tf

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.—Mr. H. H. Smith, Secretary of the General Committee of the Trent Valley Canal promoters, has called a meeting to be held at his office on Wednesday next at 2 p.m. It is to be hoped there will be a full attendance and that a vigorous line of action will be entered upon.

TOWN COUNCIL.—The Town Council will meet on Monday evening next. As the date of the elections draws near "economy" becomes more and more the order of the day, so that the expenditure of money for the balance of the year will probably not be great.

THE LADIES of Lakefield and vicinity will find with W. J. Wallace a choice assortment of new black cashmeres, fancy dress stuffs, wincays, dark prints, mantles, shawls and fancy wool goods, very cheap. 43-6ins.

SELLING LIQUOR TO INDIANS.—There is a heavy penalty attaching to the sale of intoxicating liquors to Indians. The frequency with which the aborigines may be seen on the streets, in a condition known as "tightually alight," points to a habitual violation of that law, to which the attention of the police authorities is directed.

CLOSE OF NAVIGATION.—The season of navigation has now closed, and so has the ice over Rice Lake. Calcutt's line of steamers have had an unusually busy and prosperous season, though the energetic proprietor met with considerable loss by the accident to the Golden-Eye, at Hastings. She is to be repaired and put in even better shape than ever for next season's trade. The King-Fisher has been tied up for the winter at the Sherbrooke-street wharf.

RUNAWAY.—On Friday last a horse ran away with a cutter and its occupant, on George street. As the flying rig passed Hunter street, the cutter caught the sidewalk in front of McClelland's store, and parted company with the major portion of the shafts. The alacrity with which the young man alighted was a marvel, and a most woful expression prevaded his countenance as he gazed after the animal vanishing in the direction of its home, at Mr. R. White's livery stables.

DILATORY FUNERALS.—We have been requested to draw attention to the annoyance and inconvenience suffered by those called to attend funerals by dilatoriness in the arrangements. Frequently the friends who are assembled to assist in the melancholy duty of paying the last tribute of respect to the departed, are kept waiting, and waiting for periods ranging from 30 minutes to an hour, sitting exposed to the cold, and endangering the health as well as trying comfort and patience. Arrangements should be perfected, on such occasions, so as to enable the funeral procession to start promptly at the time announced. Much of these delays is, we believe, due to the tardiness of the officiating clergyman in arriving. Ministers know the time required to fill their offices and they should take care, especially during the winter season to complete their duties in time to allow the funeral to start exactly at the appointed hour.

A MEAN FRAUD.—The N. P. manipulators are not satisfied with wholesale robbery of the public to build up a few monopolists, but must needs resort to petty tyrannous regulations to annoy the public, defraud retail dealers, and compel people to buy direct from wholesalers at increased cost. Formerly smokers could buy their Myrtle Navy or whatever brand they preferred, at Rubidge & Shaw's, and have it cut without extra charge, so that they knew precisely what they were getting. Now, the Inland Revenue regulations forbid retail dealers to cut tobacco in small quantities, and those who want cut tobacco must buy packages put up at the manufactories, stamped, etc., and containing what kind of tobacco no one can certify. Thus the retail dealer's business is interfered with, business forced into the hands of the factories which legitimately belongs to the retailers, and the universal victim of the N. P. has another fraud added to the weight of injustice he is suffering under the present system of legalised confiscation.

CHEAP BOOTS & SHOES.—P. D. Doran is selling a large lot of Boot & Shoes at wholesale prices at the Tea Store, Simcoe Street; see advertisement next week. 43-1

THE COUNCIL.—We understand efforts are being made to induce Mr. T. Kelly, to become a candidate for the Council for No. 2 Ward. Mr. Kelly would no doubt make an excellent Councillor.

PREPARE FOR THE WINTER.—"A cool head and warm feet," was Dr. Abernethey's prescription for perfect health. Anybody can keep the head cool; but you want to go to S. White, George street, to get substantial, well-made boots and shoes, which afford warmth and comfort, in conjunction with style and perfect fit. 29-tf

SALE OF FINE CATTLE.—Last week Mr. James Howden sold to Mr. Jos. Walton a lot of seven young steers and heifers, a fine a lot of stock as has been put on the scales here this season. They registered the following weights, 1,080 lbs. 1,090 lbs. 1,100 lbs. 1,120 lbs. 1,640 lbs. 1,640 lbs. and 1,700 lbs. They are all prime Durham and Devon stock, and are to be fattened by Mr. Walton during the winter, so that they will likely turn out a rare lot of beef next spring.

LADIES DESIRING to secure a fashionable and durable article in the boot and shoe line should call at Larmour's, where there is the choicest, most complete and varied stock between Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Larmour is now so widely and favorably known in the boot and shoe line that to say that your boot comes from his establishment is equivalent to saying that it is a fashionably cut and perfect fitting article. 44-tf.

A TREAT IN PROSPECT.—We understand that an entertainment is being arranged by the Collegiate Institute Literary Association, to be given on the 17th December, to which the best efforts of the Society will be applied. It will consist of readings, music, recitations, an original poem to be recited, and a dramatic representation. From a "peep behind the scenes" we are able to say that the display of talent on the occasion will be of no mean order, and that it will be in every respect worthy of the liberal patronage which we bespeak for it.

THE COMING COMET.—It is announced that a comet is soon to make itself visible in the heavens. It is coming straight towards the earth, and in course of time it will be plainly discernable with the naked eye. At present it is a luminary of small magnitude, but it is throwing off a tail of considerable brilliancy, which will steadily increase in length. Astronomers lean to the opinion that it is the same comet which cast such an extraordinary splendor just previous to the war of 1812. If this be the case, the people of to-day will enjoy a sight among the celestial bodies such as has not been witnessed for 68 years.

TOO SHARP.—The Lindsay Warder undertakes to show its smartness by misquoting from the EXAMINER. It attributes the following to us:—"The Eindsay Post is after sharpers called brokers who lend money at 20 per cent. interest with a sharp stick. More power to your elbow, Brother Barr." Upon which it remarks, "What do the brokers want to lend money with a sharp stick for?" If the Warder scribe will look up the EXAMINER, and note the punctuation in the paragaaph he alludes to, he will be able to form an approximate estimate of the length of his ears.

COUNTY JUDGES COURT OF REVISION.—The following appeals from the decisions of the Court of Revision will be heard by Judge Dennistoun on Thursday Dec. 2nd, at the Council Chamber commencing at 11 a. m. The following apply to be put on as tenants, Arthur White, J. R. Stratton, R. F. Tate, W. J. Larmour, E. A. Jones, Richard Coe, G. C. Rogers, J. McNamara and J. E. Rogers. Eli Feli, and Geo. Read, want to be put on as owners. The following corrections are asked, J. & H. Lang, to J. & H. Long, P. C. Smith to R. C. Smith and Robert Cleukle to Robert Clinkscale.

ANOTHER BUSINESS OPENING.—Peterborough can well boast of her first-class grocery establishments, and now we have another added to the list, Mr. A. Wilson, whose announcement appears in another column, having leased the fine store in Mr. G. A. Cox's block, opposite the EXAMINER Office, formerly occupied by Mr. L. Fisher, and opened up with an extensive stock of first-class groceries, comprising two car-loads of goods fresh from importers' ware-houses, bought at the lowest price for cash, and offered at the cheapest living price. Mr. Wilson is well and favorably known to the public, from his connection with the firm of Wilson & Davis, and we have pleasure in recommending him to the public patronage.

N. B.—Mr. Wilson's opening, we regret to say has been delayed through his severe illness. We are glad to say, however, that he is recovering and may be expected to be round in a day or two. Meantime his stock is all in order awaiting opening.

INTERESTING TO LANDLORDS.—If a decision given by the Police Magistrate at St. Catharines be correct, it will be a source of joy to many landlords whose tenants have hitherto succeeded in escaping with their chattels without paying arrears of rent. The law, as previously understood, allowed the landlord to follow his goods for thirty days, and distrain if he found them. The Journal says: Mr. W. F. Macdonald, who has been in this dilemma recently, hunted up an old statute of George II., passed in 1738, which permits a magistrate to inflict a sentence of six months' imprisonment on offenders of this kind. Mr. Sam Weaver was the first victim, and he seeing that that there was no escape, made haste to say that he would pay up within the thirty days of grace allowed him. There is no reason we can see why a landlord should have greater privileges in collecting a debt than any other creditor, but he has.

BUSINESS REMOVAL.—Mr. Thos. Mensies, whose Book and Stationery, and Banking and Exchange business have become so widely and favorably known to the public during the last twenty-two years at the corner of Hunter and George Streets, has been compelled by the growing requirements of business, and the immense new stock which he is now carrying to meet the demands of his extensive custom, to remove to larger and more commodious premises, in Hartley's Block, next door to the old stand. He has taken advantage of the change to have the new store fitted up in its various departments for the greater convenience of customers and more advantageous arrangement and display of goods, and has now a book and stationery establishment as complete in all its appointments as can be found in the Dominion. He has added three new modern plated show cases, imported from Paris, and buyers will find their contents worthy of inspection. Mr. M. buys his stock in all cases at the very lowest discount for cash, and the extent of his orders enables him in this way, while making a legitimate profit, to offer first-class goods at prices which would be ruinous to smaller dealers, whose goods are taxed with three or four profits. His extensive business is the best proof that these advantages are appreciated by the public.

A WINDFALL.—The Commissioners of the Town Trust have received a cheque from the Midland R. R. Company for $10,194.20 on account of interest on their indebtedness to the town, making $15,000 received from the Company this year.

SHAME.—A man named Morrison, "felt his feet going" on Monday evening as he passed out of Rubidge & Shaw's, and in trying to save himself seized the wooden squaw at the door. Result, a smashed pane of glass, for which the victim of aboriginal treachery paid half.

BOOM IN FEATHERS.—Messrs. Gemmell & McKee are kept busy renewing and renovating feather-beds and pillows at the Blythe Woolen Mills. Charges only $1.50 per bed, and 25 cents for pillows. Beds returned the same day if required. Orders can be left at Mrs. Gemmell's store, two doors east of Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

ACTION FOR DAMAGES.—Mr. Ellis, C.E., of the Grand Junction Railway, has brought an action against the Township of Otonabee for damages to the amount of $3,000, alleged to have been sustained by the severe accident the met with near Keene last summer, on the ground that the road was not in the condition required by law.

REPAIRED.—As promised at a recent meeting of the Council, when his attention was drawn to the matter by Mr. Denne, Mr. Cox has had the track at the approach to the Smith Street Bridge, on the east side of the river, lowered so as not to interefere with the passage of the bridge by loaded teams.

EXPORT OF LUMBER.—We see, by a report in the Port Hope News, that Messrs. Irwin & Boyd exported during the year 32,533,553 feet of lumber, 2,7144 thousshingles, 546,650 square cubic feet of timber, and 1,440 tons of iron ore. Mr. Boyd exported 228,253 square cubic feet of timber. Mr. Clurton shipped 63,887 bushels of barley.

BARKING UP THE WRONG SAPLING.—As will be seen by correspondence in another column (we have several other letters on the subject, which it is not necessary to publish) the Review has deservedly aroused the ire of the farmers, by ill-considered accusations of dishonesty, which we are sure had no foundation in fact. We do not imagine the writer was properly conscious of the slur he was casting on respectable farmers and their families, but was led into it by an insane desire to say something clever, and lit upon the "honest granger" and his "wife and daughters," as a proper butt for his foolish ridicule. We observe that these items were suppressed from its weekly edition last week, so that the possibility is that some "honest grangers" have been 'round to see our contemporary before this.

ENCOURAGE HOME MANUFACTURE.—An itinerant feather-bed renovator has been charging the ladies in town $2 apiece for renewing feather-beds. Messrs. Gemmell & McKee announce that they do the same service, in much more satisfactory style, for $1.50, or they will do it for nothing. They have first-class steam appliances at the Blythe Woolen Mills for this work, and they guarantee complete satisfaction. They refer to the following ladies in town, who testify to the excellence of their work in this line:—Mrs. R. A. Morrow, Mrs. W.H. McBain, Mrs. Geo. Hilliard, Mrs. W. Lundy, Mrs. Dr. Kincaid, Mrs. Alex. Smith, Mrs. A. C. Dunlop, Mrs. Jno. Cameron, Mrs. W. McBain, Mrs. J. Campbell, Mrs. James Howden, Mrs. Coughlan, Mrs. W. H. Robertson. Orders left at Mrs. Gemmell's store, two doors east of Ormond & Walsh's drug store, will be promptly attended to. 48-tf.

WEATHER SPECULATION.—When Mr. Vennor predicted "fine weather for fall ploughing" in the latter part of November, he must have been a little "off his base," as the saying is. At all events, the farmer who left his plough in the ground in that expectation may now take his choice between blowing it out with dynamite or leaving it till spring. Old English sayings on the weather at this period, point to a mild Christmas, though in view of the old saw that a "green Christmas makes a fat graveyard," the prospect is not enlivened. The Nottinghamshire folk say:

If there's ice in November that will bear a duck,
There'll be nothing after but sludge and muck.

And again:

If the ice bear a man before Christmas, it will not bear a mouse after.

The following refers to the weather at Hallowe'en, and points in the same direction as the preceding:

If ducks do slide at Hollantide
At Christmas they will swim.
If ducks do swim at Hollantide
At Christmas they will slide.

The imp attached to our sanctum wishes us to explain in advance, in order to disarm hostile criticism, that the above, which he says is a silhouette, was not borrowed from the Millbrook Messenger office. He made it himself, with a hatchet, out of the lid of a candle-box, which he purloined for the purpose from Wrighton's. He asks a lenient criticism from connoisseurs of high art. He informs us that the illustration represents the hasty departure of Paul Pry, Esq., from the aperture of the office of a leading local railway magnate. Subsequently Paul took a deadly revenge in the following, from notes taken at long range, which appeared in Saturday last's daily evening Review:—

"Mr. E. O. Bickford, President of the Grand Junction Railway, called upon Mr. A. White, of the Midland Railway, at his office, yesterday forenoon."

"Shortly afterwards Mr. White called upon Mr. Bickford at the Huffman House"

"Not satisfied with this interchange of courtesies, Mr. White again called upon Mr. Bickford in the afternoon, and spent about two hours in his rooms with him."

"Singular to say that after this, Mr. Bickford and Mr. White were in Mr. White's office for another two hours, with doors locked to all comers, after which they were observed quietly adjourning towards the Club, both apparently having a little social business to dispose of, which their long intercourse may have made of a very friendly nature."

In the dense darkness of the Gallitzin Tunnel on Thursday, a train ran into the workmen, killing one and wounding three, one of them fatally.

ZOPESA.—We have secured the agency for this new compound for Dyspepsia and Liver troubles. It comes to us under a most favourable auspices, being very highly endorsed and recommended. Its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Organs and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, correcting the acid, and carrying off impurities of the stomach, regulating the Liver, can be tested by securing a sample bottle which sells at 10 cents; or large eight ounce bottle, 75 cents. Peterborough County and the Grand Junction Railway.

We have been supplied with the following facts by a gentleman prominent in the Council, who has been interested in the matter from its first inception, and whose information may be relied upon as in every respect correct. As our readers are aware the Grand Junction Railway Company are taking steps in the Courts to compel the payment to them by the County of $75,000, by way of bonus, which payment the Council repudiate and contend against in the Courts. The basis of the action by the Grand Junction Railway people is a By-Law passed its second reading in the County Council on the 15th of October, 1870, and submitted to the ratepayers, who voted thereon on the 23rd day of November following, the By-Law specifying a grant of $75,000 for a railway from Belleville to Peterborough, and $25,000 for rail connection from Peterborough to Haliburton. A special meeting of the County Council was called upon Dec. 14th, 1870, to consider the third reading of the By-Law, and at that meeting, the third reading of the By-Law was rejected by a majority of the Council which submitted it to the people, on the ground that it was illegal, a majority of the municipalities having given an adverse vote thereon. The third reading of the By-Law was again brought up in the succeeding Council of 1871, at its January session, when it was again voted down by a majority of the Council, so that the By-Law was never passed by the County Council of Peterborough.

The next step taken by the Grand Junction Railway Company was securing the passage by the Ontario Legislature of an Act legalising the By-Law, passing it over the heads and contrary to the wishes of the County Council (see Ontario Statutes, 1871—Vide). The County Council thereupon, on the 23rd of June of the same year, memorialised His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, praying the disallowance of the Provincial Act referred to, so far as it legalised the Grand Junction and Haliburton Railway By-Law, on the ground that so much of it as had the effect of legalising the said By-Law was unconstitutional, inasmuch as the said proposed By-Law had never been passed by the memorializing Council, nor had any petition of the Council or of the ratepayers of the County of Peterborough, praying that the said By-Law be legalised, ever been presented to the Ontario Legislature. On June 23rd, 1871, the Council passed a motion appointing the Warden and Messrs. Rogers and Watson to support a memorial before the Dominion Government praying the disallowance of the Bill legalising the By-Law. On the 10th of November following, Mr. Fairbairn, M.P.P., was by motion requested to present to the Ontario Legislature the memorial just adopted by the County Council protesting against the Bill legalising the By-Law, and also to take charge of a Private Bill to repeal the clause of the Act by which the By-Law was sought to be legalised. At the same time Messrs. Rogers, Armstrong and the Warden were authorised to watch the progress of this Private Bill, and to take such steps as they might deem necessary to secure the passing of the same. Again on the 25th of January the Warden, the County Clerk, and Messrs. Walton and James Stratton were appointed a Committee to take such action as they may find necessary to assist Mr. T. M. Fairbairn, M.P.P., in securing the passage of the Bill repealing the legislation legalizing the By-Law. The memorial to the Legislature related:—

Clause 3.—"No notice was ever given to your petitioners, or to the ratepayers of the County of Peterborough that such an Act was being applied for, and your petitioners had not, nor had the ratepayers of the said county, any opportunity of opposing the passage of the said clause of the said Act."

Clause 4.—"The said By-Law was altered in an important and material respect without the knowledge or consent of your petitioners after the same had been placed in the hands of the printers for publication, and before being voted upon, and it was so voted upon in the form and shape to which it had been so altered."

Clause 5.—"By appointment of your Petitioners, the 16th day of November, 1870, was fixed upon as the day upon which the voting should take place upon the said By-Law, and the said day was stated in the notice annexed to the published By-Law; that the said notice was afterwards changed and a different day appointed upon which the voting took place, without the knowledge or consent of your petitioners."

Clause 6.—"For these and other reasons the said By-Law was regarded throughout the County as being illegal and worthless, and in consequence of its supposed illegality many who were opposed to the said By-Law became indifferent about it, and large numbers abstained from voting who would have voted against it, and out of upwards of 4,500 voters entitled to vote upon the said By-Law only 1,622 votes were polled, and as out of this small number only 550 votes were recorded in favor of the By-Law."

Clause 7.—"The Council of the then current year afterwards on the 14th day of December, 1870, refused to pass the said By-Law when a third reading was proposed."

Clause 8.—"A new Council being about to be elected considerable interest was taken in the said By-Law, as it was understood throughout the county that an attempt would be made to get the said By-Law read a third time and passed by the new Council, and the matter was made a test question during the election which then took place, and the said newly-elected Council afterwards upon a motion to read the said By-Law a third time, on the 25th day of January, 1871, rejected the same."

Clause 9.—"No petition from your petitioners nor from any of the ratepayers of this county was ever presented for the passage of the said clause of the said Act."

Clause 10.—"Your petitioners therefore pray that the said section of the said Act, in so far as the same relates to the By-Law of the County of Peterborough, may be repealed."

On the 16th of May, 1872, a motion was carried in the County Council, that Mr. John Walton, Warden, and Mr. T. M. Fairbairn, M.P.P., be requested to obtain from R. A. Harrison, Q.C., his opinion to the position of this County in regard to the Grand Junction and Peterborough and Haliburton Railway By-Law, the Warden on the 15th of May having reported:

"You are no doubt aware that we were defeated in our attempt to obtain a Special Act to repeal the Act of the Legislature legalising our proposed By-Law to aid the construction of the Grand Junction and Haliburton Railways. It will be necessary for you to decide what is to be done in the matter."

A motion is recorded in the minutes of proceedings of June 22nd, 1872, that the Warden and Clerk are hereby authorized and instructed to have prepared and served upon the President and Secretary of the Grand Junction Railway Company a notice in writing, and under their respective hands and the seal of this Corporation, to the effect, that the said Railway having failed to comply with the conditions set forth in a By-Law entitled

"A By-Law to provide for the aiding and assisting in the construction of the Grand Junction Railway and Peterborough and Haliburton Railway, and for the issuing of debentures therefor to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars to be given by way of bonus to the said the Grand Junction Railway Company and the said the Peterborough and and Haliburton Railway Company in the manner and proportion following, that is to say seventy-five thousand dollars to the Grand Junction Railway Company and twenty-five thousand dollars to the Peterborough and Haliburton Railway Company."— and for various other reasons, this Corporation claims, without admitting that this By-Law was ever binding upon them, that the said By-Law, or so much of it as relates to to the said Grand Junction Railway is effete and no longer binding upon this Corporation, and that upon this and other distinct grounds the Municipal Corporation of the County of Peterborough will resist any action on the part of the said Grand Junction Railway Company to compel the issue of the debentures, or any of them, mentioned in the said By-Law.

On the 19th of June the Committee on the Warden's Address reported,—

"That in reference to the position of the County touching the Grand Junction and Peterborough and Haliburton Railway By-Law, your Committee are pleased to notice that prompt action has been taken in obtaining the advice of R. A. Harrison thereon, and that Mr. Fairbairn has promised to further address this Council at this session on its legality."

The above sets forth the history of the disputed bonus, so far as the action of the County Council is concerned, ab initio, and shows the ground on which the defence of the suit brought by the Grand Junction to coerce the Council into paying the bonus, is based. It shows clearly enough, that, so far as the equity of the case is concerned, the Grand Junction have not and never had the slightest right to claim this bonus, the By-Law respecting which was repudiated by the Council before the work was undertaken by the Grand Junction, was fraudulently altered in the form of its publication for the votes of the ratepayers, was never passed by the County Council, was never in fact a complete By-Law. The Act of the Legislature which legalised this By-Law without the request of the Council or the ratepayers, and without their knowledge or any notification to them, was a monstrous interference with the privileges of the county, and an outrageous invasion of the principle of municipal self-government, and the trick by which its passage was secured was of a piece with the policy of trickery, bad faith, and duplicity which have characterised the whole course of the Grand Junction Railway Company towards the County of Peterborough. The County will be justified in resisting the claims of the Company to the utmost, even if it has to be carried to the Queen's Privy Council for justice; for we cannot believe that so gross an outrage as the legalised robbery of the people of this county to the extent of $75,000 will ever be permitted to be carried into effect. If an Act of the Legislature can successfully override the will of the Council and the people of the county, and force them, in spite of their protests, to pay over to a railway corporation money, on the one hand never agreed to be paid by the county, and on the other hand never earned by the Company under the conditions under which it is alleged to be granted, then we shall have the strange spectacle of Courts of Justice exercising their authority to perpetrate injustice and robbery.

WANTS ROOM.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—It appears that there is not room enough in the town of Peterborough for the writer of the Review to swing himself, as he has resorted to slandering the "wives and daughters of the farmers" of the county who attend the Market. One thing is certain, whoever he is he has lots of room—to let—in his upper story. If he knew the position he occupies in the the estimation of the farmers' wives and daughters, and I am sure they don't underrate him, he would be prepared to sell out cheap.

Yours truly,
ONE OF THEM.

NO. 2 WARD.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—I see by the EXAMINER that Mr. A. P. Poussette is mentioned to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Mr. H. H. Smith from our Ward for, I trust, the Mayor's chair. A better selection could not be made. Mr. Poussette has established himself in the confidence and respect of his fellow-citizens, and his financial ability, if placed at our disposal, would fill up a gap which Mr. Smith's retirement makes in the Finance Committee, and would be of the greatest advantage to the Council and the town. It is to be hoped he will be nominated and elected without opposition.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

THE TRENT VALLEY AND THE MAYORALTY.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—Two candidates for the Mayoralty are in the field—both Town Councillors. If service as a Councillor gives a claim for the Mayoralty, then I suppose that he who has been longest a Councillor has the best claim. But there are other and more important considerations which should guide us in the selection of a Mayor at this time. We all know how indefatigable Mr. Smith has been as Secretary of the Trent Valley Navigation Scheme; how he has given much time and effort to advance this project. Then, Sir, my view is that with the opposition of Western Canada, it will take the united and continuous effort of every municipality interested to secure any result. I believe, however, that the section of country most directly interested, and the people along the line, are of such importance, that, if they will make the Government of the day, be it Tory or Reform, to understand that our politics are the Trent Valley Navigation, we will yet by importunity worry the Government into its accomplishment. Would it then be wise to let go the chance of securing for our Chief Magistrate one who can so effectually aid in the furtherance of our great project? Mr. Smith is not unfamiliar to the leading members of the Cabinet. He has already shown his interest in the scheme and no doubt will continue to do so. As the only question before us is our domestic affairs—and there is no question of politics, let us sink all differences, and select as our Mayor one who will be of most service to us. Mr. Smith's bearing and manners are such as we need not at any time be anxious about, and when brought to the front as the head of our Corporation, he will at least acquit himself with calm self-possession and dignity.

Your obedient servant,
TRENT NAVIGATION.

THE HONEST GRANGER.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—Allow me the privilege of using a small portion of your space to protest against the outrageous libels and falsehoods circulated by your contemporary the Review, about the "honest granger" (as the farmers of this county are called), their wives and daughters. Let me remark, to begin with, that the farmers of Peterborough are not ashamed of their calling, for it is honest and honestly pursued, and they can afford to despise the ill-bred sneers and contemptuous and malicious allusions of one who has too long battened upon the earnings of the said "honest grangers." The following appeared in one issue of the Review last week:

"THE HONEST GRANGER.

"The honest granger has arrived. He struck town on Saturday. He was on the Market Square (or he dodged the toll). He went to the house of a reverend gentleman about eleven o'clock in the morning of that day, and asked if the Parson lived there. He was told that he resided at that very place. Then he said he had two bags of apples which had been purchased on the market. The lady of the house was absent, and the matter wondered very much at the purchase, as there were lots of apples in the house, and he did not see the idea of getting more. Thinking, however, that all was right, he told the granger to carry them in and empty them into some barrels that were in the house. The granger obeyed with alacrity, the reverend gentleman standing by. He thought he detected a rustling sound and wondered why the granger did not empty his bag. At last he did so, when the onlooker noticed that there was some pea-straw in the top of the bag. The apples were large, white, bruised ones, and a rather poor sample all through. By this time the rev. gentleman's curiosity was aroused, and when the next bag was brought in, he desired to see the apples. He put in his hand, when he found that there was also considerable quantity of pea straw on top of this one. The apples, too, were of a different kind altogether to those in the first bag, and he wondered greatly thereat, but said nothing. As soon as he emptied the bags, which, by the way, only filled one barrel, he demanded $1.50 for three bushels of apples. The householder told him to remain for a few minutes, until the mistress came home, when he would see about it. He refused to wait, and filled his bags again and took his departure, leaving the pea straw as a souvenir of his visit. When the mistress arrived home, it was soon ascertained that she had not purchased any apples, and the farmer's hurry to get away was fully explained. He failed to dispose of his surplus apples and straw at 50 cents per bushel, but perhaps he was more fortunate at some other house. He can be identified, and very likely the police will have something to say about this matter."—Review, 16th Nov.

I have no doubt, Sir, that the "honest granger," the "parson," and the "policeman" only existed in the fertile brain of the writer of the Review, who would get his deserts if the shoemaker of some honest granger were properly introduced to the tailor of the dishonest scribbler. Not content with this he follows it up with the following slur upon the despised farmer:

"A NEW DODGE.

"And now the farmer brings a load of straw to the market, and finds upon inspection that it does not look as large as he thinks it should. He accordingly unfastens the binding pole, thereby letting the straw out to a considerable extent and making the load look a good deal larger. Not yet satisfied, he mounts the load and with a fork throws out the heart or the centre of the load to the sides, thereby again increasing the size of the load to a superficial observer. Another inspection showing that everything looks satisfactory, he then is ready to receive bids, and generally asks and receives a considerable sum in advance of what he would have received for the same quantity of straw, if the load had not been retouched."—Review, 16th Nov.

Having thus satisfied himself that the "farmer" and "granger" whose representatives in the County Council pay him a salary as Sessional Clerk, and other pickings equal to the yearly income of many of the hard-working farmers, are habitual cheats and swindlers, the Review writer, getting his libellous hand fairly in, "goes for" the "farmers' wives and daughters" in the following style:

"ANOTHER 'NEW DODGE.'

"And now the farmers' wives and daughters are bringing into market all their old hens, having previously amputated their tarsi to prevent detection. These seemingly respectable ladies have no hesitation in alleging the youthfulness of the birds they have for sale; but we recommend intending purchasers not to invest in such as are thus deprived of their feet and claws. We speak from sad experience, and under the influence of dyspepsia." Review, 18th Nov.

I would advise the writer of the above to keep off the Market for a time, lest some spring chicken does not kick his brains out, or some honest farmer's wife lay him across her knee and give him what he richly deserves,—a good sound dose of slipper, applied hot. I have been a subscriber to the Review for some years, but from this time forth I have done with it, and a good many of my neighbors have come to the same conclusion. I would urge upon every farmer who has any respect for himself, his calling, or his wife and daughters, who has the libellous rag coming into his house, to send it back to the publishers with his compliments. It is bad enough for honest men and women to be systematically slandered, without paying the printer hard-earned money to help do it with. We "honest grangers" can tell the Review libeller that if they ever get his name on a ballot paper again for any public position, they will let it, as he will find it would have paid to have done the "grangers," severely alone, and mark our votes opposite the name of an honest man, if there is one on the same paper.

Yours truly,
GRANGER.

The reason why "Myrtle Navy" tobacco has taken so strong a hold upon the smoking community is because it is the genuine article. No man has a desire to smoke anything else than tobacco. Even opium is not smoked for the pleasure of smoking it, but for its soporific effects. The desire for tobacco is, of course, best satisfied by getting the pure article, and when to this is added the finest quality, the satisfaction is complete. These two things are combined in the "Myrtle Navy."

A WORLD OF GOOD.—One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other Bitters as it is not a whiskey drink. It is more like the old fashioned bone set tea that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right try Hop Bitters.—Nuvada News. 48-3ins

Farmer Gray Enlarges His Mind.

I hev been thinkin', Betsy Jane, about this Tariff biz;
And I've been tryin' to collokate what it has done for me;
Purty little I could tell it, in the full of several years,
I mean, if I would put our land in a much better state.

I wasn't much of a reader, and them cheap shot hooked votes
Told me we'd get a bigger price for lambs and wheat and oats;
That in this growing country great factories would rise,
And make no goods so wondrous cheap 'twould fill us with surprise.

So I voted for it Betsy, and I've waited for the "Hum."
And for the better times and that, but yet they haven't come;
And I've come to the conclusion that they've fooled us pretty slick;
But they mustn't blame us farmers if they find that we will kick.

That new frame barn I built last year used up a heap of nails,
And oh, the price I paid for them! I tell you language fails;
I'd express my indignation at the way them shavers "plugs"
Have boosted up the price of nails, and screws and bolts and things.

And the coal oil that I burn at night when my day's work is o'er
Has gone as high as fifty cents, and perhaps 'twill go up more.
So you make them "fallers," Betsy Jane, as in the good old days
When greedy "rings" could not get gain from the evening candle's rays.

Now what I sell goes pretty cheap, and what I buy is dear,
I've really scared on sugar, for it's mighty high this year.
And when I think it over, it really puzzles me,
How I was ever fool enough, to vote for the N. P.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Practical Hints to Agriculturists.

Keep Your Sheep.—There is likely to be, indeed there is now, a sharp demand for store sheep which enables farmers to dispose of what they have at prices which they little though of getting six months ago; but if we owned a thrifty flock we should hold to them for the present. The wool business has picked up wonderfully of late, and the demand has practically cleaned out all the stocks on hand, so that the clip of next summer is sure to be taken as soon as sheared at good prices, not at inflation prices, but at those which will make sheep as profitable as any other stock. This will in turn make a good demand for store sheep and lambs next fall, and we can see no reason for fearing that present prices will not be maintained. At any rate, if we were in the business, we would risk it.—Ex.
